AUDIT REPORT

Office Of The
State Auditor Of Missouri
Claire McCaskill

December 1999

YELLOW SHEET

IMPORTANT: The Missouri State Auditor is required by Missouri law to conduct audits only once every four years in counties, like Laclede, which do not have a county auditor. However, to assist such counties in meeting federal audit requirements, the State Auditor will also perform a financial and compliance audit of various county operating funds every two years. This voluntary service to Missouri counties can only be provided when state auditing resources are available and does not interfere with the State Auditor's constitutional responsibility of auditing state government.

Once every four years, the State Auditor's statutory audit will cover additional areas of county operations, as well as the elected county officials, as required by Missouri's Constitution.

This audit of Laclede County was a financial and compliance audit of various county operating funds.

- The county overspent budgets for some county funds during 1997 and 1998. The audit recommended officials not authorize warrants in excess of budgeted amounts.

The audit also includes some matters upon which the county should consider and take appropriate corrective action, which includes seeking more timely reimbursement of criminal costs.

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT ON THE FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

To the County Commission
and
Officeholders of Laclede County, Missouri

We have audited the accompanying special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Laclede County, Missouri, as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, as identified in the table of contents. These special-purpose financial statements are the responsibility of the county's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these special-purpose financial statements based on our audit.

We conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the special-purpose financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the special-purpose financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion.

The accompanying special-purpose financial statements were prepared for the purpose of presenting the receipts, disbursements, and changes in cash of various funds of Laclede County, Missouri, and comparisons of such information with the corresponding budgeted information for various funds of the county and are not intended to be a complete presentation of the financial position and results of operations of those funds or of Laclede County.

In our opinion, the special-purpose financial statements referred to in the first paragraph present fairly, in all material respects, the receipts, disbursements, and changes in cash of various funds of Laclede County, Missouri, and comparisons of such information with the corresponding budgeted information for various funds of the county as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, in conformity with the comprehensive basis of accounting discussed in Note 1, which is a basis of accounting other than generally accepted accounting principles.

Laclede County, Missouri, has not presented the disclosures required by Governmental Accounting Standards Board (GASB) Technical Bulletin 98-1, Disclosures about Year 2000 Issues, as amended by GASB Technical Bulletin 99-1, that the GASB has determined are necessary to supplement, although not be a part of, the basic financial statements. In addition, we do not provide assurance that the county is or will become year 2000-compliant, that the county's year 2000 remediation efforts will be successful in whole or in part, or that parties with which the county does business are or will become year 2000-compliant.

In accordance with Government Auditing Standards, we also have issued our report dated August 17, 1999, on our consideration of the county's internal control over financial reporting and on our tests of its compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants.

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT ON COMPLIANCE
AND ON INTERNAL CONTROL OVER FINANCIAL REPORTING
BASED ON AN AUDIT OF FINANCIAL STATEMENTS PERFORMED
IN ACCORDANCE WITH GOVERNMENT AUDITING STANDARDS

To the County Commission
and
Officeholders of Laclede County, Missouri

We have audited the special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Laclede County, Missouri, as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, and have issued our report thereon dated August 17, 1999. We conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States.

Compliance

As part of obtaining reasonable assurance about whether the special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Laclede County, Missouri, are free of material misstatement, we performed tests of the county's compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants, noncompliance with which could have a direct and material effect on the determination of financial statement amounts. However, providing an opinion on compliance with those provisions was not an objective of our audit, and accordingly, we do not express such an opinion. The results of our tests disclosed an instance of noncompliance that is required to be reported under Government Auditing Standards and which is described in the accompanying Schedule of Findings as finding number 98-1. We also noted certain immaterial instances of noncompliance, which we have reported to the management of the county in the accompanying Letter on Other Matters.

Internal Control Over Financial Reporting

In planning and performing our audit of the special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Laclede County, Missouri, we considered the county's internal control over financial reporting in order to determine our auditing procedures for the purpose of expressing our opinion on the special-purpose financial statements and not to provide assurance on the internal control over financial reporting. Our consideration of the internal control over financial reporting would not necessarily disclose all matters in the internal control over financial reporting that might be material weaknesses. A material weakness is a condition in which the design or operation of one or more of the internal control components does not reduce to a relatively low level the risk that misstatements in amounts that would be material in relation to the special-purpose financial statements being audited may occur and not be detected within a timely period by employees in the normal course of performing their assigned functions. We noted no matters involving the internal control over financial reporting and its operation that we consider to be material weaknesses. However, we noted other matters involving the internal control over financial reporting, which we have reported to the management of the county in the accompanying Letter on Other Matters.

This report is intended for the information of the management of Laclede County, Missouri, and other applicable government officials. However, this report is a matter of public record and its distribution is not limited.

Notes to the Financial Statements

1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

A. Reporting Entity and Basis of Presentation

The accompanying special-purpose financial statements present the receipts, disbursements, and changes in cash of various funds of Laclede County, Missouri, and comparisons of such information with the corresponding budgeted information for various funds of the county. The funds presented are established under statutory or administrative authority, and their operations are under the control of the County Commission, an elected county official, the Health Center Board, or the Senate Bill 40 Board. The General Revenue Fund is the county's general operating fund, accounting for all financial resources except those required to be accounted for in another fund. The other funds presented account for financial resources whose use is restricted for specified purposes.

B. Basis of Accounting

The financial statements are prepared on the cash basis of accounting; accordingly, amounts are recognized when received or disbursed in cash. This basis of accounting differs from generally accepted accounting principles, which require revenues to be recognized when they become available and measurable or when they are earned and expenditures or expenses to be recognized when the related liabilities are incurred.

C. Budgets and Budgetary Practices

The County Commission and other applicable boards are responsible for the preparation and approval of budgets for various county funds in accordance with Sections 50.525 through 50.745, RSMo 1994 and RSMo Cumulative Supp. 1998, the county budget law. These budgets are adopted on the cash basis of accounting.

Although adoption of a formal budget is required by law, the county did not adopt formal budgets for the following funds:

Fund	Years Ended December 31,
Sheriff Fund	1997
Shelter Abuse Fund	1997
County Local Use Tax Fund	1997
Law Enforcement Use Tax Fund	1997
Capital Improvement Fund	1997
Health Insurance Fund	1997
Family Access Fund	1998
Sheriff's Equitable Sharing Fund	1997
Juvenile Assessment Fund	1998

Warrants issued were in excess of budgeted amounts for the following funds:

Fund	Years Ended December 31,
Prosecuting Attorney Training Fund	1997
Law Enforcement Sales Tax Fund	1997
Sheriff Fund	1998
Shelter Abuse Fund	1998
Health Insurance Fund	1998
Senate Bill 40 Board Fund	1998 and 1997
Circuit Clerk Interest Fund	1998

Section 50.740, RSMo 1994, prohibits expenditures in excess of the approved budgets.

D. Published Financial Statements

Under Sections 50.800 and 50.810, RSMo 1994, the County Commission is responsible for preparing and publishing in a local newspaper a detailed annual financial statement for the county. The financial statement is required to show receipts or revenues, disbursements or expenditures, and beginning and ending balances for each fund.

However, the county's published financial statements did not include the following funds:

Fund	Years Ended December 31,
Map Reserve Fund	1998
Shelter Abuse Fund	1998 and 1997
Health Insurance Fund	1997
Health Center Fund	1998 and 1997
Senate Bill 40 Board Fund	1998 and 1997
Circuit Clerk Interest Fund	1998 and 1997
Law Library Fund	1998 and 1997
Sheriff's Equitable Sharing Fund	1997
Family Access Fund	1998

2. Cash

Section 110.270, RSMo 1994, based on Article IV, Section 15, Missouri Constitution, authorizes counties to place their funds, either outright or by repurchase agreement, in U.S. Treasury and agency obligations. In addition, Section 30.950, RSMo Cumulative Supp. 1998, effective August 28, 1997, requires political subdivisions with existing authority to invest in instruments other than depositary accounts at financial institutions to adopt a written investment policy. Among other things, the policy is to commit a political subdivision to the principles of safety, liquidity, and yield (in that order) when managing public funds and to prohibit purchase of derivatives (either directly or through repurchase agreements), use of leveraging (through either reverse repurchase agreements or other methods), and use of public funds for speculation. The county has not adopted such a policy.

In accordance with Statement No. 3 of the Governmental Accounting Standards Board, Deposits with Financial Institutions, Investments (Including Repurchase Agreements), and Reverse Repurchase Agreements, disclosures are provided below regarding the risk of potential loss of cash deposits. For the purposes of these disclosures, deposits with financial institutions are demand, time, and savings accounts, including certificates of deposit and negotiable order of withdrawal accounts, in banks, savings institutions, and credit unions.

The county's deposits at December 31, 1998 and 1997, were entirely covered by federal depositary insurance or by collateral securities held by the county's custodial bank in the county's name.

The Health Center Board’s deposits at December 31, 1998 and 1997, were entirely covered by federal depositary insurance, by insurance provided through a surety bond, or by collateral securities held by the Board’s custodial bank in the Board’s name.

The Senate Bill 40 Board’s deposits at December 31, 1998 and 1997, were entirely covered by federal depositary insurance. However, because of significantly higher bank balances at certain times during the year, uninsured and uncollateralized balances existed at those times although not at year-end.

To protect the safety of county deposits, Section 110.020, RSMo 1994, requires depositaries to pledge collateral securities to secure county deposits not insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

3. Use Tax Liability

The local use tax under Section 144.748, RSMo 1994, was struck down in its entirety by the Missouri Supreme Court in Associated Industries of Missouri v. Director of Revenue, 918 S.W.2d 780 (Mo. banc 1996). In St. Charles County v. Director of Revenue, 961 S.W.2d 44 (Mo. banc 1998), the Missouri Supreme Court ruled that local use taxes paid prior to the repeal of Section 144.748, RSMo 1994, must be refunded to taxpayers and authorized the Department of Revenue (DOR) to withhold amounts otherwise due to political subdivisions to the extent such withholding is necessary to cover the refund expense. On March 24, 1998, the Cole County Circuit Court entered final judgment in accordance with the Supreme Court's opinion and ordered the DOR to process refund claims filed.

The county has received $353,747 in local use tax since its inception. The DOR has estimated the county's share of the total refund liability to be $161,932. As of December 31, 1998, $69,962 remains to be paid.

Schedule

LACLEDE COUNTY, MISSOURI
SCHEDULE OF FINDINGS
YEARS ENDED DECEMBER 31, 1998 AND 1997

This schedule includes the audit finding that Government Auditing Standards requires to be reported for an audit of financial statements.

98-1. Overspending Budgets

Disbursements were made in excess of the approved budgets in the following funds during the two years ended December 31, 1998, as follows:

	Year Ended December 31,
Fund	1998	1997
Prosecuting Attorney Training 239	$	N/A
Law Enforcement Sales Tax	N/A	53,287
Sheriff	18,980	N/A
Shelter Abuse	2,623	N/A
Health Insurance	15,674	N/A
Senate Bill 40 Board	115,793	31,753
Circuit Clerk Interest	1,523	N/A

It was ruled in State ex. rel. Strong v. Cribb, 364 Mo. 1122, SW 2d 246 (1954), that strict compliance with the county budget law is required by county officials. If there are valid reasons which necessitate excess expenditures, budget amendments should be made following the same process by which the annual budget is approved, including holding public hearings and filing the amended budget with the State Auditor's office. In addition, Section 50.622, RSMo Supp. 1998, provides that counties may amend the annual budget during any year in which the county receives additional funds which could not be estimated when the budget was adopted and that the county shall follow the same procedures required for adoption of the annual budget to amend its budget.

WE RECOMMEND the County Commission ensure the county and applicable officials and/or boards do not authorize disbursements in excess of budgeted expenditures. If valid reasons necessitate excess expenditures, the original budget should be formally amended.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The County Commission provided the following response:

It is our desire to do the best we can to stay within the approved budgeted amounts. We inadvertently allowed the Prosecutor's Training Fund and Law Enforcement Sales Tax Fund to exceed the 1997 budgeted expenditure amount. We had sufficient monies in those funds to cover the excess expenditures, but did not complete the proper documentation of the changes.

Our Health Insurance Fund was set up when we were self-insured in 1997 and 1998. We since have changed to MO Consolidated Insurance. We now pay a set monthly premium. The Health Insurance Fund has been used in 1999, for run-out of past claims and we plan to close the fund out in 2000.

Concerning the excess spending in the Circuit Clerk Interest Fund and Sheriff Fund, we will advise them that they are to request a hearing for any necessary expenditures that exceed their budgeted expenditures in their special accounts. We will also request that the County Treasurer track the expenditures she writes from the Sheriff's Fund to assure the fund does not exceed the budget.

We intend to discuss with the Senate Bill 40 Board and Shelter Abuse recipients the statutory guidelines they should comply with concerning necessitated excess expenditures in their budgets.

The Senate Bill 40 Board provided the following response:

Budgets will be monitored on a quarterly basis.

Follow-Up on Prior Audit Findings

LACLEDE COUNTY, MISSOURI
FOLLOW-UP ON PRIOR AUDIT FINDINGS

Our prior audit report issued for the two years ended December 31, 1996, included no audit findings that Government Auditing Standards requires to be reported for an audit of financial statements.

SECTION ON OTHER MATTERS

LACLEDE COUNTY, MISSOURI
LETTER ON OTHER MATTERS

We have audited the special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Laclede County, Missouri, as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, and have issued our report thereon dated August 17, 1999.

We did not review the operations of elected officials with funds other than those presented in the special-purpose financial statements. The operations of such officials will be reviewed and reported on during the state auditor's next scheduled audit of the county.

This Letter on Other Matters presents matters other than the findings, if any, reported in the accompanying Schedule of Findings. These matters resulted from our audit of the special-purpose financial statements of Laclede County but do not meet the criteria for inclusion in the written report on compliance and on internal control over financial reporting that is required for an audit performed in accordance with Government Auditing Standards. Nevertheless, the county should consider these matters and take appropriate corrective action.

1. Budgets and Published Financial Statements

   Budgets were not prepared for various funds for the two years ended December 31, 1998. The county's annual published financial statements did not include the financial activity of several county funds.

2. County Expenditures

   The county did not always solicit bids nor was bid documentation always retained for various purchases. Purchases totaling $18,134 were made from the Recorder's User Fee Fund for equipment that is being utilized by the Circuit Clerk's office.

3. Criminal Cost Reimbursement

   The county does not have adequate procedures for collecting and monitoring amounts assessed by the courts. Section 221.105, RSMo Supp. 1998, allows for the reimbursement of certain costs (primarily including board cost paid by the county) in criminal cases when the state has been rendered liable. The Circuit Clerk has not been submitting criminal cost reimbursement requests to the state in a timely manner. Many bills were held almost two years prior to being submitted for reimbursement. The county received approximately $54,000 and $7,000 in criminal cost reimbursements during the years ended December 31, 1997 and 1998, respectively. In 1999, the Circuit Clerk reviewed his files and submitted requests. The county received approximately $151,000 in criminal cost reimbursements during the first seven months of 1999. We also found some cases where monies had been assessed by the courts that were not adequately followed up by the court.

4. Senate Bill 40 Board

The Senate Bill 40 Board's budget did not adequately reflect the board's financial condition. The actual cash balances, receipt, and disbursement amounts were not accurately reflected on the budget. Also, the board's monitoring procedures were deficient to ensure funds on deposit were adequately covered by collateral securities and coverage was deficient by approximately $154,000 and $56,000 in January 1999 and 1998, respectively.

This Letter on Other Matters is intended for the information of the management of Laclede County, Missouri, and other applicable government officials. However, this letter is a matter of public record and its distribution is not limited.

HOWARD COUNTY, MISSOURI

TWO YEARS ENDED DECEMBER 31, 1998

From The Office Of State Auditor
Claire McCaskill

Report No. 99-119
December 27, 1999

AUDIT REPORT

Office Of The
State Auditor Of Missouri
Claire McCaskill

December 1999

FACT SHEET

IMPORTANT: The Missouri State Auditor is required by Missouri law to conduct audits only once every four years in counties, like Howard, which do not have a county auditor. However, to assist such counties in meeting federal audit requirements, the State Auditor will also perform a financial and compliance audit of various county operating funds every two years. This voluntary service to Missouri counties can only be provided when state auditing resources are available and does not interfere with the State Auditor's constitutional responsibility of auditing state government.

Once every four years, the State Auditor's statutory audit will cover additional areas of county operations, as well as the elected county officials, as required by Missouri's Constitution.

This audit of Howard County included additional areas of county operations, as well as the elected county officials. Many of the current recommendations are similar to prior recommendations that were not implemented by county officials. The following concerns were noted as part of the audit:

< As discussed in the prior audit report, the Keller Memorial Hospital ceased operations in June 1995, and the hospital board of trustees was dissolved in May 1997. In June 1997 approximately $390,000 was transferred from closed hospital bank accounts to the county's General Revenue Fund. Of this amount, approximately $285,000 was property taxes paid by Howard County taxpayers for a hospital that was not in operation. We previously recommended the county consider returning the property tax windfall to taxpayers via a future tax reduction. No property tax reduction has been made and while the County Commission verbally indicated they have no plans to do that, this audit recommended that decision be formally documented. This property tax windfall has resulted in a significant increase in the General Revenue Fund's cash balance.

< The salary commission met in December 1998, although statutorily they should meet in each odd-numbered year to determine the compensation to be paid to county officials beginning with their next term of office. Discussions documented in the salary commission minutes indicated that after considering the county's improved financial condition and other information, raises for all county officials were approved. While county officials said they consulted legal counsel and believed they were in statutory compliance, the audit report suggested the salary commission clearly document all decisions and include written legal opinions.

- The county does not have procedures in place to ensure the county's budget documents are properly prepared and that they accurately present financial activities of the county. Several inaccuracies were noted in the information presented in the county's budget documents and some information was incomplete. Budgeted receipts and/or disbursements were unreasonable for some funds. Financial data for some funds was presented in both the General Revenue Fund budget and those funds' individual budgets. Actual expenditures exceeded budgeted amounts for some funds. The county's annual published financial statements did not include financial activity for many county funds and presented incorrect financial information for other county funds.

- The county does not have a procedure in place to track federal awards. No expenditures information was provided on the county's Schedule of Expenditures of Federal Awards for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997.

- Although the County Commission had a comprehensive personnel policies manual developed several years ago, the manual has never been officially approved and the policies are not consistently enforced. The county's payroll procedures are decentralized and each official and/or department is responsible for monitoring and documenting time worked by employees and maintaining vacation leave, sick leave, and compensatory time records.

The audit also made recommendations and suggestions to improve the county's tax book procedures and general fixed asset records. The audit also suggested improvements in controls and procedures of the Prosecuting Attorney, the Circuit Clerk, the Sheriff, the Health Department, and the Handicapped Services Board.

Copies of the audit are available upon request.

Missouri State Auditor

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT ON
THE FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

To the County Commission
and
Officeholders of Howard County, Missouri

We have audited the accompanying special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Howard County, Missouri, as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, as identified in the table of contents. These special-purpose financial statements are the responsibility of the county's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these special-purpose financial statements based on our audit.

Except as discussed in the fourth paragraph, we conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the special-purpose financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the special-purpose financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion.

The accompanying special-purpose financial statements were prepared for the purpose of presenting the receipts, disbursements, and changes in cash of various funds of Howard County, Missouri, and comparisons of such information with the corresponding budgeted information for various funds of the county and are not intended to be a complete presentation of the financial position and results of operations of those funds or of Howard County.

Governmental Accounting Standards Board (GASB) Technical Bulletin 98-1, Disclosures about Year 2000 Issues, as amended by GASB Technical Bulletin 99-1, requires disclosure of certain matters regarding the year 2000 issue. Howard County has included such disclosures in Note 3. Because of the unprecedented nature of the year 2000 issue, its effects and the success of related remediation efforts will not be fully determinable until the year 2000 and thereafter. Accordingly, insufficient audit evidence exists to support the county's disclosures with respect to the year 2000 issue made in Note 3. Further, we do not provide assurance that the county is or will become year 2000-compliant, that the county's year 2000 remediation efforts will be successful in whole or in part, or that parties with which the county does business are or will become year 2000-compliant.

As more fully described in Note 1 to the financial statements, the county's financial statements do not include statements of receipts, disbursements, and changes in cash - budget and actual for various funds totaling $209,385 and $707,104 in receipts, and $219,186 and $904,834 in disbursements for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, respectively. Statements of receipts, disbursements, and changes in cash - budget and actual are required by the comprehensive basis of accounting discussed in Note 1, which is a basis of accounting other than generally accepted accounting principles.

In our opinion, except for the effects of such adjustments, if any, as might have been determined to be necessary had we been able to examine evidence regarding year 2000 disclosures and the omission of the information discussed in the preceding paragraph, the special-purpose financial statements referred to in the first paragraph present fairly, in all material respects, the receipts, disbursements, and changes in cash of various funds of Howard County, Missouri, and comparisons of such information with the corresponding budgeted information for various funds of the county as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, in conformity with the comprehensive basis of accounting discussed in Note 1, which is a basis of accounting other than generally accepted accounting principles.

In accordance with Government Auditing Standards, we also have issued our report dated May 27, 1999, on our consideration of the county's internal control over financial reporting and on our tests of its compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants.

The accompanying History, Organization, and Statistical Information is presented for informational purposes. This information was obtained from the management of Howard County, Missouri, and was not subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audit of the special-purpose financial statements referred to above.

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT ON COMPLIANCE
AND ON INTERNAL CONTROL OVER FINANCIAL REPORTING
BASED ON AN AUDIT OF FINANCIAL STATEMENTS PERFORMED
IN ACCORDANCE WITH GOVERNMENT AUDITING STANDARDS

To the County Commission
and
Officeholders of Howard County, Missouri

We have audited the special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Howard County, Missouri, as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, and have issued our report thereon dated May 27, 1999. That report expressed a qualified opinion on the special-purpose financial statements. Except as discussed in that report, we conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States.

Compliance

As part of obtaining reasonable assurance about whether the special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Howard County, Missouri, are free of material misstatement, we performed tests of the county's compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants, noncompliance with which could have a direct and material effect on the determination of financial statement amounts. However, providing an opinion on compliance with those provisions was not an objective of our audit, and accordingly, we do not express such an opinion. The results of our tests disclosed an instance of noncompliance that is required to be reported under Government Auditing Standards and which is described in the accompanying Schedule of Findings as finding number 98-1. We also noted certain immaterial instances of noncompliance which are described in the accompanying Management Advisory Report.

Internal Control Over Financial Reporting

In planning and performing our audit of the special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Howard County, Missouri, we considered the county's internal control over financial reporting in order to determine our auditing procedures for the purpose of expressing our opinion on the special-purpose financial statements and not to provide assurance on the internal control over financial reporting. However, we noted a certain matter involving the internal control over financial reporting and its operation that we consider to be a reportable condition. Reportable conditions involve matters coming to our attention relating to significant deficiencies in the design or operation of the internal control over financial reporting that, in our judgment, could adversely affect the county's ability to record, process, summarize, and report financial data consistent with the of management in the special-purpose financial statements. The reportable condition is described in the accompanying Schedule of Findings as finding number 98-1.

A material weakness is a condition in which the design or operation of one or more of the internal control components does not reduce to a relatively low level the risk that misstatements in amounts that would be material in relation to the special-purpose financial statements being audited may occur and not be detected within a timely period by employees in the normal course of performing their assigned functions. Our consideration of the internal control over financial reporting would not necessarily disclose all matters in the internal control that might be reportable conditions and, accordingly, would not necessarily disclose all reportable conditions that are also considered to be material weaknesses. However, we consider the reportable condition described above, finding number 98-1, to be a material weakness. We also noted other matters involving the internal control over financial reporting which are described in the accompanying Management Advisory Report.

This report is intended for the information of the management of Howard County, Missouri, and other applicable government officials. However, this report is a matter of public record and its distribution is not limited.

Notes to the Financial Statements

1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

A. Reporting Entity and Basis of Presentation

The accompanying special-purpose financial statements present the receipts, disbursements, and changes in cash of various funds of Howard County, Missouri, and comparisons of such information with the corresponding budgeted information for various funds of the county. The funds presented are established under statutory or administrative authority, and their operations are under the control of the County Commission, an elected county official, the Howard County Sheltered Services Board or the Howard County 911 Board. The General Revenue Fund is the county's general operating fund, accounting for all financial resources except those required to be accounted for in another fund. The other funds presented account for financial resources whose use is restricted for specified purposes.

B. Basis of Accounting

The financial statements are prepared on the cash basis of accounting; accordingly, amounts are recognized when received or disbursed in cash. This basis of accounting differs from generally accepted accounting principles, which require revenues to be recognized when they become available and measurable or when they are earned and expenditures or expenses to be recognized when the related liabilities are incurred.

C. Budgets and Budgetary Practices

The County Commission and other applicable boards are responsible for the preparation and approval of budgets for various county funds in accordance with Sections 50.525 through 50.745, RSMo 1994 and RSMo Cumulative Supp. 1998, the county budget law. These budgets are adopted on the cash basis of accounting.

Although adoption of a formal budget is required by law, the county did not adopt formal budgets for the following funds:

Fund	Years Ended December 31,
Keller Building Fund	1997
Victims of Domestic Violence Fund	1997
Civil Defense Fund	1997
Local Emergency Planning Fund	1997
Sheriff Civil Fees Fund	1997
Peace Officer Safety Training Fund	1997
Prosecuting Attorney Bad Check Fund	1998 and 1997
Emergency Road and Bridge Fund	1997
Keller Memorial Hospital Fund	1997
Levee Districts Fund	1998 and 1997
CDBG-Regional Port Authority Fund	1998

Road Sign Fund	1998 and 1997
K-9 Drug Dog Fund	1997
MOPAC Lumber Relocation Fund	1997
FEMA-Flood Buy Out Fund	1997
CDBG-Flood Buy Out Fund	1997
Commercial Flood Buy Out Fund	1997
Emergency Buyout Fund	1997
Circuit Clerk Interest Fund	1998 and 1997
Law Library Fund	1998 and 1997
Howard County Economic Development Fund	1998 and 1997

Warrants issued were in excess of budgeted amounts for the following funds:

Fund	Years Ended December 31,
Law Enforcement Training Fund	1997
911 Board Fund	1998
Keller Building Fund	1998
Victims of Domestic Violence Fund	1998

Section 50.740, RSMo 1994, prohibits expenditures in excess of the approved budgets.

A deficit budget balance is presented for the Special Road and Bridge Fund for the year ended December 31, 1998. However, the budget of that fund also included other resources available to finance current or future disbursements. Generally, other available net resources represented current year property taxes not received before December 31. Such resources were sufficient to offset the deficit budget balance presented.

Although Section 50.740, RSMo 1994, requires a balanced budget, deficit balances were budgeted in the Law Enforcement Sales Tax Fund and Civil Defense Fund for the year ended December 31, 1998.

D. Published Financial Statements

Under Sections 50.800 and 50.810, RSMo 1994, the County Commission is responsible for preparing and publishing in a local newspaper a detailed annual financial statement for the county. The financial statement is required to show receipts or revenues, disbursements or expenditures, and beginning and ending balances for each fund.

However, the county's published financial statements did not include the following funds:

Fund	Years Ended December 31,

Law Enforcement Training Fund	1998 and 1997
Prosecuting Attorney Training Fund	1998 and 1997
Sheriff Civil Fees Fund	1997
Peace Officer Safety Training Fund	1998 and 1997
Prosecuting Attorney Bad Check Fund	1998 and 1997
Emergency Road and Bridge Fund	1997
Keller Memorial Hospital Fund	1997
Levee Districts Fund	1998 and 1997
CDBG-Regional Port Authority Fund	1998
Road Sign Fund	1998 and 1997
MOPAC Lumber Relocation Fund	1997
FEMA-Flood Buy Out Fund	1997
CDBG-Flood Buy Out Fund	1997
Commercial Flood Buy Out Fund	1997
Emergency Buyout Fund	1997
Circuit Clerk Interest Fund	1998 and 1997
Law Library Fund	1998 and 1997
Howard County Economic Development Fund	1998 and 1997

2. Cash

Section 110.270, RSMo 1994, based on Article IV, Section 15, Missouri Constitution, authorizes counties to place their funds, either outright or by repurchase agreement, in U.S. Treasury and agency obligations. In addition, Section 30.950, RSMo Cumulative Supp. 1998, effective August 28, 1997, requires political subdivisions with existing authority to invest in instruments other than depositary accounts at financial institutions to adopt a written investment policy. Among other things, the policy is to commit a political subdivision to the principles of safety, liquidity, and yield (in that order) when managing public funds and to prohibit purchase of derivatives (either directly or through repurchase agreements), use of leveraging (through either reverse repurchase agreements or other methods), and use of public funds for speculation. The county has not adopted such a policy.

In accordance with Statement No. 3 of the Governmental Accounting Standards Board, Deposits with Financial Institutions, Investments (Including Repurchase Agreements), and Reverse Repurchase Agreements, disclosures are provided below regarding the risk of potential loss of cash deposits. For the purposes of these disclosures, deposits with financial institutions are demand, time, and savings accounts, including certificates of deposit and negotiable order of withdrawal accounts, in banks, savings institutions, and credit unions.

The county's deposits at December 31, 1998 and 1997, were entirely covered by federal depositary insurance or by collateral securities held by the county's custodial bank in the county's name.

However, because of significantly higher bank balances at certain times during the year, uninsured and uncollateralized balances existed at those times although not at year-end.

To protect the safety of county deposits, Section 110.020, RSMo 1994, requires depositaries to pledge collateral securities to secure county deposits not insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

The 911 Board's deposits at December 31, 1998 and 1997, were entirely covered by federal depositary insurance or by collateral securities held by the board's custodial bank in the board's name.

The Howard County Sheltered Services Board's deposits at December 31, 1998 and 1997, were entirely covered by federal depositary insurance.

3. Year 2000 (Y2K) Compliance

The County Collector's office programs have been changed, transmitted, and tested per the county's system programmer. The county has paid the programmer the amount of $1,600 for these changes.

The County Assessor's office deals only in the current year (one year at a time) and therefore will not be affected with the Year 2000 (to the extent that the four year feature will not be affected). A letter from the county's system programmer to the County Collector indicated that if her file server (which is shared by the County Collector, County Assessor, County Clerk, and County System Analyst) and workstations will roll over to January 1, 2000, so will those of the other offices.

The County Clerk's office is in the process of purchasing a new accounting system which is guaranteed Year 2000 compatible. The County Clerk and County System Analyst offices will have to upgrade their systems to include Windows 95. The approximate cost of this conversion, new program, and training will be $2,500. The training and conversion should be completed by the end of the second quarter in 1999 (by the end of the third quarter at the very latest) and then all information from previous quarters will be converted to the new program. Once the County Clerk starts using the state computer for voter registration, it is assumed the state will see that the program is Year 2000 compatible. However, if the old voter registration program continues to be used, it will be compatible since no dates are used.

The work done by the County System Analyst (aside from the accounting, books, bills, etc., which use programs already discussed) is mainly on Microsoft Works. This will change once the county is upgraded to Windows 95. These programs will be Year 2000 compatible.

At the end of the year all data and program files will be copied onto tapes in the event that some unforeseen disaster should occur from the Year 2000. Therefore, all information will be updated and it will only be a matter of determining why that individual program is not functioning properly and copying the data back into the programs. Howard County is ready for the Year 2000.

Schedule

HOWARD COUNTY, MISSOURI
SCHEDULE OF FINDINGS
YEARS ENDED DECEMBER 31, 1998 AND 1997

This schedule includes the audit finding that Government Auditing Standards requires to be reported for an audit of financial statements.

98-1.	Omission of Budgetary Information

The county does not have adequate procedures to ensure budgets are prepared for all county funds, and as a result, budgets were not prepared for various county funds for the two years ended December 31, 1998. The lack of budgetary information for these funds is a significant omission from the county's financial statements. Receipts which were not budgeted totaled $209,385 and $707,104 in 1998 and 1997, respectively. Disbursements which were not budgeted totaled $219,186 and $904,834 in 1998 and 1997, respectively.

Chapter 50, RSMo 1994 and RSMo Cumulative Supp. 1998, requires preparation of annual budgets for all funds to present a complete financial plan for the ensuing year. By preparing or obtaining budgets for all county funds, the County Commission and other county officials would be able to more effectively evaluate all county financial resources.

WE RECOMMEND the County Commission and other applicable officials ensure budgets are prepared for all county funds as required by state law.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

We will implement this recommendation.

Follow-up on Prior Audit Findings for an
Audit of Financial Statements Performed in Accordance
With Government Auditing Standards

HOWARD COUNTY, MISSOURI
FOLLOW-UP ON PRIOR AUDIT FINDINGS FOR AN
AUDIT OF FINANCIAL STATEMENTS PERFORMED IN ACCORDANCE WITH GOVERNMENT AUDITING STANDARDS

In accordance with Government Auditing Standards, this section reports the auditor's follow-up on action taken by Howard County, Missouri, on the applicable finding in our prior audit report issued for the three years ended December 31, 1996.

2. County Budgets and Financial Reporting

A. Budgets were not prepared for numerous county funds.

Recommendation:

The County Commission:

A. Ensure that budgets are prepared for all funds held in the county treasury. In addition, the County Commission should obtain financial information for all special revenue funds held outside the county treasury prior to finalization of the annual budgets, and include all applicable budgets in the county's consolidated budget.

Status:

A. Not implemented. See finding number 98-1.

MANAGEMENT ADVISORY REPORT SECTION

Management Advisory Report -
State Auditor's Findings

HOWARD COUNTY, MISSOURI
MANAGEMENT ADVISORY REPORT -
STATE AUDITOR'S FINDINGS

We have audited the special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Howard County, Missouri, as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, and have issued our report thereon dated May 27, 1999. That report expressed a qualified opinion on the special-purpose financial statements.

We also have reviewed the operations of elected officials with funds other than those presented in the special-purpose financial statements. As applicable, the objectives of this review were to:

1. Determine the internal controls established over the transactions of the various county officials.

2. Review and evaluate certain other management practices for efficiency and effectiveness.

3. Review certain management practices and financial information for compliance with applicable constitutional, statutory, or contractual provisions.

Our review was made in accordance with applicable generally accepted government auditing standards and included such procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances. In this regard, we reviewed accounting and bank records and other pertinent documents and interviewed various personnel of the county officials.

As part of our review, we assessed the controls of the various county officials to the extent we determined necessary to evaluate the specific matters described above and not to provide assurance on those controls. With respect to controls, we obtained an understanding of the design of relevant policies and procedures and whether they have been placed in operation and we assessed control risk.

Because the Howard/Cooper County Port Authority is audited and separately reported on by other independent auditors, the related fund is not presented in the special-purpose financial statements. However, we reviewed that audit report and the substantiating working papers for the year ended June 30, 1998.

Our review was limited to the specific matters described in the preceding paragraphs and was based on selective tests and procedures considered appropriate in the circumstances. Had we performed additional procedures, other information might have come to our attention that would have been included in this report.

The accompanying Management Advisory Report presents our findings arising from our review of the elected county officials referred to above. In addition, this report includes findings other than those, if any, reported in the accompanying Schedule of Findings. These findings resulted from our audit of the special-purpose financial statements of Howard County but do not meet the criteria for inclusion in the written report on compliance and on internal control over financial reporting that is required for an audit performed in accordance with Government Auditing Standards.

1. County Budgets and Financial Reporting

A. Actual expenditures exceeded budgeted amounts for the following funds:

Fund		Year Ended December 31, 1998	1997
Law Enforcement Training	$	N/A	678
911 Board		549	N/A
Keller Building		18,922	N/A
Victims of Domestic Violence		400	N/A
Peace Officer Safety Training		484	N/A

While budget to actual data is provided to the County Commission monthly, the county's procedures and reports are not resulting in effective monitoring of various budgets.

It was ruled in State ex rel. Strong v. Cribb, 364 Mo. 1122, 273 SW2d 246 (1954), that strict compliance with the county budget law is required by county officials. If there are valid reasons which necessitate excess expenditures, amendments should be made following the same process by which the annual budget is approved, including holding public hearings and filing the amended budget with the State Auditor's office. In addition, Section 50.622, RSMo Cumulative Supp. 1998, provides that counties may amend the annual budget during any year in which the county receives additional funds which could not be estimated when the budget was adopted and that the county shall follow the same procedures required for adoption of the annual budget to amend its budget.

B. The county does not have procedures in place to ensure the county's budget documents are properly prepared and that they accurately present financial activities of the county. Cash reconciliations were often incomplete or included incorrect amounts. Without preparing adequate cash reconciliations, there is less assurance that actual receipts, disbursements, and cash balance data presented in the budget is accurate. Several inaccuracies were noted in the information presented in the county's budget documents. Receipts such as county aid road trust (CART) monies, and federal and state reimbursement monies were classified in the "Other" receipts category rather than a more specific and appropriate revenue category. There was a failure to consistently reflect transfers between county funds, some transfers between funds were classified in the "Other" receipts or disbursements category, and some disbursements classified as transfers out were actually distributions to other political subdivisions. Adjustments have been made to the audited financial statements to correct these problems.

For some funds budgeted receipts and/or disbursements varied significantly from actual receipts and/or disbursements. Unreasonable estimates result in the anticipated cash balance being significantly over or understated and reduce the effectiveness of the budget as a management tool.

We also noted that the General Revenue Fund budget includes budget estimates and actual receipts and disbursements activity of some other funds, such as the Keller Building, Civil Defense, Local Emergency Planning, and Victims of Domestic Violence funds, although these funds are now separately budgeted and this financial data is also reported in those budgets. The County Commission, County Clerk, and County Treasurer need to identify all county funds, make decisions as to how they plan to account for and share information regarding the funds, and ensure that all funds are appropriately budgeted.

C. Section .310(b) of Circular A-133, Audits of States, Local Governments, and Non-Profit Organizations, requires the auditee to prepare a schedule of expenditures of federal awards (SEFA) for the period covered by the auditee's financial statements. The county is required to submit the schedule of expenditures of federal awards to the State Auditor's office as a part of the annual budget.

The county does not have a procedure in place to track federal awards for the preparation of the SEFA. No expenditures information was provided on the county's SEFA for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997.

Without an accurate SEFA, federal financial activity may not be audited and reported in accordance with federal requirements which could result in future reductions of federal funds.

D. The county's annual published financial statements did not include any financial activity for many county funds. Additionally, for some funds, the financial activity from the wrong year was presented, and for other funds, budgeted rather than actual data was included. For the published financial statements to adequately inform the citizens of the county's financial activities, all monies received and disbursed by the county should be included.

Sections 50.800 and 50.810, RSMo 1994, require financial statements to be prepared and published in a local newspaper. In addition to information regarding the county's indebtedness, assessed valuations, and property tax rates, the published financial statements must show actual receipts or revenues, disbursements or expenditures, and beginning and ending balances for each county fund.

Conditions similar to A, B, and D were noted in our prior report.

WE RECOMMEND:

A. The County Commission not authorize warrants in excess of budgeted expenditures. If valid reasons necessitate excess expenditures, the original budget should be formally amended and filed with the State Auditor's office.

B. The County Commission and County Clerk prepare complete and accurate budgets, improve efforts to budget more reasonable receipts and disbursements estimates, and identify and budget all county funds appropriately.

C. The County Clerk prepare a complete and accurate schedule of expenditures of federal awards.

D. The County Commission ensure financial information as provided for by law is properly presented in the published financial statements for all county funds.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

A. We will take this recommendation under consideration.

B&D. We will implement these recommendations.

C. This recommendation will be implemented.

2. Payroll and Personnel Procedures

A. Several years ago the County Commission had a comprehensive personnel policies manual developed for the county. However, the manual has never been officially approved by the County Commission and the policies in the manual are not consistently enforced. A comprehensive, officially adopted personnel policies manual is necessary to clearly outline the expectations and benefits of employment, and can also help ensure that management's policies are fairly and consistently applied to all county employees.

B. Each county official and/or department is responsible for monitoring and documenting time worked by employees and maintaining vacation leave, sick leave, and compensatory time records. Time sheets are not submitted to the County Clerk for some employees. For these employees, the County Clerk relies upon payroll vouchers prepared and approved by the appropriate official as support for the payroll expenditure.

Our review of the various officials' payroll records revealed some concerns. Holiday pay was not consistently calculated for some Sheriff's department employees. Information on summary records (such as leave taken) maintained for the road and bridge employees sometimes differed from the original time sheets. While general explanations of possible causes were offered, specific reasons for noted discrepancies could not be provided. County personnel indicated that road and bridge employees sometimes use vacation and sick leave interchangeably. Because accumulated vacation leave is paid upon termination, this procedure could result in improper amounts being paid. In some offices employees are responsible for tracking their own leave taken and hours worked with no oversight by the official. It appears that unexplained discrepancies, errors, and inconsistencies are more likely to occur given the county's decentralized payroll procedures and lack of formally adopted countywide personnel policies. Monthly time records should be submitted to the County Clerk by all employees each payroll period and retained to document the validity of the payroll disbursements.

The County Commission needs to establish and formally adopt countywide personnel policies. If inconsistent application of policies or instances of noncompliance with established policies are identified, timely action should be taken to determine the cause and rectify the problems. Improved oversight of the payroll process by the County Clerk is necessary and could be better accomplished, at least in part, by establishing centralized payroll, leave, and compensatory time records. Centralized records aid in determining final compensation and better document compliance with the Fair Labor Standards Act.

Similar conditions were noted in our prior report.

WE RECOMMEND the County Commission:

A. Adopt and enforce countywide personnel policies.

B. Require the County Clerk to maintain centralized records of vacation leave, sick leave, and compensatory time earned, taken, and paid for all county employees. In addition, all employees should be required to submit time sheets to the County Clerk.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

A. We are currently working on implementing this recommendation and understand the importance of countywide personnel policies.

B. We will take this under consideration. This issue will be addressed as a part of our personnel policies.

3. Keller Building

As discussed in our prior report, the Keller Memorial Hospital ceased operations in June 1995 and the hospital board of trustees functioned as the governing body until the board was dissolved in May 1997. In June 1997, approximately $390,000 was transferred from closed hospital bank accounts to the county's General Revenue Fund. Of this amount, approximately $285,000 was property taxes paid by Howard County taxpayers for a hospital that was not in operation. Since that time the building has been rented to various public and private tenants. We previously recommended the county develop short-term and long-term plans regarding the building and consider returning the property tax windfall to taxpayers via a future tax reduction.

The county is continuing to utilize the building as rental property and has not actively pursued other ideas, such as selling the building or renovating it for use as county offices. A review of building rental receipts and related operating costs during the audit period and currently, shows current operations are just breaking even. As a result, the county is not accumulating any reserves to offset potential significant future building repair needs. Significant repairs needed on the building could adversely affect the county's financial position. In addition, the county's short and long term plans for the building have not been formalized. To ensure county assets are effectively utilized and related potential liabilities are minimized, the county needs to develop a plan regarding the final use or disposition of the building.

No property tax reduction was made during the audit period to offset the previous hospital property tax windfall and the County Commission has verbally indicated they have no plans to do this.

WE RECOMMEND the County Commission continue to consider options for use or disposition of the building, monitor rental receipts as compared to current and potential significant repair costs, and develop a formal plan for the final use or disposition of the building. The County Commission should also formally document its decision on returning the property tax windfall to the taxpayers via a future tax reduction.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The county's 911 unit and health department along with some other government offices are housed in this building. Although no long term decision has been made regarding the building, the county has negotiated for the sale of the building and will consider other offers. The property tax situation has been further reviewed and the various laws researched, and no requirement to refund these monies has been found. Further consideration will be given to this issue.

4. Salary Commission Meeting

The Howard County Salary Commission has the statutory authority to set salaries of the county's elected officials. County officials' salaries are based upon the county's assessed valuation, population, training attendance, or a combination of these factors. At the September 8, 1997, meeting the salary commission determined there would be no salary increases other than the assessor's mandated increase and authorized the County Commission to approve cost of living adjustments to officials' compensation. The salary commission again met on December 14, 1998, and set salaries for all county officials at 100 percent of the maximum allowable compensation (which represents a salary increase) effective at the beginning of each official's next term of office. This decision will increase elected officials future salaries by approximately $56,000 annually. Of this amount, approximately $47,000 in salary increases took effect in 1999, while the remaining $9,000 in salary increases takes effect in 2001.

RSMo 50.333, Cumulative Supp. 1998, provides for the salary commission to meet in each odd-numbered year to determine the compensation to be paid to county officials beginning with their next term of office. While the County Commission indicated the county consulted with the Prosecuting Attorney and an outside attorney, no written legal opinion was obtained to support the appropriateness of the December 1998 meeting and any decisions made.

The County Commission should review this situation with the Prosecuting Attorney and ensure all future salary commission meetings are held when provided for by law and all decisions are thoroughly documented.

WE RECOMMEND the County Commission consult with the Prosecuting Attorney regarding the propriety of the December 1998 meeting and decisions. Salary Commission minutes should clearly document all decisions and include written opinions from the Prosecuting Attorney as applicable.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

We consulted with our Prosecuting Attorney, an outside attorney, and other entities before making our decisions. We followed the legal advice we obtained. We believe we were in compliance with the law.

5. Tax Book Controls and Procedures

A. The County Clerk does not maintain an account book with the County Collector . An account book would summarize all taxes charged to the County Collector, monthly collections, delinquent credits, abatements and additions, and protested amounts. This account book, prepared by the County Clerk from aggregate abstracts, court orders, monthly statements of collections, and the tax books, would enable the County Clerk to ensure the amount of taxes charged and credited to the County Collector each year is complete and accurate.

Additionally, Section 51.150.2, RSMo 1994, requires the County Clerk to maintain accounts with all persons chargeable with monies payable into the county treasury. A properly maintained account book can also be used by the County Commission to verify the County Collector's annual settlements.

B. The County Assessor enters the assessment information into the county's computer system. The County Collector obtains the tax rates from the County Clerk, enters them into the computer system and the EDP operator generates the tax books. There is no evidence that the County Clerk is adequately verifying the tax books charged to the County Collector. Sections 137.290 and 140.050, RSMo 1994, require the county clerk to extend tax books and to charge the county collector with the total amount of the current tax books and the aggregate amount of taxes and fees in the back tax books. The procedures outlined in the statutes for the preparation of the tax books provide a system of checks and balances. Failure to perform reviews of the tax books and test some individual tax bill computations may result in the failure to discover errors and irregularities.

C. Additions and abatements of property taxes are not approved by the County Commission as they occur. At the end of the tax year a computer-generated listing of all additions and abatements is prepared and signed by the County Commission. This listing serves as the court order to add or abate the property taxes.

Section 137.260, RSMo 1994, requires that the tax book only be changed by the clerk of the county commission under order of the county commission. For the County Commission to properly monitor additions and abatements, each should be approved by the County Commission periodically throughout the year.

Similar conditions were noted in our two prior reports.

WE AGAIN RECOMMEND:

A. The County Clerk establish and maintain an account book with the County Collector. In addition, the County Commission should consider using the account book to verify the annual settlements of the County Collector.

B. The County Clerk review the tax books for accuracy, test individual tax bills for accuracy, and document all procedures performed.

C. The County Commission review and approve all additions and abatements on a timely basis.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

A&B. I will work toward complying with state law.

C. We will try to implement this recommendation.

6. General Fixed Assets

Several prior audit reports have addressed the inadequacy of the county's general fixed asset records and procedures. This condition has not improved since our last audit. Apparently no effort has been made by the County Clerk to maintain property records; to number, tag, or otherwise identify property items; or, to perform annual inventories of county-owned personal property and quarterly inspections of county-owned land and buildings.

Adequate general fixed asset procedures and records are necessary to meet statutory requirements, secure better internal controls over county property, and provide a basis for determining proper insurance coverage. Inventories and proper tagging of county property are necessary to ensure fixed asset records are accurate, identify any unrecorded additions and dispositions, detect theft of assets, and identify obsolete assets. Inspections are necessary to evaluate the physical condition and usage of county land and buildings and ensure they are properly maintained. Section 51.155, RSMo Cumulative Supp. 1998, outlines the County Clerk's responsibilities regarding general fixed assets.

WE AGAIN RECOMMEND the County Clerk perform and document inspections and inventories of county-owned property; appropriately tag, number, or otherwise identify all county property; and create a complete general fixed asset record. Once these procedures are performed and the property records prepared, the County Clerk needs to develop procedures to record all property additions and dispositions of general fixed assets as they occur and perform periodic inspections and inventories.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

We are working toward complying with the recently passed House Bill No. 402, which outlines the county's responsibilities regarding general fixed assets.

7. Prosecuting Attorney

The current and the former Prosecuting Attorney have not had an office in the courthouse. Duties as county Prosecuting Attorney have been performed from offices used in the operation of their private law practices. As discussed in prior audit reports, the county pays the Prosecuting Attorney $200 each month for use of his equipment. These equipment items are owned by the Prosecuting Attorney personally and are used for both county and private practice work. While the county does have a written agreement with the current Prosecuting Attorney outlining a set amount per month to be paid to compensate the Prosecuting Attorney for maintenance and use of equipment and utilities provided entirely by him, there is no documentation to support how the monthly amount was derived.

Additionally, the Prosecuting Attorney employs one part-time and one full-time secretary. Apparently the part-time secretary performs only county work and is compensated from county funds. The full-time secretary performs duties related to county and private practice work and her salary expense is shared by the county and the private practice. Time sheets detailing days and hours worked by these secretaries are not submitted to the county to support payroll expenditures. No written documentation exists to document the adequacy of the monthly equipment rental amount or the allocation of employees' time.

The county should enter into a more specific written agreement with the Prosecuting Attorney outlining what the arrangements are, what rent, equipment, and/or personnel will be provided by the county and what will be provided by the private practice. The basis for the arrangements should be documented and retained. Time sheets supporting time worked by Prosecuting Attorney secretaries should also be prepared and submitted to the county.

It is important to document the adequacy of the financial arrangement between the Prosecuting Attorney and the county and the basis for the allocation of resources between county and private use. There needs to be a clear distinction made between county and private practice resources and work efforts to avoid the appearance of impropriety, and alleviate questions regarding possible inappropriate use of public resources.

WE RECOMMEND the County Commission and the Prosecuting Attorney improve the contract agreement for this arrangement and prepare documentation on the allocation of resources between the county and the Prosecuting Attorney's private practice. The Prosecuting Attorney needs to ensure there is a clear distinction between his county and private practice resources and work. In addition, time sheets should be prepared and submitted to the county by the Prosecuting Attorney's secretaries.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The County Commission indicated they are in the process of implementing this recommendation.

The Prosecuting Attorney indicated the full-time employee who performs duties for the county and his private practice is now preparing a timesheet which is being submitted for each pay period to the county to support payroll expenditures. Written documentation will be maintained to support costs related to the use and maintenance of office equipment.

8. Circuit Clerk's Controls and Procedures

A. No formal procedures have been established to ensure all accrued costs are adequately identified and followed up on. A listing of accrued costs owed to the court is not maintained by the Circuit Clerk and monitoring procedures related to accrued costs are not adequate. When a case is closed and the costs determined, the Circuit Clerk prepares and sends a cost bill to the defendant. If payment is not received, the Circuit Clerk does not initiate any further collection procedures. In addition, summary records are not maintained of accrued cost balances and the Circuit Clerk does not periodically determine total accrued costs. By not adequately monitoring accrued costs, these costs could remain uncollected and might eventually result in lost revenue.

The Circuit Clerk accepts partial payments of accrued costs and accumulates them until the entire balance has been collected. Our review of the open items listing noted many older cases contain balances which are insufficient to cover all costs charged to the case. If it appears unlikely the remaining amounts owed will be collected, a court order should be obtained to allow the balance in the case to be prorated among the various court costs. Attorney General's Opinion No. 26, 1973 to Osborne, concluded that "If, when liability has been established, accrued costs cannot be collected in full, charges not having any statutory priority or not allocated under court rule should be prorated." Old inactive case balances increase the volume of cases which must be monitored and controlled, putting a greater burden on limited personnel resources. In addition, failure to prorate available monies when it is unlikely the balance will be collected, deprives the state and county of the use of those monies.

B. Checks totaling approximately $399 have been outstanding since the prior audit and are still carried on the books at December 31, 1998 If the payees cannot be located, various statutory provisions provide for the disposition of unclaimed monies.

Sections 50.470 through 50.500, RSMo 1994, provide for certain monies to be turned over to the County Treasurer for credit to the Unclaimed Fees Fund and Sections 447.500 through 447.595, RSMo 1994, provide for some unclaimed property to be distributed to the state's Unclaimed Property Section.

C. A proper segregation of duties does not exist within the Circuit Clerk's office for child support monies. The Circuit Clerk is responsible for all receipting, recording, depositing, disbursing and reconciliation procedures for this account.

Proper segregation of duties helps ensure that all transactions are accounted for properly and assets are adequately safeguarded. Internal controls would be improved by segregating the duties of receiving and depositing receipts from recording and reconciling receipts. If proper segregation of duties cannot be achieved, at a minimum, a periodic independent review of the records should be performed and documented.

Similar conditions were noted in our prior report.

WE AGAIN RECOMMEND the Circuit Clerk:

A. Maintain a complete listing of accrued costs and establish procedures to routinely follow-up and pursue timely collection. Review older cases along with the Circuit Judge and determine the appropriate disposition of inactive cases.

B. Attempt to resolve the old outstanding checks and establish routine procedures to investigate checks outstanding for a considerable time.

C. Adequately segregate accounting duties to the extent possible or ensure periodic supervisory reviews are performed and documented.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

A. I will consider this recommendation and discuss with the Circuit Judge what action needs to be taken.

B. I will try to implement this recommendation.

C. With the number of employees in my office segregation is difficult. Once the centralized collection of all child support monies by the state takes effect this will no longer be an issue.

9. Sheriff's Accounting Controls and Procedures

A. Accounting and bookkeeping duties are not adequately segregated. The bookkeeper performs all the duties of receiving, recording, depositing, disbursing, and reconciling for the Sheriff's bank account. Proper segregation of duties helps ensure that all transactions are accounted for properly and assets are adequately safeguarded. Internal controls would be improved by segregating the duties of receiving and depositing receipts from recording and reconciling receipts. If proper segregation of duties cannot be achieved, at a minimum, a periodic supervisory review of the records should be performed and documented.

B. The Sheriff's office does not have adequate controls in place to ensure the proper safeguarding of receipts from theft, misuse or loss. Monies received are not deposited timely and intact, and checks are not restrictively endorsed immediately upon receipt. Monies received from February 1, 1999 to February 4, 1999, totaling approximately $1,370 (which included $821 in cash) were deposited on February 4, 1999. The composition of receipts is not reconciled to the composition of deposits and cash receipts are sometimes used to cash personal checks for employees. It was also noted that partial payments on garnishments are not receipted, deposited, and disbursed until the court order is paid in full, which could be a month to several months later.

To adequately safeguard receipts and reduce the risk of loss, theft, or misuse of funds, all monies received should be receipted and deposited intact and daily or when accumulated receipts exceed $100, the practice of allowing employees to cash personal checks should be discontinued and checks and money orders should be restrictively endorsed immediately upon receipt.

Similar conditions were noted in our prior report.

WE RECOMMEND the Sheriff:

A. Segregate accounting and bookkeeping duties to the extent possible, or at a minimum, perform and document periodic reviews of the work performed.

B. Promptly receipt all monies received, deposit all receipts intact and daily or when accumulated receipts exceed $100, discontinue the practice of allowing employees to cash personal checks, and restrictively endorse checks and money orders immediately upon receipt.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

A. I will implement this recommendation by performing periodic reviews of the records.

B. This recommendation will be implemented. We no longer cash employee checks.

10. Health Department Accounting Controls and Procedures

Our review of the health department's receipting and transmittal procedures indicated the following concerns.

A. The health department receives numerous small donations for providing various tests and immunizations. Our review indicated that some of these monies are not recorded on the donations receipt log. In addition, while the method of payment (cash, check, money order, etc.) has been recorded on the donations log in the past, it is not currently being recorded. It was also noted that birth and death certificate receipt logs do not indicate the method of payment.

To ensure receipts are accounted for properly and transmitted intact, all receipts should be recorded on the various receipt logs, the method of payments received should be indicated, and the composition of recorded receipts should be reconciled to the composition of amounts transmitted to the County Treasurer.

B. Receipts are not always transmitted to the County Treasurer intact on a timely basis. Transmittals to the County Treasurer are made approximately twice a month regardless of when monies are received and generally contain a significant amount of cash. In addition, the health department retains small cash amounts from transmittals to provide change and this change fund is not maintained at a constant amount.

To adequately safeguard against theft or misuse of funds and to provide assurance that all receipts are properly transmitted, receipts should be transmitted intact on a daily basis or when accumulated receipts exceed $100, and the change fund should be maintained at a constant amount.

WE RECOMMEND the Health Department:

A. Record all receipts, including method of payment, on the receipt logs and reconcile the composition of receipts to the composition of transmittals to the County Treasurer.

B. Transmit all monies intact to the County Treasurer on a timely basis and maintain the change fund at a constant amount.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The Health Department Administrator provided the following responses:

A. All transactions are now being recorded on receipt logs. Each entry in the general ledger now includes an indication of the service, receipt number, date, method of payment, and amount of payment. Entries into the vital records log include the date, name, requestor, amount, and method of payment. The receipts are reconciled to the transmittals to the County Treasurer at the time of delivery. Record of this is maintained in the receipt logs. Beginning in November 1999, the health department will reconcile the composition of receipts to the composition of transmittals and record this in the receipt logs.

B. All monies are transmitted to the County Treasurer monthly. Record of the transmittal to the County Treasurer is maintained in the log. The beginning balance following transmittals to the County Treasurer is maintained at $100.

11. Howard County Handicapped Services Board Budgeting Procedures

Annual budgets approved by the board for 1998 and 1997 did not contain a summary of available resources and cash reconciliation, estimated revenues and appropriations and estimated ending fund balance, and actual receipts and disbursements data for each of the two preceding years.

Because no cash reconciliation was prepared there is less assurance that budget data is accurate. Our review indicated that actual cash, receipts, and disbursements as reflected on the budget documents did not agree to the accounting records. It was necessary to make adjustments to the financial statements to reflect this information.

Chapter 50, RSMo 1994, requires the budget present a complete financial plan for the ensuing year. Documenting a complete summary of available resources, a cash reconciliation, and accurate actual data from preceding years is necessary to present a complete financial plan.

WE RECOMMEND the Howard County Handicapped Services Board prepare a complete and accurate budget document.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The Howard County Handicapped Services Board Treasurer indicated the board will make an effort to implement this recommendation.

This report is intended for the information of the management of Howard County, Missouri, and other applicable government officials. However, this report is a matter of public record and its distribution is not limited.

Follow-Up on Prior Audit Findings

HOWARD COUNTY, MISSOURI
FOLLOW-UP ON PRIOR AUDIT FINDINGS

In accordance with Government Auditing Standards, this section reports the auditor's follow-up on action taken by Howard County, Missouri, on findings in the Management Advisory Report (MAR) of our prior audit report issued for the three years ended December 31, 1996. Finding number 2.A. is omitted since the related follow-up appears in an earlier section of the report. The prior recommendations which have not been implemented, but are considered significant, have been repeated in the current MAR. Although the remaining unimplemented recommendations have not been repeated, the county should consider implementing these recommendations.

1. Keller Memorial Hospital

A. The Keller Memorial Hospital ceased operations in June 1995. Neither the County Commission nor the hospital Board of Trustees adequately planned for the closing of the hospital and transfer of assets to the county. Without adequate monitoring, planning, or cost evaluations, the County Commission authorized a hospital levy to be extended in September 1996. As a result, $285,000 in hospital property taxes were paid by Howard County taxpayers for a hospital that was not in operation.

B. Procedures utilized when selling equipment items prior to and during the closing of the hospital were inadequate. In addition, the hospital did not maintain adequate records of its fixed assets.

Recommendation:

The County Commission:

A. Develop a short-term plan for the immediate handling of this property and a long-term plan to utilize the building for county purposes or sell the building. In the future, the County Commission needs to obtain adequate financial information prior to assessing related tax levies and the county should consider returning this property tax windfall to tax payers via a future tax reduction

B. Perform an inventory now and dispose of remaining unneeded equipment items and the County Clerk ensure the general fixed asset records are maintained and properly updated to reflect the acquisition of the property previously owned by the Keller Memorial Hospital Board of Trustees.

Status:

A. Not implemented. See MAR No. 3.

B. Partially implemented. While no inventory was performed, the county did hold an auction to dispose of unneeded hospital equipment. Property retained by the county has not been accounted for in general fixed asset records. For related comments, see MAR No. 6.

2. County Budgets and Financial Reporting

B. Expenditures in excess of approved budgeted expenditures were made from several funds.

C. Several inaccuracies were noted in the information presented in the county's budget documents.

D. The county's annual published financial statements did not include any financial activity of numerous county funds and did not present receipts or revenues and beginning and ending cash balances for any county funds.

E. As discussed in prior audit reports, the County Treasurer continued to maintain numerous bank accounts.

Recommendation:

The County Commission:

B. The County Commission not authorize warrants in excess of budgeted expenditures. If valid reasons necessitate excess expenditures, the original budget should be formally amended and filed with the State Auditor's office.

C. The County Clerk prepare complete and accurate budgets.

D. The County Commission ensure the published financial statements include the necessary information and all county funds as required by state law.

E. The County Commission work with the County Treasurer to reduce the number of county bank accounts.

Status:

B,C, & D. Not implemented. See MAR No. 1.

E. Partially implemented. The County Commission and County Treasurer discussed this issue subsequent to the prior audit and reduced the number of bank accounts. However, the county still maintains a large number of bank accounts and should consider reducing the number of accounts to simplify bookkeeping procedures. Although not repeated in the current report, our recommendation remains as stated above.

3. Payroll and Personnel Procedures

A. The personnel policies manual developed for the county had never been officially approved by the County Commission and the policies in the manual were not consistently enforced.

B. Centralized time and leave records were not maintained by the County Clerk for all employees.

Recommendation:

The County Commission:

A. Adopt and enforce a personnel policy.

B. Require the County Clerk to maintain centralized time and leave records.

Status:

A&B. Not implemented. See MAR No. 2.

4. County Disbursements

A. The county did not have a written agreement with the Prosecuting Attorney outlining what costs would be paid and what office personnel and equipment would be provided by the county and what would be provided by the Prosecuting Attorney's private law practice.

B. Law library disbursements were made from the General Revenue Fund instead of the Law Library Fund.

C. Randolph County used the incorrect percentage in assessing the expenses of the juvenile office which were prorated between Randolph County and Howard County, resulting in underbillings to Howard County of approximately $5,000.

Recommendation:

The County Commission:

A. And the Prosecuting Attorney formalize this arrangement and prepare documentation on the allocation of resources between the county and the Prosecuting Attorney's private practice. The Prosecuting Attorney needs to ensure there is a clear distinction between his county and private practice resources and work. In addition, time sheets should be prepared and submitted to the county by the Prosecuting Attorney's secretaries.

B. Ensure Law Library funds are utilized before paying for law library materials from General Revenue Fund.

C. Contact Randolph County regarding past billing errors and resolve this situation.

Status:

A. Partially implemented. The Prosecuting Attorney and the county entered into a written agreement which provides for the county to pay the Prosecuting Attorney $200 each month for maintenance and use of equipment he owns and for other office expenses, such as utilities. However, there is no supporting documentation to show how the agreed upon amount was determined. In addition, time sheets are not prepared and submitted to the county by the Prosecuting Attorney's secretaries. See MAR No. 7.

B. Not implemented. In 1998, $5,000 was transferred from the law library account to the General Revenue Fund. During the audit period approximately $10,400 was expended from the General Revenue Fund for law library materials. Although not repeated in the current report, our recommendation remains as stated above.

C. Partially implemented. Although no payment was made from Howard County to Randolph County regarding the $5,000 underbilling, the correct percentage is now being used to prorate expenses.

5. Tax Book Controls and Procedures

A. The County Clerk did not maintain an account book with the County Collector .

B. There was no evidence that the County Clerk was adequately verifying the tax books charged to the County Collector.

C. Additions and abatements of property taxes were not approved by the County Commission as they occurred. At the end of the tax year a computer-generated listing of all additions and abatements was prepared and signed by the County Commission. This listing served as the court order to add or abate the property taxes.

Recommendation:

A. The County Clerk establish and maintain an account book with the County Collector. In addition, the County Commission should consider using the account book to verify the annual settlements of the County Collector.

B. The County Clerk review the tax books for accuracy, test individual tax bills for accuracy, and document all procedures performed.

C. The County Commission review and approve all additions and abatements on a timely basis.

Status:

A-C. Not implemented. See MAR No. 5.

6. General Fixed Assets

No effort had been made by the county to maintain property records; to number, tag, or otherwise identify property items; or, to perform annual inventories of county-owned personal property and quarterly inspections of county-owned land and buildings.

Recommendation:

The County Clerk perform and document inspections and inventories of county-owned property; appropriately tag, number, or otherwise identify all county property; and, create a complete general fixed asset record. Once these procedures are performed and the property records prepared, the County Clerk needs to develop procedures to record all property additions and dispositions of general fixed assets as they occur and perform periodic inspections and inventories.

Status:

Not implemented. See MAR No. 6.

7. Prosecuting Attorney's Accounting Controls and Procedures

A. Monthly bank reconciliations were not performed and open items listing were not prepared for the bad check restitution account.

B. Accounting and bookkeeping duties were not adequately segregated.

C. Receipts were not always deposited intact or on a timely basis.

D. A cash control ledger was not maintained for bad check restitutions.

E. Bad check monies received by the Prosecuting Attorney's office were not always transmitted to the County Treasurer intact and on a timely basis.

Recommendation:

The Prosecuting Attorney:

A. Ensure monthly bank reconciliations and listings of liabilities are prepared and any discrepancies resolved. Efforts to investigate the unidentified monies should continue and any monies remaining unidentified should be disbursed in accordance with state law.

B. Adequately segregate accounting and bookkeeping duties to the extent possible and ensure that documented independent reviews of work are performed.

C. Ensure monies are deposited intact daily or when accumulated receipts exceed $100.

D. Ensure a cash control ledger which includes all receipts and disbursements, the method of disposition, and the cash balance, is maintained.

E. Ensure that fee monies are transmitted to the County Treasurer intact and on a timely basis.

Status:

A-E. Although these concerns continued throughout most of the audit period, the new Prosecuting Attorney implemented these recommendations in 1999.

8. Sheriff's Controls and Procedures

A. Accounting and bookkeeping duties were not adequately segregated.

B. 1. Adequate bank reconciliations were not prepared and bank balances were not reconciled to the book balance.

2. Receipts were not deposited on a timely basis.

C. Complete and detailed mileage logs were not maintained for county-owned Sheriff's department vehicles.

D. Several years ago the Sheriff made a verbal agreement with the telephone company whereby the company discontinued disbursing the full amount of commissions to the Sheriff. A portion of the commissions earned were withheld by the company to pay for jail surveillance equipment purchased from this company. In addition, vendor invoices (totaling approximately $1200) for Sheriff's department equipment purchases and vehicle repairs were forwarded to the telephone company which then paid the vendors from telephone commissions earned by the Sheriff's department. The amounts paid were withheld from subsequent commission distributions to the county. No documentation of these transactions was retained.

E. The Sheriff's Department did not maintain invoices and other supporting documentation of expenditures made from the Domestic Cannabis Eradication/Suppression Program.

Recommendation:

The Sheriff:

A. Segregate accounting and bookkeeping duties to the extent possible, or at a minimum, perform and document periodic reviews of the work performed.

B.1. Prepare adequate bank reconciliations on a monthly basis. Any difference should be investigated and explained on the reconciliation.

2. Deposit monies daily or when accumulated receipts exceed $100.

C. Maintain adequate mileage records on all county-owned patrol vehicles and review these records periodically for reasonableness.

D. Ensure that all telephone commissions are received by the county and transmitted to the custody of the County Treasurer. Any expenditures should be made through the county's normal budgetary and expenditure processes.

E. Ensure proper documentation of grant expenditures is retained.

Status:

B.1., C&E. Implemented.

A& B.2. Not implemented. See MAR No 9.

D. Implemented. Telephone commission monies are now transmitted to the County Treasurer for deposit into General Revenue. Portions of the commissions continue to be withheld to pay off purchase agreements entered into by the former Sheriff; however, no similar arrangements were noted during this audit period.

9. Circuit Clerk and Ex Officio Recorder of Deeds' Controls and Procedures

A. The method of payment was not indicated on the Circuit Clerk's receipt slips or in the Ex Officio Recorder of Deeds' fee book.

B. At December 31, 1996, twenty-seven checks in the Circuit Clerk's checking account totaling $498 had been outstanding for more than two years.

C. Receipts were not deposited intact by the Ex Officio Recorder of Deeds. Cash was withheld from deposits for making cash refunds.

D. The duties of receiving, recording, and depositing monies for the child support account were not adequately segregated.

E. Formal procedures had not been established to ensure all accrued costs were not adequately identified and followed up on.

Recommendation:

The Circuit Clerk and the Ex Officio Recorder of Deeds:

A. Indicate the method of payment on all receipts and reconcile total cash, checks, and money orders to bank deposits.

B. Attempt to identify and/or disburse all unidentified monies and old outstanding checks through the applicable statutory provisions.

C. Deposit all monies intact. In addition, all refunds should be made by check.

D. Adequately segregate accounting duties and/or provide for independent and documented reviews of accounting records.

E. Establish procedures to follow up and collect costs that accrue to the court. Review older cases along with Circuit Judge and determine the appropriate disposition of inactive cases.

Status:

A. Implemented.

B,D, & E. Not implemented. See MAR No. 8.

C. Partially implemented. Deposits are made intact. However, cash is sometimes received back from deposits so that cash refunds can be made. Although not repeated in the current report, our recommendation remains stated above.

10. Collector's Proposition C Calculations

The County Collector used incorrect unadjusted tax levies when computing the 1995 and 1994 Proposition C ratios for some school districts. In addition, when making the 1996 Proposition C adjustments related to stated assessed railroad and utility taxes, the County Collector applied the 1 percent commission rate and assessment withholding rate to the wrong amounts. These errors resulted in approximately $7,500 and $6,600 being due to the General Revenue Fund and Assessment Fund, respectively, from the various school districts.

Recommendation:

The Collector consider recomputing commissions related to these school districts and making corrections for amounts improperly distributed to the schools, General Revenue Fund, and Assessment Fund. In addition, the Collector needs to ensure future Proposition C commissions are computed properly.

Status:

Implemented. The County Collector adjusted the December 1997 withholdings to correct for past errors made.

11. 911

Annual budgets approved by the board did not contain a summary of available resources, estimated revenues and appropriations, estimated ending balance, and a cash reconciliation.
Recommendation:

The 911 Board prepare a complete and accurate budget document.

Status:

Partially implemented. The 1998 budget approved by the board did contain a summary of available resources, estimated revenues and appropriations, estimated ending balance and cash reconciliation. However, the budget document did not include some interest income and the activity of one bank account. Although not repeated in the current report, our recommendation remains as stated above.

HOWARD COUNTY, MISSOURI
HISTORY, ORGANIZATION,
AND STATISTICAL INFORMATION

Organized in 1816, the county of Howard was named after General Benjamin Howard. Howard County is a third-class county and is part of the Fourteenth Judicial Circuit. The county seat is Fayette.

Howard County's government is composed of a three-member county commission and separate elected officials performing various tasks. The county commission has mainly administrative duties in setting tax levies, appropriating county funds, appointing board members and trustees of special services, accounting for county property, maintaining county roads and bridges, and performing miscellaneous duties not handled by other county officials.

Principal functions of these other officials relate to judicial courts, law enforcement, property assessment, property tax collections, conduct of elections, and maintenance of financial and other records of importance to the county's citizens.

Counties typically spend a large portion of their receipts to support general county operations and to build and maintain roads and bridges. The following chart shows from where Howard County received its money in 1998 and 1997 to support the county General Revenue and Special Road and Bridge Funds:

AUDIT REPORT

FIFTEENTH JUDICIAL CIRCUIT

SALINE COUNTY, MISSOURI

THREE YEARS ENDED DECEMBER 31, 1998

From The Office Of State Auditor
Claire McCaskill

Report No. 99-118
December 23, 1999

Office Of The
State Auditor Of Missouri
Claire McCaskill

December 1999

FACT SHEET

During our audit of the Fifteenth Judicial Circuit Court in Saline County, we identified certain management practices which we believe could be improved.

Criminal cost billings were not submitted to the state for some cases during 1998, 1997, and 1996. State law allows for the reimbursement of certain costs in criminal cases where the state has been rendered liable. Based on information provided by the Sheriff, the Circuit Clerk is responsible for preparing and submitting cost bills to the state for reimbursement. State law requires all such bills to be submitted to the state's Office of Administration within two years of the date of judgment and sentence.

Our review of criminal cases found twenty-one cases with costs totaling approximately $33,031 that had not been submitted for reimbursement. Of these twenty-one cases, fourteen have exceeded the two-year time limit and the county has already lost reimbursements totaling approximately $17,831. Seven of the twenty-one cases had 1998 conviction dates. Incarceration costs related to those cases total approximately $15,200. We have provided the Circuit Clerk with information regarding these cases so they can be billed before the two-year time limit expires.

Many of the funds held on deposit in the Circuit Clerk's fee account are for old cases which contain deposits insufficient to cover all court costs charged. The Circuit Clerk's December 31, 1998, open items listing includes approximately 950 entries and totaled over $114,000. Approximately 240 of these cases originated prior to 1996 with some cases dating as far back as the 1950's. If it appears unlikely the remaining amounts owed will be collected, a court order should be obtained to allow the balance to be distributed among the various costs.

Delinquency notices are not sent out to the non-custodial parents of cases involving non-IV-D obligations. According to the State Division of Child Support Enforcement (DCSE) personnel, the division will generate and mail billings unless there is a billing suppression request on file and their records indicate the former Circuit Clerk requested the suppression of billings for non-IV-D delinquent obligations. The Circuit Clerk indicated that she was unaware that the billing request had been suppressed. In response to the finding, the current Circuit Clerk indicated she contacted the DCSE and requested the billings be generated and mailed.

The duties of receiving, recording, and depositing court monies collected by the Probate Division are not adequately segregated. Currently, the Probate Clerk performs all these duties as well as preparing checks and completing monthly reports and reconciliations. If a proper segregation of duties cannot be achieved, at a minimum, there should be a documented independent review of records.

Compliance

As part of obtaining reasonable assurance about whether the special-purpose financial statements of the various funds of the Fifteenth Judicial Circuit, Saline County, Missouri, are free of material misstatement, we performed tests of the judicial circuit's compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants, noncompliance with which could have a direct and material effect on the determination of financial statement amounts. However, providing an opinion on compliance with those provisions was not an objective of our audit, and accordingly, we do not express such an opinion. The results of our tests disclosed no material instances of noncompliance that are required to be reported under Government Auditing Standards. However, we noted certain other instances of noncompliance which are presented in the accompanying Management Advisory Report.

Internal Control Over Financial Reporting

In planning and performing our audit of the special-purpose financial statements of the various funds of the Fifteenth Judicial Circuit, Saline County, Missouri, we considered the judicial circuit's internal control over financial reporting in order to determine our auditing procedures for the purpose of expressing our opinion on the special-purpose financial statements and not to provide assurance on the internal control over financial reporting. However, we noted certain matters involving the internal control over financial reporting and its operation that we consider to be reportable conditions. Reportable conditions involve matters coming to our attention relating to significant deficiencies in the design or operation of the internal control over financial reporting that, in our judgment, could adversely affect the judicial circuit's ability to record, process, summarize, and report financial data consistent with the assertions of management in the special-purpose financial statements.

A material weakness is a condition in which the design or operation of one or more of the internal control components does not reduce to a relatively low level the risk that misstatements in amounts that would be material to the special-purpose financial statements being audited may occur and not be detected within a timely period by employees in the normal course of performing their assigned functions. Our consideration of the internal control over financial reporting would not necessarily disclose all matters in the internal control that might be reportable conditions and, accordingly, would not necessarily disclose all reportable conditions that are also considered to be material weaknesses. However, we noted certain matters involving the internal control over financial reporting and its operation that we consider to be material weaknesses, and these matters are presented in the accompanying Management Advisory Report.

This report is intended for the information of the management of the Fifteenth Judicial Circuit, Saline County, Missouri, and other applicable government officials. However, this report is a matter of public record and its distribution is not limited.

Notes to the Financial Statements

FIFTEENTH JUDICIAL CIRCUIT
SALINE COUNTY, MISSOURI
NOTES TO THE FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

A. Reporting Entity and Basis of Presentation

The accompanying special-purpose financial statements present only selected data for each fund of the Fifteenth Judicial Circuit, Saline County, Missouri.

Receipts, disbursements, and changes in cash are presented for the various funds administered by the Fifteenth Judicial Circuit, Saline County, Missouri. The operating costs of the offices within the circuit are paid directly from appropriations authorized by the County Commissions within the judicial circuit and the state of Missouri and are not included in these financial statements. The funds administered by the circuit officials located in Lafayette County are reported on separately.

The "Total (Memorandum Only)" column is presented as additional analytical data. Because this column does not identify the restrictions that exist by fund, it should be read only with reference to the details of each fund.

B. Basis of Accounting

The Statements of Receipts, Disbursements, and Changes in Cash for the Fifteenth Judicial Circuit, Saline County, Missouri, are prepared on the cash basis of accounting; accordingly, amounts are recognized when they are received or disbursed. This basis of accounting differs from generally accepted accounting principles, which require revenues to be recognized when they become available and measurable or when they are earned and expenditures or expenses to be recognized when the related liabilities are incurred.

C. Fiscal Authority and Responsibility

The Fifteenth Judicial Circuit, Saline County, Missouri, includes the transactions of the Circuit Division, the Associate Circuit Division, the Probate Division, and the Law Library Fund. Each officeholder has been charged with the responsibility of administering the transactions in his or her division. The Presiding Judge's secretary acts as the custodian of the Law Library Fund. The Fifteenth Judicial Circuit, Saline County, Missouri, administers transactions within the following funds:

Circuit Division Fund: This fund accounts for the transactions of the Circuit Clerk's office. These transactions include receipts and disbursements of the fee, child support, and interest accounts.

Associate Circuit Division Fund: This fund accounts for the transactions of the Associate Circuit Division. These transactions include receipts and disbursements of the court costs, fees, fines, bonds, and interest income.

Probate Division Fund: This fund accounts for the transactions of the Probate Division. These transactions include receipts and disbursements of court deposits and fees.

Law Library Fund: This fund accounts for the transactions of the law library, including fees collected from Circuit Division, Associate Circuit Division, and Probate Division deposits. Disbursements are legally restricted for maintenance of a law library.

2. Cash

Section 483.310, RSMo Cumulative Supp. 1998, authorizes circuit courts to place their funds in savings deposits in banks and savings and loan associations or in U.S. Treasury bills.

In accordance with Statement No. 3 of the Governmental Accounting Standards Board, Deposits with Financial Institutions, Investments (Including Repurchase Agreements), and Reverse Repurchase Agreements, disclosures are provided below regarding the risk of potential loss of cash deposits. For the purposes of these disclosures, deposits with financial institutions are demand, time, and savings accounts, including certificates of deposit and negotiable order of withdrawal accounts, in banks and savings institutions.

The circuit court's deposits at December 31, 1998, 1997, and 1996, were entirely covered by federal depositary insurance or by collateral securities held by the court's custodial bank in the circuit court's name.

FIFTEENTH JUDICIAL CIRCUIT
SALINE COUNTY, MISSOURI
SUMMARY OF FINDINGS

1. Circuit Clerk's Accounting Controls and Procedures (pages 17-19)

   Criminal cost billings were not submitted to the state for some cases during 1998, 1997, and 1996. For some cases, with 1997 and 1996 conviction dates and billable costs totaling approximately $17,831, the two-year time limit was exceeded and the county will not be reimbursed for these costs. Other cases, with 1998 conviction dates and billable costs totaling approximately $15,200, still need to be billed. Numerous funds are held on deposit for old civil and criminal cases which should be distributed. Notices of delinquent child support are not sent.

2. Probate Division's Accounting Controls (page 19)

   Accounting duties are not adequately segregated.

FIFTEENTH JUDICIAL CIRCUIT
SALINE COUNTY, MISSOURI
MANAGEMENT ADVISORY REPORT -
STATE AUDITOR'S CURRENT RECOMMENDATIONS

We have audited the special-purpose financial statements of the Fifteenth Judicial Circuit, Saline County, Missouri, as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998, 1997, and 1996, and have issued our report thereon dated September 14, 1999.

The following Management Advisory Report presents our findings and recommendations arising from our audit of the judicial circuit's special-purpose financial statements. During our audit, we also identified certain management practices which we believe could be improved. Our audit was not designed or intended to be a detailed study of every system, procedure, and transaction. Accordingly, the findings presented in the following report should not be considered as all-inclusive of areas where improvements may be needed.

1. Circuit Clerk's Accounting Controls and Procedures

A. Section 221.105, RSMo Cumulative Supp. 1998, allows for the reimbursement of certain costs in criminal cases where the state has been rendered liable. The Sheriff is to certify the number of prisoner incarceration days and the Circuit Clerk is responsible for preparing and submitting cost bills to the state for reimbursement. Section 33.120, RSMo Cumulative Supp. 1998, requires all such bills to be submitted to the state's Office of Administration within two years of the date of judgement and sentence.

Our review of criminal cases found twenty-one cases with costs totaling approximately $33,031 that had not been submitted for reimbursement. Of these twenty-one cases, eight had 1996 conviction dates and six had 1997 conviction dates. These cases have exceeded the two-year time limit and the county has already lost reimbursements totaling approximately $17,831. Seven of the twenty-one cases had 1998 conviction dates. Incarceration costs related to those cases total approximately $15,200. The two-year time limit has not expired on these cases and the costs are still reimbursable. We have provided the Circuit Clerk with information regarding these cases so they can be billed. We did not review all cases and it is possible other lost revenues may exist as a result of untimely cost billings during the audit period and in calendar year 1999. To ensure reimbursement is obtained for all allowable costs, bills of costs should be prepared and submitted to the state in a thorough and timely manner.

B. The Circuit Clerk's office collects court costs for each case filed in the Circuit Division. Many of the funds held on deposit in the fee account are for old cases which contain deposits insufficient to cover all court costs charged in the case. The Circuit Clerk's December 31, 1998, open items listing includes approximately 950 entries and totaled over $114,000. Approximately 240 of these cases originated prior to 1996 with some cases dating as far back as the 1950's. If it appears unlikely the remaining amounts owed will be collected, a court order should be obtained to allow the balance to be prorated among the various costs. Attorney General's Opinion No. 26, 1973 to Osborne, concluded that "If, when liability has been established, accrued costs cannot be collected in full, charges not having any statutory priority or not allocated under court rule should be prorated."

Old inactive case balances increase the volume of cases which must be monitored and controlled, putting a greater burden on limited personnel resources. In addition, failure to prorate available monies when it is unlikely the balance will be collected, deprives the state and county of the use of those monies.

C. Delinquent child support payments are not adequately monitored. Delinquency notices are not sent out to the non-custodial parents of cases involving non-IV-D obligations. The Circuit Clerk indicated this process is now being performed by the state Division of Child Support Enforcement (DCSE). According to DCSE personnel, the division will generate and mail billings unless there is a billing suppression request on file and their records indicate the former Circuit Clerk requested the suppression of billings for non-IV-D delinquent obligations. Therefore, no billings will be generated until the suppression is rescinded by the Circuit Clerk. The Circuit Clerk indicated that she was unaware that the billing request had been suppressed.

Section 452.345.5, RSMo Cumulative Supp. 1998, states, except for a Title IV-D case, if a party becomes delinquent in maintenance or support payments in an amount equal to one month's total support obligation, the Circuit Clerk shall notify the obligor of the delinquency and shall advise that the obligor's income is subject to withholding for repayment of the delinquency and for payment of current support. The Circuit Clerk must also notify the obligee of the delinquency.

Conditions similar to B and C were also noted in our prior report.

WE RECOMMEND the Circuit Clerk:

A. Determine any unbilled costs pertaining to 1999, 1998, and late 1997 cases and bill the state promptly. In addition, the Circuit Clerk should ensure that current procedures are sufficient to ensure criminal cost reimbursement forms are submitted to the state on a timely basis.

B. Pursue collection of costs accrued on old cases. If collection of such costs cannot be made, monies held by the Circuit Clerk should be distributed on a pro-rata basis, after obtaining a court order from the Circuit Judge.

C. Implement procedures to monitor delinquent child support and issue delinquent notices in accordance with state law.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The Circuit Clerk provided the following responses:

A. With the addition of another clerk in January 1999, we have been able to change procedures so that these criminal costs are billed more regularly. We are currently reviewing dockets pertaining to prior years to identify previously unbilled costs that are still within the allowable timeframe for state reimbursement.

B. As time allows we are reviewing old cases on the open items listing. Monies are being disbursed on closed cases. Cases still open are being reviewed and discussed with the Circuit Judge regarding the appropriate disposition.

C. We have contacted the DCSE and requested that the non-IV-D billings be generated and mailed. As of the end of July 2001, this office will no longer collect child support payments. This function will be handled by the DCSE- Family Support Payment Center at a centralized location. At that point in time our primary responsibility will be to file case information only.

2. Probate Division's Accounting Controls

The duties of receiving, recording, and depositing court monies collected by the Probate Division are not adequately segregated. Currently, the Probate Clerk performs all these duties as well as preparing checks and completing monthly reports and reconciliations. To safeguard against possible loss or misuse of funds, internal controls should provide reasonable assurance that all transactions are accounted for properly and assets are adequately safeguarded. Since this is an office of one employee and proper segregation of duties cannot be achieved, at a minimum, there should be a documented independent review of records. This review should include accounting for the numerical sequence of receipt slips issued, a reconciliation of the composition of receipt slips issued to the composition of monies deposited, and a review of the monthly bank reconciliation.

WE RECOMMEND the Probate Division establish a documented periodic review of the division records by an independent person.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The Probate Clerk indicated this issue will be discussed with the Probate Judge and an effort will be made to implement the recommendation.

This report is intended for the information of the management of the Fifteenth Judicial Circuit, Saline County, Missouri, and other applicable government officials. However, this report is a matter of public record and its distribution is not limited.

Follow-Up on State Auditor’s Prior Recommendations

FIFTEENTH JUDICIAL CIRCUIT
SALINE COUNTY, MISSOURI
FOLLOW-UP ON STATE AUDITOR'S PRIOR RECOMMENDATIONS

This section reports follow-up action taken by the Fifteenth Judicial Circuit, Saline County, Missouri, on recommendations made in the Management Advisory Report (MAR) of our report issued for the two years ended December 31, 1995. The prior recommendations which have not been implemented are repeated in the current MAR.

Circuit Clerk's Accounting Controls and Procedures

A. Accounting and bookkeeping duties were not adequately segregated.

B. The Circuit Clerk did not disburse the county's portion of filing fees until the case was closed and the final court costs were calculated. In addition, the open items listing contained numerous old cases for which the balance of fees collected had not been disbursed.

C. Delinquent child support payments were not adequately monitored and delinquency notices were not sent to the absent parent when child support payments were not received.

Recommendation:

The Circuit Clerk:

A. Adequately segregate accounting duties to the extent possible to provide reasonable assurance that all transactions are accounted for properly and assets are adequately safeguarded. If duties cannot be adequately segregated, at a minimum, there should be a documented supervisory review by an independent person of the work performed.

B. Disburse filing fees to the county in the month received and periodically review cases included on the open-items listing and take appropriate action. For those old cases which contain a balance of fees collected, a court order should be obtained to close those cases by paying out any remaining fees on a prorated basis.

C. Implement procedures to monitor delinquent child support payments and issue delinquent notices in accordance with state law.

Status:

A. Implemented.

B. Partially implemented. In September 1999, the Circuit Clerk began distributing the county's portion of the filing fee in the month received. However, court costs and fees on cases continue to be held until the balance is paid in full. The open items listing still contains numerous old cases for which the balance of fees collected have not been disbursed. For related comments, see MAR No. 1.

C. Not implemented. See MAR No 1.

AUDIT REPORT

CITY OF BROWNING, MISSOURI

YEAR ENDED DECEMBER 31, 1998

From The Office Of State Auditor
Claire McCaskill

Report No. 99-117
December 20, 1999

Office Of The
State Auditor Of Missouri
Claire McCaskill

December 1999

FACT SHEET

Some problems were discovered as a result of an audit conducted by our office in response to the request of petitioners from the City of Browning, Missouri.

The City of Browning provides water and sewer services to approximately 160 customers and trash services to approximately 136 customers. Our review of the city's billing and collection records and procedures disclosed the following concerns:

- The city contracts with a trash hauler to collect trash from the homes in the city. For a number of years, the trash hauler billed city residents directly for trash service. In October 1997, the city began billing each resident seven dollars per month for the cost of the service. The fees charged to residents were established without a public vote, and some residents who apparently do not use the service have been billed for trash fees.

  Article X, Section 22(a) of the Missouri Constitution, commonly known as the Hancock Amendment, prohibits political subdivisions from increasing existing taxes, licenses, or fees above levels authorized at the time of passage of the Hancock Amendment without voter approval. However, Section 67.042, RSMo 1994, allows political subdivisions to adjust existing fees and licenses to maintain funding of services provided at the time of passage of the Hancock Amendment.

  Because this matter has been a concern of some citizens, the city should request that its attorney review this fee to determine whether it is or can be structured as a user fee or whether the fee and any fee increases should be put to a public vote.

- During the year ended December 31, 1998, the city collected $10,694 in trash fees and paid $3,084 for trash hauling services. The city has not been billed by its former trash hauler for trash services provided from September 1997 through June 1998, but the city expects to be billed for these services in the future. It appears the 1998 share of these costs is approximately $5,400. The city has not identified any other costs, such as administrative costs, related to trash service. Ordinance 252 indicates all trash fee payments received by the city shall be used to defray the expenses of collection of solid waste. The administrative costs of providing trash collection services should be calculated and documented. If the current revenues generated exceed the estimated costs incurred in providing trash collection services, consideration should be given to reducing the fee accordingly.

- The city waived trash fees for some residents and commercial establishments without adopting ordinances or rules to authorize the waivers and the City Clerk's billing records do not always indicate which water, sewer, and trash bills have been collected.

In 1996, the city was awarded a $64,252 COPS Grant to pay salaries and fringe benefits for two part-time police officers over a three-year period. Grant disbursements are not approved by the Board of Aldermen. Time records for all police officers are prepared by the Police Chief and do not clearly identify all officers and the number of hours worked by each officer. The Police Chief was paid for hours worked by other officers.

Improvements are needed in the city's budgeting documents and procedures. The city's published financial statements are not sufficiently detailed and do not reflect some financial activity and indebtedness of the city. The 1998 annual financial report submitted to the State Auditor's office is inaccurate and incomplete. The city has not obtained annual audits of its water and sewer system as required by state law and the city's bond covenant.

During the year ended December 31, 1998 the city deposited $13,164 of state motor vehicle-related receipts and $3,813 of county road sales tax receipts into the General Fund. During 1998, the city spent $2,035 on street repairs and $13,452 for police department expenses. The city has not established a separate accounting for these receipts and related disbursements. Article IV, Section 30, of the Missouri Constitution, requires that motor vehicle-related receipts apportioned by the state of Missouri be used for street-related purposes, including policing, signing, lighting, and cleaning of roads and streets. The county sales tax monies were approved by county voters for road and bridge capital improvements.

A separate individual has not been appointed to serve as City Treasurer and there is no independent review or supervision of the work performed by the City Clerk. Deposits are not made on a timely basis and board minutes do not identify the disbursements approved by the board.

The city has not adopted formal plans to address citizens' concerns regarding building conditions. The city purchased two properties containing dangerous and unsafe buildings and paid to have the buildings demolished and removed. However, the city has not formally identified all remaining dangerous and unsafe buildings or developed formal plans to ensure the buildings are repaired or demolished. The city unsuccessfully attempted to negotiate the purchase of two other properties that contained dangerous and unsafe buildings.

To the Honorable Mayor
and
Board of Aldermen
City of Browning
Browning, Missouri 64630

The State Auditor was petitioned under Section 29.230, RSMo, to audit the city of Browning, Missouri. Our audit of the city included, but was not limited to, the year ended December 31, 1998. The objectives of this audit were to:

1. Perform procedures we deemed necessary to evaluate the petitioners' concerns.

2. Review compliance with certain constitutional provisions, statutes, ordinances, and attorney general's opinions as we deemed necessary or appropriate in the circumstances.

3. Review certain management practices which we believe could be improved.

Our audit was made in accordance with generally accepted government auditing standards and included such procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances. We also reviewed board minutes, city policies and ordinances, and various city financial records.

Our audit was limited to the specific matters described above and was based on selective tests and procedures considered appropriate in the circumstances. Had we performed additional procedures, other information might have come to our attention which would have been included in the audit of the city.

The accompanying History and Organization is presented for informational purposes. This information was obtained from the city and was not subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audit of the city.

MANAGEMENT ADVISORY REPORT

CITY OF BROWNING, MISSOURI
SUMMARY OF FINDINGS

1. COPS Grant Records and Procedures (pages 10-12)

Grant disbursements are not approved by the Board of Aldermen. Time records for all police officers are prepared by the Police Chief and do not clearly identify all officers and the number of hours worked by each officer. The Police Chief was paid for hours worked by other officers.

2. Water, Sewer, and Trash Service (pages 12-16)

The city should obtain legal guidance regarding establishing the city trash fee without voter approval. The city should identify all costs of trash collection services and set the trash fee no higher than to cover the cost of the service. The city collects penalties on delinquent trash fees which do not agree to its ordinance, and some trash fees were waived without ordinances or rules to authorize the waivers. Water, sewer, and trash billings are not reconciled to payments received and amounts remaining unpaid, and the dates of amounts collected are not always recorded on the billing records. The city does not reconcile gallons of water pumped to gallons billed to customers or compare these amounts to the gallons of water purchased. The city does not maintain an accurate listing of water meter deposit balances and interest earned on the water meter deposit account.

3. Budgets and Financial Reporting (pages 16-18)

Improvements are needed in the city's budgeting documents and procedures. The city's published financial statements are not sufficiently detailed and do not reflect some financial activity and indebtedness of the city. The 1998 annual financial report submitted to the State Auditor's office is inaccurate and incomplete. The city has not obtained annual audits of its water and sewer system as required by state law and the city's bond covenant.

4. Accounting Controls and Procedures (pages 18-19)

A separate individual has not been appointed to serve as City Treasurer and there is no independent review or supervision of the work performed by the City Clerk. Deposits are not made on a timely basis and board minutes do not identify the disbursements approved by the board.

5. Restricted Revenues (pages 19-20)

The city has not established separate accounting records for state motor vehicle-related receipts, county road sales tax receipts, and law enforcement training fees to ensure monies are spent in accordance with the constitution and state law.

6. Ordinances, Payroll Matters, and Contracts (pages 20-21)

The city has not adopted an ordinance establishing the term of office for the City Clerk. The police compensation ordinance does not clearly indicate the compensation rate for each officer. The city does not have a written contract with the law firm that provides city attorney services.

7. Building Conditions (pages 21-22)

The city has not formally identified all dangerous and unsafe structures or enforced a city ordinance to ensure these structures will be repaired or demolished.

1. COPS Grant Records and Procedures

In 1996, the city was awarded a $64,252 COPS Grant to pay salaries and fringe benefits for two part-time police officers over a three-year period. The city is required to provide matching funds totaling $21,418 during the grant period. Our review of the grant records and procedures noted the following concerns:

A. The Police Chief prepares all time records and calculates payroll and fringe benefit amounts. Checks for payroll and fringe benefits are signed by the Police Chief and the Mayor and these disbursements are not reviewed or approved by the Board of Aldermen. Our review of the time and payroll records noted that fringe benefits were not always calculated correctly and the number of hours worked frequently did not agree to the number of hours paid plus compensatory time earned during the month. While the errors and discrepancies noted were not significant, the city should review all records for the grant period and correct the errors noted.

To ensure the propriety of all city expenditures, the Board of Aldermen should review and approve all COPS Grant disbursements prior to payment. In addition, the board should appoint someone independent of the timekeeping function to check the accuracy of the payroll calculations, and the Police Chief should not be responsible for signing checks on the COPS Grant account.

B. The Police Chief prepares time records for all police officers. These time records do not clearly identify each officer that worked for the city and the number of hours worked by each officer. For example, columns on the time records often listed two officer numbers and only one officer's name. Therefore, it was unclear whether one or two officers worked the hours listed in the applicable column.

In addition, while the officers named on the time records were issued payroll checks and their earnings were reported to the IRS on W-2 forms, sometimes the city issued payroll checks and issued W-2 forms to officers that were not identified on the time records.

To adequately account for all payroll expenses, all officers should prepare and sign their own time sheets, and the time sheets should be reviewed and approved by a supervisor. Payroll checks should only be issued upon the preparation and approval of time sheets.

C. The Police Chief indicated he was paid for hours worked by other officers. The Police Chief indicated he used personal funds to pay some officers who needed the money up front, and he obtained reimbursement by claiming compensation from the city for their hours worked. The Police Chief did not and cannot now provide evidence that the other officers were paid from his personal funds. In addition, as indicated above, the officers did not prepare and submit signed time sheets to document their hours worked. As a result, the city has no documentation to ensure the Police Chief was entitled to the additional compensation he claimed or that the amounts he claimed were calculated properly.

In addition, the earnings of officers paid from the Police Chief's personal funds were reported to the IRS on the Police Chief's W-2 form. As result, the Police Chief paid income taxes, Social Security, and Medicare, on the earnings of other officers.

To ensure all payroll disbursements are valid and are properly reported to the IRS, the city should discontinue the practice of paying the Police Chief for hours worked by other officers and issue payroll checks and W-2 forms to each police officer that provides services to the city. The city should request the Police Chief to provide evidence of wages he paid to the other officers and file amended W-2 forms for these amounts.

As a result of the lack of time sheets and the other concerns noted above, we question the federal share of all grant expenditures through July 31, 1999, totaling $58,394. The city should contact the grantor agency to resolve the questioned costs.

WE RECOMMEND the Board of Aldermen resolve the questioned costs with the grantor agency. In addition, the board should:

A. Review and approve all COPS Grant disbursements prior to payment and appoint someone other than the Police Chief to sign the checks. In addition, the board should review all applicable records, correct all errors noted, and appoint someone independent of the timekeeping function to review the accuracy of payroll calculations.

B. Require each officer to prepare and sign their own time sheets and require supervisory approval to be documented on all time sheets. No payroll checks should be issued without the submission of properly approved time sheets.

C. Discontinue the practice of paying the Police Chief for hours worked by other officers, and issue payroll checks and W-2 forms to each police officer that provides services to the city. The city should request the Police Chief to provide evidence of wages he paid to the other officers and file amended W-2 forms for these amounts.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

A. We agree with the recommendation and will implement it as soon as possible.

B. We have already implemented this recommendation.

C. We have discontinued the practice of paying the Police Chief for hours worked by other officers. We will attempt to determine the amounts paid by the Police Chief to the other officers and file amended W-2 forms.

2. Water, Sewer, and Trash Service

The city provides water and sewer services to approximately 160 customers and trash services to approximately 136 customers. Our review of the city's billing and collection records and procedures disclosed the following concerns:

A. The city contracts with a trash hauler to collect trash from the homes in the city. For a number of years, the trash hauler billed city residents directly for trash service. In October 1997, the city began billing each resident seven dollars per month for the cost of the service. The fees charged to residents were established without a public vote, and some residents who apparently do not use the service have been billed for trash fees.

Article X, Section 22(a) of the Missouri Constitution, commonly known as the Hancock Amendment, prohibits political subdivisions from increasing existing taxes, licenses, or fees above levels authorized at the time of passage of the Hancock Amendment without voter approval. However, Section 67.042, RSMo 1994, allows political subdivisions to adjust existing fees and licenses to maintain funding of services provided at the time of passage of the Hancock Amendment. The Missouri Supreme Court, in its decision in Beatty v. Metropolitan St. Louis Sewer District, 867 S.W. 2d 217 (Mo. banc 1993) applied a five-pronged analysis to determine whether a governmental charge was a tax, thus requiring a public vote, or user fee which could be revised without a vote. This court case also indicated that if the analysis did not clearly indicate the charge is a user fee, the issue should be put to a vote.

Because this matter has been a concern of some citizens, the city should request that its attorney review this fee to determine whether it is or can be structured as a user fee, or whether the fee and any fee increases should be put to a public vote. If this matter is not resolved by clear legal authority or an election, the city might need to consider ending this municipal service and require the city's residents to contract privately for trash hauling.

B. The city charges its residents a monthly fee of seven dollars for trash service and pays the trash hauler six dollars per customer per month. Trash fees are deposited in the General Fund and disbursements are made monthly from the General Fund for trash hauling services. During the year ended December 31, 1998, the city collected $10,694 in trash fees and paid $3,084 for trash hauling services. The city has not been billed by its former trash hauler for trash services provided from September 1997 through June 1998, but the city expects to be billed for these services in the future. It appears the 1998 share of these costs is approximately $5,400. The city has not identified any other costs, such as administrative costs, related to trash service.

Ordinance 252 indicates all trash fee payments received by the city shall be used to defray the expenses of collection of solid waste. The administrative costs of providing trash collection services should be calculated and documented. If the current revenues generated exceed the estimated costs incurred in providing trash collection services, consideration should be given to reducing the fee accordingly.

C. Trash fees are billed and collected with water and sewer fees. All three fees are deposited in the consolidated waterworks and sewage system (CW & SS) account. The trash fees are subsequently transferred to the general account and recorded as receipts of the General Fund.

Ordinance 208 authorizes the city to collect a late payment penalty of ten percent on delinquent water and sewer fees. However, Ordinance 252, which established trash fees, does not authorize the city to collect a late payment penalty on trash fees, unless a person is convicted of violating the ordinance. The billings prepared by the city included a penalty calculation of ten percent on all delinquent fees, including the trash fee. The penalties collected on trash fees were recorded in the CW & SS Fund as water and sewer fees and remain in the CW & SS account.

The city should comply with its ordinance and discontinue the practice of collecting penalties on delinquent trash fees or enact an ordinance which establishes a penalty on delinquent trash fees.

D. The city waived trash fees for some residents and commercial establishments without adopting ordinances or rules to authorize the waivers. The city waived trash fees for commercial establishments that do not generate waste or that generate waste the trash hauler cannot collect, commercial establishments billed directly by the trash hauler, and dwelling units owned by individuals that have dumpsters at their commercial establishments.

Ordinance 252 indicates trash fees are to be imposed on each occupied dwelling unit and each occupied commercial establishment not utilizing a dumpster. The ordinance authorizes the city to promulgate reasonable and necessary rules and regulations for the billing and collection of trash fees and requires the City Clerk to maintain copies of any rules and regulations promulgated under the ordinance. There were no rules or ordinances on file to authorize the waivers discussed above.

To ensure compliance with Ordinance 252, the city should adopt ordinances or rules authorizing the waivers on trash fees and file them with the City Clerk.

E. The city does not perform monthly reconciliations of total charges, payments received, and amounts remaining unpaid for water, sewer, and trash services.

Monthly reconciliations are necessary to ensure that all accounting records balance, transactions have been properly recorded, and any errors or discrepancies are detected on a timely basis. Complete documentation of the reconciliations should be retained to support conclusions and any corrections made and to facilitate independent reviews.

F. The City Clerk's billing records do not always indicate which water, sewer, and trash bills have been collected. In March 1999, the City Clerk began recording the receipt date for each bill on billing summary reports; however, the receipt date was not recorded for some bills collected and deposited by the City Clerk. In addition, the city has an agreement with its depository bank in which customers can pay their bills directly to the bank; however, the City Clerk does not record the receipt dates for bills collected by the bank.

To facilitate the preparation of the reconciliations discussed in E. above, the City Clerk should record the receipt date for each water, sewer, and trash bill on the monthly billing summary report.

G. The city purchases its water supply from Sullivan County Public Water Supply District Number 1. The city does not compare or reconcile gallons of water purchased to gallons of water pumped from the city's water tower. In addition, the city does not reconcile gallons of water pumped to gallons of water billed to customers.

To help detect any significant water loss on a timely basis and to help ensure all water usage is properly billed, the city should reconcile gallons of water pumped to gallons of water billed to customers on a monthly basis and compare these amounts to gallons of water purchased. Significant differences should be investigated.

H. The city prepares a list of water meter deposits received from and refunded to customers; however, the list is not totaled and reconciled to the meter deposit bank account, and it appears the city has not properly recorded amounts transferred from the meter deposit bank account to the water and sewer bank account. For example, for several customers who posted a $100 deposit, the city only recorded the amount refunded to the customer and not the amount transferred from the meter deposit bank account to the water and sewer bank account to cover the customer's final water bill. As a result, the balance in the meter deposit bank account was approximately $2,300 less than the net deposits recorded on the city's list at July 31, 1999. In addition, the city does not keep track of the interest earned on the bank account (about $200-250 per year), which would cause additional differences between the recorded meter deposits and the bank balance.

The city should ensure its meter deposit records are complete and accurate by ensuring all deposits, refunds, and transfers are recorded, and also keep track of interest earnings.

The total of net deposits and interest earnings should be reconciled to the bank balance and differences should be investigated and resolved.

WE RECOMMEND the Board of Aldermen:

A. Seek legal guidance from the City Attorney and determine whether the trash fee is or can be structured as a user fee, or if it should be put to public vote.

B. If the trash fee is determined to be a user fee, identify all costs (including administrative costs) of trash collection services and set the trash fee no higher than to cover the cost of the service.

C. Discontinue the practice of collecting penalties on delinquent trash fees, or enact an ordinance which establishes such a penalty.

D. Adopt ordinances or rules authorizing the waivers of trash fees and file them with the City Clerk.

E. Perform monthly reconciliations of the amounts charged to amounts collected and delinquent accounts.

F. Require the City Clerk to record the receipt date for each water, sewer, and trash bill on the monthly billing summary report.

G. Reconcile gallons of water pumped to gallons billed to customers on a monthly basis and compare these amounts to gallons of water purchased. Any significant differences should be documented and investigated.

H. Maintain a complete listing of meter deposits, refunds, transfers to the water and sewer account, and interest earned on the meter deposit account. The listing should be reconciled to the balance of the meter deposit account and differences should be investigated and resolved.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

A. Both the current and former city attorneys have reviewed this matter and both determined that the fee does not require a public vote. We will request the current city attorney to provide a written opinion on this issue.

B. We will try to determine the administrative costs and compare the fees collected to the total costs of providing trash service.

C. We have opened a separate bank account for trash fees and have amended Ordinance 252 to impose a late payment penalty.

D. We have amended Ordinance 252 to establish a list of trash fee waivers.

E. The City Clerk is now preparing and documenting monthly reconciliations.

F. We have already implemented this recommendation.

G. We will implement this recommendation.

H. We are in the process of implementing this recommendation.

3. Budgets and Financial Reporting

A. The city's budgets did not comply with state law or were otherwise insufficient as follows:

1. Although the board minutes make general references that the annual budgets and budget amendments were adopted, the budgets are not adopted by order, motion, resolution, or ordinance, are not retained with the official minutes, and are not signed by the board to denote approval. In addition, the reasons for budget amendments are not documented in the minutes.

   Sections 67.030 and 67.040, RSMo 1994, require budgets and budget amendments to be adopted by order, motion, resolution, or ordinance and reasons for amendments to be documented in a resolution. In addition, budgets and budget amendments should be signed or initialed by the board and retained with the official minutes to adequately document the board's approval.

   In addition, budgets were not adopted prior to the beginning of each fiscal year. The budget for the year ended December 31, 1999 was adopted February 1, 1999, and the budget for the year ended December 31, 1998 was adopted February 2, 1998. Section 67.030, RSMo 1994, requires the board to adopt and approve budgets prior to the beginning of the applicable fiscal year.

2. The budgets did not include some funds. The Police Vehicle Grant Fund, the Police Department COPS Grant Fund, and the Community Development Block Grant Fund were not included in the budgets. Section 67.010, RSMo 1994, indicates the annual budget shall present a complete financial plan for the city.

3. The budgets did not reflect projected ending fund balances and did not include budget messages or general budget summaries describing the important features of the budget and major changes from the preceding years. In addition, the budgets did not include actual receipts and disbursements from the two previous years.

Section 67.010, RSMo 1994, sets specific guidelines for the format of the annual operating budget. A complete and well-planned budget, in addition to meeting statutory requirements, can serve as a useful management tool by establishing specific cost and revenue expectations for each area of city operations. A complete budget should include appropriate revenue and expenditures estimations by classification, and include reasonable estimates of the ending available resources of all funds. The budget should also include a budget message and comparisons of actual revenues and expenditures for the two preceding years.

B. The city's semi-annual financial statements published for the six months ending June 30, 1998, and December 31, 1998, did not include the Police Vehicle Grant Fund, the Police Department COPS Grant Fund, and the Community Development Block Grant Fund, and did not include $83,167 the city owed on revenue bonds for the combined waterworks and sewage system. In addition, the financial statements only presented the beginning cash balance, total receipts, total disbursements, and ending cash balance of each fund presented. The various revenue sources and disbursement categories were not shown.

Section 79.160, RSMo 1994, requires the board of aldermen to prepare and publish semi-annually, a full and detailed account of the receipts, disbursements, and indebtedness of the city. Complete financial statements are necessary to keep the citizens informed of the financial activity and condition of the city.

C. The 1998 annual financial report submitted by the city to the State Auditor's office as required by Section 105.145, RSMo 1994, was inaccurate and incomplete. The report did not include the financial activity and balances of the Police Vehicle Grant Fund, the Police Department COPS Grant Fund, and the Community Development Block Grant Fund. Some receipt and disbursement classifications were omitted from the report and classification totals were not indicated for some funds. In addition, the beginning cash balances plus receipts, less disbursements did not agree to the ending cash balance for two funds and the report did not document the city's bonded indebtedness.

The board should ensure the annual financial reports required pursuant to Section 105.145, RSMo 1994, accurately and completely reflect the financial activity and balances of the various city funds, and the city's bonded indebtedness.

D. The city has not obtained annual audits of the combined waterworks and sewage system. Section 250.150, RSMo 1994, requires the city to obtain annual audits of the combined waterworks and sewage system, and the cost of the audits is to be paid from the revenues received from the system. In addition, annual audits are required by the city's combined waterworks and sewage system bond covenant.

In addition to being required by state law and the city's bond covenant, annual audits of city funds would help ensure city financial transactions have been properly recorded.

WE RECOMMEND the Board of Aldermen:

A. Formally adopt the annual budgets prior to the beginning of the fiscal year for all city funds and ensure reasons for budget amendments are documented in a resolution. In addition, the board should ensure annual budgets include all relevant information required by state law, and sign or initial budgets and budget amendments and retain them with the official minutes.

B. Publish complete, detailed semi-annual financial statements of all of the financial activity and indebtedness of the city.

C. Ensure the annual financial reports prepared and submitted to the State Auditor's office accurately and completely reflect the financial activity and balances of the various city funds and the bonded indebtedness.

D. Obtain annual audits of the combined waterworks and sewage system as required by state law and the city's bond covenant.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

We plan to implement these recommendations.

4. Accounting Controls and Procedures

A. The Board of Aldermen has not appointed a separate individual to serve as City Treasurer. The City Clerk also serves as the City Treasurer, and with the exception of the functions related to the collection of property taxes, Police Department COPS Grant functions, and Community Development Block Grant functions, this individual is responsible for most of the record keeping duties of the city. These duties include receiving and depositing monies, handling the utility billings and collections, preparing invoices for payment, preparing and co-signing checks, performing bank reconciliations, and preparing financial reports. Neither the board nor other personnel independent of the cash custody and record keeping functions provide adequate supervision or an independent review of the work performed by the City Clerk.

Attorney General's Opinion No. 24, 1955 to Dodds, concluded that in a fourth-class city the holding of the positions of City Clerk, City Treasurer, and City Collector, or any two of these three offices, by the same person at the same time would be incompatible. This situation does not allow the segregation of duties necessary for a proper evaluation and review of financial transactions. The current procedures jeopardize the system of independent checks and balances intended by state law.

B. Deposits are not made on a timely basis, with deposits being made only approximately once a week. To adequately safeguard cash receipts and reduce the risk of loss or misuse of funds, deposits should be made daily or when accumulated receipts exceed $100.

C. Although there is an occasional reference to a specific invoice being approved for payment, the board minutes usually only make general reference that invoices are approved for payment. In addition, a supplementary listing of all disbursements is not prepared to accompany the minutes and document the invoices approved.

To adequately document the board's review and approval of all disbursements, a complete and detailed listing of bills should be prepared, signed or initialed by the aldermen to denote their approval, and retained with the official minutes.

WE RECOMMEND the Board of Aldermen:

A. Consider appointing separate individuals to the positions of City Clerk and City Treasurer. If this is not possible, at a minimum, procedures for an adequate independent review of the record keeping functions should be established.

B. Ensure deposits are made on a daily basis or when accumulated receipts exceed $100.

C. Document approval of all disbursements by including a listing of all approved disbursements in the board minutes.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

A. We contacted the Missouri Municipal League and were told that appointing the same individual as City Clerk and City Treasurer was a common and acceptable practice. Instead of appointing separate individuals, we will attempt to establish independent reviews of the City Clerk's work.

B&C. We have already implemented these recommendations.

5. Restricted Revenues

A. During the year ended December 31, 1998, the city deposited $13,164 of state motor vehicle-related receipts and $3,813 of county road sales tax receipts into the General Fund. During 1998, the city spent $2,035 on street repairs and $13,452 for police department expenses. The city has not established a separate accounting for these receipts and related disbursements. Article IV, Section 30, of the Missouri Constitution, requires that motor vehicle-related receipts apportioned by the state of Missouri be used for street-related purposes, including policing, signing, lighting, and cleaning of roads and streets. The county sales tax monies were approved by county voters for road and bridge capital improvements.

To ensure compliance with the Missouri Constitution, the city should maintain separate funds or separate accountings of motor vehicle-related receipts and county sales tax receipts and ensure these receipts are used only for the purposes allowed by the constitution and the county sales tax ballot. The unspent balance of these receipts should be accounted for separately along with future receipts.

B. Law enforcement training fees are not accounted for separately or maintained in a separate fund. During the year ended December 31, 1998, the city received approximately $256 in training fees and did not incur any training-related expenditures. Section 590.140, RSMo Cumulative Supp. 1998, requires law enforcement training fees to be used only for the training of law enforcement officers. The city should determine law enforcement training fees collected and transfer the fees to a separate fund or maintain a separate accounting of the funds to ensure the fees are used in accordance with state law.

WE RECOMMEND the Board of Aldermen establish separate funds or separate accountings of state motor vehicle-related receipts, county sales tax receipts, and law enforcement training fees to ensure compliance with the Missouri Constitution and state law.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

We will implement this recommendation.

6. Ordinances, Payroll Matters, and Contracts

A. The city has not adopted an ordinance establishing the term of office for the City Clerk as required by Section 79.320, RSMo 1994. To ensure compliance with state law and to avoid misunderstandings, the board should adopt an ordinance which specifies the term of office of the City Clerk.

B. The police compensation ordinance does not clearly indicate the compensation rate for each officer. Ordinance 236 indicates compensation is the same rate of pay provided in the COPS grant, but the COPS grant agreement does not specify an hourly rate for each officer. The Police Chief apparently determined the pay rate for himself and each officer. The hourly rates paid were normally from $10 to $12.50; however, one officer was paid $8 per hour during one month and the Police Chief was paid $20 per hour during one month.

To avoid misunderstandings, the board should adopt an ordinance which clearly indicates the rate of compensation paid to each police officer.

C. By ordinance, the city has appointed a law firm in the area to provide city attorney services. One attorney in the firm acts as the City Attorney. The ordinance does not indicate the rate of compensation and the city has not entered into a written contract with this firm.

Section 432.070, RSMo 1994, requires contracts of political subdivisions be in writing. The city should enter into written contracts for services rendered or obtained. A written contract, signed by the parties involved, should specify the services to be rendered and the manner and amount of compensation to be paid. Written contracts are necessary to ensure all parties are aware of their duties and responsibilities and to provide protection to both parties.

WE RECOMMEND the Board of Aldermen:

A. Adopt an ordinance to establish the term of office of the City Clerk, in accordance with state law.

B. Adopt an ordinance that clearly indicates the rate of compensation paid to each police officer.

C. Enter into a written contract with the City Attorney's law firm for legal services.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

A. We will specify the term of office for the City Clerk.

B. We will implement this recommendation.

C. This recommendation has already been implemented.

7. Building Conditions

The city has not adopted formal plans to address citizens' concerns regarding building conditions. The city purchased two properties containing dangerous and unsafe buildings and paid to have the buildings demolished and removed. However, the city has not formally identified all remaining dangerous and unsafe buildings or developed formal plans to ensure the buildings are repaired or demolished. The city unsuccessfully attempted to negotiate the purchase of two other properties that contained dangerous and unsafe buildings.

Ordinance 186 defines dangerous and unsafe structures, outlines the city's standards and procedures for ordering repair, vacation, or demolition of any dangerous and unsafe structure, and outlines procedures for notifying structure owners, occupants, and possessors. The ordinance indicates that if compliance with the order is not achieved within thirty days of such order, the Board of Aldermen may cause such structures to be repaired, vacated, or demolished and removed, and add the cost to the tax bill of the property as a special assessment and a lien against the property. The ordinance also indicates any owner, occupant, or possessor of a dangerous or unsafe structure that fails to comply with the ordinance may be fined up to $500 for each day of noncompliance. The city has sent notices to some building owners that have not complied with the orders, but the city has not pursued fines or performed the necessary work and added the cost to the tax bill of the property.

To preserve the health and safety of city residents, the city should formally identify all dangerous and unsafe structures within the city and enforce Ordinance 186 to ensure the structures will be repaired or demolished.

WE RECOMMEND the Board of Aldermen formally identify all dangerous and unsafe structures within the city and enforce Ordinance 186 to ensure the structures will be repaired or demolished.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

We agree that the unsafe buildings need to be demolished. We have tried to purchase some of these buildings in an attempt to demolish them. We will continue to work with the building owners to address the citizens' concerns.

This report is intended for the information of the city's management and other applicable government officials. However, this report is a matter of public record and its distribution is not limited.

AUDIT REPORT

COUNTY EMPLOYEES' RETIREMENT FUND

TWO YEARS ENDED DECEMBER 31, 1998

From The Office Of State Auditor
Claire McCaskill

Report No. 99-116
December 7, 1999

Office Of The
State Auditor Of Missouri
Claire McCaskill

December 1999

YELLOW SHEET

The following audit found the County Employee's Retirement Fund (CERF) Board of Directors did not solicit requests for proposals for an actuarial consulting service and plan design contract, nor for a legislative consulting contract.

The actuarial consulting service and plan design contract, dated October 30, 1998, indicated the consultant will charge a fixed fee not to exceed $200,000. In addition, the CERF Board of Directors is currently negotiating a contract for additional services with the same consultant estimated to cost up to $750,000.

The legislative consulting contract, dated December 18, 1998, indicated the consultant will charge an annual fee of $30,000 plus reimbursement for reasonable and necessary expenses.

Without requesting proposals for such services, the CERF Board of Directors has not ensured it will receive these services at a fair price.

We recommend the CERF Board of Directors request proposals for all professional services. Requests for Proposals (RFP's) ensure the board is making every attempt to secure the best services available for a competitive price. Competitive bidding is a standard management practice understood by contractors and should be implemented.

CLAIRE C. McCASKILL
Missouri State Auditor

Honorable Mel Carnahan, Governor
and Board of Directors
and
Sarah J. Maxwell, Executive Director
County Employees' Retirement Fund
Jefferson City, Missouri 65102

The State Auditor is required by Section 50.1030.5, RSMo 1994, to audit the County Employees' Retirement Fund and the operations of the board. The Board of Directors engaged Evers and Company, Certified Public Accountants (CPAs), L.L.C., to perform annual audits of the fund's financial statements for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997. To satisfy our statutory obligation and minimize duplication of efforts, the State Auditor has used the work of the CPAs. We reviewed the reports and substantiating workpapers of the CPAs to satisfy ourselves as to the appropriateness of using their reports, and we accept them in partial fulfillment of our responsibility under Section 50.1030.5, RSMo 1994.

The objectives of our review were to:

1. Review certain financial activity and related procedures, and examine compliance with certain constitutional provisions, statutes, administrative rules, and attorney general's opinions, as we deemed necessary or appropriate in the circumstances.

2. Examine certain management practices.

Our review was made in accordance with applicable generally accepted government auditing standards and included such procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances. In this regard, we reviewed the fund's board minutes, various contracts, and other pertinent policies, and discussed various fund procedures with applicable personnel.

As part of our review, we assessed the fund's management controls to the extent we determined necessary to evaluate the specific matters described above and not to provide assurance on those controls. With respect to management controls, we obtained an understanding of the design of relevant policies and procedures and whether they have been placed in operation.

Our review was limited to the specific matters described above and was based on selective tests and procedures considered appropriate in the circumstances. Had we performed additional procedures, other information might have come to our attention which would have been included in this report.

The accompanying History, Organization, and Statistical Information is presented for informational purposes. This background information was obtained from the fund's management and was not subjected to the procedures applied in our review of the County Employees' Retirement Fund.

Our comments on internal controls, compliance with legal requirements, management practices, and related areas are presented in the accompanying Management Advisory Report.

MANAGEMENT ADVISORY REPORT SECTION

Management Advisory Report -
State Auditor's Recommendations

In addition to our review of the reports and substantiating working papers of Evers and Company CPA's, L.L.C., we included those procedures which we considered necessary in the circumstances.
We reviewed probable compliance with certain constitutional provisions, statutes, administrative rules, and attorney general's opinions as we deemed necessary or appropriate. This review was not intended to provide assurance of full compliance with all regulatory provisions, and thus, did not include all regulatory provisions which may apply. Nevertheless, our review disclosed no conditions that represent significant violations.

During our review, we identified a certain management practice which we believe could be improved. Our review was not designed or intended to be a detailed study of every system, procedure, and transaction. Accordingly, the finding presented in our report should not be considered as all-inclusive of areas where improvements may be needed.

The period of review for the purposes stated above included, but was not necessarily limited to, the two years ended December 31, 1998.

Professional Services Contracts

The County Employees' Retirement Fund (CERF) Board of Directors did not solicit requests for proposals for an actuarial consulting service and plan design contract or a legislative consulting contract. The actuarial consulting service and plan design contract, dated October 30, 1998, indicated the consultant will charge a fixed fee not to exceed $200,000. In addition, the CERF Board of Directors is currently negotiating a contract for additional services with the same consultant estimated to cost up to $750,000. The legislative consulting contract, dated December 18, 1998, indicated the consultant will charge an annual fee of $30,000 plus reimbursement for reasonable and necessary expenses. Without requesting proposals for such services, the CERF Board of Directors has not ensured it will receive these services at a fair price.

WE RECOMMEND the CERF Board of Directors request proposals for all professional services.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The Board of the County Employees' Retirement Fund has sought advice from its legal counsel on several occasions as to whether it was required to solicit requests for proposals for professional services. Based on oral and written advice from its legal counsel, the board did not seek requests for proposals for its most recent actuarial and plan design services and its legislative consulting services. The board notes that there is no legal or statutory requirement that it seek bids for these professional services.

In the circumstances noted, the board determined that there were compelling reasons to contract for services without a request for proposal process. However, the board recognizes the value of conducting a bid or review process and will make a concerted effort to do so in the future as circumstances allow.

This report is intended for the information of the fund's management and other applicable government officials. However, this report is a matter of public record and its distribution is not limited.

History, Organization, and Statistical Information

COUNTY EMPLOYEES' RETIREMENT FUND
HISTORY, ORGANIZATION, AND STATISTICAL INFORMATION

The County Employees' Retirement Fund (CERF) was created under an act of the 87th General Assembly, commenced operation on August 24, 1994, and is governed by Sections 50.1000 to 50.1200 of the Revised Statutes of Missouri. The CERF is a defined benefit plan providing retirement and death benefits to its members. The CERF is an agent multiple-employer, statewide public employee retirement plan for certain employees in each county of the state, except for any city not within a county and any county of the first classification having a charter form of government.

The responsibility for the operation and administration of the retirement fund is vested in the CERF Board of Directors, consisting of nine elected CERF members representing different, elective county offices. Board members are elected by the general membership of the Fund. As of December 31, 1998, the members of the Board of Directors were:

Name	Position	Term Expires
Kay Murray	Chairperson	December 31, 2001
Dick Jones	Vice Chairperson	December 31, 1999
Rosemary Gannaway*	Member	December 31, 2000
Elaine Luck	Member	December 31, 1998
Wayne Scharnhorst	Member	December 31, 2001
Fred Ward	Member	December 31, 2001
Bettie Johnson	Member	December 31, 1998
Jerry Reynolds	Member	December 31, 2000
Frank Sifford	Member	December 31, 1998

* Elected to complete the unexpired term of Sue Barr, effective January 1999.
 These members were elected to new four year terms expiring December 31, 2002.

Effective August 28, 1999, two additional directors who have "no beneficiary interest" in the fund will be appointed by the Governor with the advice and consent of the Senate. All members serve four year terms.

Sarah J. Maxwell has served as Executive Director since her appointment on February 26, 1998. The Executive Director coordinates the daily operations of the retirement fund and with the approval of the board, contracts for professional services needed to operate the system. Effective July 1, 1999, the board approved a plan to hire employees and begin performing some of the fund's administrative duties in-house.

The Board of Directors has appointed AON Consulting, of Atlanta, Georgia as actuarial and plan design consultants. As of December 31, 1998, the following investment managers held investments for the CERF: Boone County National Bank of Columbia, Missouri; Roxbury Capital Management of Santa Monica, California; and Brandes Investment Partners, L.L.P. of San Diego, California. Boone County National Bank also serves as the fund's plan administrator and investment custodian manager. Asset Consulting Group, Inc. of St. Louis, Missouri serves as the fund's investment consultant. Brydon, Swearengen, and England P.C. of Jefferson City, Missouri serves as the fund's legal counsel. Madsen-Wright, Inc. of Jefferson City, Missouri serves as the fund's legislative consultant. Evers and Company, CPAs, L.L.C. of Jefferson City, Missouri serves as the fund's independent auditor.

As of December 31, 1998, there were 111 contributing employers to the fund which includes 8,733 active members, 551 terminated vested members, and 702 retired members and beneficiaries.

As of December 31, 1998, membership, required contributions, and benefits provided under the CERF are generally as follows:

Eligibility

Membership is provided for any county elective or appointive officer or employee who is hired and fired by the county and whose work and responsibilities are directed and controlled by the county and who is compensated directly from county funds whose position requires the actual performance of duties during not less than one thousand (1,000) hours per calendar year, except for any city not within a county and any county of the first classification having a charter form of government. Individuals who are specifically excluded from CERF include county prosecuting attorneys covered under the Prosecuting Attorneys and Circuit Attorneys Retirement System, circuit clerks and deputy circuit clerks covered under the Missouri State Employees Retirement System, and county sheriffs covered under the Sheriff's Retirement System.

County Contributions

Funding is provided in accordance with Section 50.1020, RSMo Cum Supp. 1998. In all counties except counties of the first class having a charter form of government and any city not within a county, the retirement fund will receive a portion of delinquent property tax penalties, late assessment penalties, a portion of recording document fees, a portion of merchants licenses, and any interest derived from the collection and investment of any part of the penalties and fees.

Employee Contributions

In all counties except counties of the first class having a charter form of government and any city not within a county, the retirement fund will receive a 2 percent payroll deduction from the compensation of all covered county employees who are not members of the Local Government Employees' Retirement System (LAGERS). Employees who qualify for membership in LAGERS are not subject to any payroll deductions in connection with their membership in the CERF.

Fund Retirement Benefits

Fund retirement benefits are payable to members who have terminated covered employment and who have met certain eligibility requirements.

NORMAL RETIREMENT

A member may retire under the standard formula with full benefits at age sixty-two with eight or more years of creditable service. There is no early retirement option.

Fund retirement benefits for members not belonging to LAGERS are 1.5 percent of Average Final Compensation (AFC), times years of creditable service, to a maximum of 50 percent of AFC. Fund retirement benefits for LAGERS members are 1 percent of AFC, times years of creditable service. AFC is the average for the highest two years of compensation.

PAYMENT OPTIONS

A retiring member may elect to receive a life income annuity and receive full benefit with no survivor option, or married members may elect one of the three (50 percent, 75 percent, or 100 percent) joint-and-survivor options to provide survivor benefit coverage in varying degrees after the retiree's death. Under the joint-and-survivor options, the member would receive a lesser monthly payment (with members electing the 100 percent option receiving less than members electing 75 percent and members electing 75 percent receiving less than members electing 50 percent) during his or her lifetime than if they choose the single life annuity. However, after the retiree's death, the surviving spouse will continue to receive a benefit for their lifetime in the amount of the percentage elected by the member times the monthly payment the retiree received. All benefit payments terminate upon the death of the surviving spouse.

Cost-of-Living Adjustments

All retired members are eligible for an annual post-retirement cost-of-living adjustment (COLA) provided they are presently drawing a retirement benefit and have not waived their right to receive the COLA increase. The adjustment, approved annually by the Board of Directors, may increase retirement benefits by up to two percent per year, based on the increase in the Consumer Price Index and subject to a maximum lifetime increase of fifty percent of the initial benefit.

Opt Out Provision

Any county employee may elect in writing to opt out of the retirement system.

Termination of Employment

Members who terminate membership, other than by death, prior to attaining eight years of membership service will receive a refund of payroll contributions, unless the member elects upon termination to purchase prior service which, when combined with membership service, would total eight years or more. Members who terminate membership, other than by death, after attaining eight years of membership service shall not receive a refund of payroll contributions upon termination, but shall be vested in the system.

Death Benefit

Active members are eligible to receive a $10,000 death benefit if they are actively employed by the county or on recognized medical leave. The benefit will be paid to beneficiaries named by the member or to default beneficiaries if none are named.

Survivor's Benefits

If a member is fully vested, dies prior to retirement, and has made an election to purchase prior service, the surviving spouse, if married for at least two years prior to the member's death, may apply to receive a fifty percent joint and survivor annuity commencing the first day of the month following the member's death if the member was sixty-two or older or beginning the first day of the month following the date the member would have attained age sixty-two had the member lived. Alternatively, if the member was not age sixty-two or older at the time of death, the surviving spouse may elect to receive a benefit which is the actuarial equivalent of the fifty percent joint and survivor annuity, reduced for early commencement, beginning on the first day of the month following the date of the member's death.

Special Consultants

A person who was a full-time employee and ended county employment between January 1, 1990, and August 27, 1994, and had eight or more years in which they completed not less than one thousand hours of service, may apply for a retirement benefit from CERF as a special consultant. Special consultants may draw an annuity based on one percent (LAGERS) or one and one-half percent (Non-LAGERS) of their average final compensation times years of creditable service. A buyback of two or three percent of their average final compensation times the number of years purchased, accordingly, must be completed in order to draw an annuity. Special Consultants must make at least a fifty percent lump sum purchase of their prior service prior to receiving a benefit, with the option of paying the other fifty percent in full at the time they begin drawing an annuity or through monthly deductions from the benefit not to exceed four years.

Purchase of Prior Service

Service prior to August 28, 1994, may be purchased to apply toward a retirement benefit. Any member with less than eight years of membership service must make a purchase of prior service in order to draw an annuity.

Senate Bill No. 467

Senate Bill No. 467, effective January 1, 2000, makes various changes to the CERF. Major changes resulting from enactment of Senate Bill No. 467 include:

OPT OUT PROVISION

County employees who are members on January 1, 2000 and county employees who are hired after January 1, 2000 shall no longer be permitted to opt out of the retirement system.

FUND RETIREMENT BENEFITS

The normal annuity of a retired member who is not a member of LAGERS shall be a monthly benefit equal to the greater of twenty-four dollars multiplied by years of creditable service (up to a maximum of twenty-five years), or an amount determined according to a new formula taking into account the member's monthly primary Social Security benefit.

A member who terminates with at least eight years of creditable service may elect to receive a normal annuity from the fund after reaching age fifty-five. However, the normal annuity shall be reduced by four-tenths of one percent for each month the commencement date of the annuity precedes age sixty-two, and an additional three-tenths of one percent for each month the commencement date of the annuity precedes age sixty.

DEFINED CONTRIBUTION PROGRAM

Effective with calendar years ending after January 1, 2000, the board shall, if actuarially feasible, make contributions to defined contribution accounts established on behalf of members of the retirement system. The board's contribution shall be made from certain revenue sources only if it is determined that the entire amount of such revenues need not be contributed to the defined benefit retirement system in order to keep such retirement system actuarially sound.

Employees who are not a members of LAGERS shall make contributions of seven-tenths of one percent of their compensation to defined contribution accounts established on each employee's behalf.

Members are eligible to receive a distribution from their defined contribution account as soon as administratively feasible following termination of employment, or may choose to receive the account balance at a later time. The account balance shall be paid in a single sum.

AUDIT REPORT

REVIEW OF THE

KANSAS CITY

BOARD OF POLICE COMMISSIONERS

From The Office Of State Auditor
Claire McCaskill

Report No. 99-115
December 6, 1999

Office Of The
State Auditor Of Missouri
Claire McCaskill

December 1999

YELLOW SHEET

The following problems were discovered as a result of our office's most recent audit of the Kansas City Board of Police Commissioners. Earlier this year, the Kansas City Police Department (KCPD) requested the State Auditor's Office audit its Forfeiture Fund; the department's Forfeiture Fund audit was included in our statewide report on forfeited property (Report No. 99-97).

The following audit was conducted along with that request.

The KCPD Personnel Policy No. 450 provides that retiring employees will be compensated for any accumulated unused sick leave. It would appear this policy is intended to reduce the amount of sick leave used by department personnel.

This policy may be excessive compared to buyout plans of other law enforcement agencies, and appears to be a drain on departmental resources. In addition, this policy may not be a cost-effective means of reducing sick leave. Sick leave buyout payments for the two years ended April 30, 1999 totaled $3.9 million.

Based on the significant costs of the sick leave buyout program and the comparison of the KCPD's policy with other similar departments, the State Auditor recommended the KCPD reevaluate its policies and consider limiting the amounts paid to individuals under this program. It appears there are various alternatives to the present policy that would allow the department to continue to provide a benefit to employees at a lesser cost. These alternatives could include, but not be limited to, maximum levels of payout phased in over a period of time, reductions in the payout ratios, or possible conversion to a retirement enhancement device whereby unused sick leave is converted to additional months of service used in the calculation of retirement benefits.

During the two years ended April 30, 1999, the KCPD expended approximately $2.5 million on new vehicles. The department purchased 94 new marked and unmarked cars, 10 motorcycles, 10 bicycles, and 20 other vehicles, which included a command post bus costing approximately $300,000. The fleet operation unit, which is part of the Executive Services Bureau, is responsible for maintaining the department's fleet of approximately 750 marked and unmarked police cars, motorcycles, and other vehicles. The unit provides routine preventive maintenance, repairs, and body work for the department's vehicles.

The State Auditor's review of fleet operations noted that the department has not adopted a vehicle replacement plan which sets guidelines for the retirement of police vehicles. Vehicles are funded through the annual budget process, so replacement requests compete with other spending priorities. For the past several years, fleet operations has received an appropriation from the city of approximately $500,000 to purchase new vehicles. Additional, or alternative, funding for vehicle purchases of approximately $400,000 may also come from special revenue or grant funds. However, department personnel indicated that the alternative funding sources are not stable and cannot be relied on for vehicle replacement.

The auditors determined the average age of the entire department's fleet to be approximately 6.1 years and the average mileage to be approximately 100,000 miles as of February 1999. In addition, the audit noted at least 157 cars in the fleet with in excess of 150,000 miles, and 224 of 750 vehicles were over 7 years old.

Police vehicles are a very important part of officers being able to provide timely assistance to citizens. As a result, the department needs to develop a vehicle replacement plan that will allow for a reduction in the average mileage and age of its fleet. By maintaining a fleet of lower mileage and newer vehicles, the department should reduce vehicle down time and increase department efficiency.

We also reviewed reports of repair costs prepared for December 31, 1997 and 1998, as well as April 30, 1999, and selected several vehicles on a test basis to determine the amount of fleet resources which were being expended on wrecked, higher mileage vehicles. We found in several instances that the amount of resources expended to repair a vehicle did not appear reasonable based on the age and mileage of the vehicle.

The Fleet Operations Unit indicated that in some instances, even though the costs to repair a vehicle are high, the department has no choice but to fix the vehicle because funding is not available to replace them. During our review of these reports, we noted the department spent approximately $10,000 to repair a 1996 Ford Crown Victoria with over 77,000 miles, and approximately $8,000 to repair a 1992 Ford Crown Victoria with over 160,000 miles. It appears the department has repaired vehicles which should have been considered for retirement.

Other findings include:

- Disbursement of funds by the Kansas City Board of Police Commissioners for which no public purpose was documented.

- The Accounting Unit's controls and procedures could be improved. All monies received are not transmitted daily.

- In regard to the Record's Unit, accounting duties are not adequately segregated. Also, the method of payment is not indicated on receipt slips, mail logs are not kept to record each check received by mail, and mail receipts are not processed on a timely basis. Access to collections is not adequately controlled.

- Some fixed assets of the department are not properly numbered, tagged, or otherwise identified, and physical inventory procedures need to be improved.

STATE AUDITOR’S REPORT

CLAIRE C. McCASKILL
Missouri State Auditor

The Board of Police Commissioners of the Kansas City Police Department
Kansas City, Missouri 65106

We have conducted a review of the Kansas City Board of Police Commissioners (KCBPC). The scope of our review included, but was not necessarily limited to, the two fiscal years ended April 30, 1999. The objectives of this review were to:

1. Review certain revenues received and certain expenditures made by the Kansas City Police Department.

2. Review the cash balances and the related individual account balances of the Treasurer's funds.

3. Review certain management practices and financial information for compliance with constitutional provisions, statutes, attorney general's opinions, and board policies as we deemed necessary or appropriate in the circumstances.

4. Follow-up on the status of recommendations made in our previous report.

Our review was made in accordance with applicable generally accepted government auditing standards and included such procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances. The KCBPC had engaged Arthur Andersen LLP, Certified Public Accountants (CPA), to perform audits of the board for the years ended April 30, 1999, and 1998. To minimize any duplication of effort, we reviewed the reports and substantiating workpapers of the CPA firm. We also examined the KCBPC records we deemed necessary; made inquiries of KCBPC employees; and examined other papers and documents as deemed appropriate for the review.

As part of our review, we assessed the KCBPC's management controls to the extent we determined necessary to evaluate the specific matters described above and not to provide assurance on those controls. With respect to management controls, we obtained an understanding of the design of relevant policies and procedures and whether they have been placed in operation and we assessed control risk.

Our review was limited to the specific matters described above and was based on selective tests and procedures considered appropriate in the circumstances. Had we performed additional procedures, other information might have come to our attention that would have been included in this report.

The accompanying History, Organization, and Statistical Information are presented for informational purposes. This information was obtained from the KCBPC's management and was not subjected to the procedures applied in the review of the KCBPC.

The accompanying Management Advisory Report presents our findings and recommendations arising from our review of the KCBPC.

Management Advisory Report -
State Auditor’s Current Recommendations

REVIEW OF THE
KANSAS CITY BOARD OF POLICE COMMISSIONERS
SUMMARY OF FINDINGS

1. Fleet Operations (pages 8-11)

   The department has not developed and implemented a vehicle replacement plan and has not adopted policies and procedures to ensure performance objectives are met. It has expended significant repair dollars on wrecked vehicles that possibly should have been replaced instead of being repaired.

2. Questionable Expenditures and Bidding (pages 11-14)

   The Kansas City Board of Police Commissioners (KCBPC) expended approximately $50,000 on disbursements for which a public purpose was not demonstrated and $7,050 to not-for-profit organizations for annual dinner banquets. The department did not consistently follow its written bid policy. The department made transfers between funds that were not repaid.

3. Sick Leave Buyout (pages 14-16)

   Current Kansas City Police Department (KCPD) policies provide that departmental employees will be compensated for any accumulated unused sick leave upon retirement. Sick leave buyout payments in 1998 and 1999 totaled $3.9 million. This policy appears to be a drain on departmental resources and may be excessive compared to buyout plans of other law enforcement agencies.

4. Records Unit Controls and Procedures (pages 16-18)

   Accounting duties are not adequately segregated. The method of payment is not indicated on receipt slips. Mail logs are not kept to record each check received by mail and the mail receipts are not processed on a timely basis. Access to collections is not adequately controlled.

5. Accounting Unit Controls and Procedures (pages 18-20)

   The accounting unit's controls and procedures could be improved. All monies received are not transmitted daily. An exception report is not reviewed for outside bonds.

6. Inventory Controls and Procedures (pages 20-21)

   Inventory records are not maintained in a manner to identify beginning balance, additions, deletions, and ending balance. Physical inventories in the Supply Unit are performed by the same employees that have custody of inventories. Accounting duties in the Fleet Operations Unit are not adequately segregated.

7. Fixed Assets (pages 21-22)

Physical inventories are performed by the same unit that has custody of fixed assets. Some fixed assets are not properly numbered, tagged, or otherwise identified as KCBPC's property.

1. Fleet Operations

During the two years ended April 30, 1999, the KCPD expended approximately $2.5 million on new vehicles. The department purchased 94 new marked and unmarked cars, 10 motorcycles, 10 bicycles, and 20 other vehicles, which included a command post bus costing approximately $300,000. The fleet operation unit, which is part of the Executive Services Bureau, is responsible for maintaining the department's fleet of approximately 750 marked and unmarked police cars, motorcycles, and other vehicles. The unit provides routine preventive maintenance, repairs, and body work for the department's vehicles. During our review of fleet operations, we noted the following concerns.

A. The department has not adopted a vehicle replacement plan which sets guidelines for the retirement of police vehicles. Vehicles are funded through the annual budget process, so replacement requests compete with other spending priorities. For the past several years, fleet operations has received an appropriation from the city of approximately $500,000 to purchase new vehicles. Additional, or alternative, funding for vehicle purchases of approximately $400,000 may also come from special revenue or grant funds. However, department personnel indicated that the alternative funding sources are not stable and cannot be relied on for vehicle replacement.

A comprehensive study, performed by the department's planning and research unit in 1997, evaluated the size and allocation of the department's fleet and made recommendations for potential vehicle replacement plans. This study recommended the department have approximately $1.9 million in funding each year for the next eight years for new car purchases to adequately update the department fleet, with the objective to have no car in the fleet with more than 150,000 miles or over seven to eight years old. Part of this study was a comparison with other similar sized police departments to determine their fleet sizes, budget allocations, and vehicle replacement plans. The study found that funding for vehicle replacement for those other comparable police departments was between 50 percent and 750 percent greater each year than the KCPD. As a result, most of these other departments were able to maintain a more timely vehicle replacement rate.

We reviewed the age and mileage of the department's fleet as of February 1999 and determined the average age of the entire department's fleet to be approximately 6.1 years and the average mileage to be approximately 100,000 miles. In addition, we noted at least 157 cars in the fleet with in excess of 150,000 miles, and 224 of 750 vehicles were over 7 years old.

Police vehicles are a very important part of officers being able to provide timely assistance to citizens. As a result, the department needs to develop a vehicle replacement plan that will allow for a reduction in the average mileage and age of its fleet. By maintaining a fleet of lower mileage and newer vehicles, the department should reduce vehicle down time, increase department efficiency and will be able to reduce maintenance costs for maintaining the department's fleet. If additional city funding is necessary but not available, the department should consider allocating funds from their Special Services Fund to purchase vehicles. At April 30, 1999, the balance of the Special Services Fund was approximately $1.6 million. The monies in this fund are restricted for valid police purposes. The department has pursued Law Enforcement Block Grants to provide additional funds for vehicles in the past and should continue to do so.

The department should also consider using part of the fleet purchases funding in the next year to purchase some used Missouri State Highway Patrol (MSHP) vehicles. These vehicles are retired from service by the MSHP when they reach approximately 50,000 miles. Current prices for 1996 and 1997 Ford Crown Victoria police package vehicles with approximately 50,000 miles are $11,250 and $13,250, respectively. Considering a new Ford Crown Victoria police package vehicle is approximately $20,000, it appears the department could buy three used 1997 MSHP vehicles for the same price as two new vehicles. This would allow the KCBPC to increase the number of lower mileage vehicles it can purchase with its limited resources.

B. The Fleet Operations Unit has developed several performance objectives to help measure whether the unit is meeting their monthly goals. These objectives are listed in the monthly summary reports submitted to the Division Commander. The objectives include:

1) To initiate repairs on all preventive maintenance "B" service inspections (comprehensive inspections which are to be completed every 20,000 miles) within three working days from date of service order.

2) To save an average of $900 per month by using internally salvaged parts in lieu of purchasing new parts.

3) To maintain the number of vehicles kept at the garage for 24 hours or more at less than 20 percent (excluding wrecks).

4) To establish an average response time of 20 minutes or less for department tow and service calls.

5) To initiate vehicle body repair on 75 percent of damaged vehicles within four working days of being brought to the garage.

We reviewed the monthly reports which listed the above objectives as well as the units performance for each month and evaluated how well the unit was performing based on their own objectives. It appears that the Fleet Operations Unit was significantly deficient in meeting its goals for objectives one and five during both years of our review.

Performance objectives are a useful management tool for analyzing the performance of employees. However, when the objectives are not being met on a regular basis, management is forced to determine the cause. No changes have been made to the objectives in the fleet unit for several years and there has been no significant changes in the operations of the fleet unit recently. Based on our review of the department's performance related to these stated objectives, it appears management needs to evaluate the unit's operations and determine if changes in procedures are necessary to meet the performance objectives.

C. The unit maintains reports which note vehicles which are being held in fleet with "major" damage, but that are still repairable. The reports give descriptions of the vehicles, mileage, the date the accident occurred, and the estimate of parts and labor to repair the vehicle. We reviewed reports prepared for December 31, 1997 and 1998, as well as April 30, 1999, and selected several vehicles on a test basis to determine the amount of fleet resources which were being expended on wrecked, higher mileage vehicles. We found in several instances that the amount of resources expended to repair a vehicle did not appear reasonable based on the age and mileage of the vehicle. The Fleet Operations Unit indicated that in some instances, even though the costs to repair a vehicle are high, the department has no choice but to fix the vehicle because funding is not available to replace them.

During our review of these reports, we noted the department expended approximately $10,000 to repair a 1996 Ford Crown Victoria with over 77,000 miles, and approximately $8,000 to repair a 1992 Ford Crown Victoria with over 160,000 miles. It appears the department has repaired vehicles which should have been retired. During the past several years, based on a review of department budgets, more money has been appropriated for repairs to fleet vehicles from the city's General Fund than has been appropriated for new vehicle purchases. The unit does take a preventive approach to vehicle maintenance, which is probably necessary considering the age and average mileage of the department's fleet. It appears in instances similar to those cited above that the department should consider alternatives to repairing these badly damaged, higher mileage vehicles. Alternatives could include requesting the city appropriate additional city funds to replace wrecked vehicles in the next fiscal year budget or to purchase used MSHP vehicles rather than expend the repair dollars. Based on information noted earlier, it appears the department could have purchased two 1996 Ford Crown Victorias with 50,000 miles each for an amount only slightly more than they spent fixing the 1992 and 1996 Fords cited above, and the used MSHP vehicles would have had significantly lower mileage than either of the cars repaired. The department has not established any guidelines to evaluate the cost effectiveness of repairs to older high mileage vehicles.

The department should analyze all alternatives available when making the decision to repair a vehicle. In the future, the department should perform a cost benefit analysis to determine whether to repair or replace a wrecked vehicle.

WE RECOMMEND the department:

A. Develop and implement a vehicle replacement plan and continue to pursue adequate funding for the purchase of new and used replacement vehicles to accomplish the objectives of the plan.

B. Review and monitor the fleet unit's performance using the internally prepared performance measures and, if necessary, make changes to its procedures to meet these objectives.

C. Review policies and procedures for maintenance and repairs to wrecked or damaged vehicles. The department should also consider alternatives to repairing older high mileage wrecked vehicles such as purchasing used patrol cars from the MSHP.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The management of the KCPD provided the following responses:

A. The department has requested additional funding from the city in the past to upgrade the department fleet. The normal appropriation from the city for vehicle replacements is $500,000. The department has also provided additional funding from the department special revenue funds for vehicle replacements. The department will continue to pursue adequate funding for vehicle replacements. A new replacement plan for department vehicles is currently being developed by the department's Planning and Research Unit.

B. A review of the goals and objectives has been made. Starting January 2000, the goals will be modified to utilize more realistic numbers. A new paint booth has also been ordered by the department which will enable the department to repair wrecked vehicles more expeditiously.

C. The new fleet study being prepared by the Planning and Research Unit will reevaluate the department's policy regarding when to repair wrecked police vehicles. The department has already purchased used patrol cars from the Missouri Highway Patrol and is evaluating the cost effectiveness of the program.

2. Questionable Expenditures and Bidding

A. During the two years ended April 30, 1999, our review noted disbursements totaling approximately $50,000 for which a public purpose was not demonstrated or documented. These monies were spent on flowers, cakes, cookies, fruit baskets, and retirement rings. In addition, these disbursements do not appear to be a prudent use of public funds.

B. The department does not always obtain formal written agreements with not-for-profit organizations receiving subsidies from the department. During the two years ended April 30, 1999, the KCBPC disbursed $7,050 to not-for-profit organizations for annual dinner banquets.

The Missouri Constitution prohibits the use of public money or property to benefit any private individuals, association, or corporations except as provided in the constitution. Without a written contract that clearly indicates the public services being provided by these organizations, these subsidies and uses could be considered to be in violation of the constitution.

Written contracts establish payment terms, clarify responsibilities and expectations of both parties, and help ensure the department receives the goods and services it requires. Furthermore, Section 432.070, RSMo 1994, requires all contracts to be in writing.

C. The KCBPC did not consistently follow its written bid policy. The department contracted with Arthur Andersen LLP, Certified Public Accountants (CPA) for an information technology management services, at a cost of $63,135. The department's purchasing policy requires formal competitive bidding related to contracts of $25,000 or more. The department justified this transaction by considering it a sole source procurement and an appropriate exception to the purchasing requirements since Arthur Andersen performs the department's annual financial audit. The department also indicated this was considered a consulting contract, which the department contends would not need to be bid under the provisions of Section 84.420.2(7), RSMo 1994, which states the Board of Police Commissioners shall retain or employ attorneys or other consultants as necessary to advise the board or the chief. We agree the Board has the power to hire consultants on a contractual basis, but we do not believe this alleviates the need to bid contracts. Based on our review of this situation, it does not appear this transaction represented a sole source procurement as contended by the department.

As a result of these situations, the department did not assure itself that it received the lowest and best price for the management services work because it was not competitively bid. Competitive bidding procedures for major projects provide a framework for the economical management of resources and help ensure the department receives fair value by contracting with the lowest and best bidders. Competitive bidding also helps ensure all parties are given an equal opportunity to participate in the department's business.

D. During the two years ended April 30, 1999, the department made operating transfers totaling over $208,000 from the Special Services Fund to the Alert II Computer System Fund. Cash balances for the Alert II Computer System Fund at April 30, 1998 and 1999 were $802,679 and $782,546, respectively. No transfers were made from the Alert II Computer System Fund to repay the Special Services Fund. In addition, the department has budgeted a $500,000 operating transfer to be made during the year ended April 30, 2000, and has not budgeted for this amount to be transferred back.

The Alert II Computer System Fund was established to account for the computer charges assessed to various political subdivisions for use of the Alert II computer system. The department has explained that the above mentioned transfers are necessary, even though year end balances for the Alert II Computer System Fund appear adequate, because at various times throughout the year costs of the computer system exceed the available cash. They also indicated that even though the Alert II Computer System Fund balances would have been sufficient to allow the operating transfers to be repaid, they chose not to because eventually the Alert II Computer System Fund would be at a deficit balance and would need the money.

Making such large operating transfers means money is not available in the Special Services Fund to pay for other needs such as vehicles, capital improvements and over-time.

WE RECOMMEND the department:

A. Ensure disbursements are necessary and prudent uses of public funds.

B. Obtain written agreements specifying terms of payments and the responsibilities of both parties for all services received.

C. Ensure bids are solicited for all applicable purchases in accordance with the department's policy.

D. Discontinue making operating transfers of funds from Special Services Fund to the Alert II Computer System Fund, or if additional transfers are necessary, consider transferring the monies back when the Alert II Computer System Fund cash is available.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The management of the KCPD provided the following responses:

A. The flowers and fruit baskets are for ill or bereaved members and for department members upon the birth of a child. The retirement rings are given to members of the department who achieve twenty-five years of service. Upon retirement, cakes are bought for retirement ceremonies. The department considers these purchases as important in retaining personnel and for morale.

B. The department considers the attendance at not-for-profit banquets as a demonstration of community involvement. The department's participation in local events is in keeping with the department's community policing effort and builds strong partnerships with community groups.

C. The department does bid audit services. Arthur Andersen, LLP was the successful bidder on the current bid. The bid did include a clause to use the services of Arthur Andersen for special projects. The department chose to use Arthur Andersen for the information technology services because of their knowledge of the department's billing practices. The management services performed by Arthur Andersen dealt with financial matters concerning the Alert II system.

D. With the current configuration of the Alert II system, the revenues generated by the system will not sustain its operations. The system has incurred a large deficit since fiscal year 1994-1995. The current transfers into the fund postpone the deficit until the department can develop a new strategy pertaining to the operations of the Alert II system. The department's budget includes additional transfers of $500,000 in fiscal year 1999-2000 and fiscal year 2000-2001. Without the transfers, there is a possibility that the Alert II system would go deficit in the current fiscal year.

AUDITOR'S COMMENT

C. The Arthur Andersen LLP personnel who performed the information technology services were all different personnel from those who performed the financial audit. Therefore, it is doubtful that any efficiency was provided by using the same vendor instead of bidding the information technology services.

3. Sick Leave Buyout

The KCPD Personnel Policy No. 450 provides that retiring employees will be compensated for any accumulated unused sick leave. It would appear this policy is intended to reduce the amount of sick leave used by department personnel.

The unused sick leave is paid based on the employee's salary rate at the date of separation times a conversion factor established for different categories of employees. The conversion rate for law enforcement personnel ranges from a 2 to 1 basis to an 8 to 1 basis depending on sick leave accrual rate and reason for separation. The conversion rate for civilians ranges from 2 to 1 to 4 to 1 also depending on sick leave accrual rate and reason for separation. Effective January 1, 1995, employees (sworn or civilian) who are terminated or resign are not compensated for accumulated sick leave unless they were employed prior to January 1, 1994.

This policy may be excessive compared to buyout plans of other law enforcement agencies, and appears to be a drain on departmental resources. In addition, this policy may not be a cost-effective means of reducing sick leave.

We reviewed the KCPD separation files for the two years ended April 30, 1999 and noted that 108 employees separated because of retirement. Based on available department records, we determined that separation payments attributable to these retirees totaled approximately $4.5 million of which $3.9 million was for sick leave. The largest individual retirement payment in 1999 related to sick leave conversion was approximately $103,200, which reflected approximately 4,000 hours of converted sick leave.

During our review, we requested and received sick leave buyout policy information from several other law enforcement agencies (primarily metropolitan city police departments) and compared those policies to the KCPD policies. Comparisons with three responding departments indicated that all their employees either accrued fewer days of sick leave per year and/or in some ways are more limited than the KCPD in the payout that is allowed. For example, Cincinnati, OH pays accumulated sick leave up to a maximum of 600 hours for retiring members, and members who resign or are terminated lose any accumulated sick leave. St. Louis, MO pays on a 4-to-1 conversion ratio and prevents any employee who is convicted of a crime from receiving such payment.

We also determined that the Atlanta Police Department has no sick leave buyout program for its officers. Instead, accumulated sick leave is added to length of service when calculating retirement benefits.

We could find no empirical studies or other evidence that indicate sick leave buyout programs are an effective way to reduce sick leave usage. In addition, it does not appear the KCPD has performed any type of internal study to evaluate the cost-effectiveness of its policy. It is clear, however, that, because of the conversion ratios, there is less incentive for an employee expecting to leave the service of the KCPD prior to retirement to accumulate unused sick leave than an employee intending to make service to the department a career.

Based on the significant costs of the sick leave buyout program and the comparison of the KCPD's policy with other similar departments, the KCPD should reevaluate its policies and consider limiting the amounts paid to individuals under this program. It appears there are various alternatives to the present policy that would allow the department to continue to provide a benefit to employees at a lesser cost. These alternatives could include, but not be limited to, maximum levels of payout phased in over a period of time, reductions in the payout ratios, or possible conversion to a retirement enhancement device whereby unused sick leave is converted to additional months of service used in the calculation of retirement benefits.

The police department's buyout policy is the same as the city of Kansas City's policy. The police officers employed prior to November 1987 have individual contracts with the department regarding sick leave buyout.

WE RECOMMEND the KCPD discuss with the city the reevaluation of the current sick leave buyout program, compare its program to those in other cities, and consider making revisions that would benefit the employees while also conserving available fiscal resources.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The management of the KCPD provided the following response:

The department buyout policy is the same as the city and the department will take the recommendation under advisement.

4. Records Unit Controls and Procedures

The Records Unit serves as the department's cashier for certain fees and collects monies from individuals, attorneys and insurance companies for tow charges, report reproduction sales, and criminal record investigations. The Records Unit prepares the deposit and deposits the funds to either the city's bank accounts or transfers funds to the KCPD's accounting unit which deposits the money into the KCPD's own accounts. The Records Unit collected approximately $1,580,000 and $1,471,000 in fiscal years 1999 and 1998, respectively, with approximately five percent of receipts each year being collected through the mail. We noted the following areas of concern in the Records Unit:

A. Accounting and bookkeeping duties are not adequately segregated. Currently, all record-keeping responsibilities, including receiving, recording, and reconciling are performed by the cashiers. One cashier is responsible for preparing deposits and transmitting the monies to the Accounting Unit.

   To safeguard against possible loss or misuse of funds, internal controls should provide reasonable assurance that all transactions are accounted for properly and assets are properly safeguarded. Internal control could be improved by segregating the duties of receiving from recording of receipts and reconciling monies. If proper segregation of duties cannot be achieved, at a minimum there should be a documented independent comparison of receipt slips issued to amounts transmitted.

B. Receipt slips issued by the unit do not indicate the method of payment received. To ensure payments are transmitted intact, the method of payment should be indicated on all receipt slips issued. The composition of receipt slips issued should be reconciled to the composition of transmittals.

C. Our review noted the following concerns related to monies received through the mail:

1) Mail logs are not kept to record each check received by mail. To ensure all mail receipts are properly accounted for and recorded, logs should be maintained to record all mail receipts. The logs should be reconciled daily to receipt records.

2) Mail receipts are not processed on a timely basis and are not adequately secured during working hours. During our initial survey of mail receipts we observed mail being opened dating back four to eight weeks. Unopened mail is left in unlocked desk drawers during business hours. To provide proper safeguards against loss or misuse, mail receipts should be opened, receipted, and transmitted on a daily basis as received.

D. The Records Unit maintains a centralized cashier system. All monies are kept in three cash drawers. The cashiers on duty have access to all of the cash drawers. Not limiting access to the cash drawers increases the possibility of loss or misuse of funds and makes it difficult to determine the responsibility for any losses.

Similar conditions were also noted in a prior report.

WE AGAIN RECOMMEND the department:

A. Adequately segregate duties between available employee and/or establish a documented periodic review of records by an independent person.

B. Indicate the method of payment on receipt slips issued and reconcile total cash, check, and money orders received to transmittals to the Accounting Unit.

C.1. Maintain a log of all mail receipts and reconcile the log to receipt records on a daily basis.

2. Open, receipt, and transmit mail receipts when received.

D. Restrict access to the cash drawers to only one person per drawer.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The management of the KCPD provided the following responses:

A. Currently the workload in the Records Unit prohibits adequate segregation of duties. The department does require all department receipt slips pertaining to the Records Unit, including voided receipts, be brought along with the deposits to the Accounting and Payroll Section. A comparison is made of the receipt slips and the amount transmitted as outlined above. The range of the receipt numbers are then recorded on the receipt given to the person making the deposit and on the Accounting and Payroll Sections copy of the receipt. In addition, surprise cash counts are made during the year on the Records Unit's cash drawers as another safeguard. Funds collected by the Records Unit for the city and municipal court are reconciled by the city and municipal court.

B. The department will develop a procedure to have the receipt slips marked as to whether the payment is made by check or cash. Currently the department verifies only the total amount deposited into department accounts not the method of payment.

The department has been upgrading its automated accounting system. In the upgrade program is a plan to install cash registers in the Records Unit. Information entered into the cash register will be simultaneously entered in the accounting system to be used to verify deposits and method of payment.

C. The Records Unit does not forward mailed in receipts until they have either issued a copy of the report requested or the record check requested. Due to the workload, these requests are not filled in a timely manner. The department will review the current procedures.

D. The department will develop a procedure where one drawer is used on each shift. This would limit accessibility to only the cashier on duty on a particular shift. New internal controls will be developed as the automation outlined in "B" above is implemented which should identify the cashier involved in the transaction as it occurs.

5. Accounting Unit Controls and Procedures

The Accounting Unit as the main fiscal office of the police department collects and processes over $4 million annually. It is responsible for accounting and depositing of the money that the police department receives. The Accounting Unit processes monies collected through the city's General Fund and department's Treasurer's accounts. We noted the following areas of concern related to the Accounting Unit:

A. Receipts are transmitted by the Legal Unit, Fingerprint Identification Unit, Private Officers Licensing Unit, and Commissary on a monthly basis. Receipts from the Private Alarm Unit are transmitted twice a week. To adequately safeguard receipts and reduce the risk of loss or misuse of funds, transmittals should be made daily or when accumulated receipts exceed $100.

B. Bonds are posted for warrants of other law enforcement agencies (outside warrants) and bond monies are collected at department headquarters and at five patrol divisions. Bonds issued are entered on the division's bond log. Bonds posted, bond monies collected, and a copy of the bond log are sent to the Accounting Unit.

The Accounting Unit enters the bond numbers onto the computer. However, the unit does not print the bond report and review the numerical sequence of the bond numbers. In addition, the bond forms are not always used in sequence. To ensure all monies received by the various patrol divisions and headquarters are transmitted to the accounting unit, the numerical sequence of bond forms should be accounted for properly.

Similar conditions were also noted in a prior report.

WE AGAIN RECOMMEND the department:

A. Transmit receipts daily or whenever accumulated receipts exceed $100.

B. Account for the numerical sequence of outside warrant bond forms to ensure that bond forms are being used in sequence and are being recorded on the bond logs.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The management of the KCPD provided the following responses:

A. The department closed the Commissary in July 1999. The Private Officer Licensing Unit makes deposits on a weekly basis. The department will look into the feasibility of having the Legal Unit and the Fingerprint Identification Unit make deposits on a weekly basis.

The Accounting and Payroll Section receives deposits on a daily basis from the various patrol divisions and the Records Unit. Other elements make their deposits on a staggered basis because of time constraints. The actual counting of the deposit is the least time consuming process in making deposits. Each check has to be entered into the accounting system along with the appropriate revenue codes. The actual deposit is made in the accounting system by one person and a backup deposit is made by a second person to ensure the accuracy of the deposit and that the funds were handled properly in the section. Making deposits on a daily basis would increase the amount of time necessary for making deposits because of the increased amount of coding into the various revenue accounts associated with the various elements involved. At the present time it takes on an average two to three hours a day for both parties involved in the deposit process.

The department does have other safeguards in place for cash receipts and operating cash at other units. Surprise cash counts are made throughout the year by members of the Accounting and Payroll Section. If errors are found during these counts they are reconciled immediately. Written reports are made for all cash counts and reviewed to determine if new controls should be put in place.

B. All outside bonds received by the Accounting and Payroll Section have the form number listed in a database kept by the section. This includes voided bond forms which must be sent to the Accounting and Payroll Section. Bond forms are not always used in sequence because the various elements using the bond forms are issued several bond form packages at a time. This leads to several elements accepting bonds at the same time using various numerical sequences. In order to have a comparison of bond forms issued to a particular element would require computer program changes.

At the present time the department has not experienced any problems in the control of outside bond monies. The time and expenditures to establish a new database to track an individual element's bond forms would be more than the department's risk exposure to loss. Outside Bonds are normally for less than $150. When bond money is given to the department a receipt is issued. This receipt is then presented to the court by the party who posted the bond for return of the bond money. If the court in question has not received the bond money from the department, they call the Accounting and Payroll Section to verify the bond has been posted. This has happened on occasions when a court date has been set for a date shortly after the bond has been posted. This results from the bond being in the mail and not yet received by the court. The department has not received a call from a court were a bond was posted and the department could not locate the money. This process also acts as a control for outside bonds.

6. Inventory Controls and Procedures

Our review of the department's inventory records and procedures revealed the following weaknesses:

A. Inventory records for the Supply Unit, Helicopter Unit, and Radio Maintenance Unit are not maintained in a manner that allows beginning balances, additions, and usages for each year to be reconciled to balances at the end of each year. A control account should be established and maintained with annual totals for additions, usages, and ending balances.

B. Annual physical inventories for the Supply Unit are performed by the same employees that have custody of inventories. Proper internal control requires physical inventories be conducted by persons who do not have record-keeping or custodial duties.

C. Accounting duties for the Fleet Operations Unit are not adequately segregated. Currently, all the responsibilities are assigned to inventory control. These responsibilities include all custodial and record-keeping duties.

To safeguard against possible loss or misuse of funds, internal controls should provide reasonable assurance that all transactions are accounted for properly and assets are properly safeguarded. If proper segregation of duties cannot be achieved, at a minimum there should be a documented independent review.

Similar conditions were also noted in a prior report.

WE AGAIN RECOMMEND the department:

A. Maintain the inventory records for the Supply Unit, Helicopter Unit, and Radio Maintenance Unit in a manner to identify beginning inventory balance, additions, usages, and ending inventory balance for each fiscal year.

B. Require the supply unit to perform physical inventories by someone independent of custodial and record-keeping duties.

C. Require the Fleet Operations Unit adequately segregate duties between available employees and/or establish a documented periodic review of records by an independent person.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The management of the KCPD responded as follows:

A. The department is working on upgrading the various department inventories. Currently department elements have unique individual inventory systems. This leads to differences in how inventories are handled and the valuation methods used. A new inventory system is being integrated into the department's accounting system. Currently, the Fleet Operations Unit is having the new inventory system installed. Supply will be done after fleet operations. The other elements will be done as the computer network expansion program is completed. The new inventory method will show inventory balances, purchases and usage.

B. The department will have its outside independent auditors observe the entire year end inventory process for the Supply Unit, Fleet Operations Unit, Radio Maintenance Section, and the Helicopter Unit.

C. The department will review the segregation of duties at the Fleet Operation Unit.

7. Fixed Assets

Our review of the department's fixed assets records and procedures revealed the following weaknesses:

A. Physical inventories are performed by the same unit that has custody of fixed assets. The unit supervisor is given a list of all property assigned to the unit and is responsible for reporting any discrepancies between the property list and the property items in his possession. Proper internal control requires physical inventories be conducted by persons who do not have record-keeping or custodial duties.

B. Some fixed assets are not properly numbered, tagged, or otherwise identified as KCBPC's property. During our test work, we noted eight of fifty-six items where a property tag was not affixed to the asset. Property control tags should be affixed to all fixed asset items to help improve accountability, to ensure that assets are properly identified as belonging to the KCBPC, and to help reduce the loss or theft of assets.

C. KCBPC's departments are not preparing the "Property Inventory Action Form" and submitting it to the inventory control officer in some instances. This report should be used when equipment is transferred within or between departments and if equipment is stolen, destroyed, surplused, or otherwise disposed of. We noted one item that had been transferred and two items that had been replaced where a property inventory action form had not been prepared and submitted.

   To ensure fixed asset records are updated on a timely basis and accurately reflect the status of all fixed assets, property inventory action forms should be submitted when applicable.

Similar conditions were also noted in a prior report.

WE AGAIN RECOMMEND the department:

A. Require physical inventories to be conducted by persons independent of those having record-keeping or custodial duties.

B. Properly number or tag all fixed asset items.

C. Establish procedures to ensure that all transfers and disposals of property items are reported immediately to the Inventory Control Officer.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The management of the KCPD responded as follows:

A. The department will consider changing policy to require periodic independent audits of inventory items. A policy change would depend on identifying personnel available to perform this function.

B. A fixed asset cannot be processed in the computer system until an inventory number is assigned. On occasion a number is accidentally removed or torn off. In those cases the Inventory Control Officer will determine the correct number for the item and arrange for it to be affixed to the item. These types of problems are usually detected and corrected during the annual property inventory.

C. The Department will reemphasis the current policy of completing a "Property Inventory Action Form" when property is transferred, stolen, destroyed, surplused or otherwise disposed of.

This report is intended for the information of the board's management and other applicable government officials. However, this report is a matter of public record and its distribution is not limited.

Follow-Up on State Auditor’s Prior Recommendations

REVIEW OF THE
KANSAS CITY BOARD OF POLICE COMMISSIONERS
FOLLOW-UP ON STATE AUDITOR'S PRIOR RECOMMENDATIONS

This section reports follow-up action taken by the Kansas City Board of Police Commissioners (KCBPC) on recommendations made in the Management Advisory Report (MAR) on our prior reports issued for the two years ended April 30, 1993 and the Special Review of the Kansas City Police Department, issued in September 1994. The prior recommendations which have not been implemented, but are considered significant, have been repeated in the current MAR. Although the remaining unimplemented recommendations have not been repeated, the board should consider implementing these recommendations.

REVIEW OF KANSAS CITY BOARD OF POLICE COMMISSIONERS
(TWO YEARS ENDED APRIL 30, 1993)

1. Vehicle Self-Retention Policy/General Liability Self-Insurance Program

   A. The KCBPC had not obtained the services of a competent insurance industry professional to manage the self-insurance program.

   B.1. General liability claims did not receive estimates of liability by the department's legal advisors.

   B.2. Claim reserves established for a claim were not entered into any type of log or ledger so the total amount of claim reserves could be determined.

   C.1. The board had not developed specific short or long term goals for the self-retention/self-insurance program or specific cash reserve amounts.

   C.2. The KCBPC had not adequately documented the optimum deductible level for the vehicle liability policy.

   D. The KCBPC had not established specific settlement authority limits for the legal advisors and department management on general liability claims.

   Recommendation:

   The KCBPC:

   A. Obtain the services of a risk manager to oversee the daily operations of the self-insurance program, and establish a risk management committee to oversee the overall operations and management decisions of the self-insurance program.

   B.1. Establish claim reserves for all general liability claims.

2. Maintain a record of all claim reserves so the total amount of potential department liability can be easily determined. This liability should be compared to the available cash balance to ensure cash on hand is sufficient to meet the outstanding liabilities.

C.1. Develop specific short and long term goals for the self-retention/self-insurance program.

2. Obtain an actuarial cost/benefit study to ensure that vehicle liability insurance deductible amounts are appropriate.

D. Establish specific settlement authority limits for general liability cases.

Status:

A. Not implemented. The Board hired Arthur Anderson for consulting on the self-insurance program. In addition, the Board approves all claims in excess of $25,000.

B.1.,
B.2.,
C.1.,
&D. Implemented.

C.2. Not implemented. The self retention vehicles liability policy deductible is no longer obtained.

2. Budgeting of funds

The KCBPC did not prepare budgets for the Treasurer's funds.

Recommendation:

The KCBPC prepare budgets of revenues and expenditure's for the treasurer's funds. These budgets should be formally reviewed and approved by the board and used as a guideline for the activity of the treasurer's funds.

Status:

Implemented.

3. Property and Evidence Unit

A. The police department had not properly obtained court orders for the disposition of all seized property.

B. The department's audit unit could not located $90 in food coupons, 35 items of jewelry, $9,010 in currency, and six miscellaneous items of value, and our office could not locate four of the forty-five items selected for review in the Property and Evidence Unit.

C. Accounting and custodial duties were not adequately segregated.

D. The Property and Evidence Unit used accounting codes for identifying seized assets. Many different codes exist for the same category of asset.

E. Property room control numbers were removed from items scheduled to be auctioned prior to the auction, and auction records did not indicate the property room controls numbers of the items sold.

F. The Accounting Unit did not issue receipt slips for the auction or liquidation proceeds.

Recommendation:

The KCBPC require the Property and Evidence Unit:

A. Obtain proper court orders for the disposition of all seized property.

B. Ensure accountability over all seized assets. In addition, periodic physical inventories should be performed of all seized assets in the custody of the Property and Evidence Unit. All exceptions should be promptly investigated and resolved.

C. Segregate accounting and custodial duties for seized assets.

D. Develop standard codes for identifying seized assets.

E. Ensure the sale of all seized assets of significant value are properly identified and recorded in the accounting records.

F. Issue receipt slips for the sale of unclaimed seized property and reconcile the receipt slips to bank deposits.

Status:

A. Not implemented. The department does not obtain court orders for all dispositions of seized property. A lawsuit has been filed in the Jackson County Circuit Court by the department over proper distribution of lost, stolen, abandoned and seized property that comes into the possession of the department and remains unclaimed.

B. Partially implemented. A complete periodic physical inventory is not conducted; however, Property and Evidence Unit staff periodically test the computer system location and the actual location for a sample of items. All 60 property and evidence items we tested were properly located. Our inventory of safe contents indicated one item ($1,460) was reported by the computer system as being in the safe; however, it had been checked out of the Property and Evidence Unit in 1995 and the item's location noted in the computer system had not been properly updated.

C,E, &F. Implemented.

D. Partially implemented. The Property and Evidence Unit has developed approximately 23 broad description category codes for property seized or taken in for safekeeping. The computer system still accepts any code entered; however, the system is old and will be updated with the bar coding system the department intends to implement.

4. Petty Cash Funds

The KCBPC maintained thirteen petty cash funds totaling $19,825. It appeared the balance of some of those funds may have been excessive or the existence of some of the petty cash funds were unnecessary.

Recommendation:

The KCBPC evaluate the need for petty cash funds and reduce or eliminate those funds which have little or no activity.

Status:

Implemented.

5. Internal Controls over Collections

A. Receipts slips were not issued for all monies received.

B. Listings of mail receipts and other collections were not reconciled to bank deposits.

C. Monies collected by the Legal Unit, Metro Major Case Squad, Fingerprint Identification Unit, Private Officers Licensing Unit, Commissary and the Special Olympics were not transmitted to the Accounting Unit on a timely basis.

D. Checks received for report reproduction by the Accounting Unit were not deposited on a daily basis.

Recommendation:

The KCBPC:

A. Require the various divisions and units to issue prenumbered receipt slips for all monies received.

B. Require the Accounting Unit to reconcile listings of mail receipts and other collections to bank deposits and journal entries on a daily or weekly basis. In addition, documentation of these reconciliations should be retained.

C. Require the various divisions and units to transmit all receipts to the Accounting Unit daily or when accumulated receipts exceed $100.

D. Require the Accounting Unit to deposit all monies received intact on a daily basis.

Status:

A. Not implemented. Although receipt slips are not prepared for mail receipts, a listing of mail receipts is prepared and reconciled to deposits.

B&D. Implemented.

C. Not implemented. See MAR No. 5.

6. Records Unit

A.1. The cashier on duty as well as other clerks had access to the cash drawer.

2. Access to the Records Unit was not properly controlled.

3. Numerous persons knew the combination to the safe and had access to the bank bags which were stored in the safe.

4. Unopened mail was stored in an unlocked desk drawer until mail was processed.

B. Accounting and bookkeeping duties of the Records Unit were not adequately segregated for receipt transactions.

C.1. Receipt slips issued by the Records Unit did not indicate the method of payment received.

2. Report reproduction receipt slips were maintained for only two years and criminal history investigation receipt slips for only one year subsequent to their issuance. In addition, the numerical sequence of receipt slips issued was not accounted for to ensure all monies receipted were deposited.

D. Tow fees were transmitted daily to the city of Kansas City Municipal Division; however, a receipt slip was not obtained from the court for tow monies transmitted.

E.1. Logs were not kept to record each check received by mail.

2. Mail receipts were kept in an unlocked desk drawer for several days before being opened.

Recommendation:

The KCBPC require the Records Unit:

A.1. Restrict access to the cash drawer to only one person per shift or provide a separate cash drawer to each person who handles money.

2. Properly control access to the Records Unit at all entrances.

3. Recode the lock on the Records Unit safe and provide the combination only to the cashiers and supervisory sergeants.

4. Store all unopened mail receipts in the safe.

B. Segregate the duties of receiving from the responsibilities of reconciling receipts to the receipt slips and cash register tapes.

C.1. Record the method of payment on the receipt slip and reconcile daily the composition of cash and checks transmitted or deposited to the receipt slips.

2. Retain receipt slips in accordance with the Missouri Municipal Records Manual.

D. Obtain a receipt slip for all monies transmitted to the municipal division.

E.1. Maintain a log of all mail receipts and reconcile the log to receipt records on a daily basis.

2. Open, receipt, and transmit mail receipts on the day received.

Status:

A.1.,
A.4.,
B.,C.1.,
E.1.,
&E.2. Not implemented. See MAR No. 4.

& 3. Implemented.

C.2. Not implemented. The Records Unit does not maintain receipt slips in accordance with the Missouri Municipal Manual. However, the Accounting Unit receives a copy of all receipt slips from the Records Unit. These are maintained for five years at the warehouse which is in accordance with the Missouri Municipal Manual. Although not repeated in the current report, the KCBPC should consider fully implementing the recommendation.

D. Not implemented. Although receipt slips are not obtained, the city signs and returns a copy of the daily transmittal. This appears to be an acceptable alternative.

7. Fixed Assets

A. Property records were not prepared in a manner to identify beginning balance, additions, deletions, and ending balance for each fiscal year.

B. Physical inventories were performed by the same unit that has custody of fixed assets.

C. The department's property records did not appear to be accurate. It appeared the unit supervisors were not notifying the property records clerk when the status of property items changed.

D. Additions to property records were not periodically reconciled to purchases of fixed assets.

E. Property tags were not always affixed to each asset.

F. Some fixed asset purchases were not tagged and recorded in the fixed asset inventory records in accordance with department policy.

Recommendation:

The KCBPC:

A. Maintain property records in a manner to identify beginning balance, additions, deletions, and ending balance for each fiscal year.

B. Require physical inventories to be conducted by persons independent of those having record-keeping or custodial duties.

C. Establish procedures to ensure property records contain accurate information. These procedures should include that all purchases, disposal, and transfers of property items be immediately reported to the Inventory Control Officer.

D. Require periodic reconciliation of property additions to purchase and expenditure records.

E. Require property tags to be affixed and tag numbers recorded for each fixed asset.

F. Ensure equipment owned by the department with a value of thirty dollars or more is included in the detailed inventory records in accordance with department policy. In addition, the KCBPC should consider increasing the minimum value of property items which need to be recorded on the fixed asset inventory records.

Status:

A,D, &F. Implemented.

B,C, &E. Not implemented. See MAR No. 7.

8. Supplies Inventories

A. Each unit maintained some form of perpetual inventory records; however, records were not maintained in a manner to obtain beginning inventory balance, additions, deletions, and ending inventory balance for each fiscal year.

B.1. Accounting duties for inventories in the Supply Unit were not adequately segregated.

2.a. Accounting duties for the Fleet Operations Unit were not adequately segregated.

b. Gasoline usage was not reconciled to inventory records, giving consideration to beginning and ending inventories and gasoline purchases.

c. The Fleet Operations Unit takes measurements of the fuel level in each tank every other day; however, these fuel levels were not compared to the amount of gasoline which should have been on hand.

Recommendation:

The KCBPC:

A. Maintain the inventory records in a manner to identify beginning inventory balance, additions, deletions, and ending inventory balance for each fiscal year.

B.1. Require the Supply Unit to segregate inventory custodial and record-keeping duties. In addition, physical inventories should be performed by someone independent of custodial and record-keeping duties.

2. Require the Fleet Operations Unit to:

a) Segregate inventory custodial and record-keeping duties.

b) Reconcile ending gasoline inventory balances to beginning balances plus purchases less usage on a monthly basis.

c) Reconcile the ending inventory balance to measurements of fuel levels.

Status:

B.2a. Not implemented. See MAR No. 6.

B.1. Partially implemented. The Supply Unit has segregated inventory custodial and record-keeping duties. However, physical inventories are not performed by someone independent of custodial and record-keeping duties. See MAR No. 6.

B.2b.&
B.2c. Implemented.

9. Bonds

The department did not account for the numerical sequence of outside warrant bonds issued by each patrol division, voided bond forms were not always recorded on the bond logs and are not retained, and the bond forms were not always used in sequence.

Recommendation:

The KCBPC account for the numerical sequence of outside warrant bond forms to ensure that bond forms are being used in sequence and are being recorded on the bond logs. Furthermore, voided bond forms should be recorded on the bond log and all copies of the defaced bonds should be retained.

Status:

Partially implemented. The Accounting Unit enters the bond forms into the computer and the computer puts them into numerical sequence. However, this report is never reviewed. Voided bond forms are entered on the bond ledger. See MAR No. 5.

10. Accounts Receivable

A control ledger of all amounts due was not maintained.

Recommendation:

The KCBPC maintain an accounts receivable control ledger for all amounts due to the department and periodically reconcile the ledger to the detailed records.

Status:

Implemented.

SPECIAL REVIEW OF KANSAS CITY POLICE DEPARTMENT
(SEPTEMBER 1994)

1. Sick Leave Benefits and Usage

A. The accrual rates for sick leave benefits for sworn personnel were relatively high compared to other city police departments. Some sworn personnel accrued sick leave at a rate of thirty days per year, while the remaining sworn personnel accrued sick leave at a rate of eighteen days per year.

B. The KCPD policy which allowed some employees to accrue 30 days sick leave per year may have encouraged the usage of more sick leave, when compared with the usage of officers who received only 18 days per year.

C. Sick leave was only deducted from employee-leave balances in one day, or eight hour increments, and if the employee worked four hours or more during a shift and then takes sick leave the rest of the day, no sick leave was charged against their leave balance.

Recommendation:

The KCPD:

A&B. Reevaluate the current level of sick leave benefits provided to law enforcement personnel. After considering all factors, including a comparison of leave accrual rates of similar police departments, the KCPD should determine whether the current accrual rates are excessive and should be reduced to provide a better balance between the benefits provided and the related costs to the department.

C. Charge sick leave hours actually used against employee sick leave balances.

Status:

A&B. Not implemented. Although not repeated in the current MAR, the KCPD should consider implementing this recommendation.

C. Implemented.

2. Sick Leave Buyout

A. Employees who had been continuously employed for at least one year would be compensated for any accumulated unused sick leave upon separation. This policy appeared to be a drain on departmental resources and may have been excessive compared to buyout plans of other law enforcement agencies.

B. Employees separating because of resignation or termination received sick leave buyout benefits similar to those received by retiring personnel, although at a lower payment ratio.

Recommendation:

The KCPD:

A. Reevaluate the current sick leave buyout program, compare it to programs in other cities, and consider making revisions that would enhance employee income security while conserving available fiscal resources. The considerations should include the possible provision of disability insurance coverage for all new employees in lieu of the present level of buyout payments.

B. Consider discontinuing the practice of allowing resigning or terminating employees to receive sick leave buyout payments.

Status:

A. Not implemented. See MAR No. 3.

B. Implemented. Any employee hired after January 1, 1995 is not eligible for sick leave buyout upon resignation or termination.

3. Overtime Compensation

The KCPD paid for more overtime than was required by the Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA).

Recommendation:

The KCPD reevaluate its current overtime policies/practices and consider revising those practices to calculate overtime compensation in accordance with FLSA requirements. It appeared the KCPD should exclude paid leave taken as hours worked in overtime pay calculations. In performing this review, the department should consider the cost of current practices in relation to fiscal constraints and possible alternative uses for any savings realized by changing the overtime policies.

Status:

Not implemented. Although not repeated in the current MAR, the KCPD should consider implementing this recommendation.

4. Call Back Pay

It was often necessary to call officers in for extra duty outside of their regular shift assignment. By KCPD policy, a call back occurred when an employee was required to return to work more than one hour after the end of his or her regular tour of duty or day off. Under the policy, an employee called back to duty was to be paid for actual hours worked or for a minimum of four hours. All call back pay was paid at the time and one half overtime rate. This policy appeared excessive compared to some other cities surveyed.

Recommendation:

The KCPD reevaluate the current call back policy which provides for minimum compensation of four hours at overtime rates. The department should carefully weigh other possible alternative call back policies, considering the related payroll cost implications for each alternative reviewed.

Status:

Not implemented. Although not repeated in the current MAR, the KCPD should consider implementing this recommendation.

5. Accumulated Compensatory Time

A number of employees had compensatory time balances in excess of the sixty-hour departmental limit at February 28, 1994. There was no authorization approving the excess balances. The KCPD policy limited the accumulation of unused compensatory time to no more than 60 hours unless authorized by the Chief of Police or his designee.

Recommendation:

The KCPD reevaluate Policy No. 418 regarding the 60-hour limitation and determine whether it meets current departmental needs or should be revised. If a revised policy is established, the department should make every effort to ensure it is complied with. This would include ensuring any exceptions to the policy limit are properly authorized.

Status:

Implemented. The current policy states a 120-hour limitation for any employee at the commander level or above.

6. Compensation for Medical Appointments

An instance was noted in which an officer was paid overtime compensation while receiving physical therapy outside of that individual's regular work schedule. It appeared this additional compensation was paid in error and probably occurred because of confusion among supervisory personnel in the department as to how KCPD policy should be applied in regard to medical appointments.

Recommendation:

The KCPD review situations where additional compensation is requested in cases of medical appointments (particularly in cases where the treatment is voluntary) and determine how the department policy should be applied. The department should then formally clarify the application of its policies in such situations and ensure that all line supervisors are provided appropriate guidance for handling such situations in the future.

Status:

Implemented. The current policy was revised to clarify the application of the situation.

7. Off -Duty Employment

A. Private businesses/individuals frequently contacted the department seeking to hire off-duty police officers for security services. A review of this situation disclosed that it appeared officers frequently received compensation for those services in cash and that these entities may be discouraged by officers from filing the required income tax forms. It appeared the department should address this issue in its policies considering the extent of cash payments reportedly being received.

B. We noted instances in which officers failed to file the required forms and properly obtain departmental approval related to off-duty jobs.

Recommendation:

The KCPD:

A. Consider adding provisions to its off-duty employment policy which clearly convey the department's position regarding the proper reporting of off-duty employment income for personal income tax purposes and the need for its personnel to cooperate with private employers in meeting those employers' reporting responsibilities.

B. Take steps to ensure its officers and other personnel are obtaining proper approval related to off-duty employment. This might include reminding department personnel of this requirement on a periodic basis or establishing procedures to monitor compliance with the policy.

Status:

A. Not implemented. It does not appear this policy was changed. Although not repeated in the current MAR, the KCPD should consider implementing this recommendation.

B. Implemented.

8. Personnel Scheduling

KCPD policy provided that each watch of the patrol divisions could allow a maximum of ten percent of the officers assigned to a particular watch or shift to be on leave at any one time. We noted a number of instances in which this policy was not complied with, resulting in those watches being understaffed.

Recommendation:

The KCPD reemphasize to the desk sergeants the importance of complying fully with Field Services Memo 87-1. The department should also ensure that any instances in which the ten percent rule is not complied with are documented and brought to the attention of the appropriate supervisor.

Status:

Implemented.

9. Timekeeping

A. Verification reports were not always being properly signed or initialed as being reviewed and found accurate by the timekeeper.

B. Overtime entry errors went uncorrected as a result of a verification report not being reviewed on a timely basis.

C. Overtime vouchers were not always being properly approved by the applicable supervisors.

Recommendation:

The KCPD reemphasize to its supervisors and unit timekeepers the importance of proper timekeeper procedures, including the proper approval of overtime vouchers and an adequate review of verification reports. In addition, the department should consider requiring one of its support sections to perform an independent review of the timekeeping records and supporting documentation on a periodic basis.

Status:

Partially implemented. The KCPD does emphasize the importance of proper timekeeper procedures. However, there is no independent review of the timekeeping records. Although not repeated in the current MAR, the KCPD should consider fully implementing this recommendation.

AUDIT REPORT

MISSOURI DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION

YEAR ENDED JUNE 30, 1998

From The Office Of State Auditor
Claire McCaskill

Report No. 99-114
December 1, 1999

Office Of The
State Auditor Of Missouri
Claire McCaskill

November 1999

FACT SHEET

IMPORTANT NOTE: The following audit of the Missouri Department of Transportation is based upon fieldwork started in 1998 and due to statutory changes is the last of its kind.

As a result of legislative changes, the department is now contracting for annual financial audits. In accordance with those changes, the state auditor maintains the authority to review those external audits. The auditor's office will now focus on critical performance and financial issues relating to the department and Missouri transportation. We have already discussed with the department our plans to look at maintenance per mile comparisons, the current 5-Year Plan, and use of highway funds for purposes other than construction. The result of that audit work will be released next year.

The following problems were discovered during an audit of the Missouri Department of Transportation (MoDOT) for the year ended June 30, 1998:

Our audit found problems concerning the department's documentation of state aircraft use, however our recommendations were already implemented prior to the issuance of this audit. The department now handles its flight operations through the Office of Administration. MoDOT assures flight manifests now list all passengers on board, and cost comparisons will be conducted when using aircraft for out-of-state flights.

Individuals or entities that damage MoDOT property (primarily because of vehicular accidents) are responsible for paying the costs of repairing the damage. The audit disclosed that the department has not made a sufficient effort to ensure the responsible parties are identified and it appears a significant amount of potentially billable revenues have been written off as unknown and uncollectible.

During fiscal year 1998, over 2,000 property damage accounts were set up, with approximately 1,200 of these accounts representing instances where the responsible parties were unknown. The majority of these unknown damage accounts related to accidents in the Kansas City and St. Louis areas. During a review of forty unknown damage accounts, the auditors were able to match sixteen (40 percent) of these accounts to accident reports (prepared by the Highway Patrol or a local law enforcement agency) identifying a responsible party.

During the period from January 1995 through March 1999, the department wrote off approximately $3 million in unknown property damage accounts. If the department had been able to identify the responsible parties for 40 percent (our error rate) of this amount, the department could have billed an additional $1.2 million related to these accounts. Had this amount been billed, it is likely much of it would have been collected. MoDOT should ensure property damage revenue is maximized by identifying and billing the responsible parties on a timely basis. The department should also consider reviewing accounts written off in recent years to determine if the responsible parties can be identified and billed.

During fiscal years 1998 and 1999, MoDOT reduced the amount of federal bridge monies allocated to the various counties within the state and the city of St. Louis by more than $1.1 million, the total amount of funding appropriated to the State Auditor's Office (SAO) from the State Highway Department Fund during those years. The audit found that MoDOT's rationale for these reductions was flawed and such reductions by the department were not justified. The local governments affected include some entities (including the city of St. Louis and first and second class counties) which receive no audit services from the SAO.

The department reimburses various moving expenses related to the recruitment of top management employees as well as the transfer of existing employees to other locations within the state. During fiscal year 1998, these costs totaled almost $600,000. As similarly noted in our prior report, some of these expenses appear unreasonable. MoDOT's policy exceeds the state Office of Administration's (OA) policy in a number of areas, including an additional amount to cover the increased tax liability related to amounts reimbursed. If MoDOT had limited the total reimbursement to 10 percent of an employee's annual salary, the department's moving expenses for fiscal year 1998 would have totaled about $250,000, a savings of $350,000.

From June 1995 to January 1999, the department paid about $336,000 to a consultant or his designees for conducting workshops/training related to the reorganization of the Information Systems Division. The procurement of these consulting services was not handled properly. In addition, there was no written contract/agreement between MoDOT and the consultant identifying the scope of services to be provided and the compensation to be paid.

Other findings related to:

-- Problems noted in the procurement of certain aggregate materials, gasoline, and diesel in District 9 (Willow Springs).

-- The untimely updating of access to the department's computer system when an employee moved to a new position or terminates employment.

The department's responses to the State Auditor's findings are included in the report.

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT ON
THE FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

Honorable Mel Carnahan, Governor
and Missouri Highway and Transportation Commission
and
Henry Hungerbeeler, Director
Missouri Department of Transportation
Jefferson City, Missouri 65102

We have audited the accompanying special-purpose financial statements of the various funds of the Missouri Department of Transportation as of and for the year ended June 30, 1998, as identified in the table of contents. These special-purpose financial statements are the responsibility of the department's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these special-purpose financial statements based on our audit.

We conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the special-purpose financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the special-purpose financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion.

The accompanying special-purpose financial statements were prepared for the purpose of presenting the financial position, results of operations, and cash flows of the Self-Insurance Fund; the receipts, disbursements, other financing sources (uses), and changes in cash and investments of the General Revenue Fund-DOT Federal, the State Highway Department Fund, the State Road Fund, the State Transportation Fund, the Aviation Trust Fund, the State Transportation Assistance Revolving Fund, and the Local Fund; and the appropriations and expenditures of the various funds of the Missouri Department of Transportation. These special-purpose financial statements are not intended to be a complete presentation of the financial position and results of operations of the various funds of the department.

In our opinion, the special-purpose financial statements in Exhibits A through C present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of the Self-Insurance Fund as of June 30, 1998, and the results of its operations and its cash flows for the year then ended in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles.

In our opinion, the special-purpose financial statements in Exhibits D and E present fairly, in all material respects, the receipts, disbursements, other financing sources (uses), and changes in cash and investments of the General Revenue Fund-DOT Federal, the State Highway Department Fund, the State Road Fund, the State Transportation Fund, the Aviation Trust Fund, the State Transportation Assistance Revolving Fund, and the Local Fund; and the appropriations and expenditures of the various funds of the Missouri Department of Transportation as of and for the year ended June 30,1998, in conformity with the comprehensive bases of accounting discussed in Note 1, which are bases of accounting other than generally accepted accounting principles.

In accordance with Government Auditing Standards, we also have issued our report dated April 2, 1999, on our consideration of the department's internal control over financial reporting and on our tests of its compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants.

The year 2000 supplementary information on pages 29 and 30 is not a required part of the basic financial statements but is supplementary information required by the Governmental Accounting Standards Board. We have applied certain limited procedures, which consisted principally of inquiries of management regarding the methods of measurement and presentation of the supplementary information. However, we did not audit the information and do not express an opinion on it. In addition, we do not provide assurance that the department is or will become year 2000 compliant, that the department's year 2000 remediation efforts will be successful in whole or in part, or that parties with which the department does business are or will become year 2000 compliant.

Our audit was made for the purpose of forming an opinion on the special-purpose financial statements, taken as a whole, that are referred to in the first paragraph. The accompanying financial information listed as supplementary data in the table of contents is presented for purposes of additional analysis. Such information has been subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audit of the special-purpose financial statements and, in our opinion, except for the effects on Schedule 2 of the matter discussed in the following paragraph, is fairly stated in all material respects in relation to the special-purpose financial statements taken as a whole.

The information presented in Schedule 2 was provided by the state's accounting system. The department converts receipt and disbursement information from its system to the state's accounting system. Some department codes have not been appropriately converted, resulting in some expenditures being improperly classified on the state's accounting system. The amounts by which the information presented in Schedule 2 would change if the expenditures had been appropriately converted cannot reasonably be determined.

The accompanying History, Organization, and Statistical Information is presented for informational purposes. This information was obtained from the department's management and was not subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audit of the special-purpose financial statements referred to above.

An integral part of the department's funding comes from federal awards. Those federal awards are reported on in the State of Missouri Single Audit Report issued by the State Auditor's office. The single audit is conducted in accordance with the provisions of Office of Management and Budget Circular A-133, Audits of States, Local Governments, and Non-Profit Organizations.

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT ON COMPLIANCE
AND ON INTERNAL CONTROL OVER FINANCIAL REPORTING

Honorable Mel Carnahan, Governor
and Missouri Highway and Transportation Commission
and
Henry Hungerbeeler, Director
Missouri Department of Transportation
Jefferson City, Missouri 65102

We have audited the special-purpose financial statements of the Missouri Department of Transportation as of and for the year ended June 30, 1998, and have issued our report thereon dated April 2, 1999. We conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States.

Compliance

As part of obtaining reasonable assurance about whether the special-purpose financial statements of the Missouri Department of Transportation are free of material misstatement, we performed tests of the department's compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants, noncompliance with which could have a direct and material effect on the determination of financial statement amounts. However, providing an opinion on compliance with those provisions was not an objective of our audit, and accordingly, we do not express such an opinion. The results of our tests disclosed no material instances of noncompliance that are required to be reported under Government Auditing Standards. However, we noted instances of other noncompliance which are presented in the accompanying Management Advisory Report.

Internal Control Over Financial Reporting

In planning and performing our audit of the special-purpose financial statements of the Missouri Department of Transportation, we considered the department's internal control over financial reporting in order to determine our auditing procedures for the purpose of expressing our opinion on the special-purpose financial statements and not to provide assurance on the internal control over financial reporting. However, we noted certain matters involving the internal control over financial reporting and its operation that we consider to be reportable conditions. Reportable conditions involve matters coming to our attention relating to significant deficiencies in the design or operation of the internal control over financial reporting that, in our judgment, could adversely affect the department's ability to record, process, summarize, and report financial data consistent with the assertions of management in the special-purpose financial statements.

A material weakness is a condition in which the design or operation of one or more of the internal control components does not reduce to a relatively low level the risk that misstatements in amounts that would be material to the special-purpose financial statements being audited may occur and not be detected within a timely period by employees in the normal course of performing their assigned functions. Our consideration of the internal control over financial reporting would not necessarily disclose all matters in the internal control that might be reportable conditions and, accordingly, would not necessarily disclose all reportable conditions that are also considered to be material weaknesses. However, we noted certain matters involving the internal control over financial reporting and its operation that we consider to be material weaknesses, and these matters are presented in the accompanying Management Advisory Report.

This report is intended for the information of the management of the Missouri Department of Transportation and other applicable government officials. However, this report is a matter of public record and its distribution is not limited.

Notes to the Financial Statements

1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

A. Reporting Entity and Basis of Presentation

The accompanying special-purpose financial statements present only selected data for each fund of the Missouri Department of Transportation.

The Self-Insurance Fund, presented in Exhibits A through C, is a separate accounting entity, recording all assets, liabilities, equities, revenues, and expenses related to the fund's activities.

Expenses presented for the fund or any program may not reflect the total cost of the related activity. Other direct and indirect costs provided by the department and other state agencies are not allocated to the fund or applicable program.

Receipts, disbursements, other financing sources (uses), and changes in cash and investments are presented in Exhibit D for the General Revenue Fund-DOT Federal, the State Highway Department Fund, the State Road Fund, the State Transportation Fund, the Aviation Trust Fund, the State Transportation Assistance Revolving Fund, and the Local Fund. Appropriations from these funds, except for the Local Fund which is a nonappropriated fund, are expended by or for the department for restricted purposes.

The "Total (Memorandum Only)" column is presented as additional analytical data. Because this column does not identify the restrictions that exist by fund, it should be read only with reference to the details of each fund.

Appropriations, presented in Exhibit E, are not separate accounting entities. They do not record the assets, liabilities, and equities of the related funds but are used only to account for and control the department's expenditures from amounts appropriated by the General Assembly.

Expenditures presented for each appropriation may not reflect the total cost of the related activity. Other direct and indirect costs provided by the department and other state agencies are not allocated to the applicable fund or program.

B. Basis of Accounting

The financial statements for the Self-Insurance Fund, Exhibits A through C, are prepared in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles. The statements are presented on the accrual basis of accounting which recognizes revenues when earned and expenses when the related liabilities are incurred.

The Statement of Receipts, Disbursements, Other Financing Sources (Uses), and Changes in Cash and Investments, Exhibit D, prepared on the cash basis of accounting, presents amounts when they are received or disbursed.

The Statement of Appropriations and Expenditures, Exhibit E, is presented on the state's legal budgetary basis of accounting which recognizes expenditures on the encumbrance method. Expenditures include amounts payable or encumbered at June 30 and paid during the lapse period, which ends August 31 for regular appropriations and December 31 for capital improvement appropriations. The authority to expend appropriations ends with the close of the lapse period. However, the General Assembly may authorize reappropriation of the unexpended balances of capital improvement appropriations for the following year. The General Assembly also may authorize biennial capital improvement appropriations, for which the unexpended balances at June 30 of the first year of the two-year period are reappropriated for expenditure during the second year.

The cash basis of accounting and the budgetary basis of accounting differ from generally accepted accounting principles, which require revenues to be recognized when they become available and measurable or when they are earned and expenditures or expenses to be recognized when the related liabilities are incurred.

C. Fiscal Authority and Responsibility

The department administers transactions in the funds listed below. The state treasurer as fund custodian and the Office of Administration provide administrative control over fund resources within the authority prescribed by the General Assembly, except for the Self-Insurance Fund and the Local Fund which are controlled entirely by the department.

Self-Insurance Fund: Section 226.160, RSMo, authorizes a self-insurance plan for workers' compensation for the department and the state highway patrol. Under Section 226.160, RSMo, the self-insurance plan for workers' compensation is established pursuant to the provisions of Chapter 287, RSMo, governing workers' compensation. Under Chapter 287, RSMo, the Department of Labor and Industrial Relations-Division of Workers' Compensation has required the department to establish an escrow agreement in the amount of $200,000 to operate as a self-insurer. The department is in compliance with this requirement and maintains contributed capital in the amount of $210,000 in a escrow account funded by a contribution from the State Highway Department Fund. Section 226.092, RSMo, authorizes a self-insurance plan for automobile liability for the department. In addition, a self-insurance plan for general liability was established in August 1994. Monies received by the fund are amounts for payment of claims and administrative costs.

General Revenue Fund-DOT Federal: The department administers several programs financed wholly or partially by federal monies maintained in the state treasury in the Department of Transportation's Federal Account. These federal funds may be received in advance, when related expenditures are made, or after they are made. Appropriations from this fund authorize the disbursements of the department's federal funds.

State Highway Department Fund: This fund is constitutionally established to receive revenues derived from the use of state highways. This fund pays the costs incurred to collect that revenue, to administer the Highway and Transportation Commission and the Department of Transportation, to administer and enforce state motor vehicle laws and traffic regulations, and to provide other related functions.

The fund consists of monies received from the Motor Fuel Tax Fund and collections from highway users incident to their use or right to use the highways of the state, including all state license fees and taxes upon motor vehicles, trailers, and motor fuels, and upon the privilege of the manufacture, receipt, storage, distribution, sale and use thereof, excepting the sales tax on motor vehicles and trailers and all property taxes not apportioned to local governmental units. All interest earned on the fund is credited to the fund. The Department of Revenue acts as agent for the fund in collecting these monies.

Disbursements are authorized by appropriation, and balances remaining in the fund are perpetually maintained for the purpose of the fund, except that end-of-the-month balances in excess of $35 million (increased from $12 million effective July 1998) are transferred to the State Road Fund.

State Road Fund: This fund is constitutionally established to receive monies from the federal government intended for highway purposes. Other revenues of this fund include interest earned on the fund balance, transfers from the State Highway Department Fund and Motor Fuel Tax Fund, motor vehicle sales taxes, and any other revenues if held for expenditure by or under the department and if not required to be placed in the State Highway Department Fund. This fund pays costs incurred to construct, improve, and maintain the state highway system. Disbursements are authorized by appropriation, and balances remaining in the fund are perpetually maintained for the purpose of the fund.

State Transportation Fund: This fund is constitutionally established to receive 1 percent of one-half of the 3 percent state sales tax on all motor vehicles. As provided by Section 226.225, RSMo, appropriations from this fund authorize the disbursements for transportation purposes other than road and highway construction and maintenance. Balances in the fund are perpetually maintained for the purpose of the fund.

Aviation Trust Fund: This fund is established by Section 155.090, RSMo, to receive the amount of use tax on aviation fuels used in aircraft for which no refund was applied. Section 142.230, RSMo, allows a refund of the motor fuel tax if the fuel is not used in the operation of motor vehicles on the highways. If a person uses the fuel in an aircraft but fails to apply for a refund, the amount of the refund is considered a gift to the Aviation Trust Fund.

As provided by Section 305.230, RSMo, appropriations from this fund authorize disbursements for the annual printing of aeronautical charts and directories, airport safety improvement projects, aviation safety workshops, promotion of aerospace education, and as matching funds on an 80 percent state/20 percent local basis for preventative maintenance and emergency repairs of publicly owned airport runways, land acquisition for development or improvement to airports, construction or repair of airports, engineering, technical studies or consultation related to aeronautics, airport planning projects, and for various safety and communications equipment. Balances in the fund are perpetually maintained for the purpose of the fund.

State Transportation Assistance Revolving Fund: This fund is established by Section 226.191, RSMo, to receive moneys appropriated or credited to it by the General Assembly for transportation needs other than the construction or maintenance of state highways. Other revenues of this fund include interest earned on the fund balance and any gifts, contributions, grants or bequests received from federal, private or other sources.

Disbursements are loans to any political subdivision of the state or to any public or private not-for-profit organization for the planning, acquisition, development and construction of facilities for transportation by air, water, rail or mass transit; for the purchase of vehicles for the transportation of elderly or handicapped persons; and for the purchase of rolling stock for transit purposes. Loan repayments, including interest, are credited to the fund and are used for other eligible projects. Balances in the fund are perpetually maintained for the purpose of the fund.

Local Fund: This fund, as authorized by Section 227.180, RSMo, receives as trustee monies from any county, civil subdivision or other interest party which may contract to contribute toward the costs of construction of any road or bridge as part of the state highway system. Disbursements from the fund consist primarily of refunds and transfers to the State Road Fund for costs of local projects.

General Revenue Fund-State: The department receives appropriations from this fund and does not maintain a proprietary interest in the fund. Appropriations from the fund are used to initially fund, or to provide matching funds or support for, programs paid wholly or partially from other sources.

Third State Building Fund: The department receives appropriations from this fund and does not maintain a proprietary interest in the fund. Appropriations from the fund are used for certain capital improvement projects. Any unexpended balances, representing the uncompleted portion of capital improvement projects, are transferred to the Third State Building Trust Fund and reappropriated for the following year.

Third State Building Trust Fund: The department receives appropriations from this fund and does not maintain a proprietary interest in the fund. Appropriations from the fund are used for certain capital improvement projects. Unexpended balances that are reappropriated for the following year represent the uncompleted portion of capital improvement projects.

D. Employee Fringe Benefits

In addition to the social security system, employees are covered by the Highway Employees' and Highway Patrol Retirement System (HEHPIP) (a noncontributory plan) and may participate in the Missouri Department of Transportation and Missouri State Highway Patrol's medical benefit and life insurance plan, and the state's deferred compensation and cafeteria plans. The cafeteria plan involves employee payroll reductions. The deferred compensation plan involves employee payroll deferrals and a monthly state matching contribution for each participating employee.

The state's required contributions for social security and medicare taxes are paid from the same funds as the related payrolls. Retirement system contributions and the state's contribution to the medical benefit and life insurance plans are paid from the State Highway Department Fund.

Transfers related to the state's portion of social security and medicare taxes are not appropriated by agency and thus are not presented in the financial statement at Exhibit E.

2. Cash and Investments

The balances of the General Revenue Fund-DOT Federal, State Highway Department Fund, State Road Fund, State Transportation Fund, Aviation Trust Fund, and State Transportation Assistance Revolving Fund are pooled with other state funds and invested by the state treasurer.

Amounts in the Self-Insurance Fund and the Local Fund represent cash and investments which are in the custody of the department. The department has determined that checking accounts, repurchase agreements, U.S. Treasury notes, and U.S. Government Agency notes are appropriate types of accounts and investments for its needs.

Self-Insurance Fund

Deposits

The department's deposits consisted of a noninterest-bearing checking account with a carrying amount equal to the bank balance of $62. The department's deposits at June 30, 1998, were entirely covered by federal depositary insurance.

Investments

The department's investments are composed of the following:

	June 30, 1998 Fair Value
Repurchase agreements (interest rate of 5.361) percent)	$ 286,185
U.S. Treasury notes (interest rates of 4.75 to 6.375 percent)	6,093,509
U.S. Government Agency notes (interest rates of 5.27 to 6.45 percent)	17,165,586
Total	$ 23,545,280

The net increase in the fair value of investments during the year ended June 30, 1998, was $20. This amount takes into account all changes in fair value (including purchases and sales) that occurred during the year.

These investments were held by a third-party custodial bank in the department's name, and were entirely covered by collateral securities held by the department's custodial bank in the department's name.

However, because of significantly higher bank balances at certain times during the year, uninsured and uncollateralized balances existed at those times although not at year-end.

To protect the safety of state deposits, Sections 30.270 and 110.020, RSMo 1994, require depositaries to pledge collateral securities to secure deposits not insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

Local Fund

Deposits

The department's deposits consisted of a noninterest-bearing checking account with a carrying amount equal to the bank balance of $247,089. The department's deposits at June 30, 1998, were entirely covered by federal depositary insurance or by collateral securities held by the department's custodial bank in the department's name.

Investments

The department's investments are composed of repurchase agreements with a fair value of $17,717,917.
These investments were held by a third-party custodial bank in the department's name, and were entirely covered by collateral securities held by the department's custodial bank in the department's name.

3. Risk Management

Various lawsuits against the department arise incident to the department's normal operations. These include workers' compensation, vehicle liability, general liability, inverse condemnation, and contractor suits. It is the policy of the department not to purchase commercial insurance, but to manage its risks internally by setting aside assets for the settlement of certain claims in its internal service fund, the Self-Insurance Fund. The Self-Insurance Fund services claims for workers' compensation, vehicle liability, and general liability.

Inverse condemnation and contractor suits are paid from the State Road Fund. While the outcome of cases currently in litigation cannot be determined, lawsuits are usually settled for substantially less than the amount of the suits. Historically, the amounts paid from the State Road Fund for such suits have not been material to the financial statements; therefore, no provisions for any liability that may result from such suits have been made in the financial statements.

Self-Insurance Fund liabilities are reported when it is probable that a loss has occurred and the amount of that loss can be reasonably estimated. Estimated claims payable represents the department's determination of the expected losses to be realized on known claims pending against the Self-Insurance Fund. Department personnel estimate the claims liability based on prior claims experience. Estimated unreported claims represents expected losses or claims against the Self-Insurance Fund that have been incurred but not reported. The unreported claims liability is established from data provided by an actuary.

Liabilities for incurred losses are reported at their discounted value, assuming an investment yield of 7 percent. Changes in the balance of claims liabilities during fiscal year 1998 were as follows:

	Balance July 1, 1997	Claims and Changes in Estimates	Claim Payments	Balance June 30, 1998
Estimated claims payable and unreported claims	$ 18,947,836	10,130,590	7,853,423	21,225,003

The department contracts annually with an actuary to provide estimates of fund liabilities. The estimates include pending claims and claims incurred but not reported. The actuary's estimates of unpaid losses at July 31, 1998, discounted at a rate of 7 percent for investment earnings, were as follows:

	Method 1	Method 2
Highway workers' compensation	$ 11,007,000	13,442,000
Highway patrol workers' compensation	2,162,000	2,621,000
Highway automobile liability	1,423,000	1,637,000
Highway general liability	5,452,000	7,885,000
	$ 20,044,000	25,585,000

Method 1 estimates of ultimate losses are calculated by utilizing the incurred loss development method. Method 2 estimates include the incurred loss development method, the paid loss development method, and the expected loss and development method.

4. Loan Proceeds

Loan proceeds consist of loans or advancements from the federal government, local governmental entities, or private sources to finance the acceleration of state projects which must be repaid in the future.

5. Operating Transfers Out

The transfer out amounts include the applicable funds' proportional share of fiscal year 1996 and 1995 refunds required by Article X, Section 18 of the Missouri Constitution. These

Fund	Amount
State Highway Department Fund	$ 8,207,612
State Road Fund	9,729,184
State Transportation Fund	4
Aviation Trust Fund	26,331

refunds were:

6. Appropriations Exercised by Other State Agencies

Various state agencies receive direct appropriations from the State Highway Department Fund to pay costs incurred in highway-related activities, and the Aviation Trust Fund for refunding of any overpayments or erroneous payment of any tax which is credited to the fund. These appropriations were exercised during the year ended June 30, 1998, by the following agencies:

At year-end, the department estimated future expenses on projects in progress and in various stages of planning as follows:

	June 30, 1998
By outside contractors:
Construction awards	$ 583,329,430
By the department
Preliminary engineering	255,994,109
Construction engineering	16,198,344
Right-of-way acquisition	56,290,714
Total by the department	328,483,167
Total	$ 911,812,597

Construction awards represent the balances of contract commitments for construction projects. These contractual commitments will become legal obligations of the department as work is performed or services are provided. These contractual commitments and planned expenses are not reflected in the financial statements.

At June 30, 1998, the department estimated federal participation on federal aid projects included in project totals above was $418,655,532.

9. Innovative Financing Agreements

The MoDOT has entered into a number of agreements with political subdivisions and transportation corporations, whereby alternative funding is secured to build highway projects. MoDOT commits future departmental revenues to repaying the entities which provided the funding. As of June 30, 1998, the obligations are as follows:

Required Supplementary Information

Year 2000 Project

The scope of the MoDOT Year 2000 project covers all functions directly performed by the department, as well as relationships with outside vendors, contractors, government entities, public institutions, and other stakeholders with whom MoDOT exchanges information.

There are unique distinctions between information technology systems and embedded technology components within the operations of MoDOT's basic infrastructure. MoDOT's Year 2000 project distinguishes between activities in these two categories for the purpose of applying appropriate expertise to each one. Although work performed in each category is separate and unique, there is a joint report and a common inventory and remediation database for the department.

MoDOT has adopted a five-stage methodology to address the Year 2000 issue, consisting of the following phases:

Awareness Phase
The awareness phase educates department personnel and the public to the various issues surrounding Year 2000 at MoDOT. Presentations, newsletters, internal web pages, project updates, and other multimedia events are some of the ways this information is disseminated. The project plan is created during this phase, and major tasks and subtasks to complete the work on time are identified. The priority scheme that determines critical exposures is established and key terms are defined.

Inventory Phase
The inventory phase identifies systems and components potentially affected by the year 2000 problem. The department established an initial list of systems and components which could be affected, and similar lists were obtained from national web sites dedicated to solving Year 2000 issues. This phase includes investigation of paper inventories, and a physical count for validation of the record.

Assessment Phase
The assessment phase performs a risk analysis by correlating the inventory list with the established set of priorities to determine the critical sequence for remediation. This phase also produces a remediation strategy that determines which components need remediation, those which are not critical enough to be addressed, and those which are not affected by Year 2000.

Remediation Phase
The remediation phase performs the actual repair, replacement, or disposal of components based upon priorities assigned in the assessment phase. Test procedures, test scripts and vendor validation are also tasks performed in this phase.

Implementation Phase

This phase puts components which have been modified for Year 2000 compliance back into production status. Contingency plans for critical business operations are developed and reviewed with business units to ensure a backup mode of operation exists, and that resources can be applied to the problem for a quick resolution.

Priorities
The department has defined a set of four criteria to address potential problems in MoDOT's systems and equipment. They are:

Priority 1 - Safety related (e.g., traffic signals)
Priority 2 - Immediate loss of stoppage of essential business functions (e.g., overdimension permits, weigh stations, bid lettings, payrolls, bill payment, computer hardware and software, communications, fleet, electric)
Priority 3 - Eventual loss or stoppage of business (e.g., heating, elevators, security, less essential computer hardware and software)
Priority 4 - Noncritical impact (e.g., copiers, microwaves, VCR's, electric wall clocks)

Remediation work is focused on the highest priorities first.

Resources Committed
As of April 2, 1999, in the information technology portion of the project, the awareness phase was 95 percent complete, the inventory phase was 88 percent complete, the assessment phase was 82 percent complete, and the remediation phase was 56 percent complete. In the embedded technology portion, the awareness phase was 95 percent complete, the inventory phase was 82 percent complete, the assessment phase was 77 percent complete, and the remediation phase was 64 percent complete.

An internal staff commitment of more than 28,000 hours is dedicated to the Year 2000 project, and $1.6 million in outside consultant resources will be utilized to complete the plan.

MISSOURI DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION
NOTE TO THE SUPPLEMENTARY DATA

1. General Fixed Assets

General fixed assets, which are recorded as expenditures when acquired, are capitalized at cost in the General Fixed Assets Account Group. Accumulated depreciation is recorded by reducing the investment in the General Fixed Assets Account Group. The department's general fixed assets consist of the following:

Buildings and Land: The cost of buildings and related improvements is capitalized when purchased and depreciated on a straight-line basis over the estimated useful life. All building and improvements owned at June 30, 1982 were previously expended and are presented as fully depreciated assets. Land has been capitalized at cost and is not depreciated. At June 30, 1998, general fixed assets included $26,601,850 of buildings in progress.

Vehicles and Specialized Equipment: This category consists of all department-owned vehicles and equipment. Equipment is recorded at original cost except for situations in which used equipment is traded in on the purchase of new equipment. In those situations, the recorded cost of the new equipment is the book value of the used equipment plus any cash given. Accumulated depreciation is calculated by using various straight-line or statistically derived formulas over the expected useful lives of the assets.

Tools and Equipment: This category consists of all department-owned tool and equipment items, with the exception of those purchased with federal funds. These items are depreciated on a straight-line basis over their estimated useful lives.

Tools and Equipment-Federal Funded: This category consists of tool and equipment items purchased initially with federal funds. These items are capitalized at cost, but they are not depreciated because including the depreciation expense in the additive rates would result in these costs being claimed again on federal projects.

Right-of-Way and Road and Bridge Construction: The department's accounting system is based on the "Manual of Uniform Highway Accounting and Financial Management Procedures" prepared by the American Association of State Highway Transportation Officials (AASHTO). Under the AASHTO system, the costs of right-of-way acquisition and road and bridge construction are treated as current period expenses and are not capitalized.

State Auditor’s Current Recommendations

MISSOURI DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION
SUMMARY OF FINDINGS

1. Property Damage (pages 41-43)

The department has not ensured responsible parties are identified and billed for the cost of repairing damage to MoDOT property. As a result, from January 1995 to March 1999, the department wrote-off as uncollectible approximately $3 million in property damage accounts. If the responsible parties would have been identified, an additional $1.2 million in revenues could have been billed and a substantial portion of this collected. In addition, instances were noted where accounts have not been properly established to account for the costs of repairs where MoDOT property was damaged. The amount of potential revenue which might have been lost as a result of this situation could not be determined.

2. Allocation of Federal Bridge Monies (pages 44-45)

During fiscal years 1998 and 1999, the MoDOT reduced the allocation of federal bridge monies to the various counties within the state and the city of St. Louis by over $1.1 million, the amount of funding appropriated to the State Auditor's office from the State Highway Department Fund during those years. This reduction in allocations did not appear justified.

3. Information Systems Division Reorganization (pages 45-46)

The procurement of consulting services, involving expenditures of approximately $336,000 related to the reorganization of the Information Systems Division, did not appear to be handled properly and authorized in accordance with department policy. There was no written contract/agreement between the MoDOT and the consultant identifying the scope of services to be provided and the compensation to be paid.

4. Moving Expenses (pages 47-48)

The department's employee moving expenses appear excessive.

5. Plane Usage (pages 48-50)

The specific purpose of many flights, all passengers, and other pertinent information is not adequately documented. In addition, documentation authorizing out-of-state flights and a comparison of the cost of a commercial flight to the cost of using a department (or charter) plane is not documented and retained.

6. District Procurements (pages 50-51)

The procurement of certain aggregate materials and gasoline and diesel purchases at various maintenance sheds in District 9 were not made in accordance with the department requirements.

7. Access to Computer System (page 51)

Access to the department's computer system is not updated on a timely basis when an employee moves to a new position or terminates employment.

8. Subrecipient Monitoring (pages 52-53)

The Local Public Agency Manual, which is provided to subreceipient entities and identifies federal compliance requirements, does not address the cash management requirement. The department does not ensure that subrecipients submit the required statement of procedures or ensure subrecipients evaluate at least three firms as required, when the subrecipient obtains engineering services. The department does not have adequate procedures to ensure findings reported in subrecipient audit reports are properly addressed.

MISSOURI DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION
MANAGEMENT ADVISORY REPORT

We have audited the special-purpose financial statements of the Missouri Department of Transportation as of and for the year ended June 30, 1998, and have issued our report thereon dated April 2, 1999.

The following Management Advisory Report presents our findings and recommendations arising from our audit of the department's special-purpose financial statements. During our audit, we also identified certain management practices which we believe could be improved. Our audit was not designed or intended to be a detailed study of every system, procedure, and transaction. Accordingly, the findings presented in the following report should not be considered as all-inclusive of areas where improvements may be needed.

1. Property Damage

Individuals or entities that damage MoDOT property are responsible for paying the costs of repairing the damage. Most of this damage occurs because of vehicular accidents. The District offices are primarily responsible for reporting the damage, accounting for the costs of repairs, and identifying the responsible parties.

When the Districts discover damage to department property, the Districts are supposed to establish a numbered property damage account for each accident to which all repair costs (i.e. labor, material, equipment, etc.) are charged. To identify the individual responsible for the damage, District personnel review accident reports received from the Missouri State Highway Patrol (MSHP) and local law enforcement agencies. Assuming the responsible party can be identified, the department bills the responsible party for the repair costs. If the responsible party has not been determined by the time the District notifies the Risk Management Division that the repairs are complete and all costs have been charged to the applicable property damage account, the department will write off the account as unknown and absorb the cost of the repairs.

During fiscal 1998, property damage costs recorded in the accounts receivable records totaled $1,907,255, property damage collections totaled $895,464, and accounts written off totaled $1,684,739 (including $642,856 in unknown accounts written off in March 1998). As of November 30, 1998, total property damage accounts receivable where the responsible parties were known (involving 1,184 accounts) exceeded $1.6 million. In addition, according to department records at that date, there existed an additional $1.5 million in damage caused by "unknown" parties (involving 1,874 accounts) which were still being carried on the records. Our review of the property damage records and related procedures disclosed the following concerns:

A. The department has not made a sufficient effort to ensure responsible parties are identified and billed for the cost of repairs. During fiscal year 1998, over 2,000 property damage accounts were set up, with approximately 1,200 of these accounts being classified as unknown. Approximately 70 percent of these unknown accounts relate to accidents in District 4 (Kansas City area) and District 6 (St. Louis area).

During a review of forty property damage accounts classified as unknown established during fiscal year 1998, we were able to match sixteen (40 percent) of these accounts to accident reports (prepared by either the MSHP or a local law enforcement agency) identifying a party responsible for the damage. The cost of repairs accumulated by the department for these sixteen accounts totaled approximately $60,000, and 11 of the 16 accounts, with accumulated costs totaling over $20,000, were written off during fiscal year 1998.

It appears the department has written off as unknown a significant amount of potentially billable revenues. During the period from January 1995 through March 1999, the department wrote off approximately $3 million in unknown property damage accounts as uncollectible. If the department had been able to identify the responsible parties for 40 percent (our error rate) of this amount, the department could have billed and possibly collected an additional $1.2 million related to these accounts. According to Risk Management Division personnel, approximately 75 percent of property damage billings are collected; therefore, it appears a substantial portion of this amount could have been collected had it been billed.

B. It appears in many instances property damage accounts have not been properly established to account for the costs of repairs where MoDOT property was damaged. The MSHP was able to provide us with a listing of all accident reports identifying damage to MoDOT property in fiscal year 1998 from its Statewide Traffic Accident Records (STAR) system. We then selected forty accident reports from this listing to determine if the MoDOT established property damage accounts related to these accidents. In thirty-four of forty (85 percent) accident reports selected, it appears a property damage account was not established. Further, in all these instances, the accident report identified a responsible party. Thus, it appears these individuals were not billed for the costs of any repairs.

Although it appears the cost of repairing the damage related to some of these accidents was minimal, it is likely some of this damage would have been billed had the account been properly established and the responsible party identified. Since property damage accounts were not established and the associated costs of the repairs were not accumulated, we could not determine the amount of potential lost revenue.

As a result of this situation, it appears the department may be losing additional billable revenue due to property damage accounts not being properly established.

We were able to detect the problems noted above through the use of information provided by the MSHP as well as information maintained by the Traffic Division at the department's Support Center. The Traffic Division maintains an accident file related to the number and type of accidents on a statewide basis and publishes a yearly Statewide Traffic Accident Statistics report. The Traffic Division maintains this accident file from monthly updates to the STAR system received from the MSHP. In addition, the Traffic Division has on-line access to the imaged accident reports from the STAR system.

Although the information maintained in the Traffic Division (including the imaged accident reports) could be very useful in identifying accidents involving damage to MoDOT property and the responsible parties, this information has not been shared with or used by those sections within the department (Risk Management Division and District offices) who are responsible for setting up the accounts, accumulating repair costs, and identifying and billing the responsible parties. From our discussions with various department personnel at both the Support Center and the Districts, it appears that identifying and billing the responsible parties for damage to MoDOT property has not been given a high priority. This has most likely contributed to the problems noted above.

According to MoDOT personnel, the department has five years from the date of the accident to bill the party responsible for the cost of repairing property damage. Therefore, it appears the department could still pursue a significant amount of those accounts written off as unknown in recent years. Considering the limited resources available and the extent of road work needed in the state, the MoDOT should make a concerted effort to ensure all potential revenue sources are pursued to the extent practical.

WE RECOMMEND the department ensure property damage revenue is maximized by properly setting up accounts involving damage to MoDOT property and identifying and billing the responsible parties on a timely basis. Information from the MSHP and the Traffic Division (including imaged accident reports) should be made available to the Risk Management Division and the Districts to assist in this effort. In addition, the department should consider reviewing accounts written off in the past five years to determine if the responsible parties can be identified and billed.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The department has collected $4,832,218 over the past five years through the property damage collection program. We have pursued collection on all claims where major highway structures (bridge, overhead sign, signal light, etc.) were damaged. We agree with the State Auditor that the development of the Patrol's STARS system along with enhancement of our own internal Traffic Accident System may facilitate a centralized search of accidents in an attempt to identify accidents where highway property was damaged. The department will reexamine any file written off over the past five years to see if there is a potential source of recovery identified by the STARS system and/or our own Traffic Accident System. However, the State of Missouri is a comparative negligence state and care and judgment must be exercised in the pursuit of claims collection to avoid counter claims where it can be alleged that a roadway feature contributed to the accident. Each accident is unique and must be carefully analyzed both in terms of a potential property damage recovery as well as any exposure of MoDOT to potential liability. Any increased attention to the collection program will be evaluated for cost effectiveness.

2. Allocation of Federal Bridge Monies

The MoDOT administers federal funds for the replacement and rehabilitation of public bridges from the Highway Bridge Replacement and Rehabilitation Program. Some of these monies are passed-through to the 114 counties within the state and the city of St. Louis (called off-system bridge replacement funds or the BRO Program). Although federal guidelines only require that 15 percent of these monies be allocated to these other political subdivisions, for fiscal years 1998 and 1999, the Missouri Highway and Transportation Commission (MHTC) authorized that $19.4 million in each year be allocated to these entities, representing approximately 19 percent and 17 percent of the funds, respectively.

For fiscal year 1998, the MoDOT reduced the amount allocated to these various entities by $571,831, the total amount appropriated in that year to the Missouri State Auditor's office (SAO) from the State Highway Department Fund. This was done to offset the SAO's audits of County Aid Road Trust (CART) Fund monies in third class counties. It appears this action was taken based on the legal advice of the department's Chief Counsel's Office which concluded that the SAO's audits of CART funds during county audits were an allowable expense (reimbursable) under federal guidelines. That office advised that the payments made to the SAO out of the State Highway Department Fund for CART audits are reimbursable "off the top" of BRO Program funds, and therefore, an amount equal to the audit costs could be deducted from the BRO Program funds prior to the distribution of the funds to the counties. The MoDOT also reduced the fiscal year 1999 allocation to the counties and the city of St. Louis by $600,089, the total amount appropriated to the SAO from the State Highway Department Fund in fiscal year 1999.

It appears the MoDOT's rationale is flawed and the department is not justified in reducing the BRO Program allocations. CART monies are not federal funds; therefore, the department's contention that the SAO audits of CART Fund monies justify the reduction of allocations from BRO Program funds is not valid. In addition, while a small portion of SAO audit costs relate to the audit of BRO funds in third class counties, most of the costs relate to the audit of other monies, including the audit of all MoDOT funds, funds appropriated and expended by other state agencies from the State Highway Department Fund, CART funds, etc. The local governments affected include some entities (including the city of St. Louis and first and second class counties) which receive no audit services from the SAO.

As a result of this situation, BRO Program monies allocated to all counties and the city of St. Louis were inappropriately reduced from what was authorized by the MHTC by over $1.1 million during fiscal years 1998 and 1999.

WE RECOMMEND the department discontinue reducing BRO Program allocations in this manner. Any adjustments to these allocations should be made on an equitable basis and comply with authorizations of the MHTC.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

Bridge funds received from the Federal Highway Administration (FHWA) are required to be used for the rehabilitation or replacement of deficient bridges located on public roads. States are required to allocate at least 15 percent and no more than 35 percent of their total apportioned bridge funds to the Off-System Bridge (BRO) Program. The MHTC approved the allocation of bridge funds for the BRO program and the use of the remainder of the funds for rehabilitation or replacement of deficient bridges on the rest of the network maintained by the department.

At the November 1998 Commission meeting, the MHTC made the allocation for the fiscal years 1998 and 1999 for the 114 counties and St. Louis, based on the anticipated revenue from the new TEA 21 funding legislation and the relative condition of the state's bridges on and off the state's system. The most important factor influencing the allocation of bridge funds among eligible recipients is the condition of the bridges being maintained by the counties, the city of St. Louis and MoDOT. The allocation decision made by the MHTC in November 1998 recognized that the condition of state maintained bridges as a group had deteriorated in relation to those maintained by the counties and city. The result was that more than 15 percent of available funds were allocated to BRO. Subsequently in March 1999 the MHTC, after consultation with the counties, increased the allocation for current and future years.

3. Information Systems Division Reorganization

In 1995, management of the Information Systems (IS) Division initiated a reorganization of that division. A consultant was hired in June 1995 to train IS personnel in the methodology used in the reorganization. This training was provided through a series of workshops conducted by the consultant or his designees. From June 1995 to January 1999, the department paid approximately $336,000 for these consulting services. The reorganization was completed in December 1998. Our review of the procurement of these consulting services and related expenditures disclosed the following concerns:

A. The procurement of these consulting services did not appear to be handled properly. It appears no request for proposal (RFP) was prepared to procure these services, nor were written bids or proposals solicited from other consultants.

According to the Director of the IS Division, formal bids or proposals were not solicited in this instance because he considered this consultant to be a sole-source provider of these services. However, the only documentation justifying the sole-source nature of the procurement provided by the Director of the IS Division in this instance was a letter from the consultant which noted that his services were unique and were not available elsewhere because the theory was a proprietary product of the company. Based on the documentation available, it appears this may not have been a proper sole-source procurement, and it is possible other consultants could have provided similar services to the IS Division.

In addition, it does not appear proper authorization was obtained for these expenditures. It appears the only approval related to these services was authorization from the department's Automation Policy Committee, and this approval appears to have only been related to the $25,000 license fee, not the cost of the training. The department's purchasing authority policy provided that expenditures over $75,000 should be approved by the Commission.

B. There was no written contract/agreement between the MoDOT and the consultant identifying the scope of services to be provided and the compensation to be paid. It appears the consultant established all parameters of the training, including his fee. For example, the agenda for the various workshops (training sessions) was established by the consultant. At his discretion, workshops were added or expanded to include more than one day on a topic. The consultant's fee was on a per workshop (usually a day long) basis and varied by the type of workshop. The cost of the workshops ranged from $4,000 to $6,300.

In addition to the amounts paid to the consultant, it appears the division generally paid luncheon costs for the day long workshops. It appears these meal costs generally averaged about $500 per workshop. The department should review the need to routinely incur meal costs for those individuals attending training sessions or workshops.

It appears the IS Division entered into this arrangement with this consultant without a clear understanding of the potential total costs. The scope of services was not defined by the IS Division and the consultant's fees were not established up-front.

The MoDOT should ensure that its operating divisions procure consulting services in a proper manner and comply with the department's authorization policy. In addition, the MoDOT should ensure all meal costs incurred are necessary.

WE RECOMMEND the department ensure its divisions procure consulting services in a proper manner and comply with the established authorization policy. The department should also ensure all meal costs incurred are necessary.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The original agreement for services from a single source vendor was made in accordance with the guidelines in place, at the time. In our opinion, the commitment was made for valid operating reasons and was executed in accordance with the prevailing policy. The documentation of the transaction may not be ideal, but approvals were obtained through the Automation Policy Committee, in the budgeting process and with management awareness. Subsequently in 1997, the department clarified and expanded its procurement procedures and published a new procurement handbook. Steps will be taken in the future to ensure formal documentation is retained at decision points for the projects extending over long periods of time. These projects will be treated like a single project rather than several smaller projects.

4. Moving Expenses

The department reimburses various moving expenses related to the recruitment of top management employees as well as the transfer of existing employees to other locations within the state. At our request, the department prepared a report of employee moving expenses paid during fiscal year 1998. According to this report, such costs totaled almost $600,000. As similarly noted in our prior report, it appears some of these expenses may be unreasonable.

The MoDOT's policy for reimbursing such costs meets or exceeds the Office of Administration's (OA) policy in seven of sixteen areas. In addition, the MoDOT provides reimbursement in nine areas that are not allowed by OA's policy. One of these nine areas includes an additional amount to cover the increased tax liability on the reimbursed income tax liability (the gross-up).

While some of the MoDOT's reimbursable items appear typical, especially when a move occurs at the request of the employer, others appear excessive. For example, the total amount paid during fiscal year 1998 to reimburse individuals for their additional tax liability resulting from other reimbursed expenses was $237,636. This additional payment, which included the "gross-up" amount, is determined by applying tax rates ranging from 28.60 percent to 45.65 percent to the taxable moving expense reimbursement and to the tax liability reimbursements. Using the gross-up provision, taxable moving expenses of approximately $9,450 reimbursed to an employee in November 1997, resulted in an additional payment of $6,750, resulting in total reimbursements being paid to this individual of approximately $16,200.

While reviewing the moving expense information provided, we noted an instance where more than one move number was assigned to an individual, and it appears for some of the employees listed, additional expenses could have been paid in a previous or subsequent year. However, we compared the listing to employee salaries to look for instances where the department paid moving expenses exceeding 10 percent of the employee's annual salary. This appeared to be the case in over half of the moves. We noted four moves where the moving expense reimbursement was more than 50 percent of the employee's annual salary with one of the four individuals being reimbursed more than $30,000. By limiting the total reimbursement to 10 percent of the employee's salary, the department's moving expense for fiscal year 1998 would have been approximately $250,000, a savings of about $350,000. It appears that by revising the moving expense reimbursement policy, the department could redirect highway resources to maintenance and construction activities.

Although the department's moving expenses decreased by over 30 percent in fiscal year 1998 compared to the previous year, this was not due to the department changing its reimbursement policy. In addition, it appears the department is currently reviewing its reimbursement policy and discussing its provisions with the Office of Administration; however, no changes had been made to the policy as of April 1999.

WE AGAIN RECOMMEND the department continue to reevaluate the current moving expense policy, and look for ways to redirect resources currently used on moving to maintenance and construction activities. The department should consider including a per move cap on reimbursements.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

Employees are moved to benefit the traveling public by placing the selected talent in the proper location. It is MoDOT's intent to create an environment that will encourage employees to relocate to better serve the department's needs. When an employee relocates they incur substantial out-of-pocket expenses. It is the department's policy to reimburse the actual cost incurred including any tax burden that accompanies this reimbursement. To place an arbitrary limit of 10 percent of salary on moving expense as recommended by the audit would have resulted in 40 employees incurring an average of $9,105 in expenses not reimbursed. In today's tight labor market when competition is exceptionally intense for engineering and technical talents, benefits including moving reimbursements, must be competitive with the market place. The department has made a decision that its current policy is necessary to support its operating needs. We will continue to work with the Office of Administration to identify changes in policy to eliminate differences while continuing to meet those operating needs.

5. Plane Usage

The department maintains a fleet of three planes (a King Air, a Navajo, and a Cessna) to transport department employees and members of the Highway and Transportation Commission for various reasons, such as meetings at the districts, commission meetings, aerial photography, or other department business. According to department records, approximately $207,000 (excluding pilot salaries, but including fuel, oil, parts, and repairs) was spent in 1998 to operate its planes, or a per hour cost of operation ranging from $84 to $482. The department's flight logs are to include information such as the purpose of the flight, the pilot, departure and arrival points, departure and arrival times, flying time, list of passengers, and other miscellaneous information.

The department classified 350 flights taken in department planes from March 1998 through March 1999 into twelve categories, such as travel by a Commissioner(s) for a purpose other than a commission meeting; travel by a Commissioner(s) for a commission meeting; travel by administration office personnel involving one or two passengers; travel by administration office personnel involving over two passengers; etc. Approximately 29 percent and 51 percent of these flights related to travel by Commissioners and department personnel, respectively. The other 20 percent of the flights were for miscellaneous reasons, including aerial photography.

Our review of the flight logs and related documentation disclosed the following concerns:

A. The specific purpose of many flights was not adequately documented. In many instances, the flight logs included only a very general description of the purpose of the flight, such as "meetings". In addition, we noted some information presented on the logs was not complete. There were several instances where departure and arrival points and/or the departure and arrival times were not recorded. In addition, the flight logs did not always list the names of all passengers. Sometimes, if there was more than one passenger, a notation of one passenger's name was included on the log, but the additional passengers were noted as +1, +2, etc.

   To ensure the planes are used only for official state business, the specific purpose of the flight, all passengers, and other pertinent information should be fully documented.

B. Department records indicated twenty-one out-of-state flights occurred between March 1998 and March 1999. One of these flights was a charter flight; however, the other flights were in department planes. According to department personnel, out-of-state travel in department (or charter planes) requires authorization by the department's management. In addition, employees are to provide management a comparison of the costs of commercial flights to the costs of using a department plane. The department did not retain documentation authorizing the out-of-state flights or of the cost comparisons.

   To ensure out-of-state flights in department (or charter) planes are properly authorized and to ensure the most economical use of state resources, the department should prepare and retain written authorization for such flights and retain documentation comparing the costs of commercial flights to the costs of using department (or charter) planes. This documentation should be retained with the other flight information.

WE RECOMMEND the department:

A. Ensure the specific purpose of all flights, the names of all passengers, and other pertinent information is documented.

B. Ensure proper authorization for out-of-state flights and a comparison of the costs of commercial flights to the cost of using department (or charter) planes for such flights is documented and retained.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

MoDOT does not classify flights. Flight logs just happened to be stacked and labeled at the time of the audit to verify a legislative request. Since April 1999, all passenger flights are being handled by the Office of Administration - Flight Operations. Flight requests and information are consistently being furnished to OA by the requestor and pilots. The information is included on the flight manifests. We agree with the recommendation, and the existing process ensures flight information is properly documented.

Ensuring proper authorization for out-of-state flights and economic comparisons are a responsibility of the requestor. We will reiterate to requestors the need to retain this information.

6. District Procurements

During our audit, we reviewed various expenditures and related documentation to support the procurement of aggregate material and gasoline and diesel at several maintenance sheds in District 9 (Willow Springs). Our review disclosed that such purchases were not always made in accordance with the MoDOT requirements. According to the MoDOT's procurement handbook, purchases between $1,000 and $3,000 need written quotes and purchases over $3,000 require formal bids. For purchases under $1,000 (also for purchases of gasoline and diesel over $1,000), the department guidelines allow the use of telephone quotes. The documentation of telephone quotes should include the vendors contacted, the time and date of the contacts, and the vendors' quoted prices. The department's policy requires that bid documentation be retained. The specific problems noted were as follows:

A. In July 1998, maintenance personnel in District 9 purchased sand, costing a total of $8,300, for three maintenance sheds. There was no documentation of bids for this purchase. Since this purchase was over $3,000, the department's formal bid procedures, including the retention of bid documentation, should have been followed.

B. We also reviewed fifty-seven purchases of gasoline and diesel. According to maintenance personnel, telephone quotes are used for these purchases and department procedures for telephone quotes provide that a minimum of three vendors should be called, if three are available. In nine instances (16 percent), no bid documentation was available to support the purchases. In addition, in twenty-five instances (44 percent), there was documentation of only two bids being obtained. Maintenance personnel indicated that in these instances, a third vendor was not available or a third vendor was contacted but did not provide a bid/quote. However, there was no documentation maintained to support these explanations.

   The department needs to ensure that the department's policies and procedures related to the procurement of gasoline and diesel are followed and bid documentation is properly retained.

WE RECOMMEND the department ensure its bid policies and procedures are followed related to the purchase of aggregate material and gasoline/diesel by the districts. In addition, adequate bid documentation should be retained.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

We concur that all documentation for bid/quotes should be retained. We will communicate a reminder of this requirement to district staff and request this policy be followed by all locations with these types of transactions. A quality assurance program is being implemented to ensure compliance to this and other department policies and procedures.

7. Access to Computer System

When department employees change jobs or terminate employment, their access to the department's computer system is not updated on a timely basis. An employee is initially authorized access to the system when a Network Access Request Form is processed. This form identifies the access each employee is allowed based on their job title and description, is approved by the appropriate manager, and is sent to the Information System (IS) Division for entry and access to the system. When an employee moves to a different position or terminates employment, the applicable manager is responsible for removing the employee's authorization to the previous access areas. However, according to IS Division personnel, a query of the department's computer system disclosed that over 1,400 employee identification numbers were still in the system related to individuals who were not currently MoDOT employees.

To establish proper accountability and ensure the security of the data within the computer system, access to information should be limited to current department employees who need it to perform their assigned duties. Access to the department's computer system should be updated on a timely basis when an employee moves to a new position or terminates employment.

WE RECOMMEND the department ensure employee access to its computer system is updated on a timely basis.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

When department employees change jobs or terminate employment, their access to the department's computer system is not updated on a timely basis.

We concur with the recommendation. Although procedures are in place to deactivate employee computer IDs, delays often occur as a result of the need to determine the proper disposition of departing employees' computer files in regard to ongoing work in their area. A more timely process for performing this task would contribute to a quicker deactivation of computer IDs.

8. Subrecipient Monitoring

The MoDOT passes federal funds to subrecipient local governments through various programs, including the Highway Bridge Replacement and Rehabilitation Program. OMB Circular A-133 requires the grant recipients to provide subrecipients the applicable federal compliance requirements and to monitor the subrecipients' activities to provide reasonable assurance that the subrecipients administer the federal awards in compliance with the federal requirements. The MoDOT provides each recipient of federal funds a Local Public Agency Manual (LPA) which identifies the applicable federal compliance requirements.

A. Section 6.2.2 of the Cash Management Improvement Act Agreement between the State of Missouri and the United States Department of Treasury states that funds should be requested such that they are received not more than two days prior to disbursement of a payment. The LPA does not address this cash management requirement. Some subrecipients incur the related expenditures prior to claiming reimbursement from MoDOT; however, it appears many subrecipients request and receive grant funds from MoDOT prior to disbursing the monies. Audits of some subrecipients have reported these entities holding funds longer than two days before payment is made to the applicable parties, with some monies being held for a significant amount of time.

   The MoDOT must monitor cash drawdowns by its subrecipients to ensure that subrecipients conform substantially to the same standards of timing and amount as apply to the state. In addition, the LPA should be revised to address these requirements.

B. Sections 8.289 and 8.291, RSMo 1994, provide that when obtaining engineering services for any capital improvement project, at least three highly qualified firms should be considered. The LPA provides that each subrecipient shall submit to MoDOT a statement of procedures which it uses to evaluate and select consultants and that three or more firms be considered before the final selection is made. However, the MoDOT does not ensure that subrecipients submit the required statement of procedures or ensure subrecipients evaluate a least three firms as required. Audits of some subrecipients have reported that the applicable subreicipent had no documentation to indicate at least three engineering firms were considered prior to a contract for engineering services being entered into.

   The MoDOT should establish procedures to ensure subrecipients submit the required statement of procedures and evaluate at least three firms.

C. The MoDOT does not have adequate procedures to ensure findings reported in subrecipient audit reports are properly addressed. Subrecipients have not always been contacted or management decisions issued related to audit findings. OMB Circular A-133 requires subrecipients expending $300,000 or more in federal awards during the subrecipient's fiscal year to have a single audit performed. The pass-through entity is also required to issue management decisions on audit findings in those reports within six months of receipt of the report and ensure that the subrecipient takes appropriate and timely corrective action.

WE RECOMMEND the MoDOT:

A. Inform subrecipients about the cash management requirements and establish procedures to ensure the requirements are met.

B. Establish procedures to ensure subrecipients submit a statement of procedures used to evaluate and select engineering consultants as required and ensure subrecipients consider at least three firms before procuring such services.

C. Establish procedures to ensure that management decisions are made on subrecipient audit findings within six months after receipt of the audit reports and that the subrecipient takes appropriate and timely corrective action.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

We agree with the auditor's findings. Our Corrective Action Plan includes our planned actions to address these findings.

This report is intended for the information of the management of the Missouri Department of Transportation and other applicable government officials. However, this report is a matter of public record and its distribution is not limited.

Follow-Up on State Auditor’s Prior Recommendations

MISSOURI DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION
FOLLOW-UP ON STATE AUDITOR'S PRIOR RECOMMENDATIONS

This section reports follow-up action taken by the Missouri Department of Transportation on recommendations made in the Management Advisory Report (MAR) of our reports issued for the Department of Transportation for the year ended June 30, 1997, and the Special Review of Department of Transportation 15-Year Road and Bridge Program. The prior recommendations which have not been implemented, but are considered significant, have been repeated in the current MAR. Although the remaining unimplemented recommendations have not been repeated, the department should consider implementing these recommendations.

DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION
YEAR ENDED JUNE 30, 1997

1. MoDOT Expenditures

A. When comparing the MoDOT's moving expense policy to OA's moving expense policy, the MoDOT policy met or exceeded the OA policy in seven of sixteen areas. The MoDOT also provided reimbursement in nine areas that were not allowed by the OA policy. In addition, some moving expense reimbursements appeared excessive.

B. The necessity for a new in-house wireless communication system to upgrade cellular phone service within the Support Center building was not adequately justified. In addition, the department paid an invoice (related to the upgrade) for $13,080 twice.

C. The Information Systems (IS) Division continued using highly paid computer consultants for various long-term projects. Department personnel indicated they used consultants because their own EDP staff did not have the expertise to develop the needed systems. If some of the work provided by consultants were shifted to employees, the department's cost savings could be substantial.

D. The MoDOT did not have department-wide policies and procedures and a monitoring system for the assignment and usage of cellular phones.

Recommendation:

The department:

A. Reevaluate the current moving expense policy, and look for ways to redirect resources currently used on moving to maintenance and construction activities. The department should consider including a per move cap on reimbursements.

B. Perform an adequate cost/benefit analysis when upgrading phone service. In addition, the department should contact the vendor and obtain reimbursement for the $13,080 overpayment.

C. Actively pursue the hiring of qualified EDP staff to develop necessary departmental systems.

D. Develop department-wide policies and procedures for the use of cellular phones. In addition, cellular phone usage should be monitored to ensure costs are necessary and reasonable.

Status:

A. Not implemented. See MAR No. 4.

B. We noted no similar upgrading of the department's phone system during the current audit. In addition, the department received reimbursement for the overpayment in June 1998.

C. During fiscal year 1998, the IS Division increased the starting salary for its new employees in order to obtain qualified personnel. Although the division hired new employees and filled the maximum number of full-time employee slots, the division continued to experience high turnover. Thus, the department continued to pay significant amounts to computer consultants. Although not repeated in the current MAR, our recommendation remains as stated above.

D. Not implemented. It does not appear any significant changes have been made at this time; however, a revised policy has been drafted. Although not repeated in the current MAR, our recommendation remains as stated above.

2. MoDOT Accounting System Records and Procedures

A. The department used a computerized application to convert receipt and disbursement transactions from the department's object code classification system to the system used by the state's accounting system (SAM). Some department codes were not appropriately converted to SAM codes, resulting in some expenditures being improperly classified on statewide accounting records.

B. The MoDOT had not established a general long term debt account group (GLTDAG) in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles to account for future obligations. In addition, a long-term debt payment was not properly recorded on the state's accounting system.

C. The Property Damage Receivable and the Allowance for Unknown Damage accounts in the department's manual general ledger appeared to be used inappropriately.

D. The department did not submit month-end business billings to the Federal Highway Administration on a timely basis. As a result, more than $320,000 in potential interest revenue was lost in fiscal year 1997 because the deposit of the related reimbursements into the state treasury was delayed.

Recommendation:

The department:

A. Until the switch to the state's accounting system, ensure expenditures are coded so that they will be properly presented on the SAM system. This could include establishing necessary MoDOT object codes which do not currently exist, ensuring existing MoDOT codes properly convert to SAM object codes, ensuring expenditures are charged to the proper department code, and preparing adjusting entries for material amounts recorded in error on the SAM system.

B. Establish a GLTDAG in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles for its long-term debts. The department should ensure long-term debt payments are properly recorded on the state's accounting system.

C. Review the necessity and reasonableness of the Property Damage Receivable and allowance account.

D. Reduce the time between the expenditure of funds and the request for federal reimbursement.

Status:

A. Partially implemented. Effective July 1998, the department changed several of its object codes to properly convert to the SAM system. In addition, department personnel indicated the conversion to the new statewide financial accounting system in July 1999 should help resolve other problem areas.

B. Implemented.

C. Implemented. The department discontinued recording unknown damage accounts as accounts receivable on the general ledger and eliminated the allowance account. Now only property damage accounts where the responsible parties are known are included in the general ledger's accounts receivable.

D. Not implemented. During fiscal year 1998, month-end business billings were still not being submitted to the Federal Highway Administration on a timely basis. However, the department is actively involved in OA's implementation of the new statewide financial management software system. Department personnel indicated that once the system is fully implemented, the month-end business billings will be submitted on a timely basis. Although not repeated in the current MAR, our recommendation remains as stated above.

3. General Fixed Asset Records and Procedures

A. Equipment which was 100 percent federally funded was not included in the general ledger general fixed assets account.

B. Completed projects included in the department's general ledger account Buildings in Progress (BIP) were not transferred to the Buildings account in a timely manner.

C. The MoDOT did not determine if its lease-purchase agreements for computer hardware met the criteria for a capital lease.

D. An annual physical inventory of general fixed assets of various divisions was not taken, although annual inventories were required by department policy.

Recommendation:

A. Record 100 percent federally funded equipment in the general ledger.

B. Ensure BIP project costs are transferred to the Buildings account on a timely basis after completion of the project.

C. Review lease-purchase agreements to determine if the leases are capital leases. The department should record assets acquired under capital lease agreements on the fixed asset records at the inception of the lease.

D. Ensure annual physical inventories of general fixed assets are taken, in accordance with department policy.

Status:

A,B &D. Implemented.

C. Partially implemented. The MoDOT has taken a physical inventory of all lease-purchased computer equipment and plans to record this equipment on the fixed asset records after June 1999.

4. District Office Reviews

A. An annual physical inventory is taken of maintenance materials, petroleum products, and garage stock inventories. Variances between the physical counts and the inventory records were not adequately investigated.

B. An annual physical inventory of all tool and equipment items was not always taken at one of the district offices visited during the audit.

C. Money received by one of the districts visited was not always transmitted to the Support Center in a timely manner.

Recommendation:

The department:

A. Establish inventory control systems which permit timely investigation of variances/discrepancies between inventory records and physical counts. Adjustments should only be made after differences are investigated, and approval for the adjustment is made by an appropriate individual.

B. Ensure annual physical inventories of general fixed assets are taken, in accordance with department policy.

C. Transmit receipts daily or when accumulated receipts exceed $100.

Status:

We did not conduct similar district office visits during the current audit; however, our recommendations remain as stated above.

5. Staffing Levels

The MoDOT's reengineering effort did not determine the optimal overall level of staffing necessary for the various divisions, or if all existing functions were necessary. While there was an overall decline in full-time employees department-wide in 1997, the number of employees at the Support Center continued to increase. In addition, the Support Center did not provide guidelines for tracking the changes in the make-up of its maintenance sheds and staff, nor accumulate district data to determine what was happening statewide.

Recommendation:

The department determine optimum staffing levels and the necessity of the various functions. The department should track staffing to ensure goals are met.

Status:

Implemented.

6. Davis-Bacon Act Compliance

The MoDOT's system of internal control required wage interviews be conducted by the project's Resident Engineer to ensure the contractor was paying the appropriate prevailing wage, in accordance with the Davis-Bacon Act. Wage interviews were not always conducted in accordance with the department's policy

Recommendation:

The MoDOT implement procedures to ensure the required number of wage interviews are performed to document compliance with the Davis-Bacon Act.

Status:

While we again noted problems in this area during fiscal year 1998, it appears the department took actions to address these problems in early fiscal year 1999.

7. Real Property Dispositions

The MoDOT did not always contact the awarding agency prior to disposing of real property acquired with federal funds as required.

Recommendation:

The MoDOT obtain disposition instructions prior to disposing of real property acquired with federal funds.

Status:

We noted no instances of errors of this type during the current audit period.

15-Year (1992-2007) Road and Bridge Program

Due to the lack of adequate cost data, the department was not able to adequately monitor progress on the 15-Year Plan. The department did not track the 15-Year Plan actual construction costs by project and periodically compare the original estimated costs to actual costs incurred. The 15-Year Plan did not consider inflation in its cost estimates and the plan's estimate of funds available for construction was never adequate to meet initial estimates of project costs. Substantial construction funds were used on projects other than 15-Year Plan projects, projects were not adequately prioritized and periodically reevaluated. In addition, estimated and actual revenues and project costs were not adequately reviewed, compared, and evaluated.

Recommendation:

The department better monitor all aspects of the 15-Year Plan. Priorities should be established for the remaining projects and periodically evaluated and modified as necessary. A new estimate of the plan costs for the remaining projects should be developed which considers factors such as inflation, new state and federal regulations, and changes in the planned scope of projects.

Status:

In the department's first Annual Report to the Joint Committee on Legislative Oversight, in November 1998, the department concluded that the initial cost estimates of the 15-Year Plan were substantially understated and underlying assumptions were not correct. The MoDOT indicated that it was not possible, under any reasonable assumptions, for the department to complete the 15-Year Plan with currently anticipated revenues. Thus, the 15-Year Plan was replaced with a 5-Year Plan.

STATISTICAL SECTION

History, Organization, and
Statistical Information

MISSOURI DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION
HISTORY AND ORGANIZATION

The State Highway Department was created in 1913 to act as the state's agent for public roads. The State Highway Commission was created in 1921 with the passage of the Centennial Road Law and was charged with the administration of the network of connecting state highways, including their location, design, construction, and maintenance. Missouri's state highway system currently embraces some 32,319 miles of highway which have been developed and improved since 1917.

The Missouri Department of Transportation was created by the Omnibus State Reorganization Act of 1974. The department's objective was to develop and implement a plan for meeting the total transportation needs of the people of the state.

The Missouri-St. Louis Metropolitan Airport Authority, the Bi-State Development Agency, the Kansas City Area Transportation Authority, and the four bridge commissions were assigned to the Department of Transportation by the reorganization act. The Missouri Rail Facility Improvement Authority was established pursuant to Section 620.954, RSMo, and was attached to the Highway and Transportation Commission for reporting and budgeting purposes, but is otherwise not subject to the supervision and control of the Commission. Effective July 1, 1985, Section 620.953, RSMo, transferred all powers, duties, and functions of the Missouri Rail Facility Improvement Authority to the Department of Economic Development, Division of Community and Economic Development.

On November 6, 1979, an amendment to the Missouri Constitution was passed by the state's voters. It merged the Department of Transportation and the State Highway Department to form the Department of Highway and Transportation. This constitutional amendment gave a newly created Highway and Transportation Commission the authority over all state transportation programs and facilities.

In August 1996, Section 226.005, RSMo, changed the name of the department to the Department of Transportation.

The department is divided into a support center and ten districts. The Support Center, which oversees the operation and administration of the department, is separated into administrative and engineering divisions and is located in Jefferson City. The districts are ten separate geographical areas with a district engineer in charge of each district to administer the work within the defined area.

The Multimodal Operations Division is responsible for developing and promoting appropriate use of navigable waterways, including the development of ports. It is also to develop, or assist in developing, public mass transportation systems in rural and urban areas, with attention to elderly and handicapped users. In addition, it is responsible for developing aviation and rail facilities and services.

At June 30, 1998, the department employed 6,338 individuals.

The Highway and Transportation Commission is a bipartisan body of six members appointed by the governor with the consent of the Senate for a term of six years. Not more than three members can belong to the same political party. At June 30, 1998, the six members were:

Member	City	Term Expires
S. Lee Kling, Chairman	St. Louis	October 13, 2001	(1)
Robert E. Jones, Vice Chairman	Des Peres	December 1, 1999
Edward D. Douglas, Member	Chillicothe	December 1, 2001
Ollie W. Gates, Member	Kansas City	December 1, 2003
William E. Gladden, Member	Houston	October 13, 2001
W.L. "Barry" Orscheln, Member	Moberly	December 1, 2003

(1) Elected as chairman on January 9, 1998

Also, serving by direct appointment of the Commission at June 30, 1998, were Joseph Mickes, Chief Engineer; Richard L. Tiemeyer, Chief Counsel; and Mari Ann Winters, Commission Secretary.

In 1998, Section 226.040, RSMo, was revised and authorizes the Highway and Transportation Commission to appoint a chief executive officer (director) for the department. Pursuant to this legislative change, in August 1998, the Highway and Transportation Commission appointed Joseph Mickes, as Director. In February 1999, Henry Hungerbeeler replaced Mr. Mickes as Director.

The Director appoints all major administrative chiefs and division heads with the approval of the Commission.

(1) Interstate highways, such as I-70 and I-44, are a national system designed to promote interstate commerce and provide defense access needs.

(2) Primary highways extend into each county of the state and link the state's population centers. This system also provides both interstate and intrastate travel. Primary highways are generally U.S. routes and major state routes such as U.S. 54, MO 37, and MO 5.

(3) Supplementary highways collect traffic and funnel it to the primary system. They also provide a high level of service to adjoining property. They are commonly known as "farm-to-market" roads. Supplementary highways are generally lettered state routes such as A, B, C, and D.

The state system accounts for 31 percent of total roads and streets in the state. Vehicle miles of travel on the state highway system have increased to about 44 billion miles per year.

CITY OF MATTHEWS, MISSOURI

From The Office Of State Auditor
Claire McCaskill

Report No. 99-113
November 23, 1999

AUDIT REPORT

Office Of The
State Auditor Of Missouri
Claire McCaskill

FACT SHEET

Some problems were discovered as a result of an audit conducted by our office in response to the request of petitioners from the City of Matthews, Missouri.

NOTE: Recommendations, as well as responses from the city, which correspond with the findings below are included in the audit.

During 1998, the Board of Aldermen became aware of serious financial problems facing the city. Instances were noted where a vendor had turned the city's account over to a collection agency to obtain payment and the city had not paid its bills and withholding taxes in a timely manner. The city had not paid New Madrid County since 1988 for their share of election costs and printing the city's tax statements. This bill totals $5,064 and the city is currently making monthly payments to the county. In addition, the city was assessed and paid penalties and interest on delinquent withholding taxes totaling $7,167 during 1997 and 1998.

Records accounting for the amounts billed to and paid by water, sewer and trash customers were inadequate. The former City Clerk's utility accounts receivable records prior to September 1998 were not complete. Some customers were omitted from the records and payments made by customers were not consistently recorded on the receivable records. As a result, it is not clear if many of the customers paid their utility bills.

Budgets and financial statements were not properly prepared and used by the Board of Aldermen to aid in managing the city finances. In addition, the balance in the city's bank accounts was not adequately monitored resulting in unnecessary overdraft and maintenance charges totaling $992 during 1998 and 1997.

Voters approved a one cent general sales tax in 1988, but because city officials failed to provide the Missouri Department of Revenue with the election results, the sales tax was never implemented. As a result, the city has lost significant amounts over the last eleven years.

Water, sewer, and trash revenues have not been restricted for the purpose of providing the related services.

Ordinances have not been adopted to establish the compensation and duties of the city's elected officials and the City Clerk. The former City Clerk received three extra weekly checks totaling $651 that were not included in the payroll register.

The City Collector does not prepare annual reports of tax collections and delinquent taxes, and penalties are not correctly assessed on delinquent taxes.

The city does not have a formal bid policy, documentation to support disbursements was not always retained, the board does not document its review and approval of expenditures, and invoices are not always marked paid after payment is made. Cash bonuses totaling $1,100 were paid to city employees and elected officials during 1998.

The City Clerk also serves as the City Treasurer and the City Collector contrary to an Attorney General Opinion.

Budgets do not meet statutory requirements. The city does not publish financial statements, submit annual financial reports to the State Auditor's office, or obtain annual audits.

Minutes of board meetings were not prepared prior to September 1998, and minutes prepared after this date were not signed. Notices of meetings were not posted. The city's ordinances are not complete and up-to-date, and the city does not have a policy regarding public access to city records.

CLAIRE C. McCASKILL
Missouri State Auditor

To the Honorable Mayor
and
Members of the Board of Aldermen
City of Matthews
Matthews, Missouri 63867

The State Auditor was petitioned under Section 29.230, RSMo, to audit the city of Matthews, Missouri. Our audit of the city included, but was not limited to, the year ended December 31, 1998. The objectives of this audit were to:

1. Perform procedures we deemed necessary to evaluate the petitioners' concerns.

2. Review compliance with certain constitutional provisions, statutes, ordinances, and attorney general's opinions as we deemed necessary or appropriate in the circumstances.

3. Review certain management practices which we believe could be improved.

Our audit was made in accordance with generally accepted government auditing standards and included such procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances. We also reviewed board minutes, city policies and ordinances, and various city financial records.

Our audit was limited to the specific matters described above and was based on the selective tests and procedures considered appropriate in the circumstances. Had we performed additional procedures, other information might have come to our attention which would have been included in this report.

The accompanying History and Organization is presented for informational purposes. This information was obtained from the city and was not subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audit of the city.

MANAGEMENT ADVISORY REPORT

CITY OF MATTHEWS, MISSOURI
SUMMARY OF FINDINGS

1. Financial Oversight and Monitoring (pages 10-11)

During 1998, the Board of Aldermen became aware of serious financial problems such as untimely deposits of federal and state withholding tax, untimely payments to vendors, inadequate records of water, sewer, and trash payments, and inadequate budget and financial statements. In addition, the city lost significant revenue by not properly implementing a one cent general sales tax that voters approved back in 1988.

2. Expenditures (pages 11-13)

The city does not have a formal bid policy, documentation to support disbursements was not always retained, the board does not review and approval all expenditures, and invoices are not always marked paid after payment is made. Cash bonuses totaling $1,100 were paid to city employees and elected officials during the two years ended 1998. The city does not maintain a written agreement for services rendered or obtained.

3. Restricted Revenues (pages 14-15)

The city does not ensure restricted revenues are spent only for allowable purposes. The city has not properly funded various reserve and replacement accounts as required by its revenue bond covenants. Water meter deposits are not separately identified in the general fund and are used for operating expenses.

4. City Utilities (pages 16-17)

Utility accounts receivables are not balanced with billings and collections on a monthly basis. The city has not performed periodic formal reviews of the water or sewer rates. The city does not reconcile the total gallons of water billed to customers to the gallons of water pumped.

5. Accounting Records and Procedures (pages 17-19)

The City Clerk also serves as the City Treasurer and the City Collector contrary to an Attorney General Opinion. Controls over cash receipts are not adequate and several weaknesses were noted in cash disbursement records and procedures.

6. Budgets and Financial Reporting (pages 19-20)

Budgets do not meet statutory requirements. The city does not publish financial statements, submit annual financial reports to the State Auditor's office, or obtain annual audits.

7. Board Meetings, Minutes, and Ordinances (pages 20-21)

Minutes of board meetings were not prepared prior to September 1998, and minutes prepared after this date were not signed. Notices of meetings are not posted. The city's ordinances are not complete and up-to-date, and the city does not have a policy regarding public access to city records.

8. Payroll and Personnel Procedures (pages 21-23)

Ordinances have not been adopted to establish the compensation and duties of the city's elected officials and the City Clerk. The former City Clerk received three extra weekly checks totaling $651 that were not included in the payroll register. No records are maintained of vacation and sick leave earned and taken, the city does not have a personnel policy, and employees do not prepare time sheets.

9. Property Tax Procedures (page 23)

The City Collector does not prepare annual reports of tax collections and delinquent taxes, and penalties are not correctly assessed on delinquent taxes.

10. City Property (page 24)

The city does not prepare and maintain permanent, detailed property records for city assets.

11. Municipal Division (pages 24-27)

Municipal division duties are not adequately segregated. Receipt slips are not issued for all monies received, the method of payment is not always indicated on receipt slips, and bank reconciliations are not performed. Account receivable records are not adequately maintained. Records accounting for bond monies are not adequately maintained. Police officers collect fines, costs, and bonds, but are not bonded. The numerical sequence and ultimate disposition of all traffic tickets is not accounted for. Prior to September 1998 court dockets were not prepared for all cases. The court does not file a monthly report of all cases heard with the city, and does not remit fines and costs to the city monthly. Records of convictions are not forwarded to the Missouri State Highway Patrol as required.

1. Financial Oversight and Monitoring

During 1998, the Board of Aldermen became aware of serious financial problems facing the city. These included:

A. The city had not paid its bills and remitted tax withholdings in a timely manner and as a result, incurred numerous and unnecessary interest and penalties. The city failed to file federal and state payroll tax returns and make the required payroll tax deposits timely for the years 1994 through 1998. As a result, the city was assessed and paid penalties and interest on delinquent taxes totaling $7,167 during 1997 and 1998.

B. Instances were noted where a vendor had turned the city's account over to a collection agency to obtain payment. For several years many of the city's vendors had not been paid in a timely manner. As of September 1998, delinquent invoices totaled $24,552. In 1997 and 1998 the city failed to pay their insurance premiums in a timely manner, and was assessed and paid late charges totaling $473.

The city has not paid New Madrid County since 1988 for their share of election costs and printing the city's tax statements. This bill totals $5,064 and the city is currently making monthly payments to the county. The city has also not paid the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) since 1992 for the primacy fee collected from utility customers. In November 1998, DNR estimated the total amount owed by the city to be $3,352; however, DNR waived delinquent amounts upon payment of $559 owed for 1998.

C. Records accounting for the amounts billed to and paid by water, sewer and trash customers were inadequate. The former City Clerk's utility accounts receivable records prior to September 1998 were not complete. Some customers were omitted from the records and payments made by customers were not consistently posted to the receivable records. As a result, it is not clear whether or not many of the customers have paid their utility bills. Additional improvement related to the reconciliation of utility accounts is needed. See MAR No. 4.

According to the city's utility bills, service will be discontinued if payment is not received by the 15th of the month; however, the city's utility employees indicated that prior to 1999 they had not disconnected any customer's service for failure to pay. In addition, the Board of Aldermen does not periodically review delinquent accounts to ensure appropriate follow up action is performed.

D. Budgets and financial statements were not properly prepared and used by the Board of Aldermen to aid in managing city finances. See MAR No. 5. In addition, the balance in the city's bank accounts was not adequately monitored resulting in unnecessary overdraft and maintenance charges totaling $992 during 1998 and 1997. Additional improvements related to the reconciliation and consolidation of bank accounts are needed. See MAR No. 5.

E. Voters approved a one cent general sales tax in 1988, but because city officials failed to provide the Missouri Department of Revenue with the election results, the sales tax was never implemented. As a result, the city has lost significant amounts of revenue over the last eleven years. The city has recently provided the necessary information to the Missouri Department of Revenue and will begin receiving sales tax revenue in late 1999.

F. Water, sewer, and trash revenues have not been restricted for the purpose of providing the related services. In addition, the city has not established all the funds required by its three revenue bond ordinances and currently does not have adequate cash available to meet the reserve requirements. Also, motor vehicle-related receipts were not properly restricted to street-related purposes as required by state law. See MAR No. 3.

Basic internal control and record keeping procedures were not in place. These weaknesses resulted in or contributed to the problems noted above. These weaknesses included the lack of bank reconciliations, minutes not prepared and/or retained, the absence of adequate financial reports and budgets, lack of any reconciliations over utility billings, payments, and accounts receivable, duties not being adequately segregated, numerous invoices, billing stubs and other supporting documentation not being retained, annual audits required by state law not being performed, and a serious lack of oversight by the Board of Aldermen. The board has made significant improvement in many of these areas since they became aware of these problems in 1998. However, additional improvement is necessary as we discuss in the remainder of this report.

The Board of Aldermen needs to establish a plan to properly fund revenue bond reserve accounts and prepare a budget which reflects this plan. In addition, the board needs to ensure an effective system of accounting and administrative controls are in place, including an effective financial reporting system and procedures to monitor budgeted and actual activity. The recommendations contained in the remaining MARs, if implemented will help establish these controls and procedures.

WE RECOMMEND the Board of Aldermen review the current financial situation of the city's funds, ensure financial records are adequately maintained in the future, and adequate controls and procedures are in place.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

We have reviewed the current financial situation and the board has taken steps to ensure adequate procedures are in place, or will be put in place.

2. Expenditures

A. The city does not have a formal bidding policy. As a result, the decision of whether to solicit bids for a particular purchase is made on an item-by-item basis. During the past several years, bids were either not solicited or bid documentation was not retained for some purchases including $12,308 for insurance, $2,500 for chemicals, and $845 for a copier.

Formal bidding procedures provide a framework for the economical management of city resources and help ensure the city receives fair value by contracting with the lowest and best bidders. Competitive bidding also helps ensure all parties are given an equal opportunity to participate in the city's business. Bids can be handled by telephone quotation, by written quotation, by sealed bid, or by advertised sealed bid. Various approaches are appropriate, based on dollar amount and type of purchase. Whichever approach is used, complete documentation should be maintained of all bids received and reasons noted why the bid was selected.

B. The following weaknesses were noted regarding the city's procedures for the payment of bills:

1) Documentation to support various disbursements made by the city during the two years ended December 31, 1998, could not be located. No invoice or other documentation to support the payment could be found by the city for 37 of 50 expenditures selected. All disbursements should be supported by paid receipts and/or complete vendor-provided invoices to ensure the obligation was actually incurred and the disbursement represents an appropriate use of public funds.

2) The board does not adequately document its review and approval of expenditures made by the city. Board meeting minutes prepared after September 1998 occasionally document the board's approval to purchase a specific item, but invoices are not signed or initialed by the board and a supplementary listing of all disbursements approved for payment by the board is not prepared to accompany the minutes.

To adequately document the board's review and approval of all disbursements, a complete and detailed listing of bills should be prepared, signed or initialed by the board to denote its approval, and retained with the official minutes.

3) Invoices are not always marked paid or otherwise canceled upon payment. Canceling invoices and all other supporting documentation reduces the likelihood of duplicate payments.

C. During 1998 and 1997, all city employees and elected officials received Christmas bonuses ranging from $25 to $100 each. The cost of the bonuses totaled $1,100 for the two years ended December 31, 1998. In addition, the city spent $916 in 1998 and 1997 for turkeys and hams given to employees and elected officials during Thanksgiving and Christmas.

Bonuses given to employees appear to represent additional compensation for services previously rendered and, as such, are in violation of Article III, Section 39 of the Missouri Constitution and contrary to Attorney General's Opinion No. 72, 1955 to Pray, which states, "... a government agency deriving its power and authority from the constitution and laws of the state would be prohibited from granting extra compensation in the form of bonuses to public officers after the service has been rendered."

D. The city does not always enter into written contracts for services rendered or obtained. The city has an oral agreement with the cemetery board for the city to maintain the grounds of the cemetery for $100 per month. In addition, the city schedules all burials and uses the city backhoe to open and close graves for $250 per burial.

The city does not have a written agreement with the local volunteer fire department for the use of the city's fire truck and fire station, or with its depositary bank or the City Attorney.

Section 432.070, RSMo 1994, requires contracts of political subdivisions be in writing. The city should enter into written contracts for services rendered or obtained. A written contract, signed by the parties involved, should specify the services to be rendered and the manner and amount of compensation to be paid. Written contracts are necessary to ensure all parties are aware of their duties and responsibilities and to provide protection to both parties.

WE RECOMMEND the Board of Aldermen:

A. Establish formal bidding policies and procedures, including documentation requirements regarding the bids or quotes received and justification for the bid selected.

B.1. Ensure all disbursements are supported by paid receipts and/or vendor-provided invoices and other supporting documentation.

2. Ensure the approval of all disbursements is adequately documented by including a listing of all approved disbursements in the board minutes.

3. Ensure all invoices or other supporting documentation are marked paid once payment is made.

C. Discontinue paying Christmas bonuses and purchasing gifts for city officials and employees.

D. Ensure the city enters into formal written contracts for services rendered or obtained.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

A,B.2, & D. We will implement these recommendations.

B.1. &B.3. These have been implemented.

C. We will take this recommendation under advisement.

3. Restricted Revenues

A. The city does not ensure restricted revenues are spent only for allowable purposes. The following items were noted relating to the city's restricted revenues:

- The city pays wage and fringe benefit expenses from the water, sewer, general, and street funds. However, these expenses are not consistently allocated and no documentation is available to support the method of allocation used. The former City Clerk indicated that she attempted to pay wages and fringe benefits from the fund where the related work was performed. However, time sheets or related documentation is not maintained to separately indicate the number of hours related to streets, water and sewer, or other activities.

- In February 1998 the Internal Revenue Service levied $18,535 from the city's street fund bank account for unpaid payroll taxes, interest, and penalties. In addition, the city paid $6,674 to the State of Missouri and the IRS for unpaid payroll taxes and interest in October and November 1998. The city has not performed any calculations to determine what portion of these taxes should be repaid to the street fund from the city's general, water, and sewer funds. Article IV, Section 30, of the Missouri Constitution, requires that motor vehicle-related receipts apportioned by the state of Missouri be used for street-related purposes, including policing, signing, lighting, and cleaning of roads and streets.

- In September 1998 the current City Clerk began depositing all water, sewer, and trash fees into the general fund and paying all city expenses from this fund. The water, sewer, and trash fees are user charges which are designed to cover the costs of providing these services. Without ensuring these monies are spent only as required and allocating all appropriate costs to these funds, the city can have no assurance that rates are sufficient to cover operating costs and provide a sufficient reserve for unforeseen expenditures. In addition, provisions in the city's bond covenants require all income from the sewerage and water works systems to be paid into the Water and Sewer Funds.

- Law enforcement training fees received by the traffic violations bureau are not separately accounted for. These fees are legally restricted for the training of police officers.

It is essential that the city separately account for the various revenue sources and properly allocate expenses to the various funds. Allocation of expenses is necessary for the city to ensure the water and sewer rates are sufficient to cover the cost of providing the service without generating profits to subsidize other city services. Furthermore, the uses of certain funds, such as state motor vehicle-related revenues, are limited by state law for specified purposes. Therefore, documentation and proper allocation of expenses is useful for both management and compliance purposes.

Because the city has not properly accounted for the various revenue sources and has not properly allocated expenses to the various funds, it is likely current balances maintained in various city funds are not correct. The board should determine if appropriate adjustments can be determined.

B. The city issued revenue bonds in 1971, 1978, and again in 1997 for water and/or sewer improvements. The revenue bond ordinances require the city to establish several separate accounts and to fund these accounts with transfers from the water and/or sewer operating revenues. As of December 31, 1998, the city had not transferred the required amounts to some reserve accounts. The balances of the Depreciation and Replacement Accounts and Bond Reserve Accounts were inadequate by $13,500 and $12,058, respectively, as of December 31, 1998.

The failure of the city to establish and adequately maintain the required reserve accounts could allow the bondholders to take legal action to force compliance or immediate payment of all outstanding bonds. It appears the city does not have sufficient cash available in the water and sewer funds to meet and fund the required reserve accounts. The Board of Aldermen needs to establish a plan to fund the accounts required by the city's revenue bonds.

C. City residents are required to pay a meter deposit before receiving water services. Currently, the city collects a $50 deposit; however, a $25 deposit was required prior to February 1999. A separate receipt book is maintained to record the meter deposits. A partial list of customer deposits received by the city since 1989 totals $2,250. However, meter deposit funds have not been segregated within the General Fund and were used for operating expenses.

The city needs to identify all customer deposits that should currently be held by the city and keep the listing properly updated. Meter deposits received by the city should be held in trust and not used for operating expenses. The listing of meter deposits should be reconciled to the meter deposits in the account monthly to ensure that sufficient funds are available for the payment of all liabilities.

WE RECOMMEND the Board of Aldermen:

A. Establish funds to properly account for restricted revenues and ensure all costs paid from the funds are appropriate and reasonably allocated. The board should review the current balances and make other corrections as necessary.

B. Establish a plan to fund the accounts required by the city's revenue bonds.

C. Ensure the city maintains a complete listing of meter deposits and periodically reconciles the listing to monies held by the city.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

We are aware of these problems and will take steps to address these recommendations in the future.

4. City Utilities

The city provides water, sewer and trash services to approximately 275 customers. Water meters are read around the twentieth of the month and customers are billed on the last day of the month. Payments are due by the tenth of the month. Our review of these billing practices and related procedures identified the following concerns:

A. The city has not performed periodic formal reviews of the water or sewer rates. City ordinance requires the water and sewer rates to be set at an amount adequate to generate revenues to cover the costs of operation, maintenance, and replacement of the system; however, there is no documentation to indicate that the city periodically reviews water or sewer rates to ensure these costs are adequately covered.

In April 1997 the board approved an increase on water rates, but the increased rates were not billed until September 1998 when the city employed a new City Clerk. The current sewer rates were originally established by ordinance in December 1984. These same rates were set again by ordinance in May of 1999 because the city could not locate the ordinance from December 1984. The Board of Aldermen have not performed any calculation in recent years to determine the adequacy of the water or sewer rates. Section 67.042, RSMo 1994, provides that fees may be increased if supported by a statement of the costs necessary to maintain the funding of such service. However, the board did not prepare a statement of costs to maintain the water system as required when increasing the rates in April 1997.

Water and sewer fees are user charges which should cover the cost of providing the related services. The city should perform periodic detailed reviews of the costs of providing these services and set rates appropriately. Preparation of a statement of costs would allow the city to determine the rates necessary to support current and future operations as well as providing documentation to customers of the rationale behind the rates.

B. The current City Clerk records all customer account activity on computer and maintains a record of customer payments; however, month-end utility accounts receivable balances are not reconciled to the beginning accounts receivable balance, billings, collections and other adjustments for that month. The lack of reconciliations represents a weakness in the internal controls of the water and sewer billing and collection system. Reconciliations are needed to help ensure the accuracy of the billing, collection and reconciliation processes.

C. The city does not reconcile the total gallons of water billed to customers to the gallons of water pumped. To help detect any significant water loss on a timely basis and to help ensure all water usage is properly charged, the city should monthly prepare and maintain records of the total gallons of water pumped and reconcile them to the gallons of water charged. Significant differences should be investigated.

WE RECOMMEND: the Board of Aldermen:

A. Perform periodic reviews of the costs to maintain utility services, and establish rates to ensure the costs of operation, maintenance, and replacement of the city's water and sewer system are covered.

B. Ensure the City Clerk reconciles beginning and ending accounts receivable balances on a monthly basis using the billing, collections and billing adjustments during that month. Any differences which cannot be accounted for should be immediately investigated.

C. Compare the gallons of water pumped to the gallons billed on a monthly basis. Any differences should be investigated.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

We will implement these recommendations as soon as possible.

5.	Accounting Records and Procedures

A. The board has not appointed individuals to serve as City Treasurer or City Collector. The City Clerk is currently serving as the City Treasurer and City Collector. She collects all receipts, maintains receipt and disbursement records, makes bank deposits, signs checks, and serves as secretary to the board. Neither the board nor other personnel independent of the cash custody and record-keeping functions provide adequate supervision or review of the work performed by the City Clerk.

Attorney General's Opinion No. 24, 1955 to Dodds, concluded that in a fourth-class city the holding of the positions of City Clerk, City Treasurer, and City Collector, or any two of these three offices, by the same person at the same time would be incompatible. One person holding all of these offices does not allow the separation of duties necessary for a proper evaluation and review of financial transactions. The current procedures jeopardize the system of independent checks and balances intended by state law.

B. Receipts are not deposited, intact on a timely basis. Deposits are only made approximately weekly. Varying amounts of cash are withheld from deposits to use as a change fund. To adequately safeguard receipts and reduce the risk of loss, or misuse of funds, deposits should be made on a daily basis or when accumulated receipts exceed $100.

To ensure all receipts are deposited intact, a change fund should be set at a constant amount.

In addition, a detailed record of monies received by day (with details such as date of payment, method of payment, payor, amount, and type of receipt) is not maintained and reconciled to monies deposited. A detailed record of monies received is necessary to ensure all receipts are accounted for properly and deposited.

C.1. Checks for several of the city's bank accounts are not prenumbered. In addition, prenumbered checks for the other bank accounts were sometimes not issued in numerical sequence. To ensure all checks are properly accounted for and to reduce the risk of unauthorized expenditures, checks should be prenumbered with the numerical sequence accounted for.

2. Voided checks were not always retained. To ensure all checks are properly accounted for, all voided checks should be properly defaced and retained.

3. The City Clerk, Mayor and one board member can sign checks. The city's printed checks have only one signature line, however city policy requires two individuals to sign all checks issued. However, numerous checks were only signed by City Clerk Andrew. In addition, some checks were signed in advance by a board member. Signing checks in advance does not allow for proper review of the documentation to support the disbursement and diminishes the control intended by dual signatures. Also, the City Clerk is bonded but the Mayor and the board member are not bonded.

D. The current City Clerk maintains a balance for each account, but does not always perform and/or document a formal bank reconciliation. Monthly bank reconciliations are necessary to ensure that accounting records are in agreement with the bank and errors are detected on a timely basis. Without proper documentation, there is little assurance that these reconciliations have been performed.

E. At December 31, 1998, the city had 11 checking and savings accounts and 3 certificates of deposit. Maintaining numerous bank accounts unnecessarily complicates bookkeeping functions and increases the risk that errors will occur and not be detected.

WE RECOMMEND the Board of Aldermen:

A. Ensure the receiving and disbursement functions are adequately segregated. At a minimum, there should be a documented supervisory review of the bank reconciliation and review and approval of expenditures.

B. Ensure monies are deposited intact, daily or when accumulated receipts exceed $100. Detailed receipt records should be maintained and reconciled to bank deposits.

C.1. Ensure all checks are prenumbered, and issued in numerical sequence.

2. Ensure all voided checks are defaced and retained.

3. Require dual signatures on checks, discontinue the practice of signing checks in advance, and obtain bond coverage for the Mayor and any board members authorized to sign checks.

D. Ensure monthly bank reconciliations are performed and documented.

E. Consider consolidating monies into fewer bank accounts.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

A&E. We will take these recommendations under advisement.

B-D. We have implemented these recommendations.

6. Budgets and Financial Reporting

A. The budgets prepared by the city for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, did not comply with Chapter 67 of the Missouri statutes (the budget law). In addition, the city only prepared a budget for the water and sewer funds in 1999. None of these budgets included projected ending balances, actual (or estimated for years not yet ended) revenues and expenditures for the two preceding budget years, or a budget message. In addition, the city prepared one budget for all funds rather than preparing a budget for each fund separately. To better inform citizens and to ensure the city's budgets reflect the restrictions placed on the city funds, the city should prepare separate budgets for each fund.

Sections 67.010 to 67.040, RSMo 1994, set specific guidelines as to the format and approval of the annual operating budget. A complete and well-planned budget, in addition to meeting statutory requirements, can serve as a useful management tool by establishing specific cost and revenue expectations for each area of city operations and provide a means to effectively monitor actual costs and revenues.

B. The city has not published semi-annual financial statements as required by state law. Section 79.160, RSMo 1994, requires the Board of Aldermen to prepare and publish semi-annual financial statements. In addition, Section 79.165, RSMo 1994, states the city cannot legally disburse funds until the financial statement is published.

C. The city does not submit annual financial reports to the State Auditor's Office. Section 105.145, RSMo 1994, requires political subdivisions to file an annual report of the financial transactions of the political subdivision with the State Auditor's Office.

D. The city has not obtained annual audits of the combined waterworks and sewer system. Both the city's bond ordinances, and Section 250.150, RSMo 1994, require the city to obtain an annual audit of the combined waterworks and sewer system, and the cost of the audit is to be paid from the revenues received from the system.

In addition to being required by state law, an annual audit of city funds would help ensure city financial transactions have been properly recorded.

WE RECOMMEND the Board of Aldermen:

A. Prepare annual budgets in compliance with state law, make periodic comparisons between budgeted and actual expenditures, and prepare a separate budget for each fund.

B. Require semi-annual financial statements be prepared and published.

C. Submit annual reports of financial transactions to the State Auditor's Office as required by state law.

D. Obtain annual audits of city financial records.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

We will implement these recommendations.

7. Board Meetings, Minutes, and Ordinances

A. Board meeting minutes were not prepared prior to September 1998. Minutes of board meetings should be prepared reflecting such public decisions as bidding, contracting, and other significant matters. For instance, documentation of the reason the sales tax approved by voters in 1988 was never initiated may have been known if minutes had been maintained.

In addition, board minutes prepared after September 1998 were not signed. The board minutes should be signed by the City Clerk as preparer and by the Mayor to provide an independent attestation that the minutes are a correct record of the matters discussed and actions taken during the board's meetings.

Section 610.020, RSMo, 1994, requires minutes of meetings to be taken by the public governmental body. Besides being required by statute, minutes of meetings provide an official record of board actions and decisions.

B. Notices of the regular monthly board meetings were not posted as required by law. Section 610.020, RSMo 1994, requires all public governmental bodies to give advance notice of their meetings. The notice is to include the time, date, and place of the meeting, as well as the tentative agenda, and should be given in a reasonable manner. This section of law describes a reasonable notice as making available copies of the notice to any representative of the news media, and the posting of such notice at the building in which the meeting is to be held. The board began posting notices of meetings in May of 1999.

C. The city's ordinances are not complete and up-to-date. It appears some of the city's ordinances are missing while others are old and outdated. In addition, as noted in other parts of this report, ordinances have not been adopted in some instances where required. For example, the city has not adopted ordinances to establish the compensation and duties of city officials or to establish the annual property tax rates as required by law.

Since ordinances represent legislation which has been passed by the Board of Aldermen to govern the city and its residents, it is important that the ordinances be maintained in a complete and up-to-date manner.

D. The city does not have a formal policy regarding public access to city records. A formal policy regarding access to and obtaining copies of city records would establish guidelines for the city to make the records available to the public. This policy should establish a person to contact and an address to mail such requests, and should establish a cost for providing copies of public records.

Section 610.023, RSMo 1994, lists requirements for making city records available to the public. Section 619.026, RSMo 1994, allows the city to charge fees for copying public records, but the fees shall not exceed the city's actual cost of document search and duplication.

WE RECOMMEND the Board of Aldermen:

A. Ensure minutes are prepared, approved and maintained for all meetings. In addition, minutes should be signed by the Mayor and the City Clerk to attest to their completeness and accuracy.

B. Ensure notices of meetings, including an agenda, continue to be posted as required by law for each meeting of the Board of Aldermen.

C. Ensure a complete and up-to-date set of ordinances is maintained. This would include passing new ordinances where appropriate and required.

D. Establish a formal written policy and procedures regarding public access to city records.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

A,C,

& D. These recommendations will be implemented.

B. This recommendation has been implemented.

8. Payroll and Personnel Procedures

A. The city has not adopted ordinances to establish the compensation and duties of the city's elected officials and the City Clerk. Sections 79.270 and 79.290, RSMo 1994, require the compensation and duties of city officials and employees to be set by ordinance.

B. The former City Clerk was paid a weekly salary during 1997 and 1998. During our review of the weekly checks issued to the former City Clerk we noted three additional payments totaling $651 that were not included in the payroll register and were not included on the City Clerk's W-2 form. The three payments were made in October and December 1997 and January 1998. The former City Clerk has indicated that these payments represent commissions on city taxes and that this arrangement was agreed upon prior to her employment; however, there is no documentation to support that explanation, or to show how they were computed. Since employee compensation has not been established by ordinance, it is unclear if the former City Clerk was to receive commissions on city taxes. In addition, since the city did not maintain board minutes prior to September 1998 it is unclear if these payments were approved by the board.

These checks were signed by Alderwoman Garland, who indicated that she signed blank checks in advance for the former City Clerk and signed checks without reviewing any supporting documentation. The city's current Mayor indicated that he believed the payments were for commissions on city taxes and were handled similarly in the past.

To help ensure the propriety of all payments, documentation should be maintained to support all payments and all payments should be approved by the board. In addition, if these payments were compensation to the former city clerk they should have been recorded in the payroll register and the appropriate payroll taxes withheld.

C. No records are maintained of vacation and sick leave earned or taken. The former City Clerk received $1,155 in September 1998 for 4 weeks of unused vacation leave. Although the Board of Aldermen formally approved payment of the $1,155 to the former City Clerk, there were no time sheets prepared or leave records maintained to document any vacation leave earned and taken throughout the year. Compensation for leave earned but not used should be specifically addressed in the personnel policy.

D. The city has four full-time employees and one part-time employee. The city has not established a personnel policy to address issues such as vacation and sick leave, overtime, and other personnel issues.

A written personnel policy for all employees is necessary to ensure proper compensation for leave earned and taken, equitable treatment among employees, and the avoidance of misunderstandings.

E. City employees do not prepare time sheets. Time sheets are necessary to document hours actually worked, substantiate payroll expenditures, and provide the board with a method to monitor hours worked. To support payroll expenditures the city should require all employees to prepare detailed time sheets which are reviewed and approved by a supervisor.

WE RECOMMEND the Board of Aldermen:

A. Establish the duties and compensation of all city officials and employees by ordinance as required by statute.

B. Discuss these additional payments to the former City Clerk and determine what action should be taken. In addition, the board should contact the IRS regarding these payments.

C. Maintain records of employee leave earned, taken and paid. Compensation for leave earned but not used should be addressed in the personnel policy.

D. Establish a written personnel policy.

E. Require city employees to prepare time sheets which are approved by a supervisor.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

A,C, D&E. We will implement these recommendations.

B. We will take this recommendation under advisement.

9. Property Tax Procedures

A. The City Clerk's duties include collecting and depositing property tax receipts. Monthly and annual reports were not prepared by the former City Clerk summarizing the amount of property taxes collected as well as those that remain delinquent. The current City Clerk has prepared a list of delinquent taxes, but the list is not complete and there is no indication in the board minutes that the list was reviewed by the Board of Aldermen.

Sections 79.310, 94.320, and 94.330, RSMo 1994, require reports to be submitted to the board of aldermen indicating the amount of taxes collected and taxes remaining delinquent. The board is to examine and approve the lists and charge the tax collector with the collection of the delinquent taxes. Section 94.330, RSMo 1994, also provides that the board may declare worthless any and all personal delinquent taxes which they may deem uncollectible.

Monthly and annual reports which comply with state law would help provide assurance taxes have been properly collected, written off, or determined to be delinquent.

B. The former City Clerk did not charge penalties on delinquent taxes. The current City Clerk charges penalties, but the penalties were not computed correctly. The city currently is charging 11.56 percent each time a delinquent notice is sent. Section 140.100.1, RSMo 1994, currently provides a penalty of two percent per month up to a maximum of 18 percent per year for each delinquent tax bill.

WE RECOMMEND the Board of Aldermen:

A. Require monthly and annual reports of property taxes collected and delinquent as required by state law.

B. Ensure the penalty for the collection of delinquent property taxes is charged in accordance with state law.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

A&B. We will implement these recommendations.

10. City Property

The city has not prepared and maintained permanent, detailed property records for general fixed assets, including the cost of land, buildings, equipment, and furniture owned by the city. In addition, the city has not prepared and maintained permanent, detailed property records for the water and sewer system. Also, annual physical inventories are not performed.

Property records for general fixed assets are necessary to ensure accountability for all items purchased and owned and for determining the proper amount of insurance coverage.

To develop appropriate records and procedures for general fixed assets and the fixed assets of the water and sewer system, the city needs to undertake a comprehensive review of all property owned by the city. Assets should be counted, tagged for specific identification, and recorded by description and serial number in a detailed property ledger at historical cost or estimated historical cost if the original cost is not available. The city should properly record all fixed asset transactions, and ensure the accuracy of the recorded fixed assets. Periodically, the city should take physical counts of its assets and compare to the detailed records.

WE RECOMMEND the Board of Aldermen establish property records for general fixed assets and the fixed assets of the water and sewer system that include all pertinent information for each asset, such as tag number, description, cost, acquisition date, location, and subsequent disposition. In addition, annual physical inventories should be performed.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

We have or will implement each of these recommendations.

11. Municipal Division

A. The duties of receiving, recording, and depositing court receipts are not adequately segregated. Currently, the Court Clerk performs all of these duties. There is no independent reconciliation between receipts and deposits. In addition, there is no supervisory review performed of the Court Clerk's functions by an independent person.

To safeguard against possible loss or misuse of funds, internal controls should provide reasonable assurance that all transactions are accounted for and assets are adequately safeguarded. Internal controls could be improved by segregating the duties of receiving and depositing court monies from recording receipts. If proper segregation of duties cannot be achieved, at a minimum, there should be a supervisory review of the reconciliations between receipts and deposits by an independent person.

B.1. Prenumbered receipt slips are not written for some monies received and the numerical sequence of receipt slips that are written is not accounted for properly. To adequately account for all monies received and to ensure all collections are deposited, prenumbered receipt slips should be issued for all monies received, and the numerical sequence of receipt slips accounted for properly.

2. The court accepts cash, checks, and money orders for the payment of fines, court costs, and bonds. The method of payment is not always indicated on receipt slips. To ensure receipts are deposited intact, the method of payment should be indicated on the receipt slips and the composition of receipt slips issued should be reconciled to the composition of bank deposits.

3. Bank reconciliations are not performed. In addition, the former Court Clerk did not maintain a cash control ledger or any other record of the bank account balance in the accounting records or the checkbook register. A record of the bank account balance and monthly bank reconciliations are necessary to ensure the account is in agreement with the accounting records and to detect errors on a timely basis.

C. The court allows defendants to make partial payments on fines and court costs. Accounts receivable records are not adequately maintained and signed payment agreements are not required. Without adequate accounts receivable records, the court cannot effectively monitor and collect monies owed to the court.

D.1. A ledger of all bonds received and disbursed is not maintained. Bond monies are deposited into the court bank account. A bond ledger is necessary to ensure all bonds are recorded and accounted for properly.

2. Monthly listings of open items (liabilities) are not prepared. Monthly listings of open items are necessary to ensure proper accountability over open cases and to ensure monies held in trust are sufficient to meet liabilities.

E. Police officers collect fines, court costs, and bonds, but are not bonded. Failure to properly bond all persons with access to assets exposes the court and the city to risk of loss.

F. The court has established a log of tickets issued; however, the log did not account for all traffic tickets assigned and issued, and their ultimate disposition. Without a proper accounting of the numerical sequence and ultimate disposition of traffic tickets, the police department and the municipal division cannot be assured all tickets are submitted to the court for processing.

During the audit, two tickets selected for review could not be located. Since the tickets and supporting documentation could not be reviewed, we could not determine the disposition of these tickets and whether they were properly reflected in the court's records. All municipal court records should be adequately retained in accordance with Supreme Court Administrative Rule 8.

G. Prior to September 1998, court dockets were not prepared for all cases heard before the Municipal Judge. Also the docket prepared by the current judge does not contain sufficient information on the disposition of all tickets. Section 479.070, RSMo 1994, requires the proceedings for every case be entered on a court docket. To ensure all cases have been accounted for, court dockets listing all cases and the disposition of those cases should be prepared and retained.

H. The court does not file with the city a monthly report of all cases heard in court. Section 479.080.3, RSMo 1994, requires the Court Clerk to prepare a monthly listing of all cases heard in court, including all fines and court costs collected, to be verified by the Court Clerk or Municipal Judge, and filed with the City Clerk.

I. The Court Clerk allows costs and fines collected to accumulate in the bank account, and remits lump sum amounts to the city periodically. The balance is the court bank account on December 31, 1998 was $7,926. Section 479.080, RSMo 1994, requires fines and costs collected be remitted to the city treasury monthly.

J. The Court Clerk did not forward required records of convictions on traffic offenses to the Missouri State Highway Patrol (MSHP). Section 302.225, RSMo Cumulative Supp. 1999, requires any plea or finding of guilty on traffic violations under the laws of the state, county, or municipal ordinance to be forwarded to the MSHP within ten days of the conviction date.

Similar conditions were noted in the prior audit report of the city of Matthews Municipal Division for the two years ended December 31, 1992. These deficiencies are serious and should be corrected immediately.

WE RECOMMEND the city of Matthews Municipal Division:

A. Adequately segregate the duties or establish a documented supervisory review of the reconciliation between receipts and deposits by an independent person.

B.1. Issue prenumbered receipt slips for all monies received and account for the numerical sequence of receipt slips.

2. Indicate the method of payment on each receipt slip issued and reconcile the composition of receipt slips issued to the composition of bank deposits.

3. Maintain a cash control ledger showing receipts, disbursements and balances. The cash control balance should be reconciled to the bank balance monthly.

C. Maintain adequate accounts receivable records including signed payment agreements and a control ledger. Periodically the control ledger balance should be reconciled to the balances on the individual payment agreements.

D.1. Maintain a bond ledger to account for bond receipt and disbursements.

2. Prepare monthly listings of open items (liabilities) and reconcile these listings to the bank account balance.

E. Request the city obtain adequate bond coverage for all persons handling court monies.

F. Ensure the ticket log is complete and maintained up-to-date and retain all records as required by Supreme Court Rule 8.

G. Record all cases on the court docket.

H. Prepare and file monthly reports of court actions in accordance with state law.

I. Remit collections of fines and costs to the city treasury monthly as required by state law.

J. Forward records of convictions on traffic offenses to the MSHP as required by state law. In addition, court files should be reviewed for applicable tickets that should be forwarded to the MSHP.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The Municipal Judge and Court Clerk provided the following responses:

A. The Judge is currently looking at receipts each month and initialing them.

B.1. Prenumbered receipts are now being used.

B.2. The method of payment is also now being noted.

B.3. Bank reconciliations are now being done.

C. Currently when partial payments are made, the person signs and dates the agreement.

D.1. The bond ledger is set up to show the amount paid, name, and if refunded, the check number.

D.2. & F. These are now being done.

E. We need to check on bonding officers.

G, H,

& J. These will be done.

I. Money is now transferred to the general account monthly.

This report is intended for the information of the city's management and other applicable government officials. However, this report is a matter of public record and its distribution is not limited.

AUDIT REPORT

HOLT COUNTY, MISSOURI

TWO YEARS ENDED DECEMBER 31, 1998

From The Office Of State Auditor
Claire McCaskill

Report No. 99-112
November 18, 1999

Office Of The
State Auditor Of Missouri
Claire McCaskill

November 1999

FACT SHEET

IMPORTANT: The Missouri State Auditor is required by Missouri law to conduct audits only once every four years in counties, like Holt, which do not have a county auditor. However, to assist such counties in meeting federal audit requirements, the State Auditor will also perform a financial and compliance audit of various county operating funds every two years. This voluntary service to Missouri counties can only be provided when state auditing resources are available and does not interfere with the State Auditor's constitutional responsibility of auditing state government.

Once every four years, the State Auditor's statutory audit will cover additional areas of county operations, as well as the elected county officials, as required by Missouri's Constitution.

This audit of Holt County included additional areas of county operations, as well as the elected county officials. The following concerns were noted as part of the audit:

- As similarly reported in prior audit reports, the county has taken funds which are restricted for road and bridge purposes and used them for the county's general operating expenses. The audit again recommended the County Commission develop a repayment plan for the money which is due from the General Revenue Fund to the Special Road and Bridge Fund.

- The county has two capital improvement sales taxes. Through the combined rates for these two sales taxes, the county is levying one percent which is apparently above the statutory maximum allowed by state law according to an opinion of the Missouri Attorney General. County officials believe they are correct in implementing both taxes based on the fact that voters have approved extensions of these sales taxes, and based on a circuit court case decision in St. Charles County.

Also included in the audit is a recommendation that the Public Administrator obtain more supporting documentation for attorney fees paid.

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT ON THE FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

To the County Commission
and
Officeholders of Holt County, Missouri

We have audited the accompanying special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Holt County, Missouri, as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, as identified in the table of contents. These special-purpose financial statements are the responsibility of the county's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these special-purpose financial statements based on our audit.

We conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the special-purpose financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the special-purpose financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion.

The accompanying special-purpose financial statements were prepared for the purpose of presenting the receipts, disbursements, and changes in cash of various funds of Holt County, Missouri, and comparisons of such information with the corresponding budgeted information for various funds of the county and are not intended to be a complete presentation of the financial position and results of operations of those funds or of Holt County.

In our opinion, the special-purpose financial statements referred to in the first paragraph present fairly, in all material respects, the receipts, disbursements, and changes in cash of various funds of Holt County, Missouri, and comparisons of such information with the corresponding budgeted information for various funds of the county as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, in conformity with the comprehensive basis of accounting discussed in Note 1, which is a basis of accounting other than generally accepted accounting principles.

Holt County, Missouri, has not presented the disclosures required by Governmental Accounting Standards Board (GASB) Technical Bulletin 98-1, Disclosures about Year 2000 Issues, as amended by GASB Technical Bulletin 99-1, that the GASB has determined are necessary to supplement, although not be a part of, the basic financial statements. In addition, we do not provide assurance that the county is or will become year 2000-compliant, that the county's year 2000 remediation efforts will be successful in whole or in part, or that parties with which the county does business are or will become year 2000-compliant.

In accordance with Government Auditing Standards, we also have issued our report dated March 18, 1999, on our consideration of the county's internal control over financial reporting and on our tests of its compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants.

The accompanying History, Organization, and Statistical Information is presented for informational purposes. This information was obtained from the management of Holt County, Missouri, and was not subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audit of the special-purpose financial statements referred to above.

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT ON COMPLIANCE
AND ON INTERNAL CONTROL OVER FINANCIAL REPORTING
BASED ON AN AUDIT OF FINANCIAL STATEMENTS PERFORMED
IN ACCORDANCE WITH GOVERNMENT AUDITING STANDARDS

To the County Commission
and
Officeholders of Holt County, Missouri

We have audited the special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Holt County, Missouri, as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, and have issued our report thereon dated March 18, 1999. We conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States.

Compliance

As part of obtaining reasonable assurance about whether the special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Holt County, Missouri, are free of material misstatement, we performed tests of the county's compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants, noncompliance with which could have a direct and material effect on the determination of financial statement amounts. However, providing an opinion on compliance with those provisions was not an objective of our audit, and accordingly, we do not express such an opinion. The results of our tests disclosed instances of noncompliance that are required to be reported under Government Auditing Standards and which are described in the accompanying Schedule of Findings as finding numbers 98-1 and 98-2. We also noted an immaterial instance of noncompliance which is described in the accompanying Management Advisory Report.

Internal Control Over Financial Reporting

In planning and performing our audit of the special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Holt County, Missouri, we considered the county's internal control over financial reporting in order to determine our auditing procedures for the purpose of expressing our opinion on the special-purpose financial statements and not to provide assurance on the internal control over financial reporting. Our consideration of the internal control over financial reporting would not necessarily disclose all matters in the internal control over financial reporting that might be material weaknesses. A material weakness is a condition in which the design or operation of one or more of the internal control components does not reduce to a relatively low level the risk that misstatements in amounts that would be material in relation to the special-purpose financial statements being audited may occur and not be detected within a timely period by employees in the normal course of performing their assigned functions. We noted no matters involving the internal control over financial reporting and its operation that we consider to be material weaknesses.

This report is intended for the information of the management of Holt County, Missouri, and other applicable government officials. However, this report is a matter of public record and its distribution is not limited.

Notes to the Financial Statements

1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

A. Reporting Entity and Basis of Presentation

The accompanying special-purpose financial statements present the receipts, disbursements, and changes in cash of various funds of Holt County, Missouri, and comparisons of such information with the corresponding budgeted information for various funds of the county. The funds presented are established under statutory or administrative authority, and their operations are under the control of the County Commission, an elected county official or the Johnson Grass Board. The General Revenue Fund is the county's general operating fund, accounting for all financial resources except those required to be accounted for in another fund. The other funds presented account for financial resources whose use is restricted for specified purposes.

B. Basis of Accounting

The financial statements are prepared on the cash basis of accounting; accordingly, amounts are recognized when received or disbursed in cash. This basis of accounting differs from generally accepted accounting principles, which require revenues to be recognized when they become available and measurable or when they are earned and expenditures or expenses to be recognized when the related liabilities are incurred.

C. Budgets and Budgetary Practices

The County Commission and other applicable boards are responsible for the preparation and approval of budgets for various county funds in accordance with Sections 50.525 through 50.745, RSMo 1994 and RSMo Cumulative Supp. 1998, the county budget law. These budgets are adopted on the cash basis of accounting.

Although adoption of a formal budget is required by law, the county did not adopt formal budgets for the following funds:

Fund	Years Ended December 31,
Sheriff's Civil Fees Fund	1997
Prosecuting Attorney Bad Check Fund	1998 and 1997
Victims of Domestic Violence Fund	1998 and 1997
Debt Service Fund	1998 and 1997
Capital Projects Fund	1998 and 1997
Cemetery Trust Fund	1998 and 1997
Law Library Fund	1998 and 1997

D. Published Financial Statements

Under Sections 50.800 and 50.810, RSMo 1994, the County Commission is responsible for preparing and publishing in a local newspaper a detailed annual financial statement for the county. The financial statement is required to show receipts or revenues, disbursements or expenditures, and beginning and ending balances for each fund.

However, the county's published financial statements did not include the following funds:

Fund	Years Ended December 31,
Sheriff's Civil Fees Fund	1997
Prosecuting Attorney Bad Check Fund	1997
Victims of Domestic Violence Fund	1998 and 1997
Debt Service Fund	1997
Capital Projects Fund	1997

2. Cash

Section 110.270, RSMo 1994, based on Article IV, Section 15, Missouri Constitution, authorizes counties to place their funds, either outright or by repurchase agreement, in U.S. Treasury and agency obligations. In addition, Section 30.950, RSMo Cumulative Supp. 1998, effective August 28, 1997, requires political subdivisions with existing authority to invest in instruments other than depositary accounts at financial institutions to adopt a written investment policy. Among other things, the policy is to commit a political subdivision to the principles of safety, liquidity, and yield (in that order) when managing public funds and to prohibit purchase of derivatives (either directly or through repurchase agreements), use of leveraging (through either reverse repurchase agreements or other methods), and use of public funds for speculation. The county has not adopted such a policy.

In accordance with Statement No. 3 of the Governmental Accounting Standards Board, Deposits with Financial Institutions, Investments (Including Repurchase Agreements), and Reverse Repurchase Agreements, disclosures are provided below regarding the risk of potential loss of cash deposits. For the purposes of these disclosures, deposits with financial institutions are demand, time, and savings accounts, including certificates of deposit and negotiable order of withdrawal accounts, in banks, savings institutions, and credit unions.

The county's deposits at December 31, 1998 and 1997, were entirely covered by federal depositary insurance or by collateral securities held by the county's custodial bank in the county's name.

3. Excessive Administrative Transfers

Through December 31, 1998, transfers from the Special Road and Bridge Fund to the General Revenue Fund were approximately $124,000 in excess of amounts authorized by law. The ultimate outcome of this situation cannot be determined.

4. Capital Improvement Sales Taxes

Since 1993, the county has imposed two one-half cent capital improvement sales taxes resulting in amounts being collected apparently in excess of those authorized by law. Attorney General's Opinion No. 97-99, 1999, to Neel has interpreted that in accordance with Section 67.700, RSMo, the total levy for capital improvement sales taxes cannot exceed one-half cent. The ultimate outcome of this situation cannot be determined.

5. Use Tax Liability

The local use tax under Section 144.748, RSMo 1994, was struck down in its entirety by the Missouri Supreme Court in Associated Industries of Missouri v. Director of Revenue, 918 S.W.2d 780 (Mo. banc 1996). In St. Charles County v. Director of Revenue, 961 S.W.2d 44 (Mo. banc 1998), the Missouri Supreme Court ruled that local use taxes paid prior to the repeal of Section 144.748, RSMo 1994, must be refunded to taxpayers and authorized the Department of Revenue (DOR) to withhold amounts otherwise due to political subdivisions to the extent such withholding is necessary to cover the refund expense. On March 24, 1998, the Cole County Circuit Court entered final judgment in accordance with the Supreme Court's opinion and ordered the DOR to process refund claims filed.

The county has received $111,969 in local use tax since its inception. The DOR has estimated the county's share of the total refund liability to be $62,720. As of December 31, 1998, $27,872 remains to be paid.

Schedule

HOLT COUNTY, MISSOURI
SCHEDULE OF FINDINGS
YEARS ENDED DECEMBER 31, 1998 AND 1997

This schedule includes the audit findings that Government Auditing Standards requires to be reported for an audit of financial statements.

98-1. Special Road and Bridge Administrative Service Fee

Section 50.515, RSMo Cumulative Supp.1998, allows the county to impose an administrative service fee on the Special Road and Bridge Fund. The administrative service fee shall be imposed only to generate reimbursement sufficient to recoup actual disbursements made from the General Revenue Fund for related administrative services to the fund, and shall not exceed three percent of the Special Road and Bridge Fund's budgeted expenditures. We noted the following concerns regarding the administrative service fee transfers:

A. During the year ended December 31, 1997, the county paid approximately $62,000 for the salaries of the County Commissioners, the partial salaries of three County Clerk's employees, and related fringe benefits from the Special Road and Bridge Fund. This amount exceeded three percent of budgeted expenditures by approximately $31,000. During the year ended December 31, 1998, the county paid approximately $11,000 for the partial salaries and fringe benefits of the County Commissioners and three of the County Clerk's employees from the Special Road and Bridge Fund and made direct administrative service fee transfers of $20,000 to the General Revenue Fund. Based on actual Special Road and Bridge Fund expenditures, the amounts paid from the Special Road and Bridge Fund and transferred to the General Revenue Fund were approximately $3,000 less than the allowable amount for 1998. The allowable amount of the transfer from the Special Road and Bridge Fund in 1998 was based on the actual expenditures of the fund since budgeted expenditures of the fund were significantly in excess of the actual expenditures. The excess transfers of $31,000 for 1997 combined with $3,000 less than allowable amount for 1998, result in a net excess transfer of $28,000 for the two years ended December 31, 1998.

   As noted in our prior report, approximately $96,000 was due from the General Revenue Fund to the Special Road and Bridge Fund at December 31, 1996 for excess administrative service fee transfers, the payment of County Commissioners' salaries and fringe benefits, and a portion of the salary and fringe benefits of a County Clerk's employee. This amount has not been repaid and, at December 31, 1998, remains due.

B. As noted in our prior report, the Special Road and Bridge Fund loaned monies to the General Revenue Fund and at December 31, 1998, $10,000 remains due.

As a result of these above conditions, approximately $134,000 is due from the General Revenue Fund to the Special Road and Bridge Fund at December 31, 1998. The County Commission has taken funds which are restricted to road and bridge purposes and inappropriately used them for the county's general operating expenses. This is contrary to state law and the Missouri Constitution.

WE AGAIN RECOMMEND the County Commission develop a repayment plan for the money which is due from the General Revenue Fund to the Special Road and Bridge Fund. The County Commission should ensure future administrative transfers do not exceed three percent of actual expenditures.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

We concur and will develop a repayment plan.

98-2.	Capital Improvement Sales Tax

On April 5, 1994, the county passed a 10 year Road and Bridge Capital Improvement sales tax of one-half of one percent for the purpose of improving roads and bridges. This tax was to replace an existing Capital Improvement sales tax that was to expire in June of 1994. On April 7, 1998, the county passed another 10 year Road and Bridge Capital Improvement sales tax of one-half of one percent for the purpose of purchasing gravel to make capital improvements to non-state maintained gravel roads within the county. This sales tax was to replace another existing Road and Bridge Capital Improvement sales tax first passed in 1993 that was to expire in June of 1998. The county appears to have imposed both of these capital improvement sales taxes under Section 67.700, RSMo. Through the combined rates for both of these capital improvement sales taxes, the county is levying one percent which is apparently above the statutory maximum allowed by Section 67.700, RSMo. In addition, Attorney General's Opinion No. 97-99, 1999 to Neel states that total capital improvements sales tax rates can not exceed one-half of one percent.

The county needs to review the various capital improvement sales taxes being imposed to determine which are valid. The county may need to eliminate one of these taxes and reallocate the sales tax monies that are being collected.

WE RECOMMEND the County Commission review the overall capital improvement sales taxes being levied and ensure they are in accordance with applicable state statutes.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The C.A.R.T. Rock Sales Tax approved by 67 percent of voters on April 7, 1998, was an extension of the C.A.R.T. Rock Sales Tax previously approved by the voters of Holt County, Missouri. The Road and Bridge Capital Improvement Tax passed on April 5, 1994, after the approval of 74 percent of the voters, was also an extension of a previously approved sales tax. Thus both taxes have been approved by the voters of Holt County two times.

Section 67.700, RSMo, sets no limits on the number of sales taxes which were imposed thereunder. Further, the State Auditors ignore the fact that this matter has been previously litigated in the case of Davis-v-St. Charles County, wherein the court decided that more than one sales tax may be imposed under 67.700, RSMo. We believe that we are correct in implementing both the will of the voters and the law of the State of Missouri.

AUDITOR'S COMMENT

The fact that a similar matter was litigated in the case of Davis-v-St. Charles County was addressed in the cited Attorney General's opinion. The Attorney General's opinion disagreed with the referenced circuit court case.

Follow-Up on Prior Audit Findings for an
Audit of Financial Statements Performed in Accordance
With Government Auditing Standards

HOLT COUNTY, MISSOURI
FOLLOW-UP ON PRIOR AUDIT FINDINGS FOR AN
AUDIT OF FINANCIAL STATEMENTS PERFORMED IN ACCORDANCE WITH GOVERNMENT AUDITING STANDARDS

In accordance with Government Auditing Standards, this section reports the auditor's follow-up on action taken by Holt County, Missouri, on the applicable finding in our prior report issued for the two years ended December 31, 1996.

3. Special Road and Bridge Transfers

A. During the four years ended December 31, 1996, $96,000 in excess of the allowable three percent administrative fee was either paid or transferred from the Special Road and Bridge Fund.

B. At December 31, 1996, $10,000 remained due from the General Revenue Fund on a loan to the Special Road and Bridge Fund. In addition, no interest was paid to the Special Road and Bridge Fund.

Recommendation:

The County Commission develop a repayment plan for the amounts due from the General Revenue Fund to the Special Road and Bridge Fund. The County Commission should base total administrative transfers on actual or reasonable budgeted expenditures of the Special Road and Bridge Fund. In addition, the County Commission should authorize the County Treasurer to pay interest on monies loaned from the Special Road and Bridge Fund to the General Revenue Fund.

Status:

Not implemented. See MAR No. 98-1.

MANAGEMENT ADVISORY REPORT SECTION

Management Advisory Report -
State Auditor's Findings

HOLT COUNTY, MISSOURI
MANAGEMENT ADVISORY REPORT -
STATE AUDITOR'S CURRENT FINDINGS

We have audited the special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Holt County, Missouri, as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, and have issued our report thereon dated March 18, 1999.

We also have reviewed the operations of elected officials with funds other than those presented in the special-purpose financial statements. As applicable, the objectives of this review were to:

1. Determine the internal controls established over the transactions of the various county officials.

2. Review and evaluate certain other management practices for efficiency and effectiveness.

3. Review certain management practices and financial information for compliance with applicable constitutional, statutory, or contractual provisions.

Our review was made in accordance with applicable generally accepted government auditing standards and included such procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances. In this regard, we reviewed accounting and bank records and other pertinent documents and interviewed various personnel of the county officials.

As part of our review, we assessed the controls of the various county officials to the extent we determined necessary to evaluate the specific matters described above and not to provide assurance on those controls. With respect to controls, we obtained an understanding of the design of relevant policies and procedures and whether they have been placed in operation and we assessed control risk.

Our review was limited to the specific matters described in the preceding paragraphs and was based on selective tests and procedures considered appropriate in the circumstances. Had we performed additional procedures, other information might have come to our attention that would have been included in this report.

The accompanying Management Advisory Report presents our finding arising from our review of the elected county officials referred to above.

Public Administrator's Procedures

The Public Administrator acts as the court appointed personal representative for approximately 20 wards of the Probate Court. During our review of selected estates handled by the Public Administrator, we noted attorney fees of $12,687 for an attorney who did not file invoices to support his requests for fees. As a result, we were unable to determine whether such payments were reasonable or necessary.

Section 473.543, RSMo Cumulative Supp. 1998, requires the public administrator to have supporting documentation for all disbursements. Invoices should be submitted that describe the services provided, the date they were performed, and the number of hours worked. Without such documentation, it is difficult to assess the reasonableness of costs charged to and paid by clients of the Public Administrator.

WE RECOMMEND the Public Administrator obtain supporting documentation for all disbursements made on behalf of clients.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

I will require attorneys to provide sufficient evidence to justify their fees.

This report is intended for the information of the management of Holt County, Missouri, and other applicable government officials. However, this report is a matter of public record and its distribution is not limited.

Follow-Up on Prior Audit Findings

HOLT COUNTY, MISSOURI
FOLLOW-UP ON PRIOR AUDIT FINDINGS

In accordance with Government Auditing Standards, this section reports the auditor's follow-up on action taken by Holt County, Missouri, on findings in the Management Advisory Report (MAR) of our prior audit report issued for the two years ended December 31, 1996. Finding number 3 is omitted since the related follow-up appears in an earlier section of this report. The prior recommendations which have not been implemented, but are considered significant, have been repeated in the current MAR. Although the remaining unimplemented recommendations have not been repeated, the county should consider implementing these recommendations.

1. Budgetary Practices

   A. Budgets were not prepared for all county funds.

   B. Actual expenditures exceeded budgeted amounts for the Assessment Fund.

   C. The annual published financial statements of the county did not include the financial activity of some county funds as required.

   Recommendation:

   The County Commission:

   A. Ensure budgets are prepared or obtained for all county funds.

   B. Not authorize warrants in excess of budgeted expenditures.

   C. Ensure financial information for all county funds is properly reported in the annual published financial statements.

   Status:

   A&C. Partially implemented. Current budgets and financial information included in the published financial statements did not include several small funds. Although not repeated in the current MAR, our recommendations remain as stated above.

   B. Implemented.

2. County Expenditures

   Bids were not always solicited or advertised nor was bid documentation always retained for various purchases.

   Recommendation:

   The County Commission solicit and advertise bids for purchases in accordance with state law. Documentation of these bids and justification for bid awards should be retained.

Status:

Implemented.

4. Computer Controls

A. User Identification Codes were not changed on a periodic basis to ensure confidentiality.

B. Computer usage logs were not printed and reviewed.

Recommendations:

The County Commission:

A. Implement a password system which requires each user be assigned a unique user ID and password, and require passwords to be changed periodically.

B. Print and review computer usage logs to ensure access has been restricted to appropriate job assignments.

Status:

A. Partially implemented. The county uses a password system, however, the passwords are not changed periodically. Although not repeated in the current MAR, our recommendation remains as stated above.

B. Implemented.

5. General Fixed Asset Records and Procedures

A. Additions and deletions had not been consistently recorded in the general fixed asset records and were not reconciled to equipment expenditures to ensure all changes were reflected in the general fixed asset records.

B. Property records were not maintained in a manner that allowed beginning balances, additions, and deletions for each year to be reconciled to balances at the end of each year.

C. County asset items were not numbered, tagged or otherwise identified as county property.

D. An annual inventory of all general fixed assets and quarterly inspections of all lands and buildings was not conducted.

Recommendations:

The County Clerk:

A. Maintain general fixed asset records on a current basis to reflect all additions and deletions as they occur, and periodically reconcile additions of assets to expenditures for equipment to ensure additions are properly recorded.

B. Maintain general fixed asset records in a manner that beginning balances, additions, and deletions can be reconciled to year-end balances.

C. Identify all general fixed asset items with an original cost of $250 or more with a number, tag, or similar device.

D. Perform an annual inventory of the county's personal property items and quarterly inspections of all county-owned land and buildings, and file a written report of the inspections made in accordance with Section 51.155, RSMo 1994. The results of the annual inventory should be compared to the fixed asset records and appropriate adjustments should be made as necessary.

Status:

Not implemented. Although not repeated in the current MAR, our recommendations remain as stated above.

STATISTICAL SECTION

History, Organization, and Statistical Information

HOLT COUNTY, MISSOURI
HISTORY, ORGANIZATION,
AND STATISTICAL INFORMATION

Organized in 1841, the county of Holt was named after David R. Holt, a member of the state legislature. Holt County is a county-organized, third-class county and is part of the Fourth Judicial Circuit. The county seat is Oregon.

Holt County's government is composed of a three-member county commission and separate elected officials performing various tasks. The county commission has mainly administrative duties in setting tax levies, appropriating county funds, appointing board members and trustees of special services, accounting for county property, maintaining county roads and bridges, and performing miscellaneous duties not handled by other county officials.

Principal functions of these other officials relate to judicial courts, law enforcement, property assessment, property tax collections, conduct of elections, and maintenance of financial and other records of importance to the county's citizens.

Counties typically spend a large portion of their receipts to support general county operations and to build and maintain roads and bridges. The following chart shows from where Holt County received its money in 1998 and 1997 to support the county General Revenue and Special Road and Bridge Funds:

	1998		1997

AUDIT REPORT

Report No. 99-111
November 17, 1999

Office Of The
State Auditor Of Missouri
Claire McCaskill

November 1999

YELLOW SHEET

IMPORTANT: The Missouri State Auditor is required by Missouri law to conduct audits only once every four years in counties, like Perry, which do not have a county auditor. However, to assist such counties in meeting federal audit requirements, the State Auditor will also perform a financial and compliance audit of various county operating funds every two years. This voluntary service to Missouri counties can only be provided when state auditing resources are available and does not interfere with the State Auditor's constitutional responsibility of auditing state government.

Once every four years, the State Auditor's statutory audit will cover additional areas of county operations, as well as the elected county officials, as required by Missouri's Constitution.

This audit of Perry County was a financial and compliance audit of various county operating funds.

- The county did not prepare budgets for some funds. The audit recommended the County Clerk implement procedures to ensure budges are prepared for all funds, including those funds controlled by other county officials.

State Auditor's Reports

CLAIRE C. McCASKILL
Missouri State Auditor

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT ON
THE FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

To the County Commission
and
Officeholders of Perry County, Missouri

We have audited the accompanying special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Perry County, Missouri, as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, as identified in the table of contents. These special-purpose financial statements are the responsibility of the county's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these special-purpose financial statements based on our audit.

The accompanying special-purpose financial statements were prepared for the purpose of presenting the receipts, disbursements, and changes in cash of various funds of Perry County, Missouri, and comparisons of such information with the corresponding budgeted information for various funds of the county and are not intended to be a complete presentation of the financial position and results of operations of those funds or of Perry County.

As more fully described in Note 1 to the financial statements, the county's financial statements do not include statements of receipts, disbursements, and changes in cash - budget and actual for various funds totaling $906,149 and $2,108,970 in receipts, and $1,025,489 and $1,510,705 in disbursements for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, respectively. Statements of receipts, disbursements, and changes in cash - budget and actual are required by the comprehensive basis of accounting discussed in Note 1, which is a basis of accounting other than generally accepted accounting principles.

In our opinion, except for the omission of the information discussed in the preceding paragraph, the special-purpose financial statements referred to in the first paragraph present fairly, in all material respects, the receipts, disbursements, and changes in cash of various funds of Perry County, Missouri, and comparisons of such information with the corresponding budgeted information for various funds of the county as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, in conformity with the comprehensive basis of accounting discussed in Note 1, which is a basis of accounting other than generally accepted accounting principles.

Perry County, Missouri, has not presented the disclosures required by Governmental Accounting Standards Board (GASB) Technical Bulletin 98-1, Disclosures about Year 2000 Issues, as amended by GASB Technical Bulletin 99-1, that the GASB has determined are necessary to supplement, although not be a part of, the basic financial statements. In addition, we do not provide assurance that the county is or will become year 2000-compliant, that the county's year 2000 remediation efforts will be successful in whole or in part, or that parties with which the county does business are or will become year 2000-compliant.

In accordance with Government Auditing Standards, we also have issued our report dated July 26, 1999, on our consideration of the county's internal control over financial reporting and on our tests of its compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants.

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT ON COMPLIANCE
AND ON INTERNAL CONTROL OVER FINANCIAL REPORTING
BASED ON AN AUDIT OF FINANCIAL STATEMENTS PERFORMED
IN ACCORDANCE WITH GOVERNMENT AUDITING STANDARDS

To the County Commission
and
Officeholders of Perry County, Missouri

We have audited the special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Perry County, Missouri, as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, and have issued our report thereon dated July 26, 1999. That report expressed a qualified opinion on the special-purpose financial statements. We conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States.

As part of obtaining reasonable assurance about whether the special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Perry County, Missouri, are free of material misstatement, we performed tests of the county's compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants, noncompliance with which could have a direct and material effect on the determination of financial statement amounts. However, providing an opinion on compliance with those provisions was not an objective of our audit, and accordingly, we do not express such an opinion. The results of our tests disclosed an instance of noncompliance that is required to be reported under Government Auditing Standards and which is described in the accompanying Schedule of Findings as finding number 98-1.

Internal Control Over Financial Reporting

In planning and performing our audit of the special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Perry County, Missouri, we considered the county's internal control over financial reporting in order to determine our auditing procedures for the purpose of expressing our opinion on the special-purpose financial statements and not to provide assurance on the internal control over financial reporting. However, we noted a certain matter involving the internal control over financial reporting and its operation that we consider to be a reportable condition. Reportable conditions involve matters coming to our attention relating to significant deficiencies in the design or operation of the internal control over financial reporting that, in our judgment, could adversely affect the county's ability to record, process, summarize, and report financial data consistent with the assertions of management in the special-purpose financial statements. The reportable condition is described in the accompanying Schedule of Findings as finding number 98-1.

A material weakness is a condition in which the design or operation of one or more of the internal control components does not reduce to a relatively low level the risk that misstatements in amounts that would be material in relation to the special-purpose financial statements being audited may occur and not be detected within a timely period by employees in the normal course of performing their assigned functions. Our consideration of the internal control over financial reporting would not necessarily disclose all matters in the internal control that might be reportable conditions and, accordingly, would not necessarily disclose all reportable conditions that are also considered to be material weaknesses. However, we consider the reportable condition described above, finding number 98-1, to be a material weakness.

This report is intended for the information of the management of Perry County, Missouri, and other applicable government officials. However, this report is a matter of public record and its distribution is not limited.

Notes to the Financial Statements

1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

A. Reporting Entity and Basis of Presentation

The accompanying special-purpose financial statements present the receipts, disbursements, and changes in cash of various funds of Perry County, Missouri, and comparisons of such information with the corresponding budgeted information for various funds of the county. The funds presented are established under statutory or administrative authority, and their operations are under the control of the County Commission, an elected county official, the Health Center Board, the Sheltered Workshop Board, or the Mental Health Center Board. The General Revenue Fund is the county's general operating fund, accounting for all financial resources except those required to be accounted for in another fund. The other funds presented account for financial resources whose use is restricted for specified purposes.

B. Basis of Accounting

The financial statements are prepared on the cash basis of accounting; accordingly, amounts are recognized when received or disbursed in cash. This basis of accounting differs from generally accepted accounting principles, which require revenues to be recognized when they become available and measurable or when they are earned and expenditures or expenses to be recognized when the related liabilities are incurred.

C. Budgets and Budgetary Practices

The County Commission and other applicable boards are responsible for the preparation and approval of budgets for various county funds in accordance with Sections 50.525 through 50.745, RSMo 1994 and RSMo Cumulative Supp. 1998, the county budget law. These budgets are adopted on the cash basis of accounting.

Although adoption of a formal budget is required by law, the county did not adopt formal budgets for the following funds:

Fund	Years Ended December 31,
Sheriff's Civil Fees	1998 and 1997
Multi-Purpose Building	1998 and 1997
Local Park Sales Tax	1998 and 1997
Perry County Health Center Building	1998 and 1997
Nursing Home Bond/Debt Service	1998 and 1997
Prosecuting Attorney Bad Check	1997
Law Library	1997
Recorders User Fees	1997
Associate Circuit Division Interest	1997
Circuit Division Interest	1997
Sheriff's Reserve	1997

Commissary	1997

Warrants issued were in excess of budgeted amounts for the following funds:

Fund	Years Ended December 31,
Law Library Fund	1998
Recorders User Fees Fund	1998
Commissary Fund	1998
Health Center Fund	1997

Section 50.740, RSMo 1994, prohibits expenditures in excess of the approved budgets.

Although Section 50.740, RSMo 1994, requires a balanced budget, a deficit balance was budgeted in the Landfill/Transfer Station Fund for the year ended December 31, 1998.

D. Published Financial Statements

2. Cash

Section 110.270, RSMo 1994, based on Article IV, Section 15, Missouri Constitution, authorizes counties to place their funds, either outright or by repurchase agreement, in U.S. Treasury and agency obligations. In addition, Section 30.950, RSMo Cumulative Supp. 1998, effective August 28, 1997, requires political subdivisions with existing authority to invest in instruments other than depositary accounts at financial institutions to adopt a written investment policy. Among other things, the policy is to commit a political subdivision to the principles of safety, liquidity, and yield (in that order) when managing public funds and to prohibit purchase of derivatives (either directly or through repurchase agreements), use of leveraging (through either reverse repurchase agreements or other methods), and use of public funds for speculation. The county has adopted such a policy.

In accordance with Statement No. 3 of the Governmental Accounting Standards Board, Deposits with Financial Institutions, Investments (Including Repurchase Agreements), and Reverse Repurchase Agreements, disclosures are provided below regarding the risk of potential loss of cash deposits. For the purposes of these disclosures, deposits with financial institutions are demand, time, and savings accounts, including certificates of deposit and negotiable order of withdrawal accounts, in banks, savings institutions, and credit unions.

The financial statements do not include the cash balances of the County Collector, who collects and distributes property taxes as an agent for various local governments. However, for the purpose of these risk disclosures, the County Collector's cash balances are included since collateral securities to cover amounts not covered by federal depositary insurance are pledged to the county rather than to specific county officials.
Of the county's bank balance at December 31, 1998, $1,274,478 was covered by federal depositary insurance or by collateral securities held by the county's custodial bank in the county's name, and $7,402,730 was covered by collateral pledged by one bank and held in the county's name by the trust department of an affiliate of the same bank holding company.

Of the county's bank balance at December 31, 1997, $1,683,635 was covered by federal depositary insurance or by collateral securities held by the county's custodial bank in the county's name, and $6,894,763 was covered by collateral pledged by one bank and held in the county's name by the trust department of an affiliate of the same bank holding company.

The Health Center Board's deposits at December 31, 1998 and 1997, were entirely covered by federal depositary insurance.

The Sheltered Workshop Board's deposits at December 31, 1998 and 1997, were entirely covered by federal depositary insurance.

3. Use Tax Liability

The local use tax under Section 144.748, RSMo 1994, was struck down in its entirety by the Missouri Supreme Court in Associated Industries of Missouri v. Director of Revenue, 918 S.W.2d 780 (Mo. banc 1996). In St. Charles County v. Director of Revenue, 961 S.W.2d 44 (Mo. banc 1998), the Missouri Supreme Court ruled that local use taxes paid prior to the repeal of Section 144.748, RSMo 1994, must be refunded to taxpayers and authorized the Department of Revenue (DOR) to withhold amounts otherwise due to political subdivisions to the extent such withholding is necessary to cover the refund expense. On March 24, 1998, the Cole County Circuit Court entered final judgment in accordance with the Supreme Court's opinion and ordered the DOR to process refund claims filed.

The county has received $159,461 in local use tax since its inception. The DOR has estimated the county's share of the total refund liability to be $84,210. As of December 31, 1998, $31,578 remains to be paid.

Schedule

PERRY COUNTY, MISSOURI
SCHEDULE OF FINDINGS
YEARS ENDED DECEMBER 31, 1998 AND 1997

This schedule includes the audit finding that Government Auditing Standards requires to be reported for an audit of financial statements.

98-1. Budgetary Procedures

Formal budgets were not prepared for the following funds:

Fund	Expenditures, Year Ended December 31, 1998	1997
Prosecuting Attorney Bad Check	$ N/A	8,039
Law Library	N/A	6,124
Recorders User Fees	N/A	9,675
Associate Circuit Division Interest	N/A	390
Circuit Division Interest	N/A	1,331
Sheriff's Reserve	N/A	1,804
Commissary	N/A	9,920
Sheriff's Civil Fees	2,674	N/A
Multi-Purpose Building	107,346	402,547
Local Park Sales Tax	717,750	N/A
Perry County Health Center Building	85,372	999,232
Nursing Home Bond/Debt Service	112,347	71,643
Total	$ 1,025,489	1,510,705

Chapter 50, RSMo 1994, requires the preparation and filing of annual budgets for all county funds to present a complete financial plan for the ensuing year. Expenditures from funds not budgeted represented 16 percent and 22 percent of total expenditures for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, respectively.

By preparing or obtaining budgets for all county funds and activities, the County Commission is able to more efficiently evaluate all county financial resources.

According to Section 50.530, RSMo 1994, the County Clerk is the budget officer. The County Clerk needs to implement procedures to ensure all funds are budgeted. These procedures need to include requesting and obtaining budgets for funds controlled by other county officials.

A similar condition was also noted in our prior report.

WE AGAIN RECOMMEND the County Clerk implement procedures to ensure budgets are prepared for all funds, including those funds controlled by other county officials.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The first seven funds that are listed are all budgeted by other officeholders. The audit report that was issued in September of 1997, for the year ending 12-31-96, listed these funds for the first time. The County Clerk did include those funds in the 1998 budget and has continued in 1999. The Sheriff's Civil Fee Fund was new in mid year of 1998 and a budget was prepared for the fund in 1999. The Multi-Purpose Building Fund and the Local Park Sales Tax Fund are a part of the Perry Park Center that was opened in 1999. A budget was prepared in 1999 for these funds and prior to 1999 the monies were controlled by a not for profit board of directors that included the presiding commissioner of Perry County. The Perry County Health Center Building Fund was created for the construction phase of the building and was included in the budgets of the health center and mental health center. These budgets are controlled by their respective board of trustees. The Nursing Home Debt Service Fund was closed in 1998 when the bonds were paid off. As County Clerk and Budget Officer of Perry County I have and will continue to make the effort to prepare formal budgets for all funds.

YELLOW SHEET

IMPORTANT: The Missouri State Auditor is required by Missouri law to conduct audits only once every four years in counties, like Ste. Genevieve, which do not have a county auditor. However, to assist such counties in meeting federal audit requirements, the State Auditor will also perform a financial and compliance audit of various county operating funds every two years. This voluntary service to Missouri counties can only be provided when state auditing resources are available and does not interfere with the State Auditor's constitutional responsibility of auditing state government.

Once every four years, the State Auditor's statutory audit will cover additional areas of county operations, as well as the elected county officials, as required by Missouri's Constitution.

This audit of Ste. Genevieve County was a financial and compliance audit of various county operating funds.

The audit includes other matters upon which the county should consider and take appropriate corrective action.

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT ON
THE FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

To the County Commission
and
Officeholders of Ste. Genevieve County, Missouri

We have audited the accompanying special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Ste. Genevieve County, Missouri, as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, as identified in the table of contents. These special-purpose financial statements are the responsibility of the county's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these special-purpose financial statements based on our audit.

We conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the special-purpose financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the special-purpose financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion.

The accompanying special-purpose financial statements were prepared for the purpose of presenting the receipts, disbursements, and changes in cash of various funds of Ste. Genevieve County, Missouri, and comparisons of such information with the corresponding budgeted information for various funds of the county and are not intended to be a complete presentation of the financial position and results of operations of those funds or of Ste. Genevieve County.

In our opinion, the special-purpose financial statements referred to in the first paragraph present fairly, in all material respects, the receipts, disbursements, and changes in cash of various funds of Ste. Genevieve County, Missouri, and comparisons of such information with the corresponding budgeted information for various funds of the county as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, in conformity with the comprehensive basis of accounting discussed in Note 1, which is a basis of accounting other than generally accepted accounting principles.

Ste. Genevieve County, Missouri, has not presented the disclosures required by Governmental Accounting Standards Board (GASB) Technical Bulletin 98-1, Disclosures about Year 2000 Issues, as amended by GASB Technical Bulletin 99-1, that the GASB has determined are necessary to supplement, although not be a part of, the basic financial statements. In addition, we do not provide assurance that the county is or will become year 2000-compliant, that the county's year 2000 remediation efforts will be successful in whole or in part, or that parties with which the county does business are or will become year 2000-compliant.

In accordance with Government Auditing Standards, we also have issued our report dated July 22, 1999, on our consideration of the county's internal control over financial reporting and on our tests of its compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants.

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT ON COMPLIANCE
AND ON INTERNAL CONTROL OVER FINANCIAL REPORTING
BASED ON AN AUDIT OF FINANCIAL STATEMENTS PERFORMED
IN ACCORDANCE WITH GOVERNMENT AUDITING STANDARDS

To the County Commission
and
Officeholders of Ste. Genevieve County, Missouri

We have audited the special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Ste. Genevieve County, Missouri, as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, and have issued our report thereon dated July 22, 1999. We conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States.

Compliance

As part of obtaining reasonable assurance about whether the special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Ste. Genevieve County, Missouri, are free of material misstatement, we performed tests of the county's compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants, noncompliance with which could have a direct and material effect on the determination of financial statement amounts. However, providing an opinion on compliance with those provisions was not an objective of our audit, and accordingly, we do not express such an opinion. The results of our tests disclosed no instances of noncompliance that are required to be reported under Government Auditing Standards. However, we noted certain immaterial instances of noncompliance, which we have reported to the management of the county in the accompanying Letter on Other Matters.

Internal Control Over Financial Reporting

In planning and performing our audit of the special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Ste. Genevieve County, Missouri, we considered the county's internal control over financial reporting in order to determine our auditing procedures for the purpose of expressing our opinion on the special-purpose financial statements and not to provide assurance on the internal control over financial reporting. Our consideration of the internal control over financial reporting would not necessarily disclose all matters in the internal control over financial reporting that might be material weaknesses. A material weakness is a condition in which the design or operation of one or more of the internal control components does not reduce to a relatively low level the risk that misstatements in amounts that would be material in relation to the special-purpose financial statements being audited may occur and not be detected within a timely period by employees in the normal course of performing their assigned functions. We noted no matters involving the internal control over financial reporting and its operation that we consider to be material weaknesses.

This report is intended for the information of the management of Ste. Genevieve County, Missouri, and other applicable government officials. However, this report is a matter of public record and its distribution is not limited.

Notes to the Financial Statements

1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

A. Reporting Entity and Basis of Presentation

The accompanying special-purpose financial statements present the receipts, disbursements, and changes in cash of various funds of Ste. Genevieve County, Missouri, and comparisons of such information with the corresponding budgeted information for various funds of the county. The funds presented are established under statutory or administrative authority, and their operations are under the control of the County Commission, an elected county official, the Health Center Board, Community Mental Health Board, Senate Bill 40 Board, Senior Citizens Service Board, or the Community Center Board. The General Revenue Fund is the county's general operating fund, accounting for all financial resources except those required to be accounted for in another fund. The other funds presented account for financial resources whose use is restricted for specified purposes.

B. Basis of Accounting

The financial statements are prepared on the cash basis of accounting; accordingly, amounts are recognized when received or disbursed in cash. This basis of accounting differs from generally accepted accounting principles, which require revenues to be recognized when they become available and measurable or when they are earned and expenditures or expenses to be recognized when the related liabilities are incurred.

C. Budgets and Budgetary Practices

The County Commission and other applicable boards are responsible for the preparation and approval of budgets for various county funds in accordance with Sections 50.525 through 50.745, RSMo 1994 and RSMo Cumulative Supp. 1998, the county budget law. These budgets are adopted on the cash basis of accounting.

Although adoption of a formal budget is required by law, the county did not adopt formal budgets for the following funds:

Fund	Years Ended December 31,
Law Library Fund	1997
Community Center Operation Fund	1998
Local Law Enforcement Block Grant Fund	1998 and 1997
Circuit Clerk Interest Fund	1998 and 1997
Associate Circuit Division Interest Fund	1998 and 1997

Warrants issued were in excess of budgeted amounts for the following funds:

Fund	Years Ended December 31,
Law Library Fund	1998
Victims of Domestic Violence	1997

Section 50.740, RSMo 1994, prohibits expenditures in excess of the approved budgets.

D. Published Financial Statements

Under Sections 50.800 and 50.810, RSMo 1994, the County Commission is responsible for preparing and publishing in a local newspaper a detailed annual financial statement for the county. The financial statement is required to show receipts or revenues, disbursements or expenditures, and beginning and ending balances for each fund.

However, the county's published financial statements for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, did not include the Health Center Fund, Senate Bill 40 Fund, Local Law Enforcement Block Grant Fund, Circuit Clerk Interest Fund, and Associate Circuit Division Interest Fund. The Law Library Fund and Community Center Operation Fund were not included in the county's published financial statements for the year ended December 31, 1998.

2. Cash

Section 110.270, RSMo 1994, based on Article IV, Section 15, Missouri Constitution, authorizes counties to place their funds, either outright or by repurchase agreement, in U.S. Treasury and agency obligations. In addition, Section 30.950, RSMo Cumulative Supp. 1998, effective August 28, 1997, requires political subdivisions with existing authority to invest in instruments other than depositary accounts at financial institutions to adopt a written investment policy. Among other things, the policy is to commit a political subdivision to the principles of safety, liquidity, and yield (in that order) when managing public funds and to prohibit purchase of derivatives (either directly or through repurchase agreements), use of leveraging (through either reverse repurchase agreements or other methods), and use of public funds for speculation. The county has not adopted such a policy.

In accordance with Statement No. 3 of the Governmental Accounting Standards Board, Deposits with Financial Institutions, Investments (Including Repurchase Agreements), and Reverse Repurchase Agreements, disclosures are provided below regarding the risk of potential loss of cash deposits. For the purposes of these disclosures, deposits with financial institutions are demand, time, and savings accounts, including certificates of deposit and negotiable order of withdrawal accounts, in banks, savings institutions, and credit unions.

The county's deposits at December 31, 1998 and 1997, were entirely covered by federal depositary insurance or by collateral securities held by the county's custodial bank in the county's name.

Schedule

STE. GENEVIEVE COUNTY, MISSOURI
SCHEDULE OF FINDINGS
YEARS ENDED DECEMBER 31, 1998 AND 1997

This schedule includes no audit findings that Government Auditing Standards requires to be reported for an audit of financial statements.

Follow-Up on Prior Audit Findings

STE. GENEVIEVE COUNTY, MISSOURI
FOLLOW-UP ON PRIOR AUDIT FINDINGS

Our prior audit report issued for the two years ended December 31, 1996 included no audit findings that Government Auditing Standards requires to be reported for an audit of financial statements.

SECTION ON OTHER MATTERS

STE. GENEVIEVE COUNTY, MISSOURI
LETTER ON OTHER MATTERS

We have audited the special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Ste. Genevieve County, Missouri, as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, and have issued our report thereon dated July 22, 1999.

We did not review the operations of elected officials with funds other than those presented in the special-purpose financial statements. The operations of such officials will be reviewed and reported on during the state auditor's next scheduled audit of the county.

This Letter on Other Matters presents matters other than the findings, if any, reported in the accompanying Schedule of Findings. These matters resulted from our audit of the special-purpose financial statements of Ste. Genevieve County but do not meet the criteria for inclusion in the written report on compliance and on internal control over financial reporting that is required for an audit performed in accordance with Government Auditing Standards. Nevertheless, the county should consider these matters and take appropriate corrective action.

1. County Budgetary Procedures and Financial Statements

   Formal budgets were not prepared for some county funds for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997. Warrants issued were in excess of budgeted amounts by small amounts for the Law Library Fund for 1998 and the Victims of Domestic Violence Fund for 1997. The approved budget documents did not reasonably project the anticipated financial activity of the Special Road and Bridge Fund for the two years ended December 31, 1998. Several funds were not included in the county's published financial statement.

2. County Community Center Board

   The Community Center Board Treasurer maintains a bank account which is held outside the county treasury. It appears the Community Center bank account should be held by the County Treasurer.

3. Mental Health Board

   The Mental Health Board authorized expenditures totaling approximately $600 for Christmas gifts for employees and doctors who provide mental health services. The Mental Health Board should review these expenditures and ensure that public funds are spent only on items which are necessary and beneficial to county residents.

This Letter on Other Matters is intended for the information of the management of Ste. Genevieve County, Missouri, and other applicable government officials. However, this letter is a matter of public record and its distribution is not limited.

AUDIT REPORT

SPECIAL REVIEW OF
SHERIFF'S OFFICE
BUTLER COUNTY, MISSOURI
INMATE AND COMMISSARY ACCOUNTS
MARCH 1, 1998 THROUGH JUNE 8, 1999

From The Office Of State Auditor
Claire McCaskill

Report No. 99-109
November 10, 1999

Office Of The
State Auditor Of Missouri
Claire McCaskill

November 1999

FACT SHEET

Missing funds were discovered as a result of an audit conducted by our office of the Butler County Sheriff's Inmate and Commissary Accounts.

Inadequate internal controls and a lack of oversight of the inmate and commissary accounts allowed a shortage of $10,217 to occur in the Inmate Account.

As of December 31, 1998, at least $3,082 was being held for inmates and $11,033 was due to the Commissary Account. However, the reconciled bank balance in the Inmate Account was only $3,898, creating a $10,217 shortage. Part of this shortage accumulated during the period March 1, 1998 through December 31, 1998, when more than $5,000 of inmate monies recorded as received, were not deposited.

Receipt slips were not reconciled to the amounts transmitted for deposit to the Inmate Account. From March 1, 1998 through December 1998 receipt slips issued totaled approximately $5,000 more than amounts deposited. After January 1999, when our audit of Butler County began, the receipt slips substantially agree to deposits.

Commissary sales were not reported on a timely basis and sales of approximately $11,000 were not reported at all, which helped to conceal the shortage of inmate monies.

Information gathered during our review has been turned over to law enforcement authorities. The State Auditor recommended the Sheriff work with law enforcement officials regarding any criminal prosecution and to obtain restitution of the missing funds. The Sheriff responded that he will have this investigated by the Missouri State Highway Patrol.

and
Sheriff of Butler County, Missouri

We have conducted a special review of the records and procedures related to the Inmate and Commissary Accounts of the Sheriff of Butler County, Missouri. The scope of the special review included, but was not limited to, the period March 1, 1998 through June 8, 1999. The objectives of this review were to:

1. Investigate suspected irregularities.

2. Determine the amount of monies misappropriated.

3. Review and evaluate certain controls and procedures regarding the collection of and accounting for inmate monies.

Our review was made in accordance with applicable generally accepted government auditing standards and included such procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances. In this regard, we reviewed the financial records and procedures related to the Inmate and Commissary Accounts and interviewed personnel of the Sheriff's office.

Our review was limited to the specific matters described above and was based on the selective tests and procedures considered appropriate in the circumstances. Had we performed additional procedures, other information might have come to our attention which would have been included in this report.

The accompanying Management Advisory Report presents our findings, comments, and recommendations arising from our audit of the Sheriff's office of Butler County, Missouri.

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

SPECIAL REVIEW OF
SHERIFF'S OFFICE
BUTLER COUNTY, MISSOURI
INMATE AND COMMISSARY ACCOUNTS

At December 31, 1998, the Inmate Account was short $10,217 At least $3,082 was being held for inmates and $11,033 was due to the Commissary Account. However, the reconciled bank balance in the Inmate Account was only $3,898, creating the $10,217 shortage. Part of this shortage accumulated during the period March 1, 1998 through December 31, 1998, when more than $5,000 of inmate monies were recorded as received, but not deposited. Commissary sales were not reported on a timely basis and commissary sales of approximately $11,000 were not reported at all, which helped to conceal the shortage of inmate monies.

This shortage may have been prevented or detected on a more timely basis if adequate oversight and review had been performed and internal controls, as noted in the prior Management Advisory Report (MAR) and repeated in the current MAR, had been established.

Bill R. Heaton serves as Sheriff of Butler County. Francine Willoughby, was the correction officer responsible for receiving and recording inmate monies and conducting commissary sales prior to June 25, 1999. On June 25, 1999, the Sheriff reassigned the duties of collecting and recording inmate monies to another employee.

MANAGEMENT ADVISORY REPORT

SPECIAL REVIEW OF
SHERIFF'S OFFICE
BUTLER COUNTY, MISSOURI
INMATE AND COMMISSARY ACCOUNTS

The Sheriff's office collects approximately $100,000 annually on behalf of inmates and provides a commissary service for inmates twice a week. Inmates are able to purchase commissary items from monies that are held in trust for them by the Sheriff's office. Prior to March 1, 1998, commissary services were provided by an independent vendor. In March 1998, the Sheriff's office began purchasing and maintaining inventory to be resold to inmates. One correction officer was primarily responsible for receiving and recording inmate monies and conducting commissary sales prior to June 25, 1999. The duties of receiving and recording inmate monies were then transferred to the employee responsible for depositing the monies, cosigning checks and reconciling the bank accounts.

On January 4, 1999, we began our routine audit of Butler County. During our audit of the Sheriff's office, we noted discrepancies between amounts received on behalf of inmates and amounts deposited into the Inmate Account. This special review was performed to more fully review the circumstances related to these discrepancies and to more fully determine the extent of misappropriated monies.

Following are our comments regarding the misappropriated funds and the accounting controls and procedures over the Inmate and Commissary Accounts.

1. Missing Funds

Upon incarceration, any monies in the custody of an inmate are receipted and deposited into the Inmate Account. Friends and relatives are also allowed to leave monies which are receipted and deposited by the Sheriff's office for the inmates' use during incarceration. The amounts of monies received, commissary purchases made, and the available cash balance for each inmate are recorded on a computer. Prior to holding commissary, a correction officer distributes order forms to each inmate reflecting the items available for purchase and the inmate's available cash balance. The correction officer records the amount of each inmate's purchases on the computer and reports the total commissary sales for all inmates to another employee who transfers that amount from the Inmate Account to the Commissary Account. Invoices to replenish the commissary inventory are then paid from the Commissary Account and periodically, excess monies (profit) are transferred to the county's General Revenue Fund.

At December 31, 1998, the Inmate Account was short $10,217. At least $3,082 was being held for inmates and $11,033 was due to the Commissary Account. However, the reconciled bank balance in the Inmate Account was only $3,898, resulting in a shortage of $10,217. Part of this shortage accumulated during the period March 1, 1998 through December 31, 1998, when more than $5,000 of inmate monies were recorded as received, but not deposited. In addition, the correction officer did not report commissary sales in a timely manner and commissary sales of approximately $11,000 were not reported at all. This helped to conceal the shortage since these monies were not transferred out of the Inmate Account to the Commissary Account.

The shortage of inmate monies went undetected due to several internal control weaknesses, including inadequate segregation of duties and lack of independent review, as discussed later in this report.

Information gathered during our review has been turned over to law enforcement authorities.

WE RECOMMEND the Sheriff work with law enforcement officials regarding any criminal prosecution and to obtain restitution of the missing funds.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

We will have this investigated by the Missouri State Highway Patrol.

2. Accounting Controls and Procedures

A. Receipt slips were not issued for some monies received from (or for) inmates. Some receipt slips issued for inmate monies were not pre-numbered and did not identify the method of payment (i.e., cash, check or money order).

Pre-numbered receipt slips should be issued for all monies received, and the method of payment should be noted on the receipt slip.

B. Prior to early 1999, receipt slips issued were not reconciled to amounts transmitted for deposit. From March 1998 through December 1998, receipt slips issued totaled approximately $5,000 more than amounts deposited. The receipts slips were also not reconciled to the amounts recorded to each inmate's account on the computer. In addition, receipts recorded on the computer for which a receipt slip was not issued totaled $753 for August through November 1998. This would increase the amount of undeposited receipts as calculated above. After December 31, 1998, receipt slips substantially agree to deposits and to amounts recorded on the computer.

To ensure all amounts are properly recorded and handled, receipt slips should be reconciled to the amounts recorded on the computer and the amounts deposited. The reconciliation should include agreeing the composition of the receipt slips to the composition of the deposits.

C. Monies received were not adequately safeguarded prior to deposit. Employees of the Sheriff's office indicated monies were not locked in a drawer or otherwise secured prior to deposit and were accessible by a number of individuals.

To establish accountability and adequately protect monies from loss, theft or misuse, monies should be secured in a location with access limited to the individual responsible for the monies.

D. Errors were made, and not detected, in calculating the amount of monies to be transferred to the Commissary Account. Sales were not reported on a timely basis, some sales were inaccurately reported, and others were not reported at all.

Approximately $11,000 of commissary sales were never reported or transferred to the Commissary Account. This includes sales from as early as May 1998.

In addition, some commissary purchases were not properly recorded to the inmate accounts or were not recorded in a timely manner. As a result, some inmates upon release received larger refunds than were due to them.

To ensure all sales are transferred from the Inmate Account to the Commissary Account, the purchases should be recorded promptly to each inmate's account, and the total sales calculated after each commissary sale. Transfers from the Inmate Account to the Commissary Account for the total sale amount should be made at least weekly.

E. The balance in the Inmate Account was not reconciled to the individual inmate account balances. As of December 31, 1998 the inmates' account balances totaled approximately $3,082 and undistributed commissary sale monies owed to the Commissary Account totaled $11,033. The reconciled bank balance on that date was only $3,898 resulting in an $10,217 shortage in the Inmate Account.

Upon being released from the Butler County Jail, any balance remaining in the inmate's account may be refunded to him, transferred to another inmate's account, or sent to the correctional facility to which the inmate is being transferred. Many instances were noted where the balance was refunded, but not recorded on the computer records. While these amounts were not included in the inmate balances above, the records need to be updated and the refunds recorded on a timely basis.

To ensure that all inmate monies are properly recorded and deposited, the balance in the Inmate Account should be reconciled monthly to the inmate balances, and any other monies remaining in that account. In addition, all refunds made should be promptly recorded to the inmate's account.

F. The accounting duties related to the Inmate and Commissary Accounts were not adequately segregated. One person was responsible for receipting, recording receipts to the inmates' accounts, and transmitting monies for deposit. There was no review or independent reconciliation of receipt slips issued to monies transmitted for deposit, or amounts recorded to inmate accounts. In addition, the same person was responsible for conducting the commissary sales, recording the sales to the inmates' accounts and reporting the amount of monies to be transferred to the Commissary Account. There was no independent review of the amount of sales recorded to the inmate accounts with the inventory reconciliations or the amounts reported as sales to be transferred to the Commissary Account.

To ensure monies are properly recorded and handled, the duties of receipting and depositing monies need to be segregated from those of recording receipts to the inmates' accounts. Also, someone without access to cash receipts needs to record the commissary sales to the inmates' accounts and report the amount to be transferred to the Commissary Account.

G. The Sheriff's office does not maintain a running inventory (perpetual inventory) of items purchased from vendors, items sold to inmates, and inventory balances. A record of what should be in the inventory should be reconciled periodically to an actual physical inventory on hand.

   To ensure commissary items are properly recorded and handled, purchases and sales should be compared with actual inventory on hand.

Conditions similar to A. B. and E. were reported in our prior audit.

WE RECOMMEND the Sheriff:

A. Ensure pre-numbered receipt slips are issued for all monies received and the composition of the receipt is noted on the receipt slip.

B. Ensure receipt slips are reconciled to deposits, including the composition of receipt slips to the composition of deposits. In addition, amounts recorded on the computer should be reconciled to receipt slips and deposits.

C. Ensure monies are adequately safeguarded until deposited.

D. Ensure purchases are recorded promptly to the inmates' accounts and the total sale amount transferred to the Commissary Account.

E. Ensure the Inmate Account balance is reconciled monthly to inmate balances. Any differences should be immediately followed up on and resolved. In addition, all refunds should be promptly recorded to the inmates' accounts.

F. Ensure accounting duties are adequately segregated or an independent review is made of the records and reconciliations.

G. Ensure perpetual inventory records are maintained and periodically reconciled to a physical inventory.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

A-C. These have been implemented.

D. This has been implemented. Monies are transferred weekly to the Commissary Account.

E. This has been implemented. Currently, the only differences occurred prior to January 1999.

F. The administrative assistant is currently reviewing the records and reconciliations.

G. Not implemented yet. The sheriff's department plans to turn the commissary operations over to a private vendor.

The report is intended for the information of the management of the Office of Sheriff of Butler County, Missouri, and other applicable government officials. However, this report is a matter of public record and its distribution is not limited.

FOLLOW-UP ON STATE AUDITOR'S PRIOR RECOMMENDATIONS

SPECIAL REVIEW OF
SHERIFF'S OFFICE
BUTLER COUNTY, MISSOURI
FOLLOW-UP ON STATE AUDITOR'S PRIOR RECOMMENDATIONS

This section reports follow-up action taken by the Butler County Sheriff's office on recommendations made in the Management Advisory Report (MAR) of our report of Butler County issued for the two years ended December 31, 1996. The prior recommendations which have not been implemented have been repeated in the current MAR.

Sheriff's Commissary

A.1. Monies received from (or for) inmates were held in cash and were used to cash a personal check for a jail employee and to pay an invoice which was subsequently reimbursed.

2. The inmate account ledger was not reconciled to the inmate bank account.

3. Inmates were allowed to carry negative cash balances, and bank charges assessed on the inmate account were not reimbursed from the commissary revenue account.

B.1. Perpetual inventory records were not maintained, and some vendor invoices and inmates' order forms were not retained.

2. Periodic physical inventory counts were not performed.

3. Procedures had not been established for marking up inventory prices to ensure an adequate profit was received from the operation of the commissary.

Recommendation:

The Sheriff:

A.1. Deposit monies held in trust for prisoners to the inmate trust account intact daily or when accumulated receipts exceed $100. In addition, inmate funds should be used only for the inmates' benefit at the inmates' directions.

2. Reconcile the inmate account ledger to the inmate account at least monthly and investigate and resolve all errors and discrepancies in a timely manner.

3. Discontinue the practice of allowing inmates' accounts to carry negative balances and seek reimbursement from the commissary sales revenue account for all bank charges incurred on the inmate monies bank account.

B.1. Maintain perpetual inventory records and adequate supporting documentation to account for commissary merchandise including balances for each item, purchases, sales, credits, and other uses of inventory.

2. Ensure a periodic physical count of inventory is performed at least monthly by an employee independent of daily commissary operations. The results of that inventory should be compared to the inventory records and discrepancies should be investigated in a timely manner.

3. Establish a formal policy to regulate the mark up of commissary inventory. In addition, the Sheriff's department should formally monitor the commissary revenues and cost of goods sold to ensure an adequate profit is received from the operations of the commissary.

Status:

A.1. Partially implemented. Inmate monies are no longer held in cash and used to cash personal checks or pay invoices. However, some monies were not deposited intact. See MAR No.1.

A.2,
B.1,
&B.2. Not implemented. See MAR No. 2.

A.3. Partially implemented. Inmates are not allowed to carry negative balances. However, some bank charges incurred on the inmate account were not reimbursed. Although not repeated in the current MAR, our recommendation remains as stated above.

B.3. Implemented.

FACT SHEET

IMPORTANT: The Missouri State Auditor is required by Missouri law to conduct audits only once every four years in counties, like Morgan, which do not have a county auditor. However, to assist such counties in meeting federal audit requirements, the State Auditor will also perform a financial and compliance audit of various county operating funds every two years. This voluntary service to Missouri counties can only be provided when state auditing resources are available and does not interfere with the State Auditor's constitutional responsibility of auditing state government.

Once every four years, the State Auditor's statutory audit will cover additional areas of county operations, as well as the elected county officials, as required by Missouri's Constitution.

This audit of Morgan County was a financial and compliance audit of various county operating funds.

< The county overspent the budget in some funds. The audit recommended officials not authorize warrants in excess of budgeted expenditures. In addition, the county did not prepare budgets for some funds.

The audit also includes some other matters upon which the county should consider and take appropriate corrective action.

Copies of the audit are available upon request.

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT ON
THE FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

To the County Commission
and
Officeholders of Morgan County, Missouri

We have audited the accompanying special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Morgan County, Missouri, as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, as identified in the table of contents. These special-purpose financial statements are the responsibility of the county's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these special-purpose financial statements based on our audit.

We conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the special-purpose financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the special-purpose financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion.

The accompanying special-purpose financial statements were prepared for the purpose of presenting the receipts, disbursements, and changes in cash of various funds of Morgan County, Missouri, and comparisons of such information with the corresponding budgeted information for various funds of the county and are not intended to be a complete presentation of the financial position and results of operations of those funds or of Morgan County.

In our opinion, the special-purpose financial statements referred to in the first paragraph present fairly, in all material respects, the receipts, disbursements, and changes in cash of various funds of Morgan County, Missouri, and comparisons of such information with the corresponding budgeted information for various funds of the county as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, in conformity with the comprehensive basis of accounting discussed in Note 1, which is a basis of accounting other than generally accepted accounting principles.

Morgan County, Missouri has not presented the disclosures required by Governmental Accounting Standards Board Technical Bulletin 98-1, Disclosures about Year 2000 Issues, as amended by Governmental Accounting Standards Board Technical Bulletin 99-1, that the Governmental Accounting Standards Board has determined are necessary to supplement, although not be a part of, the basic financial statements. In addition, we do not provide assurance that the county is or will become year 2000 compliant, that the county's year 2000 remedial efforts will be successful in whole or in part, or that parties with which the county does business are or will become year 2000 compliant.

Truman State Office Building, Room 880 • Jefferson City, MO 65101 • (573) 751-4213 • FAX (573) 751-7984

In accordance with Government Auditing Standards, we also have issued our report dated June 16, 1999, on our consideration of the county's internal control over financial reporting and on our tests of its compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants.

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT ON COMPLIANCE
AND ON INTERNAL CONTROL OVER FINANCIAL REPORTING
BASED ON AN AUDIT OF FINANCIAL STATEMENTS PERFORMED
IN ACCORDANCE WITH GOVERNMENT AUDITING STANDARDS

To the County Commission
and
Officeholders of Morgan County, Missouri

We have audited the special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Morgan County, Missouri, as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, and have issued our report thereon dated June 16, 1999. We conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States.

Compliance

As part of obtaining reasonable assurance about whether the special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Morgan County, Missouri, are free of material misstatement, we performed tests of the county's compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants, noncompliance with which could have a direct and material effect on the determination of financial statement amounts. However, providing an opinion on compliance with those provisions was not an objective of our audit, and accordingly, we do not express such an opinion. The results of our tests disclosed an instance of noncompliance that is required to be reported under Government Auditing Standards and which is described in the accompanying Schedule of Findings as finding number 98-1. We also noted certain immaterial instances of noncompliance, which we have reported to the management of the county in the accompanying Letter on Other Matters.

Internal Control Over Financial Reporting

In planning and performing our audit of the special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Morgan County, Missouri, we considered the county's internal control over financial reporting in order to determine our auditing procedures for the purpose of expressing our opinion on the special-purpose financial statements and not to provide assurance on the internal control over financial reporting. However, we noted a certain matter involving the internal control over financial reporting and its operation that we consider to be a reportable condition. Reportable conditions involve matters coming to our attention relating to significant deficiencies in the design or operation of the internal control over financial reporting that, in our judgment, could adversely affect the county's ability to record, process, summarize, and report financial data consistent with the assertions of management in the special-purpose financial statements. The reportable condition is described in the accompanying Schedule of Findings as finding number 98-1.

A material weakness is a condition in which the design or operation of one or more of the internal control components does not reduce to a relatively low level the risk that misstatements in amounts that would be material in relation to the special-purpose financial statements being audited may occur and not be detected within a timely period by employees in the normal course of performing their assigned functions. Our consideration of the internal control over financial reporting would not necessarily disclose all matters in the internal control that might be reportable conditions and, accordingly, would not necessarily disclose all reportable conditions that are also considered to be material weaknesses. However, we consider the reportable condition described above, finding number 98-1 to be a material weakness.

This report is intended for the information of the management of Morgan County, Missouri, and other applicable government officials. However, this report is a matter of public record and its distribution is not limited.

Notes to the Financial Statements

1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

A. Reporting Entity and Basis of Presentation

The accompanying special-purpose financial statements present the receipts, disbursements, and changes in cash of various funds of Morgan County, Missouri, and comparisons of such information with the corresponding budgeted information for various funds of the county. The funds presented are established under statutory or administrative authority, and their operations are under the control of the County Commission, an elected county official, the Morgan County Health Center Board, or the Senate Bill 40 Board. The General Revenue Fund is the county's general operating fund, accounting for all financial resources except those required to be accounted for in another fund. The other funds presented account for financial resources whose use is restricted for specified purposes.

B. Basis of Accounting

The financial statements are prepared on the cash basis of accounting; accordingly, amounts are recognized when received or disbursed in cash. This basis of accounting differs from generally accepted accounting principles, which require revenues to be recognized when they become available and measurable or when they are earned and expenditures or expenses to be recognized when the related liabilities are incurred.

C. Budgets and Budgetary Practices

The County Commission and other applicable boards are responsible for the preparation and approval of budgets for various county funds in accordance with Sections 50.525 through 50.745, RSMo 1994 and RSMo Cumulative Supp. 1998, the county budget law. These budgets are adopted on the cash basis of accounting.

Although adoption of a formal budget is required by law, the county did not adopt formal budgets for the following funds:

D. Published Financial Statements

Under Sections 50.800 and 50.810, RSMo 1994, the County Commission is responsible for preparing and publishing in a local newspaper a detailed annual financial statement for the county. The financial statement is required to show receipts or revenues, disbursements or expenditures, and beginning and ending balances for each fund.

However, the county's published financial statements did not include the following funds:

Fund	Years Ended December 31,
Law Enforcement Sales Tax Fund	1998
Health Center Fund	1998 and 1997
Senate Bill 40 Fund	1998 and 1997

2. Cash

Section 110.270, RSMo 1994, based on Article IV, Section 15, Missouri Constitution, authorizes counties to place their funds, either outright or by repurchase agreement, in U.S. Treasury and agency obligations. In addition, Section 30.950, RSMo Cumulative Supp. 1998, effective August 28, 1997, requires political subdivisions with existing authority to invest in instruments other than depositary accounts at financial institutions to adopt a written investment policy. Among other things, the policy is to commit a political subdivision to the principles of safety, liquidity, and yield (in that order) when managing public funds and to prohibit purchase of derivatives (either directly or through repurchase agreements), use of leveraging (through either reverse repurchase agreements or other methods), and use of public funds for speculation. The county has not adopted such a policy.

In accordance with Statement No. 3 of the Governmental Accounting Standards Board, Deposits with Financial Institutions, Investments (Including Repurchase Agreements), and Reverse Repurchase Agreements, disclosures are provided below regarding the risk of potential loss of cash deposits. For the purposes of these disclosures, deposits with financial institutions are demand, time, and savings accounts, including certificates of deposit and negotiable order of withdrawal accounts, in banks, savings institutions, and credit unions.

The county's deposits at December 31, 1998 and 1997, were entirely covered by federal depositary insurance or by collateral securities held by the county's custodial bank in the county's name.

The Health Center Board's deposits at December 31, 1998 and 1997, were entirely covered by federal depositary insurance or by collateral securities held by the health center's custodial bank in the health center's name. The Senate Bill 40 Board's deposits at December 31, 1998 and 1997 were entirely covered by federal depositary insurance.

3. Use Tax Liability

The local use tax under Section 144.748, RSMo 1994, was struck down in its entirety by the Missouri Supreme Court in Associated Industries of Missouri v. Director of Revenue, 918 S.W.2d 780 (Mo. banc 1996). In St. Charles County v. Director of Revenue, 961 S.W.2d 44 (Mo. banc 1998), the Missouri Supreme Court ruled that local use taxes paid prior to the repeal of Section 144.748, RSMo 1994, must be refunded to taxpayers and authorized the Department of Revenue (DOR) to withhold amounts otherwise due to political subdivisions to the extent such withholding is necessary to cover the refund expense. On March 24, 1998, the Cole County Circuit Court entered final judgment in accordance with the Supreme Court's opinion and ordered the DOR to process refund claims filed.

The county has received $134,158 in local use tax since its inception. The DOR has estimated the county's share of the total refund liability to be $61,413. As of December 31, 1998, $26,532 remains to be paid.

Schedule

MORGAN COUNTY, MISSOURI
SCHEDULE OF FINDINGS
YEARS ENDED DECEMBER 31, 1998 AND 1997

This schedule includes the audit finding that Government Auditing Standards requires to be reported for an audit of financial statements.

98-1. Budgetary Procedures

A. Actual expenditures exceeded budgeted amounts in various funds by the following amounts:

Fund	Year Ended December 31, 1998	Year Ended December 31, 1997
911	$ 25,418	14,840
Recorder's User Fees	74	702
Bad Check Collection	N/A	2,401
Prosecuting Attorney Library	1,159	1,863
Neighborhood Improvement District Debt Service	210,613	N/A
Neighborhood Improvement District Maintenance	144,644	N/A
Sheriff Fees	35,345	N/A
POST	2,042	N/A
Neighborhood Improvement District 135-12 Construction	1,438,413	1,382,953
Neighborhood Improvement District TT1/TT1A Construction	366,217	N/A
Health Center	5,784	N/A
Circuit Clerk Interest	2,353	N/A
Total	$ 2,232,062	1,402,759

It was ruled in State ex. rel. Strong v. Cribb, 364 Mo. 1122, 273 SW2d 246 (1954), that strict compliance with the county budget law is required by county officials. If there are valid reasons which necessitate excess expenditures, amendments should be made following the same process by which the annual budget is approved, including holding public hearings and filing the amended budget with the State Auditor's Office. In addition, Section 50.622, RSMo Cum. Supp. 1997, provides that counties may amend the annual budget during any year in which the county receives additional funds which could not be estimated when the budget was adopted and that the county shall follow the same procedures required for adoption of the annual budget to amend the budget.

B. The following expenditures were made from various funds that did not have a formal budget prepared:

Fund		Year Ended December 31, 1998	1997
Sheriff Fees	$	N/A	1,596
POST		N/A	72
Neighborhood Improvement District TT1/TT1A Construction		N/A	449,946
Sheriff's Drug Seizure		1,516	0
Local Law Enforcement Block Grant		16,659	14,956
Courthouse Repair		N/A	96
Neighborhood Improvement District 135-3 Construction		117,817	N/A
Neighborhood Improvement District Y-20B Construction		92,222	N/A
K-9 Drug Dog		2,141	N/A
Total	$	230,355	466,666

Chapter 50, RSMo 1994, requires preparation of annual budgets to present a complete financial plan for the ensuing year. By preparing or obtaining budgets for all county funds and activities, the County Commission is able to more efficiently evaluate all county financial resources. According to Section 50.530, RSMo 1994, the County Clerk is the budget officer. The County Clerk needs to implement procedures to ensure all funds are budgeted. These procedures need to include requesting and obtaining budgets for funds controlled by other county officials.

C. Most of the budget concerns we noted pertained to Neighborhood Improvement District (NID) funds. Budgets prepared and approved by the County Commission for the NID Debt Service, Maintenance, and Construction Funds did not always present accurate financial information in that the amounts budgeted for receipts and disbursements varied significantly from actual amounts.

Failure to present accurate financial information decreases the effectiveness of the budget as a management tool. To be of maximum benefit to the county and its taxpayers, a complete and accurate budget document should be prepared.

WE RECOMMEND the County Commission and County Clerk implement procedures to ensure:

A. Budgets are prepared or obtained for all funds.

B. Budgets are properly amended if necessary, and expenditures are kept within budgetary limits.

C. Budgets prepared for the NID funds reflect more accurate estimates.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

A. The County Commission and County Clerk will work together to try to ensure budgets are prepared or obtained for all funds.

B. The County Commission and County Clerk will amend budgets as needed.

C. The County Commission and County Clerk indicated these funds are difficult to budget in the year of construction and until bonds are sold. However, they will try to prepare more accurate estimates and properly amend the budgets as needed.

Follow-Up on Prior Audit Findings

MORGAN COUNTY, MISSOURI
FOLLOW-UP ON PRIOR AUDIT FINDINGS

In accordance with Government Auditing Standards, this section reports the auditor's follow-up on action taken by Morgan County, Missouri, on a certain finding in our prior audit report issued for the two years ended December 31, 1996. The finding is the one that Government Auditing Standards requires to be reported for an audit of financial statements.

2. Budgetary Procedures

Actual disbursements exceeded budgeted amounts in several funds.

Recommendation:

The County Commission and Senate Bill 40 Board keep expenditures within budgetary limits. If necessary, extenuating circumstances should be fully documented and budgets properly revised and filed with the State Auditor's Office.

Status:

Partially implemented. Although the Senate Bill 40 Board kept expenditures within budgetary limits, several other funds had disbursements in excess of budgeted amounts during the current audit period. See Schedule of Findings No. 98-1.

SECTION ON OTHER MATTERS

MORGAN COUNTY, MISSOURI
LETTER ON OTHER MATTERS

We have audited the special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Morgan County, Missouri, as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, and have issued our report thereon dated June 16, 1999.

We did not review the operations of elected officials with funds other than those presented in the special-purpose financial statements. The operations of such officials will be reviewed and reported on during the state auditor's next scheduled audit of the county.

This Letter on Other Matters presents matters other than the findings, if any, reported in the accompanying Schedule of Findings. These matters resulted from our audit of the special-purpose financial statements of Morgan County but do not meet the criteria for inclusion in the written report on compliance and on internal control over financial reporting that is required for an audit performed in accordance with Government Auditing Standards. Nevertheless, the county should consider these matters and take appropriate corrective action.

1. Neighborhood Improvement Districts

   As similarly reported in our prior audit, the county may not be handling certain aspects of the neighborhood improvement districts in accordance with state law. The county has included a maintenance levy in the special assessments levied to landowners of the Neighborhood Improvement Districts (NID). The County Commission has authorized the County Collector to withhold assessment funding from the special assessment collections. The special assessments levied on property owners were not based on the final costs of the improvements, but also included estimated maintenance costs. The County Commission changes the special assessments for each NID annually. The County Commission believes these practices comply with the implied authority in state law; however, the County Commission has not obtained a written legal opinion to support its actions.

2. Published Financial Statements

   Some funds' financial activity was not published in the newspaper as required by state law, Sections 50.800 and 50.810, RSMo 1994.

This Letter on Other Matters is intended for the information of the management of Morgan County, Missouri, and other applicable government officials. However, this letter is a matter of public record and its distribution is not limited.

STATE AUDITOR'S REPORT

CLAIRE C. McCASKILL
Missouri State Auditor

Honorable Mel Carnahan, Governor
and
Gary J. Stangler, Director
Department of Social Services
and Mark D. Steward, Director
Division of Youth Services
Jefferson City, Missouri 65102

We have audited the compliance of the Department of Social Services, Division of Youth Services, with Section 165.121.3(7), RSMo 1994, with respect to the methods of maintaining pupil attendance records for the years ended June 30, 1999 and 1998. Compliance with those requirements is the responsibility of the division's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on the division's compliance based on our audit.

We conducted our audit of compliance in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards; the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether material noncompliance with the requirements referred to above occurred. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence about the division's compliance with those requirements and performing such other procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion. Our audit does not provide a legal determination of the Division of Youth Services' compliance with those requirements.

In our opinion, the pupil attendance records are so maintained by the division as to accurately disclose, in all material respects, the average daily attendance in compliance with the requirements referred to above for the years ended June 30, 1999 and 1998.

The accompanying History, Organization, and Statistical Information is presented for informational purposes. This background information was obtained from the division's management and was not subjected to the procedures applied in the audit of compliance with the requirements referred to above.

DEPARTMENT OF SOCIAL SERVICES
DIVISION OF YOUTH SERVICES
SCHOOL ATTENDANCE HOURS
HISTORY AND ORGANIZATION

The Omnibus State Reorganization Act of 1974 created the Division of Youth Services within the Department of Social Services. Previously the Division of Youth Services had been known as the State Board of Training Schools. During the 1970's, systematic agency planning began which resulted in the de-emphasis of large rural institutions and the establishment of smaller treatment facilities. This enabled geographic regionalization where youth could be served closer to their homes.

During the 1990's, the division continued in the direction of regionalization and the expansion of the continuum of treatment services. An array of community based services was developed including day treatment, tracking, and case management. The Juvenile Crime Bill was passed in 1995 and included measures for determinate sentencing, granting the division the ability to petition for increased length of stay up to the age of twenty-one, removed the lower age limit for commitment, and provided for the development of dual jurisdiction.

The Division of Youth Services is administered by a director who is appointed by the director of the Department of Social Services. Mark D. Steward has been the director since May 6, 1988.

The agency provides services to youth committed from the 45 Judicial Circuit Courts in the state. The services include residential (secure, moderate, and community-based) and non-residential (tracking, day treatment, alternative living service, family therapy, and aftercare). All youth receive case management services and are assigned a service coordinator who ensures the assessment, treatment planning, and the coordination, monitoring, and evaluation of services occurs for all youth.

As of June 30, 1999, the division operated twenty nine residential facilities with a total of 663 beds and eleven non-residential facilities with a total of 225 day treatment slots.

As provided by Section 163.073, RSMo 1994, the Division of Youth Services is entitled to state aid for youth assigned to the division's facilities which have an education program approved by the Department of Elementary and Secondary Education. The state aid payments are based on the number of full-time equivalent students and the average daily attendance. The Division of Youth Services received $1,923,054 and $1,739,088 from the Department of Elementary and Secondary Education for the years ended June 30, 1999 and 1998, respectively.

Teachers typically record daily attendance for each of their classes. Their attendance is then submitted to the school secretary who enters the attendance into the Division of Youth Services computer information system. The Division of Youth Services uses the attendance from the computer system to prepare the Application for State School Money, which is submitted to the Department of Elementary and Secondary Education.

On the Application for State School Money, the Division of Youth Services reported 969,053, and 931,332 school attendance hours for the years ended June 30, 1999 and 1998, respectively. This calculates to 928 and 892 average daily attendance (total school attendance hours divided by 1,044 standard school attendance hours in a school year) in 1999 and 1998, respectively.

During the two years ended June 30, 1999, the division had forty-one facilities that offered education programs. As of June 30, 1999, the Division of Youth Services operated forty facilities of which thirty-nine had students. The actual student counts for these facilities were:

AUDIT REPORT

Report No. 99-106
November 8, 1999

Office Of The
State Auditor Of Missouri
Claire McCaskill

YELLOW SHEET

IMPORTANT: The Missouri State Auditor is required by Missouri law to conduct audits only once every four years in counties, like Dallas, which do not have a county auditor. However, to assist such counties in meeting federal audit requirements, the State Auditor will also perform a financial and compliance audit of various county operating funds every two years. This voluntary service to Missouri counties can only be provided when state auditing resources are available and does not interfere with the State Auditor's constitutional responsibility of auditing state government.

Once every four years, the State Auditor's statutory audit will cover additional areas of county operations, as well as the elected county officials, as required by Missouri's Constitution.

This audit of Dallas County was a financial and compliance audit of various county operating funds.

The audit includes some matters upon which the county should consider and take appropriate corrective action.

Copies of the audit are available upon request.

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT ON
THE FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

To the County Commission
and
Officeholders of Dallas County, Missouri

We have audited the accompanying special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Dallas County, Missouri, as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, as identified in the table of contents. These special-purpose financial statements are the responsibility of the county's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these special-purpose financial statements based on our audit.

We conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the special-purpose financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the special-purpose financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion.

The accompanying special-purpose financial statements were prepared for the purpose of presenting the receipts, disbursements, and changes in cash of various funds of Dallas County, Missouri, and comparisons of such information with the corresponding budgeted information for various funds of the county and are not intended to be a complete presentation of the financial position and results of operations of those funds or of Dallas County.

In our opinion, the special-purpose financial statements referred to in the first paragraph present fairly, in all material respects, the receipts, disbursements, and changes in cash of various funds of Dallas County, Missouri, and comparisons of such information with the corresponding budgeted information for various funds of the county as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, in conformity with the comprehensive basis of accounting discussed in Note 1, which is a basis of accounting other than generally accepted accounting principles.

Dallas County, Missouri, has not presented the disclosures required by Governmental Accounting Standards Board (GASB) Technical Bulletin 98-1, Disclosures about Year 2000 Issues, as amended by GASB Technical Bulletin 99-1, that the GASB has determined are necessary to supplement, although not be a part of, the basic financial statements. In addition, we do not provide assurance that the county is or will be year 2000-compliant, that the county's year 2000 remediation efforts will be successful in whole or in part, or that parties with which the county does business are or will become year 2000-compliant.

In accordance with Government Auditing Standards, we also have issued our report dated August 11, 1999, on our consideration of the county's internal control over financial reporting and on our tests of its compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants.

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT ON COMPLIANCE
AND ON INTERNAL CONTROL OVER FINANCIAL REPORTING
BASED ON AN AUDIT OF FINANCIAL STATEMENTS PERFORMED
IN ACCORDANCE WITH GOVERNMENT AUDITING STANDARDS

To the County Commission
and
Officeholders of Dallas County, Missouri

We have audited the special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Dallas County, Missouri, as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, and have issued our report thereon dated August 11, 1999. We conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States.

Compliance

As part of obtaining reasonable assurance about whether the special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Dallas County, Missouri, are free of material misstatement, we performed tests of the county's compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants, noncompliance with which could have a direct and material effect on the determination of financial statement amounts. However, providing an opinion on compliance with those provisions was not an objective of our audit, and accordingly, we do not express such an opinion. The results of our tests disclosed no instances of noncompliance that are required to be reported under Government Auditing Standards. However, we noted certain immaterial instances of noncompliance, which we have reported to the management of the county in the accompanying Letter on Other Matters.

Internal Control Over Financial Reporting

In planning and performing our audit of the special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Dallas County, Missouri, we considered the county's internal control over financial reporting in order to determine our auditing procedures for the purpose of expressing our opinion on the special-purpose financial statements and not to provide assurance on the internal control over financial reporting. Our consideration of the internal control over financial reporting would not necessarily disclose all matters in the internal control over financial reporting that might be material weaknesses. A material weakness is a condition in which the design or operation of one or more of the internal control components does not reduce to a relatively low level the risk that misstatements in amounts that would be material in relation to the special-purpose financial statements being audited may occur and not be detected within a timely period by employees in the normal course of performing their assigned functions. We noted no matters involving the internal control over financial reporting and its operation that we consider to be material weaknesses. However, we noted other matters involving the internal control over financial reporting, which we have reported to the management of the county in the accompanying Letter on Other Matters.

This report is intended for the information of the management of Dallas County, Missouri, and other applicable government officials. However, this report is a matter of public record and its distribution is not limited.

Notes to the Financial Statements

1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

A. Reporting Entity and Basis of Presentation

The accompanying special-purpose financial statements present the receipts, disbursements, and changes in cash of various funds of Dallas County, Missouri, and comparisons of such information with the corresponding budgeted information for various funds of the county. The funds presented are established under statutory or administrative authority, and their operations are under the control of the County Commission, an elected county official, or the Health Center Board of Trustees. The General Revenue Fund is the county's general operating fund, accounting for all financial resources except those required to be accounted for in another fund. The other funds presented account for financial resources whose use is restricted for specified purposes.

B. Basis of Accounting

The financial statements are prepared on the cash basis of accounting; accordingly, amounts are recognized when received or disbursed in cash. This basis of accounting differs from generally accepted accounting principles, which require revenues to be recognized when they become available and measurable or when they are earned and expenditures or expenses to be recognized when the related liabilities are incurred.

C. Budgets and Budgetary Practices

The County Commission and other applicable boards are responsible for the preparation and approval of budgets for various county funds in accordance with Sections 50.525 through 50.745, RSMo 1994 and RSMo Cumulative Supp. 1998, the county budget law. These budgets are adopted on the cash basis of accounting.

Although adoption of a formal budget is required by law, the county did not adopt formal budgets for the following funds:

Fund	Years Ended December 31,
Law Enforcement Civil Fees Fund	1997
Associate Circuit Division Interest Fund	1997
Law Library Fund	1998 and 1997

Warrants issued were in excess of budgeted amounts for the Jury Fund in 1998 and 1997, Circuit Clerk Interest Fund in 1998, and the Domestic Violence Fund in 1997. Section 50.740, RSMo 1994, prohibits expenditures in excess of the approved budgets.

D. Published Financial Statements

Under Sections 50.800 and 50.810, RSMo 1994, the County Commission is responsible for preparing and publishing in a local newspaper a detailed annual financial statement for the county. The financial statement is required to show receipts or revenues, disbursements or expenditures, and beginning and ending balances for each fund.

However, the county's published financial statements did not include the following funds:

Fund	Years Ended December 31,
Prosecuting Attorney Bad Check Fund	1998 and 1997
Prosecuting Attorney Tax Collection Fund	1998 and 1997
Circuit Clerk Interest Fund	1998 and 1997
Recorder Storage Fund	1998 and 1997
Associate Circuit Division Interest Fund	1998
Law Library Fund	1998 and 1997

2. Cash

Section 110.270, RSMo 1994, based on Article IV, Section 15, Missouri Constitution, authorizes counties to place their funds, either outright or by repurchase agreement, in U.S. Treasury and agency obligations. In addition, Section 30.950, RSMo Cumulative Supp. 1998, effective August 28, 1997, requires political subdivisions with existing authority to invest in instruments other than depositary accounts at financial institutions to adopt a written investment policy. Among other things, the policy is to commit a political subdivision to the principles of safety, liquidity, and yield (in that order) when managing public funds and to prohibit purchase of derivatives (either directly or through repurchase agreements), use of leveraging (through either reverse repurchase agreements or other methods), and use of public funds for speculation. The county has not adopted such a policy.

In accordance with Statement No. 3 of the Governmental Accounting Standards Board, Deposits with Financial Institutions, Investments (Including Repurchase Agreements), and Reverse Repurchase Agreements, disclosures are provided below regarding the risk of potential loss of cash deposits. For the purposes of these disclosures, deposits with financial institutions are demand, time, and savings accounts, including certificates of deposit and negotiable order of withdrawal accounts, in banks, savings institutions, and credit unions.

The county's deposits at December 31, 1998 and 1997, were entirely covered by federal depositary insurance or by collateral securities held by the county's custodial bank in the county's name.

The deposits of the Health Center Board at December 31, 1998 and 1997, were entirely covered by federal depositary insurance or by collateral securities held by the Health Center Board's custodial bank in the Health Center Board's name.

3. Use Tax Liability

The local use tax under Section 144.748, RSMo 1994, was struck down in its entirety by the Missouri Supreme Court in Associated Industries of Missouri v. Director of Revenue, 918 S.W.2d 780 (Mo. banc 1996). In St. Charles County v. Director of Revenue, 961 S.W.2d 44 (Mo. banc 1998), the Missouri Supreme Court ruled that local use taxes paid prior to the repeal of Section 144.748, RSMo 1994, must be refunded to taxpayers and authorized the Department of Revenue (DOR) to withhold amounts otherwise due to political subdivisions to the extent such withholding is necessary to cover the refund expense. On March 24, 1998, the Cole County Circuit Court entered final judgment in accordance with the Supreme Court's opinion and ordered the DOR to process refund claims filed.

The county has received $258,348 in local use tax since its inception. The DOR has estimated the county's share of the total refund liability to be $118,262. As of December 31, 1998, $51,082 remains to be paid.

Schedule

DALLAS COUNTY, MISSOURI
SCHEDULE OF FINDINGS
YEARS ENDED DECEMBER 31, 1998 AND 1997

This schedule includes no audit findings that Government Auditing Standards requires to be reported for an audit of financial statements.

Follow-Up on Prior Audit Findings

DALLAS COUNTY, MISSOURI
FOLLOW-UP ON PRIOR AUDIT FINDINGS

Our prior audit report issued for the three years ended December 31, 1996, included no audit findings that Government Auditing Standards requires to be reported for an audit of financial statements.

SECTION ON OTHER MATTERS

DALLAS COUNTY, MISSOURI
LETTER ON OTHER MATTERS

We have audited the special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Dallas County, Missouri, as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, and have issued our report thereon dated August 11, 1999.

We did not review the operations of elected officials with funds other than those presented in the special-purpose financial statements. The operations of such officials will be reviewed and reported on during the state auditor's next scheduled audit of the county.

This Letter on Other Matters presents matters other than the findings, if any, reported in the accompanying Schedule of Findings. These matters resulted from our audit of the special-purpose financial statements of Dallas County but do not meet the criteria for inclusion in the written report on compliance and on internal control over financial reporting that is required for an audit performed in accordance with Government Auditing Standards. Nevertheless, the county should consider these matters and take appropriate corrective action.

1. County Expenditures

   The Prosecuting Attorney operates the county prosecuting attorney's office from her private law office. The county does not have a written agreement with the Prosecuting Attorney outlining what office, personnel and equipment costs will be provided by the county and what costs will be provided by the Prosecuting Attorney's private practice.

2. Personnel Policy

   The county's personnel policy for vacation and sick leave addresses only full-time employees; however, the county allows some part-time employees to earn vacation and sick leave.

3. Fuel Usage and Controls

   Fuel usage and meter reading logs are not maintained for county road and bridge vehicles and fuel tanks. All road and bridge employees have access to county road and bridge buildings and fuel tanks. While fuel usage logs are maintained for Sheriff Department vehicles, these logs are not reconciled to fuel purchased.

4. Health Center Policies and Procedures

   Beginning and ending actual cash balances for the year ended December 31, 1998, were incorrectly reported on the 1999 budget and the health center had not established procedures to ensure their accuracy.

As of August 1999, bank reconciliations had not been performed since February 1999. Receipts are not recorded on accounting records until deposits are made, and receipts are not deposited daily or when accumulated receipts exceed $100. In addition, receipts and petty cash fund monies are not maintained in a secure location.

Standard prenumbered sanitation permit forms are not always used, and a log of permits and inspections is not maintained.

The health center does not have a written depositary agreement with the bank.

The health center's checks require two signatures, a board member's and the administrator's; however, checks are occasionally signed in advance. Adequate supporting documentation was not retained for some expenditures, and some invoices were not canceled to prevent reuse.

Time sheets are not always prepared by employees of the health center, and some time sheets prepared were not signed by employees or approved by the administrator. Time sheets and leave records did not always accurately report hours worked and leave taken and earned.

Property records are not always complete and do not include some necessary information, such as acquisition date, serial number, cost, and date and method of disposal. In addition, the property records do not include the cost of land and buildings.

This Letter on Other Matters is intended for the information of the management of Dallas County, Missouri, and other applicable government officials. However, this letter is a matter of public record and its distribution is not limited.

AUDIT REPORT

THIRTEENTH JUDICIAL CIRCUIT

BOONE COUNTY, MISSOURI

TWO YEARS ENDED DECEMBER 31, 1998

From The Office Of State Auditor
Claire McCaskill

Report No. 99-105
November 8, 1999

Office Of The
State Auditor Of Missouri
Claire McCaskill

November 1999

FACT SHEET

During our audit of the Thirteenth Judicial Circuit in Boone County, Missouri, we identified certain management practices which we believe could be improved.

Missouri state law allows for the reimbursement of certain costs in criminal cases where the state has been rendered liable. The Sheriff is to certify the number of prisoner incarceration days and the Circuit Clerk is responsible for preparing and submitting cost bills to the state for reimbursement. The revenue generated by these billings is received by the county. State law requires such bills to be submitted to the state's Office of Administration within two years of the date of judgement and sentence.

Our review of the handling of these billings disclosed the Circuit Clerk does not submit criminal cost billings to the state for incarceration costs related to defendants where the court retained the option of granting probation to the defendant after 120 days.

During the period from January 1996 through September 1999, the court handled seventy-nine such cases, involving billable costs totaling $48,110. As of October 1, 1999, thirty-one of these cases, involving billable costs of $20,330, exceeded the two-year time limit and this amount represents revenue lost to the county. The remaining cases, involving billable costs of approximately $27,780, were still billable as of October 1, 1999. The State Auditor recommended that the Circuit Clerk take timely action to ensure the billable costs related to these cases are billed before the two-year limit expires.

In response to the finding, the Circuit Clerk indicated that action has now been taken to bill the state for these cases.

In another finding, the State Auditor noted the Juvenile Office has not established adequate procedures to follow-up on checks which are outstanding for a considerable length of time. At December 31, 1998, we noted twenty-four checks totaling $2,848 and four checks totaling $565 written on the restitution and family preservation accounts respectively, which had been outstanding for more than one year. Outstanding checks should be periodically reviewed to determine if the payees can be readily located and if there is a need to reissue the checks. If the payees cannot be located, the amounts should be disposed of in accordance to state statute.

We also noted that receipts of the restitution account are not deposited on a timely basis and bank reconciliations for this account were not always performed.

NOTE: Prior to the above mentioned audit and the release of this report, a Special Review of Boone County Circuit Court in April 1995 pointed out that $143,006 was missing as a result of a scheme involving the altering of both computer and manual records. In numerous instances, cash received by the court was recorded, however, some money orders and checks received by the court were not recorded. These unrecorded receipts were substituted for recorded cash when deposits were made. The State Auditor's Office at the time recommended the Circuit Clerk continue to work with the Prosecuting Attorney's Office and the Sheriff's Office regarding any criminal prosecution and take other necessary actions to obtain restitution of the money.

Since the release of this Special Review, the former account clerk has pled guilty to felony stealing charges. To date, the Circuit Clerk has obtained restitution of $3,546. Further restitution was not ordered as a part of the sentence and the judicial circuit obtained a $5,000 settlement on its filing against the former employee's bond.

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT ON
THE FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

Presiding Judge and Court en banc
and
The Circuit Clerk of the
Thirteenth Judicial Circuit
Boone County, Missouri

We have audited the accompanying special-purpose financial statements of the various funds of the Thirteenth Judicial Circuit, Boone County, Missouri, as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, as identified in the table of contents. These special-purpose financial statements are the responsibility of the judicial circuit's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these special-purpose financial statements based on our audit.

We conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the special-purpose financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the special-purpose financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion.

The accompanying special-purpose financial statements were prepared for the purpose of presenting the receipts, disbursements, and changes in cash of the various funds of the Thirteenth Judicial Circuit, Boone County, Missouri, and are not intended to be a complete presentation of the financial position and results of operations of the various funds of the judicial circuit.

In our opinion, the special-purpose financial statements referred to in the first paragraph present fairly, in all material respects, the receipts, disbursements, and changes in cash of the various funds of the Thirteenth Judicial Circuit, Boone County, Missouri, as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, in conformity with the comprehensive basis of accounting discussed in Note 1, which is a basis of accounting other than generally accepted accounting principles.

The Thirteenth Judicial Circuit, Boone County, Missouri, has not presented the disclosures required by Governmental Accounting Standards Board (GASB) Technical Bulletin 98-1, Disclosures about Year 2000 Issues, as amended by GASB Technical Bulletin 99-1, that the GASB has determined are necessary to supplement, although not be a part of, the basic financial statements. In addition, we do not provide assurance that the judicial circuit is or will become year 2000-compliant, that the judicial circuit's year 2000 remediation efforts will be successful in whole or in part, or that parties with which the judicial circuit does business are or will become year 2000-compliant.

In accordance with Government Auditing Standards, we also have issued our report dated October 12, 1999, on our consideration of the Thirteenth Judicial Circuit, Boone County, Missouri, internal control over financial reporting and on our tests of its compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants.

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT ON COMPLIANCE
AND ON INTERNAL CONTROL OVER FINANCIAL REPORTING

Presiding Judge and Court en banc
and
The Circuit Clerk of the Thirteenth Judicial Circuit
Boone County, Missouri

We have audited the special-purpose financial statements of the various funds of the Thirteenth Judicial Circuit, Boone County, Missouri, as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, and have issued our report thereon dated October 12, 1999. We conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States.

Compliance

As part of obtaining reasonable assurance about whether the special-purpose financial statements of the various funds of the Thirteenth Judicial Circuit, Boone County, Missouri, are free of material misstatement, we performed tests of the judicial circuit's compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants, noncompliance with which could have a direct and material effect on the determination of financial statement amounts. However, providing an opinion on compliance with those provisions was not an objective of our audit, and accordingly, we do not express such an opinion. The results of our tests disclosed no instances of noncompliance.

Internal Control Over Financial Reporting

In planning and performing our audit of the special-purpose financial statements of the various funds of the Thirteenth Judicial Circuit, Boone County, Missouri, we considered the judicial circuit's internal control over financial reporting in order to determine our auditing procedures for the purpose of expressing our opinion on the special-purpose financial statements and not to provide assurance on the internal control over financial reporting. However, we noted certain matters involving the internal control over financial reporting and its operation that we consider to be reportable conditions. Reportable conditions involve matters coming to our attention relating to significant deficiencies in the design or operation of the internal control over financial reporting that, in our judgment, could adversely affect the judicial circuit's ability to record, process, summarize, and report financial data consistent with the assertions of management in the special-purpose financial statements.

A material weakness is a condition in which the design or operation of one or more of the internal control components does not reduce to a relatively low level the risk that misstatements in amounts that would be material to the special-purpose financial statements being audited may occur and not be detected within a timely period by employees in the normal course of performing their assigned functions. Our consideration of the internal control over financial reporting would not necessarily disclose all matters in the internal control that might be reportable conditions and, accordingly, would not necessarily disclose all reportable conditions that are also considered to be material weaknesses. However, we noted certain matters involving the internal control over financial reporting and its operation that we consider to be material weaknesses, and these matters are presented in the accompanying Management Advisory Report.

This report is intended for the information of the management of the Thirteenth Judicial Circuit, Boone County, Missouri, and other applicable government officials. However, this report is a matter of public record and its distribution is not limited.

Notes to the Financial Statements

THIRTEENTH JUDICIAL CIRCUIT
BOONE COUNTY, MISSOURI
NOTES TO THE FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

A. Reporting Entity and Basis of Presentation

The accompanying special-purpose financial statements presented only selected data for each fund of the Thirteenth Judicial Circuit, Boone County, Missouri.

Receipts, disbursements, and changes in cash are presented for the various funds administered by the Thirteenth Judicial Circuit, Boone County, Missouri. The operating costs of the offices within the circuit are paid directly from appropriations authorized by the County Commissions within the judicial circuit and the state of Missouri and are not included in these financial statements. The funds administered by the circuit officials located in Callaway County are reported on separately.

The "Total (Memorandum Only)" column is presented as additional analytical data. Because this column does not identify the restrictions that exist by fund, it should be read only with reference to the details of each fund.

B. Basis of Accounting

The Statements of Receipts, Disbursements, and Changes in Cash for the Thirteenth Judicial Circuit, Boone County, Missouri, are prepared on the cash basis of accounting; accordingly, amounts are recognized when they are received or disbursed. This basis of accounting differs from generally accepted accounting principles, which require revenues to be recognized when they become available and measurable or when they are earned and expenditures or expenses to be recognized when the related liabilities are incurred.

C. Fiscal Authority and Responsibility

The Thirteenth Judicial Circuit, Boone County, Missouri, includes the transactions of the Circuit Division, the Probate Division, the Juvenile Office, the Law Library, and the Jury Fund. Each officeholder has been charged with the responsibility of administering the transactions in his or her division. The Circuit Clerk has been charged with the responsibility of administering the transactions of the circuit and associate circuit divisions. The Probate Division Clerk has been charged with the responsibility of administering the transactions of the Probate Division. The court en banc has appointed the Presiding Judge's secretary as the law library treasurer and custodian, who is responsible for administering the transactions of the Law Library Fund. The Chief Juvenile Officer has been charged with the responsibility of administering the transactions of the juvenile office. The Court Security Supervisor has been charged with the responsibility of administering the transactions of the Jury Fund.

The Thirteenth Judicial Circuit, Boone County, Missouri, administers transactions within the following funds:

Circuit Division Fund: This fund accounts for the transactions of the Circuit Clerk's office and the associate circuit divisions. These transactions include receipts and disbursements of the civil; criminal and garnishment and executions; child support; and traffic accounts.

Probate Division Fund: This fund accounts for the transactions of the Probate Division. These transactions include receipts and disbursements of court deposits and fees.

Law Library Fund: This fund accounts for transactions of law library, including fees collected from Circuit Division deposits and the related interest income. Disbursements are legally restricted for maintenance of a law library.

Juvenile Office Fund: This fund accounts for transactions of the Juvenile Office. These transactions include receipts and disbursements of restitution payments, family court fees, family preservation monies, and drug testing fees.

Jury Fund: This fund accounts for receipts from the county's General Revenue Fund used for payments made to jurors for expenses, including per diem, mileage, and telephone charges.

2. Cash

Section 483.310, RSMo Cumulative Supp. 1998, authorizes circuit courts to place their funds in savings deposits in banks and savings and loan associations or in U.S. Treasury bills.

In accordance with Statement No. 3 of the Governmental Accounting Standards Board, Deposits with Financial Institutions, Investments (Including Repurchase Agreements), and Reverse Repurchase Agreements, disclosures are provided below regarding the risk of potential loss of cash deposits. For purposes of these disclosures, deposits with financial institutions are demand, time, and savings accounts, including certificates of deposit and negotiable order of withdrawal accounts, in banks and savings institutions.

The circuit court's deposits at December 31, 1998 and 1997, were entirely covered by federal depositary insurance or by collateral securities held by the county's custodial bank in the name of Boone County, or by its agent in the county's name.

3. Deficit Balances

The deficit cash balances at December 31, 1998 and 1997 in the Jury Fund equal checks outstanding. As these checks are cashed, the depositary bank transfers funds from the county General Revenue Fund to the Jury Fund until a zero balance in the checking account is obtained.

THIRTEENTH JUDICIAL CIRCUIT
BOONE COUNTY, MISSOURI
MANAGEMENT ADVISORY REPORT-
STATE AUDITOR'S CURRENT RECOMMENDATIONS

We have audited the special-purpose financial statements of the Thirteenth Judicial Circuit, Boone County, Missouri, as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, and have issued our report thereon dated October 12, 1999.

The following Management Advisory Report presents our findings and recommendations arising from our audit of the judicial circuit's special-purpose financial statements. During our audit, we also identified certain management practices which we believe could be improved. Our audit was not designed or intended to be a detailed study of every system, procedure, and transaction. Accordingly, the findings presented in the following report should not be considered as all-inclusive of areas where improvements may be needed.

1. Criminal Costs

Section 221.105, RSMo Cumulative Supp. 1998, allows for the reimbursement of certain costs in criminal cases where the state has been rendered liable. The Sheriff is to certify the number of incarceration days and the Circuit Clerk is responsible for preparing and submitting cost bills to the state for reimbursement. The revenue generated by these billings is received by the county. Section 33.120, RSMo Cumulative Supp. 1998, requires all such bills to be submitted to the state's Office of Administration within two years of the date of judgement or sentence. Our review of the Circuit Clerk's handling of these billings noted the Circuit Clerk does not submit criminal cost billings to the state for incarceration costs related to defendants where the court retained the option of granting probation to the defendant after 120 days pursuant to Section 159.115, RSMo Cumulative Supp. 1998, unless the defendant violates probation and returns to the Department of Corrections for the original sentenced period.

We determined the court handled seventy-nine such cases, involving unbilled incarceration costs totaling $48,110, during the period from January 1996 through September 1999. As of October 1, 1999, thirty-one of these cases, involving billable incarceration costs of $20,330, exceed the two-year limit. As a result, these costs cannot be billed to the state and the revenue has been lost to the county. The remaining forty-eight cases, involving billable costs of approximately $27,780, were still billable as of October 1, 1999. The Circuit Clerk should take timely action to ensure the billable costs related to these cases are billed to the state before the two-year limit expires.

To ensure criminal cost reimbursements received by the county are maximized, all allowable costs should be billed to the state in a timely manner.

WE RECOMMEND the Circuit Clerk take timely action to ensure any unbillable costs pertaining to 120 day cases are billed to the state before the two-year limit expires. In addition, in the future, the Circuit Clerk should ensure all billable criminal costs are billed to the state on a timely basis.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The Circuit Clerk provided the following response:

For all cases that were determined by your staff to be collectible, my office has submitted a bill of cost to the state.

2. Juvenile Office Accounting Controls and Procedures

A. The Juvenile Office has not established adequate procedures to follow-up on checks which are outstanding for a considerable length of time. At December 31, 1998, we noted twenty-four checks totaling $2,848 and four checks totaling $565 written on the restitution and family preservation accounts respectively, which had been outstanding for more than one year.

Outstanding checks should be periodically reviewed to determine if the payees can be readily located and if there is a need to reissue the checks. If the payees cannot be located, the amounts should be disposed of in accordance with Sections 447.500 through 447.595, RSMo 1994, as applicable.

B. Receipts of the restitution account are not deposited on a timely basis. Deposits are often made only once a month. For the time period reviewed, deposits for the restitution account usually ranged between $1,000 and $4,000. To adequately safeguard and reduce the risk of loss, theft, and misuse of funds, deposits should be made intact and daily.

C. The Juvenile Office did not perform formal monthly bank reconciliations for the restitution account from May 1997 through April 1998. Starting in May 1998, the Juvenile Office began preparing monthly reconciliations again; however, the Juvenile Office did not properly account for some old outstanding checks. As a result, the Juvenile Office incorrectly adjusted the checkbook balance and this balance has been overstated since that time.

Preparation of monthly bank reconciliations and the maintenance of an accurate running balance in the checkbook register is necessary to ensure the bank account is in agreement with the accounting records and to detect errors on a timely basis.

D. Monthly listings of open-items (liabilities) are not prepared for any of the Juvenile Office's three bank accounts, and consequently, liabilities are not reconciled with the cash balances. Monthly listings of open-items should be prepared and reconciled to cash balances for each account to ensure records are in balance and sufficient funds are available for the payment of all liabilities. Such reconciliations would allow for prompt detection of errors and allow the Juvenile Office to properly dispose of unclaimed monies.

WE RECOMMEND the Juvenile Office:

A. Reissue old outstanding checks to any payees who can be located. If the payees cannot be located, the monies should be disposed through the applicable statutory provisions. In addition, procedures to routinely review and reissue any old outstanding checks should be adopted.

B. Deposit all receipts intact daily or when accumulated receipts exceed $100.

C. Correct the inaccurate checkbook register balance currently being used and perform monthly bank reconciliations, reconciling them to the corrected cash balance.

D. Prepare monthly open-item listings and reconcile to the bank balances of each account. Differences between the open-items listings and the reconciled bank balances should be investigated.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The Court Administrator provided the following response:

We concur with the recommendations. We are in the process of implementing policies, procedures and practices to fulfill each recommendation. In this effort we have contracted with a CPA to aid us in implementing a new accounting software system and developing appropriate policies and procedures.

This report is intended for the information of the management of the Thirteenth Judicial Circuit, Boone County, Missouri, and other applicable government officials. However, this report is a matter of public record and its distribution is not limited.

Follow-Up on State Auditor’s Prior Recommendations

THIRTEENTH JUDICIAL CIRCUIT
BOONE COUNTY, MISSOURI
FOLLOW-UP ON STATE AUDITOR'S PRIOR RECOMMENDATIONS

This section reports follow-up action taken by the Thirteenth Judicial Circuit, Boone County, Missouri, on recommendations made in the Management Advisory Report (MAR) of our report issued for the two years ended December 31, 1994 and the Special Review of Circuit Criminal and Traffic Division dated April 26, 1995. The prior recommendations which have not been implemented, but are considered significant, have been repeated in the current MAR. Although the remaining unimplemented recommendations have not been repeated, the Thirteenth Judicial Circuit, Boone County, Missouri, should consider implementing these recommendations.

THIRTEENTH JUDICIAL CIRCUIT
BOONE COUNTY, MISSOURI

1. Circuit Division

   A. The Circuit Division voided old outstanding checks and paid the related funds to the County Treasurer to the credit of the Unclaimed Fees Fund instead of to the state's Unclaimed Property Section.

   B. The monthly open-items (liabilities) listing was prepared by the Circuit Division indicating those cases on which there is a balance of fees collected. The listing included 648 cases for the civil account totaling $41,934 and 63 cases totaling $32,531 for which no monies had been received for over a year. Many of the cases last had money received on them prior to January 18, 1989.

   C. The Sheriff's department did not maintain adequate records to account for traffic tickets issued by its officers.

   Recommendation:

   The Circuit Division:

   A. Distribute funds related to old outstanding checks where the payee cannot be located to the state's Unclaimed Property Section. In addition, attempts should be made to determine the proper disposition of the unidentified monies.

   B. Periodically review older cases and determine the appropriate disposition of inactive cases.

   C. Work with the Sheriff's department to ensure traffic tickets are assigned in numerical sequence and that records are maintained to account for all tickets issued. A system should also be developed to account for the ultimate disposition of all traffic tickets.

Status:

A&C. Implemented.

B. Partially implemented. The Circuit Division has significantly reduced their number of old open cases and the related dollar amount. As of December 31, 1998, there were only 222 open cases totaling $21,245, down from the 648 cases totaling $41,934 that existed on December 31, 1994.

2. Probate Division

A monthly open-items (liabilities) listing was prepared by the Probate Clerk indicating those cases on which there is a balance of fees collected. The listing prepared as of December 31, 1994, included 55 cases totaling $10,448 for which monies had not been collected for over a year.

Recommendation:

The Probate Division periodically review cases included on the open-items listing and take appropriate follow-up action.

Status:

Implemented.

3. Juvenile Office

A. The Juvenile Office did not establish adequate procedures to follow-up on checks which are outstanding for a considerable length of time.

B. Prenumbered receipt slips were not issued for drug testing monies received from Callaway County. In addition, a receipt slip was not obtained when these monies were transmitted to the Director of Court Services and a record was not maintained documenting the individual transactions included in the transmittal.

C. Restitution monies along with assessment fees were deposited in a noninterest-bearing checking account.

Recommendation:

The Juvenile Office:

A. Forward funds related to old outstanding checks where the payee cannot be located to the state's Unclaimed Property Section.

B. Issue prenumbered receipt slips for all monies received and obtain receipt slips for monies remitted. In addition, the Juvenile Office should maintain a record identifying the receipt slips included in each transmittal.

C. Investigate the feasibility of investing restitution and assessment deposits in an interest-bearing account.

Status:

A. Not implemented. See MAR.

B. Partially implemented. While prenumbered receipt slips for all monies received are now issued and records are maintained to identify the receipt slips included in each transmittal, receipts slips are still not obtained for monies remitted. Although not repeated in the current MAR, the Juvenile Office should consider fully implementing this recommendation.

C. Partially implemented. The assessment deposits are now being placed in an interest-bearing account, however, the restitution deposits continue to be placed in an non-interest bearing account. Although not repeated in the current MAR, the Juvenile Office should consider fully implementing this recommendation.

4. Jury Fund

Funds obtained from voided old outstanding checks of the Jury Fund were placed with the County Treasurer instead of forwarding the amount to the state's Unclaimed Property Section.

Recommendation:

The Court Security forward a listing of old outstanding checks where the payee cannot be located to the County Treasurer and request the County Treasurer transfer these funds to the state's Unclaimed Property Section.

Status:

Implemented.

SPECIAL REVIEW OF CIRCUIT CRIMINAL AND TRAFFIC DIVISION

1. Missing Funds.

A cash shortage in the amount of $143,006 was noted.

Recommendation:

The Circuit Clerk continue to work with the Prosecuting Attorney's Office and the Sheriff's Office regarding any criminal prosecution and take any other necessary actions to obtain restitution of the $143,006.

Status:

Partially implemented. The former account clerk pled guilty to felony stealing charges. To date, the Circuit Clerk has obtained restitution of $3,546. Further restitution was not ordered as a part of the sentence and the judicial circuit obtained a $5,000 settlement on its filing against the former employee's bond.

2. Circuit Criminal and Traffic Division's Controls and Procedures

A. The duties of receiving, recording, reconciling, and preparing deposits for court monies were not adequately segregated.

B. Some receipts received for the payment of fines and court costs were not recorded and this went undetected because a reconciliation of the total monies received to the monies deposits was not performed.

C. Unnumbered receipt slips were used to record some cash payments. Some receipt slips could not be accounted for.

D. The numerical sequence of receipt slips were not accounted for.

E. Cash, checks, and money orders received were sometimes recorded as nonmonetary transactions or adjustments instead of receipts. The Circuit Criminal and Traffic Division did not obtain a report of the nonmonetary adjustments made to criminal and traffic cases to review the legitimacy of these nonmonetary adjustments.

Recommendation:

The Circuit Clerk:

A. Require the Circuit Criminal and Traffic Division to adequately segregate the duties of receiving, recording, reconciling, and preparing the deposits.

B. Continue to reconcile the totals of receipt slips issued, including the method of payment, to the receipts reports and to the deposits.

C. Retain all records in accordance with the Secretary of State record retention guidelines. In addition, all receipt slips should be prenumbered.

D. Account for the numerical sequence of receipt slips.

E. Continue to routinely obtain the nonmonetary adjustments reports and review the reports for the legitimacy of the transactions.

Status:

Implemented.

PERFORMANCE AUDIT

AUDIT OF COMPLIANCE

WITH SUNSHINE LAW REQUIREMENTS

From The Office Of State Auditor
Claire McCaskill

Report No. 99-104
November 6, 1999

There is no assurance that political subdivisions would comply with the record request provisions of the Sunshine Law.

Office Of The
State Auditor Of Missouri
Claire McCaskill

November 1999

An estimated 1,649 of 3,459 (47.6%) political subdivisions would not respond properly to requests for information under the provisions of the Sunshine Law.

The State Auditor's Office has a role to determine compliance with Missouri's laws. Because of recent citizen concerns and lawsuits over access to public records, we conducted a review of compliance with the Sunshine Law to determine if political subdivisions understood their responsibilities under the law.

We did not want to place an undue burden on the political subdivisions by causing them to engage in lengthy and costly record searches. We mailed a letter on plain paper making a simple request for the minutes to the last board meeting held in calendar year 1998. We also asked the political subdivisions not to incur expenses for searching or copying in excess of $10 without prior notification. We reimbursed the political subdivisions for their costs. By asking for the minutes, we were also able to determine compliance with the closed session provisions of the Sunshine Law.

The review disclosed that a significant number of political subdivisions did not respond to our request, denied our request, or responded late. Our review of the causes for not complying with the law disclosed that political subdivisions placed unnecessary requirements on the citizens before the response would be provided. For example, a school district superintendent stated:

> "Your request was not made on your business letterhead stationary. As a matter of fact, we do not know what firm you represent. No rationale was given for the request. Therefore, your request has been denied until more information is submitted."

A clerk of a township stated:

> "First, we don't know who you are, or anything about why you should want these minutes. We can't just send this information to anyone without knowing what they want with them."

We followed up with non-respondents and determined that they were not aware of their responsibilities under the Sunshine Law or they ignored the request because they believed they needed to get further approval or information before they responded.

> A township treasurer stated she would comply with the request if given a good reason to do so. She said she was not familiar with the Sunshine Law, but realizes the public has a right to public records.

(over)

> A director of a state funded public library stated that she thought the request was so unusual that she was waiting for the next board meeting to decide how to, or if, they would respond.

The audit disclosed that most late responses were not significantly late, usually only a day or two. Our office did not follow-up on the causes for delays because most delays were not material.

Our review of the board meeting minutes that were sent in response to our requests disclosed that, generally, the respondents cited one of the reasons identified in the statute for entering into a closed session and documented it in the minutes.

Political subdivisions risk lawsuits, fines, and loss of credibility by not properly following the provisions of the Sunshine Law.

CLAIRE C. McCASKILL
Missouri State Auditor

Honorable Mel Carnahan
and
Members of the General Assembly

The State Auditor performed an audit of compliance with requests for records under Section 610.023, RSMo--Missouri Sunshine Law. The objective of the audit was to determine if political subdivisions were aware of their responsibilities to provide access to public records upon request. Two specific requirements were tested during this audit.

- Did the political subdivision provide the records?
- Did the political subdivision provide the response within 3 business days of receipt of the request?

We concluded that nearly one half of the political subdivisions included in our sample did not properly comply with the Sunshine Law regarding requests for records. Based on the results of our statistical sample, we estimated that 1,649 of the 3,459 (47.6%) political subdivisions would not respond properly to public requests. They did not respond to the requests, denied the requests, or delayed their responses to the requests. By failing to respond to requests or denying requests unjustifiably, political subdivisions risk fines, lawsuits, and loss of credibility with their constituency.

RESULTS

There Is No Assurance that Political Subdivisions Would Comply with the Record Request Provisions of the Sunshine Law

Our office determined that 102 of 214 political subdivisions in our sample were not aware of their responsibilities to respond to requests for information from the general public, or they denied requests for reasons not acceptable under the Sunshine Law. Additionally, some political subdivisions responded late and others required the citizens to identify their purpose for requesting the information before releasing it. In a follow-up with the non-respondents and those who denied the requests, we identified the following causes for not complying with the Sunshine Law:

- Unaware of their responsibilities
- Did not have minutes and did not respond
- Believed another board meeting was needed to determine if they would respond

By not responding to requests properly or timely, political subdivisions subject themselves to lawsuits and fines and risk their credibility with their constituency.

Universe of Political Subdivisions

The auditor's office maintains a database of political subdivisions that contains 3,459 entities. From this universe, we selected a random statistical sample of 214 political subdivisions and sent a request for the minutes of their last board meeting held in calendar year 1998. (See Appendix III, page 9, for a detailed discussion of the sample results.)

Audit Procedure and Criteria

The audit test was conducted in a manner that gave the appearance that the request letters came from private citizens. The request letter that we sent on plain paper stated:

> "I request that you make available to me a copy of the minutes of the last meeting held in Calendar year 1998. Please let me know in advance of any search or copying if the fees for such search and copying will exceed $10."

The letter was sent to political subdivisions in all geographic locations within the state, and our office made no distinction between the size, location, or purpose of the entity when applying the requirements of the Sunshine Law. (See Appendix I, page 6, for a breakout by type of political subdivisions included in our sample.)

According to Section 610.023 RSMo:

"Each request for access to a public record shall be acted upon as soon as possible, but in no event later than the end of the third business day following the date the request is received by the custodian of records of a public governmental body. If access to the public record is not granted immediately, the custodian shall give a detailed explanation of the cause for further delay and the place and earliest time and date that the record will be available for inspection. This period for document production may exceed three days for reasonable cause."

Not all political subdivisions responded properly to requests for records

The random statistical sample of 214 political subdivisions disclosed that 102 did not respond properly to requests for records. Based on these results, we estimated 1,649 of the 3,459 (47.6%) political subdivisions would not respond properly to requests for records from citizens. Some did not respond at all, others denied the requests without proper justification, and others delayed their responses beyond the timeframes established in the statutes.

1,649 would not respond properly

Political subdivisions did not respond to requests for records

Based on the results of the sample, we estimated that 1,115 of the 3,459 (32.2%) political subdivisions would not respond to requests for records from citizens. Our audit test included sending the letter requests by certified return receipt requested mail, and although our office received the certification of delivery cards, we did not receive the requested records or a response from the political subdivision. In a follow-up with selected non-respondents, we found that they did not know what to do with the request when they received it.

1,115 would not respond to requests

- A director of a state funded public library stated that she thought the request was so unusual that she was waiting for the next board meeting to decide how to, or if, they would respond.
- An attorney for a levy district stated that they did not have any written minutes but he said he could write them.
- A city clerk said she tried to call the citizen to inquire who was asking for the information.
- A township treasurer stated she would comply with the request if given a good reason to do so. She said she was not familiar with the Sunshine Law, but realizes the public has a right to public records.

Political subdivisions denied requests for information without proper justification

According to Section 610.023 RSMo, "if a request for access is denied, the custodian shall provide, upon request, a written statement of the grounds for such denial. Such statement shall cite the specific provision of law under which access is denied and shall be furnished to the requester no later than the end of the third business day following the date that the request for the statement is received."

Based on the results of the sample, we estimated that 162 of the 3,459 (4.6 %) political subdivisions would deny requests for records. Not one of the denials met the criteria for denying requests. Examples from our sample of 214 political subdivisions showed that the reasons for denial were not justified.

162 would deny request

- A letter from a school district superintendent stated the following:

"Your request was not made on your business letterhead stationery. As a matter of fact, we do not know what firm you represent. No rationale was given for the request. Therefore, your request has been denied until more information is submitted."

- A letter from an attorney for a special road district stated the following:

"Please advise me as to the reason and purpose for your request, and whether or not you are the owner of any lands located within the district. If you are a landowner, please advise me as to the location of your lands by section, township and range."

- A letter from the clerk of a township stated the following:

"First, we don't know who you are, or anything about why you should want these minutes. We can't just send this information to anyone without knowing what they want with them."

There is no provision in the revised statutes for making these type demands on the citizenry prior to providing the information. (See Appendix V, page 13, for a list of the political subdivisions that denied the request.)

Political subdivisions were generally timely in responding to requests for records

Although an estimated 372 of the 3,459 (10.7%) political subdivisions would provide their responses after the 3-business day timeframe for response, in most cases the delays would not be significant. Our office used the day after the political subdivision received our request and the postmark of the response letter to determine elapsed days. The delays were usually only 1 to 3 days, which we do not believe to be significant in measuring compliance with the response period.

372 would delay request

Number of Entities	Days Late
210	1-3
113	4-6

Improvement was needed in documenting reasons for entering into closed sessions

The auditor's office reviewed copies of minutes received from 103 political subdivisions and determined that 33 had gone into closed session at some point during the meeting. Section 610.021 states the criteria for entering into a closed session at a public meeting. Legitimate reasons for entering into closed sessions include discussions of employee performance and personal conduct matters.

A review of the minutes disclosed that 27 of 33 (82%) of the political subdivisions that went into closed session cited one of the reasons identified in the statute for entering into a closed session and documented it in the minutes. Regarding the six entities that did not disclose the reason for entering into a closed session, we do not know whether they did not properly disclose the reason or they just did not properly document the reason.

Conclusion

We concluded that compliance with the Sunshine Law would improve measurably if political subdivisions understood their responsibilities. Merely wanting to know who is asking or why they are asking is not sufficient justification for denying, not responding, or delaying responses to requests for public records.

APPENDIX I

OBJECTIVE, SCOPE AND METHODOLOGY

Objective

The objective of the audit was to determine if political subdivisions were aware of their responsibilities for responding to public requests for records. The audit measured the number of responses received in our tests and the timeliness of those responses.

Scope and Methodology

Our office selected a random statistical sample of 214 political subdivisions from the 3,459 political subdivisions maintained in our database. (Specific discussion of the sampling methodology is contained in Appendix III, page 9). To meet the audit objective we sent a request for board meeting notes to each of the 214 political subdivisions and interviewed responsible personnel as appropriate. The sample included the following types of political subdivisions:

Political Subdivision	Number	Political Subdivision	Number
School Districts	35	Soil & Water	5
Cities	32	Counties	4
Townships	23	Levee Districts	4
Road Districts	20	Towns	3
Water Districts	19	Drainage Dist	3
Fire Districts	18	Special Purpose Business	3
Library Districts	12	Medical Centers and Hospitals	4
Villages	11	Nursing Dist	2
Ambulance Dist	6	Other	10

APPENDIX I

We reviewed the requirements of Section 610 RSMo and limited the scope of our review to responses to requests for information. Other provisions of Section 610 RSMo were not included in the scope of this audit. We made several assumptions in this audit.

- There is no distinction between political subdivisions as to size, mission, function, geographic location, and population served regarding the responsibility to respond to requests for records.

- A political subdivision was considered in compliance with the law if it requested clarification of the request within 3 business days (provided that the records were subsequently received after the clarification).

- We began the time measurement for responding on the day after receiving our request for records because some requests may have been delivered late in the day.

- Since the wording in RSMo 610.023.3 refers to the governmental body Aacting upon the request≅ within 3 business days, we used the postmark date on the return mailing as the date of measurement.

The audit was made in accordance with applicable generally accepted government auditing standards and included such tests of the procedures and records as were deemed appropriate under the circumstances. The audit included program results and compliance elements.

APPENDIX II

BACKGROUND

The State of Missouri=s commitment to openness in government is stated in Section 610.011 of the RSMo. Referred to as the Sunshine Law, the intent of the law is to ensure that public governmental bodies conduct their business in a manner that is open to public scrutiny. Public meetings, including meetings conducted by telephone or other electronic means, are to be held at reasonably convenient times and must be accessible to the public. Meetings should be held in facilities that are accessible to persons with disabilities.

Section 610.010 prescribes that public governmental bodies are defined as legislative, administrative or other governmental entities created by the constitution or statutes of the State of Missouri, or by order or ordinance of any political subdivision or district as well as judicial entities when operating in an administrative capacity. This includes state agencies and officials, governing bodies of institutions of higher education and any department of any political subdivision of the state, county or municipal government, school district, or special-purpose district, including sewer and water districts.

Section 610.023 prescribes that each public governmental body shall make that body's public records available for inspection and copying by the public. Each request for access to a public record shall be acted upon as soon as possible, but in no event later than the end of the third business day following the date the request is received by the custodian of records of a public governmental body. If access to the public record is not granted immediately, the custodian shall give a detailed explanation of the cause for further delay and the place and earliest time and date that the record will be available for inspection. This period for document production may exceed three days for reasonable cause. If a request for access is denied, the custodian shall provide, upon request, a written statement of the grounds for such denial. Such statement shall cite the specific provision of law under which access is denied and shall be furnished to the requester no later than the end of the third business day following the date that the request for the statement is received.

Section 610.27 prescribes that any aggrieved person, taxpayer to, or citizen of, this state, or the attorney general or prosecuting attorney, may seek judicial enforcement of the requirements of sections 610.010 to 610.026. Suits to enforce sections 610.010 to 610.026 shall be brought in the circuit court for the county in which the public governmental body has its principal place of business. Upon a finding by a preponderance of the evidence that a public governmental body or a member of a public governmental body has purposely violated sections 610.010 to 610.027, the public governmental body or the member shall be subject to a civil fine in the amount of not more than five hundred dollars and the court may order the payment by such body or member of all costs and reasonable attorney fees to any party successfully establishing a violation of sections 610.010 to 610.026.

SAMPLE METHODOLOGY AND RESULTS

Audit Universe

The audit universe consisted of 3,459 political subdivisions identified in the auditor' office database of governmental entities. This database was current as of August 31, 1999.

Sample Design

The statistical sample was comprised of 214 political subdivisions from the universe of 3,459. This sample size was based on a non-stratified attribute sampling design at the 90 percent confidence level with a $\pm$ 5 percent precision and expected error rate of 30 percent. The 214 political subdivisions were randomly selected from the universe and contained a representative sample of large, medium, and small political subdivisions.

The sample was used to measure the estimated number of political subdivisions that would properly respond to requests for public documents and those that did not respond properly, either by (i) not responding at all, (ii) denying requests, or (iii) delaying requests.

AUDIT REPORT

SIXTH JUDICIAL CIRCUIT

PLATTE COUNTY, MISSOURI

THREE YEARS ENDED DECEMBER 31, 1998

From The Office Of State Auditor
Claire McCaskill

Report No. 99-103
October 29, 1999

Office Of The
State Auditor Of Missouri
Claire McCaskill

October 1999

YELLOW SHEET

Audit Report #99-103

The Sixth Judicial Circuit Court consists of Platte County. During our audit, we identified a certain management practice which we believe could be improved.

Missouri state law allows for the reimbursement of certain costs in criminal cases where the state has been rendered liable. The Sheriff is to certify the number of prisoner incarceration days and the Circuit Clerk is responsible for preparing and submitting cost bills to the state for reimbursement. The revenue generated by these billings is received by the county. State law requires such bills to be submitted to the state's Office of Administration within two years of the date of judgement and sentence.

Our review of the handling of these billings disclosed the Circuit Clerk does not submit criminal cost billings to the state for incarceration costs related to defendants where the court retained the option of granting probation to the defendant after 120 days. The Circuit Clerk indicated that she was not aware criminal cost billings could be submitted to the state in these instances.

During the period from January 1, 1996 through December 31, 1998, the court handled seventy such cases, involving billable costs totaling $47,385. As of July 1, 1999, twenty-one of these cases, involving billable costs of $11,429, exceeded the two-year time limit and this amount represents revenue lost to the county. The remaining cases, involving billable costs of approximately $35,956, were still billable as of July 1, 1999. The State Auditor recommended that the Circuit Clerk take timely action to ensure the billable costs related to these cases are billed before the two-year limit expires. The audit also disclosed that while other applicable cases (non-120 day cases) were generally billed properly, a 1996 case involving billable costs of $4,012 was not billed to the state, resulting in additional lost revenue to the county.

In a response to the finding, the Presiding Circuit Judge indicated that in June 1999, when this matter was first brought to the Circuit Clerk's attention, action was taken to begin billing the state for those 120 day cases that were within the two year billing limit. In addition, for those cases which have occurred since the audit, the applicable costs have been billed and a tracking system has been established to better identify the applicable costs to be billed in the future.

In regard to follow-up action taken by the Sixth Judicial Circuit on recommendations made in our last audit report, these recommendations had been partially or fully implemented.

The Circuit Clerk of the
Sixth Judicial Circuit
Platte County, Missouri

We have audited the accompanying special-purpose financial statements of the various funds of the Sixth Judicial Circuit, Platte County, Missouri, as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998, 1997, and 1996, as identified in the table of contents. These special-purpose financial statements are the responsibility of the judicial circuit's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these special-purpose financial statements based on our audit.

We conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the special-purpose financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the special-purpose financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion.

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT ON COMPLIANCE
AND ON INTERNAL CONTROL OVER FINANCIAL REPORTING

Presiding Judge and Court en banc
and
The Circuit Clerk of the
Sixth Judicial Circuit
Platte County, Missouri

We have audited the special-purpose financial statements of the various funds of the Sixth Judicial Circuit, Platte County, Missouri, as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998, 1997, and 1996, and have issued our report thereon dated July 7, 1999. We conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States.

Compliance

As part of obtaining reasonable assurance about whether the special-purpose financial statements of the various funds of the Sixth Judicial Circuit, Platte County, Missouri, are free of material misstatement, we performed tests of the judicial circuit's compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants, noncompliance with which could have a direct and material effect on the determination of financial statement amounts. However, providing an opinion on compliance with those provisions was not an objective of our audit, and accordingly, we do not express such an opinion. The results of our tests disclosed no instances of noncompliance.

Internal Control Over Financial Reporting

In planning and performing our audit of the special-purpose financial statements of the various funds of the Sixth Judicial Circuit, Platte County, Missouri, we considered the judicial circuit's internal control over financial reporting in order to determine our auditing procedures for the purpose of expressing our opinion on the special - purpose financial statements and not to provide assurance on the internal control over financial reporting. Our consideration of the internal control over financial reporting would not necessarily disclose all matters in the internal control over financial reporting that might be material weaknesses. A material weakness is a condition in which the design or operation of one or more of the internal control components does not reduce to a relatively low level the risk that misstatements in amounts that would be material to the special-purpose financial statements being audited may occur and not be detected within a timely period by employees in the normal course of performing their assigned functions. We noted no matters involving the internal control over financial reporting and its operation that we consider to be material weaknesses.

This report is intended for the information of the management of the Sixth Judicial Circuit, Platte County, Missouri, and other applicable government officials. However, this report is a matter of public record and its distribution is not limited.

SIXTH JUDICIAL CIRCUIT
PLATTE COUNTY, MISSOURI
NOTES TO THE FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

A. Reporting Entity and Basis of Presentation

The accompanying special-purpose financial statements present only selected data for each fund of the Sixth Judicial Circuit, Platte County, Missouri.

Receipts, disbursements, and changes in cash are presented for the various funds administered by the Sixth Judicial Circuit, Platte County, Missouri. The operating costs of the offices within the circuit are paid directly from appropriations authorized by the Platte County Commission and the state of Missouri and are not included in these financial statements.

The "Total (Memorandum Only)" column is presented as additional analytical data. Because this column does not identify the restrictions that exist by fund, it should be read only with reference to the details of each fund.

B. Basis of Accounting

The Statements of Receipts, Disbursements, and Changes in Cash for the Sixth Judicial Circuit, Platte County, Missouri, are prepared on the cash basis of accounting; accordingly, amounts are recognized when they are received or disbursed. This basis of accounting differs from generally accepted accounting principles, which require revenues to be recognized when they become available and measurable or when they are earned and expenditures or expenses to be recognized when the related liabilities are incurred.

C. Fiscal Authority and Responsibility

The Sixth Judicial Circuit, Platte County, Missouri, includes the transactions of the Circuit Division, Probate Division, Juvenile Office, and Law Library. Each officeholder has been charged with the responsibility of administering the transactions in his or her division. The Circuit Clerk has been charged with the responsibility of administering the transactions of the circuit and associate circuit divisions. The Presiding Judge has appointed the local bar association's treasurer as law library custodian and the Circuit Clerk as law library treasurer, and these individuals are responsible for administering the transactions of the Law Library Fund. The Chief Juvenile Officer has been charged with the responsibility of administering the transactions of the Juvenile Office.

The Sixth Judicial Circuit, Platte County, Missouri, administers transactions within the following funds:

Circuit Division Fund: This fund accounts for the transactions of the Circuit Clerk's office and associate circuit divisions. These transactions include receipts and disbursements of the civil, criminal, traffic, and child support accounts.

Probate Division Fund: This fund accounts for the transactions of the Probate Division. These transactions include receipts and disbursements of court deposits and fees.

Juvenile Office Fund: This fund accounts for the transactions of the Juvenile Office. These transactions include receipts and disbursements of restitution payments, drug screening fees, and donations to the crime prevention program.

Law Library Fund: This fund accounts for the transactions of the law library, including fees collected from Circuit Division deposits and the related interest income. Disbursements are legally restricted for maintenance of a law library.

2. Cash

Section 483.310, RSMo Cumulative Supp. 1998, authorizes circuit courts to place their funds in savings deposits in banks and savings and loan associations or in U.S. Treasury bills.

In accordance with Statement No. 3 of the Governmental Accounting Standards Board, Deposits with Financial Institutions, Investments (Including Repurchase Agreements), and Reverse Repurchase Agreements, disclosures are provided below regarding the risk of potential loss of cash deposits. For the purposes of these disclosures, deposits with financial institutions are demand, time, and savings accounts, including certificates of deposit and negotiable order of withdrawal accounts, in banks and savings institutions.

The circuit court's deposits at December 31, 1998, 1997, and 1996, were entirely covered by federal depositary insurance or by collateral securities held by the court's custodial bank in the circuit court's name.

SIXTH JUDICIAL CIRCUIT
PLATTE COUNTY, MISSOURI
MANAGEMENT ADVISORY REPORT -
STATE AUDITOR'S CURRENT RECOMMENDATIONS

We have audited the special-purpose financial statements of the Sixth Judicial Circuit, Platte County, Missouri, as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998, 1997, and 1996, and have issued our report thereon dated July 7, 1999.

During our audit, we identified a certain management practice which we believe could be improved. Our audit was not designed or intended to be a detailed study of every system, procedure, and transaction. Accordingly, the finding presented in the following Management Advisory Report should not be considered as all-inclusive of areas where improvements may be needed.

Criminal Cost Billings

Section 221.105, RSMo Cumulative Supp. 1998, allows for the reimbursement of certain costs in criminal cases where the state has been rendered liable. The Sheriff is to certify the number of prisoner incarceration days and the Circuit Clerk is responsible for preparing and submitting cost bills to the state for reimbursement. The revenue generated by these billings is received by the county. Section 33.120, RSMo Cumulative Supp. 1998, requires all such bills to be submitted to the state's Office of Administration within two years of the date of judgement and sentence. Our review of the Circuit Clerk's handling of these billings disclosed the following concerns:

A. The Circuit Clerk does not submit criminal cost billings to the state for incarceration costs related to defendants where the court retained the option of granting probation to the defendant after 120 days pursuant to Section 559.115, RSMo Cumulative Supp. 1998. The Circuit Clerk indicated that she was not aware criminal cost billings could be submitted to the state in these instances.

   We determined the court handled seventy such cases, involving billable incarceration costs totaling $47,385, during the period from January 1, 1996 through December 31, 1998. As of July 1, 1999, twenty-one of these cases, involving billable incarceration costs of $11,429, exceeded the two-year time limit. As a result, these costs cannot be billed to the state and the related revenues have been lost to the county. The remaining forty-nine cases, involving billable costs of approximately $35,956, were still billable as of July 1, 1999. The Circuit Clerk should take timely action to ensure the billable costs related to these cases are billed to the state before the two-year limit expires.

B. Although it appears the Circuit Clerk's office generally ensured that other applicable cases (non-120 day cases) were properly billed, we noted one such case in 1996, involving billable incarceration costs of $4,012, which was not billed to the state. Since the two-year time limit has expired on this case, this represents additional revenue which has been lost to the county.

To ensure criminal cost reimbursements received by the county are maximized, all allowable costs should be billed to the state in a timely manner.

WE RECOMMEND the Circuit Clerk take timely action to ensure any unbilled costs pertaining to past 120 day cases are billed to the state before the two-year time limit expires. In addition, in the future, the Circuit Clerk should ensure all billable criminal costs are billed to the state on a timely basis.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The Presiding Circuit Judge indicated that in June 1999, when this matter was first brought to the Circuit Clerk's attention, action was taken to begin billing the state for those 120 day cases that were within the two year billing limit. In addition, for those cases which have occurred since the audit, the applicable costs have been billed and a tracking system has been established to better identify the applicable cases and costs to be billed in the future.

This report is intended for the information of the management of the Sixth Judicial Circuit, Platte County, Missouri, and other applicable government officials. However, this report is a matter of public record and its distribution is not limited.

Follow-Up on State Auditor’s Prior Recommendations

SIXTH JUDICIAL CIRCUIT
PLATTE COUNTY, MISSOURI
FOLLOW-UP ON STATE AUDITOR'S PRIOR RECOMMENDATIONS

This section reports follow-up action taken by the Sixth Judicial Circuit, Platte County, Missouri, on recommendations made in the Management Advisory Report (MAR) of our report issued for the two years ended December 31, 1995. Although the unimplemented recommendation has not been repeated in the current MAR, the judicial circuit should consider implementing this recommendation.

1. Missing Child Support Receipts

In December 1995, the Circuit Clerk's office discovered that $2,020 in undeposited child support cash receipts was missing. A subsequent review by the county's independent auditors determined that an additional $1,100 in undeposited cash receipts collected in September 1995 could also not be accounted for.

After the discrepancy in September 1995, the Circuit Clerk implemented a procedure requiring recorded cash receipts be compared with cash on hand prior to deposit. This resulted in the timely discovery of the cash shortage which occurred in December 1995. After the December 1995 incident, the Circuit Clerk took action to further limit the distribution of and access to logs.

Because of the corrective actions taken by the Circuit Clerk, we made no further recommendations related to this matter.

2. Circuit Clerk's Outstanding Checks

At December 31, 1995, the Circuit Clerk's accounts had checks totaling $6,601 which had been outstanding for more than one year. Some of the outstanding checks dated back to 1991.

Recommendation:

The Circuit Clerk establish procedures to routinely follow up and reissue old outstanding checks, if the payees can be located. If the payees cannot be located, these monies should be disposed of through the applicable statutory provisions.

Status:

Partially implemented. The Circuit Clerk took action to resolve the old outstanding checks noted in the prior audit. However, at December 31, 1998, the Circuit Clerk's accounts had outstanding checks totaling $1,169 which had been outstanding for more than one year. Although not repeated in the current MAR, our recommendation remains as stated above.

3. Law Library Fund

Liabilities of the Law Library Fund exceeded the balance of the bank account by $5,891 at April 1, 1996. In addition, no annual budgets were prepared for this fund.

Recommendation:

The Presiding Circuit Judge require that annual budgets be prepared for the Law Library Fund and the individuals responsible for the fund ensure monies are not expended in excess of available resources.

Status:

Implemented.

YELLOW SHEET

The following problems, discovered as result of our office's most recent two year audit of the Twenty-First Judicial Circuit's Municipal Division in the Village of Hanley Hills.

The Court Clerk, Village Clerk, and Deputy Village Clerk each have the authority to receive fine and court cost payments, issue receipt slips, record payments on the village's computerized accounting system and enter receipts into the cash register.

The duties of receiving, recording, and depositing monies collected by the municipal division are not adequately segregated. In addition, there is no reconciliation of receipt slips to the computer reports or cash register entries and the composition of receipts per those records is not reconciled to deposits. There were several instances noted in which payments indicated on the cash register tape did not agree with deposit slips prepared by the Village Clerk.

To safeguard against possible loss or misuse of funds, internal controls should provide reasonable assurance that all transactions are accounted for properly and assets are adequately safeguarded.

The municipal division does not account for the numerical sequence and ultimate disposition of traffic tickets and summonses issued. Without a proper accounting for the numerical sequence and ultimate disposition of tickets, the municipal division cannot be assured all tickets issued are properly processed.

The municipal division did not always forward required records of convictions on traffic offenses to the Missouri State Highway Patrol.

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT ON
THE FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

Presiding Judge
Twenty-First Judicial Circuit
and
Municipal Judge
Hanley Hills, Missouri

We have audited the accompanying special-purpose financial statement of the village of Hanley Hills Municipal Division of the Twenty-First Judicial Circuit as of and for the years ended June 30, 1999 and 1998. This special-purpose financial statement is the responsibility of the municipal division's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on this special-purpose financial statement based on our audit.

We conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the special-purpose financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the special-purpose financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion.

The accompanying special-purpose financial statement was prepared for the purpose of presenting the receipts, disbursements, and changes in cash of the village of Hanley Hills Municipal Division of the Twenty-First Judicial Circuit and is not intended to be a complete presentation of the financial position and results of operations of the municipal division.

In our opinion, the special-purpose financial statement referred to in the first paragraph presents fairly, in all material respects, the receipts, disbursements, and changes in cash of the village of Hanley Hills Municipal Division of the Twenty-First Judicial Circuit as of and for the years ended June 30, 1999 and 1998, in conformity with the comprehensive basis of accounting discussed in Note 1, which is a basis of accounting other than generally accepted accounting principles.

The village of Hanley Hills Municipal Division has not presented the disclosures required by Governmental Accounting Standards Board (GASB) Technical Bulletin 98-1, Disclosures about Year 2000 Issues, as amended by GASB Technical Bulletin 99-1, that the GASB has determined are necessary to supplement, although not be a part of, the basic financial statements. In addition, we do not provide assurance that the municipal division is or will become year 2000-compliant, that the municipal division's year 2000 remediation efforts will be successful in whole or in part, or that parties with which the municipal division does business are or will become year 2000-compliant.

In accordance with Government Auditing Standards, we also have issued our report dated August 11, 1999, on our consideration of the municipal division's internal control over financial reporting and on our tests of its compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants.

The accompanying History, Organization, and Statistical Information is presented for informational purposes. This information was obtained from the municipal division's management and was not subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audit of the special-purpose financial statement referred to above.

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT ON COMPLIANCE
AND ON INTERNAL CONTROL OVER FINANCIAL REPORTING

Presiding Judge
Twenty-First Judicial Circuit
and
Municipal Judge
Hanley Hills, Missouri

We have audited the special-purpose financial statement of the village of Hanley Hills Municipal Division of the Twenty-First Judicial Circuit as of and for the years ended June 30, 1999 and 1998, and have issued our report thereon dated August 11, 1999. We conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States.

Compliance

As part of obtaining reasonable assurance about whether the special-purpose financial statement of the village of Hanley Hills Municipal Division of the Twenty-First Judicial Circuit is free of material misstatement, we performed tests of the municipal division's compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants, noncompliance with which could have a direct and material effect on the determination of financial statement amounts. However, providing an opinion on compliance with those provisions was not an objective of our audit, and accordingly, we do not express such an opinion. The results of our tests disclosed no material instances of noncompliance that are required to be reported under Government Auditing Standards. However, we noted certain other instances of noncompliance which are presented in the accompanying Management Advisory Report.

Internal Control Over Financial Reporting

In planning and performing our audit of the special-purpose financial statement of the village of Hanley Hills Municipal Division of the Twenty-First Judicial Circuit, we considered the municipal division's internal control over financial reporting in order to determine our auditing procedures for the purpose of expressing our opinion on the special-purpose financial statement and not to provide assurance on the internal control over financial reporting. However, we noted certain matters involving the internal control over financial reporting and its operation that we consider to be reportable conditions. Reportable conditions involve matters coming to our attention relating to significant deficiencies in the design or operation of the internal control over financial reporting that, in our judgment, could adversely affect the municipal division's ability to record, process, summarize, and report financial data consistent with the assertions of management in the special-purpose financial statement.

A material weakness is a condition in which the design or operation of one or more of the internal control components does not reduce to a relatively low level the risk that misstatements in amounts that would be material to the special-purpose financial statement may occur and not be detected within a timely period by employees in the normal course of performing their assigned functions. Our consideration of the internal control over financial reporting would not necessarily disclose all matters in the internal control that might be reportable conditions and, accordingly, would not necessarily disclose all reportable conditions that are also considered to be material weaknesses. However, we noted certain matters involving the internal control over financial reporting and its operation that we consider to be material weaknesses, and these matters are presented in the accompanying Management Advisory Report.

This report is intended for the information of the management of the village of Hanley Hills Municipal Division of the Twenty-First Judicial Circuit and other applicable government officials. However, this report is a matter of public record and its distribution is not limited.

Notes to the Financial Statement

TWENTY-FIRST JUDICIAL CIRCUIT
VILLAGE OF HANLEY HILLS, MISSOURI
MUNICIPAL DIVISION
NOTES TO THE FINANCIAL STATEMENT

1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

A. Reporting Entity and Basis of Presentation

The accompanying special-purpose financial statement presents only selected data for the funds administered by the village of Hanley Hills Municipal Division of the Twenty-First Judicial Circuit of the state of Missouri.

Receipts, disbursements, and changes in cash are presented for the municipal division. The operating costs of the division are paid by the village of Hanley Hills and are not included in the financial statement.

The municipal division is responsible for cash bonds posted until case disposition allows appropriate disbursement. Bond monies relating to pending cases in the custody of the municipal division are included in the financial statement.

B. Basis of Accounting

The Statement of Receipts, Disbursements, and Changes in Cash is prepared on the cash basis of accounting; accordingly, amounts are recognized when they are received or disbursed. This basis of accounting differs from generally accepted accounting principles, which require revenues to be recognized when they become available and measurable or when they are earned and expenditures or expenses to be recognized when the related liabilities are incurred.

C. Fiscal Authority and Responsibility

The municipal division accounts for fines and court costs resulting from prosecution of violations of municipal ordinances before the municipal judge or received through the traffic violations bureau, as well as cash bonds posted. Municipal violations could include traffic offenses, both moving and nonmoving; parking offenses; and other violations for which amounts are received by the municipal division and remitted to the village treasury. The municipal division also may account for restitutions received and disbursed through the division.

2. Cash

Section 479.080, RSMo 1994, requires municipal divisions to deposit fines and court costs into the village treasury at least monthly. The division does not maintain a bank account, transmitting fines and court costs directly to the village treasury. A separate escrow bank account for bond monies received is maintained by the municipal division.

At June 30, 1999 and 1998, bank account balances reported for the village of Hanley Hills Municipal Division of the Twenty-First Judicial Circuit were entirely covered by federal depositary insurance.

3. Disbursements to State

The municipal division collects various amounts that must be remitted to the state of Missouri. These amounts include the judgement for the Motorcycle Safety Trust Fund; the surcharges for the Crime Victims' Compensation and Services to Victims Funds; and the Peace Officer Standards and Training Commission Fund. The state's portion of these amounts are deposited into the village treasury. Amounts remitted by the village to the state are not included in the financial statement.

MANAGEMENT ADVISORY REPORT SECTION

Management Advisory Report -
State Auditor’s Current Recommendations

TWENTY-FIRST JUDICIAL CIRCUIT
VILLAGE OF HANLEY HILLS, MISSOURI
MUNICIPAL DIVISION
MANAGEMENT ADVISORY REPORT -
STATE AUDITOR'S CURRENT RECOMMENDATIONS

We have audited the special-purpose financial statement of the village of Hanley Hills Municipal Division of the Twenty-First Judicial Circuit as of and for the years ended June 30, 1999 and 1998, and have issued our report thereon dated August 11, 1999.

The following Management Advisory Report presents our findings and recommendations arising from our audit of the municipal division's special-purpose financial statement. During our audit, we also identified certain management practices which we believe could be improved. Our audit was not designed or intended to be a detailed study of every system, procedure, and transaction. Accordingly, the findings presented in the following report should not be considered as all-inclusive of areas where improvements may be needed.

1. Accounting Controls and Procedures

The Court Clerk, Village Clerk, and Deputy Village Clerk each have the authority to receive fine and court cost payments, issue receipt slips on the court's one-write system, record payments on the village's computerized accounting system and enter receipts into the cash register. The Village Clerk is responsible for reconciling receipts recorded on the village's computerized accounting system to the cash register tape, counting the money, and preparing and transmitting deposits to the bank. In addition, the Court Clerk records fine and court cost payments on the court computer system from the one-write receipt slips issued. The Court Clerk also receipts and records all bond collections and transmits bond money daily to the Village Clerk for deposit. During our review, we noted the following concerns:

A. The duties of receiving, recording, and depositing monies collected by the municipal division are not adequately segregated. In addition, there is no reconciliation of one-write receipt slips to the computer reports or cash register entries and the composition of receipts per those records is not reconciled to the composition of deposits. There were several instances noted in which the composition of payments indicated on the cash register tape did not agree to the deposit slips prepared by the Village Clerk.

   To safeguard against possible loss or misuse of funds, internal controls should provide reasonable assurance that all transactions are accounted for properly and assets are adequately safeguarded. Internal controls could be improved by segregating the duties of receiving and depositing court monies from that of recording receipts. If proper segregation of duties cannot be achieved, at a minimum, there should be an independent review of the reconciliations between the various cash receipt records and deposits.

B. The Court Clerk accounts for the numerical sequence of one-write receipt slips issued, but several receipts shown as voided were not retained to assist in documenting the receipt slips issued.

All voided receipt slips should be retained to help ensure monies are properly handled and recorded.

C. Checks and money orders received by the Village Clerks and the Court Clerk for payments of fines and court costs are not endorsed until the bank deposits are prepared. To reduce the risk of loss or misuse of funds, checks and money orders should be restrictively endorsed immediately upon receipt.

D. Formal bank reconciliations are not prepared for the municipal division's bond account and a checkbook balance is not maintained. In addition, the monthly listings of open items are not reconciled to the bank and book balances.

To ensure all differences between the bank and book balances are noted in a timely manner, formal bank reconciliations should be performed monthly and a running balance should be maintained in the checkbook register. In addition, monthly listings of open items should be reconciled to the bank and book balances to ensure proper accountability over open cases and to ensure monies held in trust by the municipal division are sufficient to meet liabilities.

E. The Deputy Village Clerk helps collect court monies at the Traffic Violations Bureau (TVB) and during court on court nights. However, she is not covered by the employee bond which covers the Village Clerk and the Court Clerk. Failure to properly bond all persons with access to assets exposes the municipal division and the village to risk of loss.

Conditions A., D., and E. were also noted in our prior report.

WE RECOMMEND the municipal division:

A. Adequately segregate duties between available employees and/or establish a documented periodic review of municipal division records by an independent person, including reconciling receipts recorded to deposits.

B. Ensure all voided receipt slips are retained and accounted for properly.

C. Restrictively endorse all checks and money orders immediately upon receipt.

D. Perform and document monthly bank reconciliations for the bond account. In addition, the bond account should be reconciled monthly to the open items listing.

E. Request the village obtain adequate bond coverage for the Deputy Village Clerk.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The Municipal Judge and Court Clerk responded:

A,B, &E. We will work with the Village to implement these recommendations in their entirety.

C. We are now in compliance with this recommendation.

D. We will implement this recommendation in its entirety.

The Village Treasurer responded:

E. The position of Deputy Village Clerk is currently vacant. When the position is filled, the position will be bonded.

2. Ticket Accountability

A. The municipal division does not account for the numerical sequence and ultimate disposition of traffic tickets and summonses issued. The municipal division contracts with the St. Louis County Police Department for police services. The court maintains a log of summonses assigned by the court to officers. In addition, records listing each summons issued are maintained; however these records are not reviewed to account for the numerical sequence of summonses issued and are not reconciled to the assignment log to ensure all summonses issued are entered into the computer system for inclusion on the docket.

In addition, traffic tickets are assigned to officers by the St. Louis County Police Department who accounts for the tickets issued. There is not a specific sequence of tickets assigned to the village of Hanley Hills. The municipal division does not receive a listing of issued tickets from the St. Louis County Police Department to reconcile to tickets entered onto the court's computerized docketing system.

Without a proper accounting for the numerical sequence and ultimate disposition of tickets, the municipal division cannot be assured all tickets issued are properly processed. Properly reconciled logs and listings of issued tickets would ensure accountability of all tickets as well as the ultimate disposition of each document.

B. The municipal division did not always forward required records of convictions on traffic offenses to the Missouri State Highway Patrol (MSHP). In August 1999, we reviewed 60 tickets issued during the two years ended June 30, 1999; 2 of the 6 tickets which should have been filed with the MSHP had not been filed. Section 302.225, RSMo 1994, requires records of any pleas or findings of guilty on traffic violations under the laws of the state, county, or municipal ordinance to be forwarded to the MSHP within ten days of the conviction date.

WE RECOMMEND the municipal division:

A. Account for the numerical sequence and ultimate disposition of all summonses assigned and issued. In addition, periodically request a list of traffic tickets issued by the St. Louis County Police Department for the village and reconcile the listing to tickets entered into the court's computer system.

B. Ensure all records of convictions on traffic offenses are forwarded to the MSHP as required by state law.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The Municipal Judge and Court Clerk responded:

A. Summonses will be accounted for now. With the proviso that we would only be responsible for the tickets the officers provide to us, we will comply with the recommendation regarding reconciliation of tickets if the police department provides the list for comparison.

B. We are now in compliance with this recommendation.

3. Traffic Violations Bureau

The municipal division operates a TVB that allows certain offenses to be paid prior to the court date. However, a court order has not been issued by the Municipal Judge to formally establish the TVB. Section 479.050, RSMo 1994, states that a TVB may be established by the Municipal Judge. Supreme Court Rule No. 37.49 requires the Municipal Judge to establish the TVB by court order and to designate a TVB clerk.

This condition was noted in our prior report.

WE AGAIN RECOMMEND the municipal division prepare a court order to authorize the establishment of a TVB.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The Municipal Judge responded that the court order will be issued.

This report is intended for the information of the management of the village of Hanley Hills Municipal Division of the Twenty-First Judicial Circuit and other applicable government officials. However, this report is a matter of public record and its distribution is not limited.

Follow-Up on State Auditor’s Prior Recommendations

TWENTY-FIRST JUDICIAL CIRCUIT
VILLAGE OF HANLEY HILLS, MISSOURI
FOLLOW UP ON STATE AUDITOR'S PRIOR RECOMMENDATIONS

This section reports follow-up action taken by the village of Hanley Hills Municipal Division on recommendations made in the Management Advisory Report (MAR) of our report on the Twenty-First Judicial Circuit Municipal Divisions issued for the two years ended June 30, 1994. The prior recommendations which have not been implemented, but are considered significant, have been repeated in the current MAR. Although the remaining unimplemented recommendations have not been repeated, the municipal division should consider implementing these recommendations.

Village of Hanley Hills Municipal Division

A. The duties of receiving, recording, and depositing monies were not adequately segregated.

B.1. Receipt slips were not issued for bond monies received from the St. Louis County Police Department and other courts.

2. Bond receipts were not deposited in the court's bank account on a timely basis.

3. Monthly listings of open items were not prepared.

C. Crime Victim's Compensation fund (CVC) fees were not remitted to the state on a timely basis.

D. The Deputy Village Clerk helped collect court money at the TVB; however, she was not covered by the employee bond.

E. The Municipal Judge did not sign the docket after dispositions were recorded.

F. The Municipal Judge had not issued a court order to formally establish the TVB.

Recommendations:

The village of Hanley Hills Municipal Division:

A. Adequately segregate duties between available employees and/or establish a documented periodic review of municipal division records by an independent person.

B.1. Issue prenumbered receipt slips for all bond monies received and account for the numerical sequence.

2. Deposit bond receipts daily or when accumulated receipts exceed $100.

3. Prepare monthly listings of open items and reconcile the listing to the balance in the bank account.

C. Properly remit CVC fees to the state in accordance with state law.

D. Request the village obtain adequate bond coverage for the Deputy Village Clerk.

E. Require the Judge's signature on the court dockets.

F. Issue a court order to formally establish the TVB.

Status:

A. Not implemented. See MAR No. 1.

B.1, C&E. Implemented.

B.2. Partially implemented. The Court Clerk transmits bond monies daily when received to the Village Clerk. However, the Village Clerk does not deposit the bonds to the bank account on a daily basis. Although not repeated in the current MAR, the village should consider fully implementing this recommendation.

B.3. Partially implemented. The current Court Clerk has prepared open items listings monthly since she was employed in December 1998. The prior Court Clerk appears to have periodically generated open items listings also. The current Court Clerk is now working to reconcile the listings to the bank and book balances. See MAR No. 1.

D. Not implemented. See MAR No. 1.

F. Not implemented. See MAR No. 3.

IMPORTANT: The Missouri State Auditor is required by Missouri law to conduct audits only once every four years in counties, like Moniteau, which do not have a county auditor. However, to assist such counties in meeting federal audit requirements, the State Auditor will also perform a financial and compliance audit of various county operating funds every two years. This voluntary service to Missouri counties can only be provided when state auditing resources are available and does not interfere with the State Auditor's constitutional responsibility of auditing state government.

Once every four years, the State Auditor's statutory audit will cover additional areas of county operations, as well as the elected county officials, as required by Missouri's Constitution.

This audit of Moniteau County was a financial and compliance audit of various county operating funds.

There were no new findings or additional comments made during this audit.

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT ON
THE FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

To the County Commission
and
Officeholders of Moniteau County, Missouri

We have audited the accompanying special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Moniteau County, Missouri, as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, as identified in the table of contents. These special-purpose financial statements are the responsibility of the county's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these special-purpose financial statements based on our audit.

We conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the special-purpose financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the special-purpose financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion.

The accompanying special-purpose financial statements were prepared for the purpose of presenting the receipts, disbursements, and changes in cash of various funds of Moniteau County, Missouri, and comparisons of such information with the corresponding budgeted information for various funds of the county and are not intended to be a complete presentation of the financial position and results of operations of those funds or of Moniteau County.

In our opinion, the special-purpose financial statements referred to in the first paragraph present fairly, in all material respects, the receipts, disbursements, and changes in cash of various funds of Moniteau County, Missouri, and comparisons of such information with the corresponding budgeted information for various funds of the county as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, in conformity with the comprehensive basis of accounting discussed in Note 1, which is a basis of accounting other than generally accepted accounting principles.

Moniteau County, Missouri, has not presented the disclosures required by Governmental Accounting Standards Board (GASB) Technical Bulletin 98-1, Disclosures about Year 2000 Issues, as amended by GASB Technical Bulletin 99-1, that the GASB has determined are necessary to supplement, although not be a part of, the basic financial statements. In addition, we do not provide assurance that the county is or will become year 2000-compliant, that the county's year 2000 remediation efforts will be successful in whole or in part, or that parties with which the county does business are or will become year 2000-compliant.

In accordance with Government Auditing Standards, we also have issued our report dated June 15, 1999, on our consideration of the county's internal control over financial reporting and on our tests of its compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants.

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT ON COMPLIANCE
AND ON INTERNAL CONTROL OVER FINANCIAL REPORTING
BASED ON AN AUDIT OF FINANCIAL STATEMENTS PERFORMED
IN ACCORDANCE WITH GOVERNMENT AUDITING STANDARDS

To the County Commission
and
Officeholders of Moniteau County, Missouri

We have audited the special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Moniteau County, Missouri, as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, and have issued our report thereon dated June 15, 1999. We conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States.

Compliance

As part of obtaining reasonable assurance about whether the special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Moniteau County, Missouri, are free of material misstatement, we performed tests of the county's compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants, noncompliance with which could have a direct and material effect on the determination of financial statement amounts. However, providing an opinion on compliance with those provisions was not an objective of our audit, and accordingly, we do not express such an opinion. The results of our tests disclosed no instances of noncompliance that are required to be reported under Government Auditing Standards.

Internal Control Over Financial Reporting

In planning and performing our audit of the special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Moniteau County, Missouri, we considered the county's internal control over financial reporting in order to determine our auditing procedures for the purpose of expressing our opinion on the special-purpose financial statements and not to provide assurance on the internal control over financial reporting. Our consideration of the internal control over financial reporting would not necessarily disclose all matters in the internal control over financial reporting that might be material weaknesses. A material weakness is a condition in which the design or operation of one or more of the internal control components does not reduce to a relatively low level the risk that misstatements in amounts that would be material in relation to the special-purpose financial statements being audited may occur and not be detected within a timely period by employees in the normal course of performing their assigned functions. We noted no matters involving the internal control over financial reporting and its operation that we consider to be material weaknesses.

Notes to the Financial Statements

1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

A. Reporting Entity and Basis of Presentation

The accompanying special-purpose financial statements present the receipts, disbursements, and changes in cash of various funds of Moniteau County, Missouri, and comparisons of such information with the corresponding budgeted information for various funds of the county. The funds presented are established under statutory or administrative authority, and their operations are under the control of the County Commission, an elected county official, the Health Center Board, or the Emergency Dispatch Board. The General Revenue Fund is the county's general operating fund, accounting for all financial resources except those required to be accounted for in another fund. The other funds presented account for financial resources whose use is restricted for specified purposes.

B. Basis of Accounting

The financial statements are prepared on the cash basis of accounting; accordingly, amounts are recognized when received or disbursed in cash. This basis of accounting differs from generally accepted accounting principles, which require revenues to be recognized when they become available and measurable or when they are earned and expenditures or expenses to be recognized when the related liabilities are incurred.

C. Budgets and Budgetary Practices

The County Commission and other applicable boards are responsible for the preparation and approval of budgets for various county funds in accordance with Sections 50.525 through 50.745, RSMo 1994 and RSMo Cumulative Supp. 1998, the county budget law. These budgets are adopted on the cash basis of accounting.

Although adoption of a formal budget is required by law, the county did not adopt formal budgets for the following funds:

Fund	Years Ended December 31,
Cemetery Trusts Fund	1998 and 1997
Associate Circuit Division Interest Fund	1998 and 1997
Circuit Clerk Interest Fund	1998 and 1997
Law Library Fund	1998 and 1997
Sheriff Civil Fee Fund	1997
Mid-States Organized Crime Information Center Fund	1997
Emergency Planning Fund	1997
Local Law Enforcement Block Grant Fund	1997

Warrants issued were in excess of budgeted amounts for the following funds:

Fund	Years Ended December 31,
Adult Abuse Fund	1998
Sheriff Forfeiture Fund	1998
Sheriff Civil Fee Fund	1998
Emergency Dispatch Fund	1998
Law Enforcement Training Fund	1997

Section 50.740, RSMo 1994, prohibits expenditures in excess of the approved budgets.

D. Published Financial Statements

Under Sections 50.800 and 50.810, RSMo 1994, the County Commission is responsible for preparing and publishing in a local newspaper a detailed annual financial statement for the county. The financial statement is required to show receipts or revenues, disbursements or expenditures, and beginning and ending balances for each fund.

However, the county's published financial statements for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, did not include the Associate Circuit Division Interest Fund, Circuit Clerk Interest Fund, and Law Library Fund.

2. Cash

Section 110.270, RSMo 1994, based on Article IV, Section 15, Missouri Constitution, authorizes counties to place their funds, either outright or by repurchase agreement, in U.S. Treasury and agency obligations. In addition, Section 30.950, RSMo Cumulative Supp. 1998, effective August 28, 1997, requires political subdivisions with existing authority to invest in instruments other than depositary accounts at financial institutions to adopt a written investment policy. Among other things, the policy is to commit a political subdivision to the principles of safety, liquidity, and yield (in that order) when managing public funds and to prohibit purchase of derivatives (either directly or through repurchase agreements), use of leveraging (through either reverse repurchase agreements or other methods), and use of public funds for speculation. The county has not adopted such a policy.

In accordance with Statement No. 3 of the Governmental Accounting Standards Board, Deposits with Financial Institutions, Investments (Including Repurchase Agreements), and Reverse Repurchase Agreements, disclosures are provided below regarding the risk of potential loss of cash deposits. For the purposes of these disclosures, deposits with financial institutions are demand, time, and savings accounts, including certificates of deposit and negotiable order of withdrawal accounts, in banks, savings institutions, and credit unions.

The county's deposits at December 31, 1998 and 1997, were entirely covered by federal depositary insurance or by collateral securities held by the county's custodial bank in the county's name.

The Health Center Board's and Emergency Dispatch Board's deposits at December 31, 1998 and 1997, were entirely covered by federal depositary insurance or by collateral securities held by the boards' custodial banks in the boards' names.

3. Use Tax Liability

The local use tax under Section 144.748, RSMo 1994, was struck down in its entirety by the Missouri Supreme Court in Associated Industries of Missouri v. Director of Revenue, 918 S.W.2d 780 (Mo. banc 1996). In St. Charles County v. Director of Revenue, 961 S.W.2d 44 (Mo. banc 1998), the Missouri Supreme Court ruled that local use taxes paid prior to the repeal of Section 144.748, RSMo 1994, must be refunded to taxpayers and authorized the Department of Revenue (DOR) to withhold amounts otherwise due to political subdivisions to the extent such withholding is necessary to cover the refund expense. On March 24, 1998, the Cole County Circuit Court entered final judgment in accordance with the Supreme Court's opinion and ordered the DOR to process refund claims filed.

The county has received $88,381 in local use tax since its inception. The DOR has estimated the county's share of the total refund liability to be $46,623. As of December 31, 1998, $17,481 remains to be paid.

FACT SHEET

IMPORTANT: The Missouri State Auditor is required by Missouri law to conduct audits only once every four years in counties, like Maries, which do not have a county auditor. However, to assist such counties in meeting federal audit requirements, the State Auditor will also perform a financial and compliance audit of various county operating funds every two years. This voluntary service to Missouri counties can only be provided when state auditing resources are available and does not interfere with the State Auditor's constitutional responsibility of auditing state government.

Once every four years, the State Auditor's statutory audit will cover additional areas of county operations, as well as the elected county officials, as required by Missouri's Constitution.

This audit of Maries County was a financial and compliance audit of various county operating funds. The following concerns were noted as part of the audit:

< As noted in our prior two reports, the county has not sufficiently reduced its property tax revenues by 50 percent of the sales tax revenues as provided in the ballot issue passed by Maries County voters.

While the rollback for 1997 was insufficient as compared to that year's sales tax collections, the rollback for 1998 was sufficient for that year and also resulted in some reduction in the balance of prior years' excess property tax revenue collections. Additional reductions will need to be made in future years to offset the balance of prior years' excess property tax revenue collections.

< In November 1996, Maries County voters passed a one-half cent sales tax for the purpose of renovating the courthouse. The county entered into a contract for courthouse renovations at a cost of $564,762. Ten amendments, or change orders, to the original contract, totaling approximately $99,000, were apparently necessary for a variety of reasons including, bid specification inaccuracies and omissions, unanticipated problems, and additional work the county desired to have completed once the project was underway. Most of the change orders in the county's files were not signed by the county or the contractor and the work related to several change orders was completed before the change order was prepared and authorized. The county's overall documentation related to project change orders was not adequate.

While the County Commission agreed about the documentation, they indicated they did discuss and were aware of the work required by the change orders and they monitored the work throughout the course of the project.

The audit also includes some other matters upon which the county should consider and take appropriate corrective action.

Copies of the audit are available upon request.

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT ON
THE FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

To the County Commission
and
Officeholders of Maries County, Missouri

We have audited the accompanying special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Maries County, Missouri, as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, as identified in the table of contents. These special-purpose financial statements are the responsibility of the county's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these special-purpose financial statements based on our audit.

Except as discussed in the fourth paragraph, we conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the special-purpose financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the special-purpose financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion.

The accompanying special-purpose financial statements were prepared for the purpose of presenting the receipts, disbursements, and changes in cash of various funds of Maries County, Missouri, and comparisons of such information with the corresponding budgeted information for various funds of the county and are not intended to be a complete presentation of the financial position and results of operations of those funds or of Maries County.

Governmental Accounting Standards Board (GASB) Technical Bulletin 98-1, Disclosures about Year 2000 Issues, as amended by GASB Technical Bulletin 99-1, requires disclosure of certain matters regarding the year 2000 issue. Maries County has included such disclosures in Note 3. Because of the unprecedented nature of the year 2000 issue, its effects and the success of related remediation efforts will not be fully determinable until the year 2000 and thereafter. Accordingly, insufficient audit evidence exists to support the county's disclosures with respect to the year 2000 issue made in Note 3. Further, we do not provide assurance that the county is or will become year 2000-compliant, that the county's year 2000 remediation efforts will be successful in whole or in part, or that parties with which the county does business are or will become year 2000-compliant.

In our opinion, except for the effects of such adjustments, if any, as might have been determined to be necessary had we been able to examine evidence regarding year 2000 disclosures, the special-purpose financial statements referred to in the first paragraph present fairly, in all material respects, the receipts, disbursements, and changes in cash of various funds of Maries County, Missouri, and comparisons of such information with the corresponding budgeted information for various funds of the county as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, in conformity with the comprehensive basis of accounting discussed in Note 1, which is a basis of accounting other than generally accepted accounting principles.

In accordance with Government Auditing Standards, we also have issued our report dated May 20, 1999, on our consideration of the county's internal control over financial reporting and on our tests of its compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants.

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT ON COMPLIANCE
AND ON INTERNAL CONTROL OVER FINANCIAL REPORTING
BASED ON AN AUDIT OF FINANCIAL STATEMENTS PERFORMED
IN ACCORDANCE WITH GOVERNMENT AUDITING STANDARDS

To the County Commission
and
Officeholders of Maries County, Missouri

We have audited the special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Maries County, Missouri, as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, and have issued our report thereon dated May 20, 1999. That report expressed a qualified opinion on the special-purpose financial statements. Except as discussed in that report, we conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States.

Compliance

As part of obtaining reasonable assurance about whether the special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Maries County, Missouri, are free of material misstatement, we performed tests of the county's compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants, noncompliance with which could have a direct and material effect on the determination of financial statement amounts. However, providing an opinion on compliance with those provisions was not an objective of our audit, and accordingly, we do not express such an opinion. The results of our tests disclosed an instance of noncompliance that is required to be reported under Government Auditing Standards and which is described in the accompanying Schedule of Findings as finding number 98-1. We also noted certain immaterial instances of noncompliance, which we have reported to the management of the county in the accompanying Letter on Other Matters.

Internal Control Over Financial Reporting

In planning and performing our audit of the special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Maries County, Missouri, we considered the county's internal control over financial reporting in order to determine our auditing procedures for the purpose of expressing our opinion on the special-purpose financial statements and not to provide assurance on the internal control over financial reporting. However, we noted a certain matter involving the internal control over financial reporting and its operation that we consider to be a reportable condition. Reportable conditions involve matters coming to our attention relating to significant deficiencies in the design or operation of the internal control over financial reporting that, in our judgment, could adversely affect the county's ability to record, process, summarize, and report financial data consistent with the assertions of management in the special-purpose financial statements. The reportable condition is described in the accompanying Schedule of Findings and Questioned Costs as finding number 98-2.

A material weakness is a condition in which the design or operation of one or more of the internal control components does not reduce to a relatively low level the risk that misstatements in amounts that would be material in relation to the special-purpose financial statements being audited may occur and not be detected within a timely period by employees in the normal course of performing their assigned functions. Our consideration of the internal control over financial reporting would not necessarily disclose all matters in the internal control that might be reportable conditions and, accordingly, would not necessarily disclose all reportable conditions that are also considered to be material weaknesses. However, we do not believe that the reportable condition described above is a material weaknesses. We also noted other matters involving the internal control over financial reporting which are described in the accompanying Letter on Other Matters.

This report is intended for the information of the management of Maries County, Missouri, and other applicable government officials. However, this report is a matter of public record and its distribution is not limited.

Notes to the Financial Statements

1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

A. Reporting Entity and Basis of Presentation

The accompanying special-purpose financial statements present the receipts, disbursements, and changes in cash of various funds of Maries County, Missouri, and comparisons of such information with the corresponding budgeted information for various funds of the county. The funds presented are established under statutory or administrative authority, and their operations are under the control of the County Commission or an elected county official. The General Revenue Fund is the county's general operating fund, accounting for all financial resources except those required to be accounted for in another fund. The other funds presented account for financial resources whose use is restricted for specified purposes.

B. Basis of Accounting

The financial statements are prepared on the cash basis of accounting; accordingly, amounts are recognized when received or disbursed in cash. This basis of accounting differs from generally accepted accounting principles, which require revenues to be recognized when they become available and measurable or when they are earned and expenditures or expenses to be recognized when the related liabilities are incurred.

C. Budgets and Budgetary Practices

The County Commission is responsible for the preparation and approval of budgets for various county funds in accordance with Sections 50.525 through 50.745, RSMo 1994 and RSMo Cumulative Supp. 1998, the county budget law. These budgets are adopted on the cash basis of accounting.

Although adoption of a formal budget is required by law, the county did not adopt formal budgets for the following funds:

Fund	Years Ended December 31,
Law Library Fund	1998 and 1997
Family Court Fund	1998 and 1997
Circuit Clerk Interest Fund	1998 and 1997
Associate Circuit Division Interest Fund	1998 and 1997

Warrants issued were in excess of budgeted amounts for the following funds:

Fund	Years Ended December 31,
General Revenue Fund	1998
Special Road and Bridge Fund	1998
Prosecuting Attorney Bad Check Fund	1998
Maries County Law Enforcement Fund	1998 and 1997
911 Fund	1998
Courthouse Renovation Fund	1998

Section 50.740, RSMo 1994, prohibits expenditures in excess of the approved budgets.

D. Published Financial Statements

Under Sections 50.800 and 50.810, RSMo 1994, the County Commission is responsible for preparing and publishing in a local newspaper a detailed annual financial statement for the county. The financial statement is required to show receipts or revenues, disbursements or expenditures, and beginning and ending balances for each fund.

However, the county's published financial statements did not include the following funds:

Fund	Years Ended December 31,
Family Court Fund	1998 and 1997
Circuit Clerk Interest Fund	1998 and 1997
Associate Circuit Division Interest Fund	1998 and 1997
Law Library Fund	1998

2. Cash

Section 110.270, RSMo 1994, based on Article IV, Section 15, Missouri Constitution, authorizes counties to place their funds, either outright or by repurchase agreement, in U.S. Treasury and agency obligations. In addition, Section 30.950, RSMo Cumulative Supp. 1998, effective August 28, 1997, requires political subdivisions with existing authority to invest in instruments other than depositary accounts at financial institutions to adopt a written investment policy. Among other things, the policy is to commit a political subdivision to the principles of safety, liquidity, and yield (in that order) when managing public funds and to prohibit purchase of derivatives (either directly or through repurchase agreements), use of leveraging (through either reverse repurchase agreements or other methods), and use of public funds for speculation. The county has not adopted such a policy.

In accordance with Statement No. 3 of the Governmental Accounting Standards Board, Deposits with Financial Institutions, Investments (Including Repurchase Agreements), and Reverse Repurchase Agreements, disclosures are provided below regarding the risk of potential loss of cash deposits. For the purposes of these disclosures, deposits with financial institutions are demand, time, and savings accounts, including certificates of deposit and negotiable order of withdrawal accounts, in banks, savings institutions, and credit unions.

The county's deposits at December 31, 1998 and 1997, were entirely covered by federal depositary insurance or by collateral securities held by the county's custodial bank in the county's name.

3. Property Tax

Through December 31, 1998, Maries County had collected $67,295 in excess property taxes. Section 67.505, RSMo, requires the county to reduce property taxes for a percentage of sales taxes collected. Maries County voters enacted 1/2 cent sales tax with a provision to reduce property taxes by 50 percent of sales taxes collected. Tax levies were not reduced sufficiently for actual sales taxes received.

4. Year 2000 Compliance

The Maries County Commission has reviewed its various computer systems and determined the systems are Year 2000 compliant.

Schedule

MARIES COUNTY, MISSOURI
SCHEDULE OF FINDINGS
YEARS ENDED DECEMBER 31, 1998 AND 1997

This schedule includes the audit findings that Government Auditing Standards requires to be reported for an audit of financial statements.

98-1. Property Tax Reduction Due to Sales Tax

The county has not sufficiently reduced its property tax revenues by 50 percent of the sales tax revenues as provided in the ballot issue passed by Maries County voters under the provisions of Section 67.505, RSMo 1994.

Following are the calculations used in determining excess property tax revenues collected for the two years ended December 31, 1998:

		Tax Year Ended December 31,
		1998		1997
Actual sales tax revenue	$	202,009		185,528
Required percentage of reduction	X	50	%	50	%
Required property tax revenue reduction		101,005		92,764
Assessed valuation		69,947,720		68,276,269
General Revenue Fund tax levy reduction (per $100 assessed valuation)	X	0.15		0.13
Actual property tax revenue reduction		104,922		88,759
Excess property tax revenues collected		(3,917)		4,005
Excess property tax revenues collected for prior years		71,212		67,207
Excess through December 31,	$	67,295		71,212

While the rollback for 1997 was insufficient as compared to that year's sales tax collections, the rollback for 1998 was sufficient for that year and also resulted in some reduction in the balance of prior years' excess property tax revenue collections. Additional reductions will need to be made in future years to offset the balance of prior years' excess property tax revenue collections. Based on estimated assessed valuation and estimated sales tax revenue as reflected on the 1999 budget, and to account for prior years' excess property tax revenues collected, the County Commission should reduce the General Revenue Fund tax levy in 1999 by 24 cents.

This condition was noted in our prior two reports.

WE RECOMMEND the County Commission continue to reduce the property tax levy adequately to meet the sales tax reduction requirements and ensure appropriate adjustments are made to the levy to reflect excess property taxes collected in prior years.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

We intend to reduce the property tax levy gradually over several years to offset the excess accumulated from prior years. In our opinion we believe we can utilize an erroneous rollback of the road and bridge tax levy in 1996, which reduced road and bridge property taxes collected by approximately $30,000, to offset a portion of the accumulated excess. In addition, based on calculations made when setting the 1999 General Revenue Fund levy it appears this excess may be reduced by approximately $3,000. This would result in an excess property tax collection of approximately $34,000 as of December 31, 1999.

98-2. Courthouse Renovation Project

In November 1996, Maries County voters passed a one-half cent sales tax for the purpose of renovating the courthouse. Renovations involved installation of an elevator and other courthouse improvements. The county contracted with a consulting engineer to design the project and help oversee the construction. In October 1997, the county entered into a contract for courthouse renovations at a cost of $564,762. Ten amendments, or change orders, to the original contract totaling approximately $99,000 were apparently necessary for a variety of reasons including, bid specification inaccuracies and omissions, unanticipated problems, and additional work the County Commission desired to have completed once the project was underway. As of May 1999, payments made to the contractor totaled approximately $617,000.

Our review of the overall project and, in particular, the numerous change orders revealed some concerns with regard to the county's planning and monitoring process, and record keeping procedures.

Most of the change orders in the county's files were not signed by the county or the contractor and the work related to several change orders was completed before the change order was prepared and authorized. The costs related to these change orders totaled $49,409. The project engineer and a county commissioner indicated that because of the nature of the work related to some of the change orders it was necessary to proceed without delay. They also indicated the work was closely monitored and that verbal authorization was given to the contractor to proceed. To ensure a complete understanding of the work and cost of any materials and labor required by change orders and reduce the potential for subsequent misunderstandings, change order documents should be prepared prior to initiation of the related work and be signed by both the contractor and the county.

Two change orders were necessary due to errors or omissions in the original work specifications. In one case, the installation of boiler pumps and accessories was omitted from the specifications. As a result, all of the original project bids omitted these items. A change order for $32,588 was necessary to correct the oversight. In another case, an air-conditioning unit was found to be undersized after the unit had been purchased. The unit, which cost approximately $2,000, was incorrectly required in the original work specifications. A change order was needed to cover the cost and installation of a larger unit. The county has no current plans for the undersized unit. The county should ensure the work specifications provided to prospective bidders are accurate to provide for complete bids and reduce the possibility of unanticipated costs and inappropriate construction.

The county's overall documentation related to the project change orders was not adequate. Documentation regarding one change order for $12,584 was not on file at the county and had to be obtained from the engineer. Complete documentation regarding the reasons for change orders, change order copies themselves, and any other relevant information should be retained by the county in order to minimize possible misunderstandings and provide adequate support for the related expenditures.

To ensure that adequate resources are available to fund major projects of this type, it is important that the initial project plans be comprehensive and accurate. If change orders are necessary, it is important that they be approved prior to the initiation of the related work to ensure the changes are cost efficient.

WE RECOMMEND the County Commission ensure work specifications are complete and accurate and ensure change orders are prepared, signed and approved by both parties prior to the initiation of the related work.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

While some of the change orders were not signed by all parties involved, we were aware of the work required by the change orders and monitored the work along with our engineer throughout the course of the project. Detailed discussions were held regarding each change order. Should similar projects be undertaken again in the future, we will be more careful to ensure work specifications are complete and accurate and documentation is adequate and retained.

Follow-Up on Prior Audit Findings

MARIES COUNTY, MISSOURI
FOLLOW-UP ON PRIOR AUDIT FINDINGS

In accordance with Government Auditing Standards, this section reports the auditor's follow-up on action taken by Maries County, Missouri, on a certain finding in our prior audit report issued for the two years ended December 31, 1996. The finding is the one that Government Auditing Standards requires to be reported for an audit of financial statements.

4. Property Tax Reduction Due to Sales Tax

The property tax rollback was insufficient for current years' sales tax collections and additional reductions were necessary in future years to offset the balance of prior years' excess property tax revenue collections. The 1997 General Revenue tax levy reflected a 2-cent voluntary reduction; however, the county's intentions with regard to this voluntary reduction were unclear.

Recommendation:

The County Commission ensure appropriate adjustments are made to the levy to reflect excess property taxes collected in prior years. In addition, the County Commission needs to better document decisions regarding tax levy reductions, tax levies set, and their intentions with regard to voluntary levy reductions.

Status:

Partially implemented. In 1998 the County Commission reduced the property tax levy sufficiently and made some progress toward reducing the accumulated excess property tax collections from prior years. While the County Commission has not formally documented its intentions with regard to the 1997 voluntary reduction, this two-cent reduction was utilized by the county when evaluating the results of the 1997 rollback based on actual data. A significant accumulation of excess property tax revenues continues to exist. See finding number 98-1.

SECTION ON OTHER MATTERS

MARIES COUNTY, MISSOURI
LETTER ON OTHER MATTERS

We have audited the special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Maries County, Missouri, as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, and have issued our report thereon dated May 20, 1999. That report expressed a qualified opinion on the special-purpose financial statements.

We did not review the operations of elected officials with funds other than those presented in the special-purpose financial statements. The operations of such officials will be reviewed and reported on during the state auditor's next scheduled audit of the county.

This Letter on Other Matters presents matters other than the findings, if any, reported in the accompanying Schedule of Findings. These matters resulted from our audit of the special-purpose financial statements of Maries County but do not meet the criteria for inclusion in the written report on compliance and on internal control over financial reporting that is required for an audit performed in accordance with Government Auditing Standards. Nevertheless, the county should consider these matters and take appropriate corrective action.

1. Budgetary and Financial Reporting Procedures

   Actual expenditures exceeded approved budgeted amounts for several funds. While it appears the County Clerk and County Commission were aware of excess expenditures for some funds, they need to improve their overall monitoring procedures and documentation of budget amendments. Better anticipation and planning during the budget preparation process would help prevent some of these problems.

   Budgets were not prepared for some county funds and the annual published financial statements did not include the financial activity of some county funds.

2. County Expenditures

   The county does not always adequately document all efforts to obtain bids and does not always maintain documentation to support its decisions to not solicit bids for those purchases where it is considered impractical (ie, sole source).

   The County Commission approves some payments to vendors without requiring approval from the applicable county official or the acknowledgment of receipt of goods or services. In addition, invoices supporting payments and attached to the claim are not always marked paid.

3. Fund Transfers

   The County Commission did not maintain documentation to support the amount of an inter-fund reimbursement. In 1998 the county transferred $32,498 from the 911 Fund to the General Revenue Fund for reimbursement of dispatching salaries related to 911. The County Commission indicated the amount transferred was derived by estimating the percentage of time dispatchers spend on 911 duties and applying that percentage to total dispatcher salaries, but had no documentation to support the determined percentage and calculation of the amount transferred.

4. Salaries

Effective January 1999, the County Commission increased salaries for elected officials by 2 ½ percent for a cost of living allowance (COLA). At its 1997 meetings the Salary Commission approved an increase in elected officials' salaries by ten percent of the difference between the current salaries and the statutory maximum, effective for terms of office beginning in 1999. There was not adequate information in the Salary Commission minutes or written legal opinions from the county Prosecuting Attorney to support these increases and the method used to calculate them.

This Letter on Other Matters is intended for the information of the management of Maries County, Missouri, and other applicable government officials. However, this letter is a matter of public record and its distribution is not limited.

AUDIT REPORT

CITY OF WILLOW SPRINGS, MISSOURI

YEAR ENDED DECEMBER 31, 1998

From The Office Of State Auditor
Claire McCaskill

Report No. 99-99
October 25, 1999

Office Of The
State Auditor Of Missouri
Claire McCaskill

FACT SHEET

Some problems were discovered as a result of an audit conducted by our office in response to the request of petitioners from the City of Willow Springs, Missouri.

The City of Willow Springs relies heavily upon the Electric Fund to subsidize other city services. The city does not generate sufficient unrestricted revenue to pay the expenditures incurred for the General Fund, and the board has not developed a plan to operate the fund without this subsidy. The city has not evaluated the possibility of refinancing its current debt.

User fees for water, sewer, and electric services have not been established at levels consistent with the costs of providing those services. Historically, the Electric Fund has generated significant surpluses while the Water and Sewer Funds have operated at a loss. Transfers have been made from the Electric Fund each year to cover losses sustained by the Water and Sewer Funds.

Although the city has reviewed and adjusted electric and water rates, it appears the rates have not yet been set at a level consistent with the costs of providing the services.

Although the city generally solicits bids for significant purchases, adequate bid documentation was not retained for some purchases, including a used bucket truck for $62,000 and tires for $3,033. City officials indicate bids were solicited, however, documentation of the vendors contacted and the bids received were not maintained. Written documentation of bids provides evidence that the board has complied with its procurement policy.

The duties of receiving, recording, and depositing monies are not adequately segregated. The City Treasurer currently performs all of these duties. Neither the board nor other personnel independent of the cash custody and record-keeping functions provide adequate supervision or reviews of the work performed by the treasurer. In addition, the board needs to improve procedures regarding the monitoring of cash balances, and documenting its approval of disbursements.

Budgets did not include some information required by state law. Actual expenditures exceeded budgeted amounts. Financial statements were not published semi-annually, and annual financial reports were not filed with the State Auditor's office, as required by state law.

The city does not consistently enforce the business license ordinance.

The city's property records are not up-to-date and city-owned property is not tagged or otherwise identified as belonging to the city.

CLAIRE C. McCASKILL
Missouri State Auditor

To the Honorable Mayor
and
Members of the Board of Aldermen
City of Willow Springs
Willow Springs, Missouri 65793

The State Auditor was petitioned under Section 29.230, RSMo, to audit the city of Willow Springs, Missouri. The city had engaged Matthew L. James, Certified Public Accountant (CPA), to perform a financial audit of the city for the year ended December 31, 1998. To minimize any duplication of effort, we reviewed the report and substantiating working papers of the CPA. Our audit of the city included, but was not limited to, the year ended December 31, 1998. The objectives of this audit were to:

1. Perform procedures we deemed necessary to evaluate the petitioners' concerns.

2. Review compliance with certain constitutional provisions, statutes, ordinances, and attorney general's opinions as we deemed necessary or appropriate in the circumstances.

3. Review certain management practices which we believe could be improved.

Our audit was made in accordance with generally accepted government auditing standards and included such procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances. We also reviewed board minutes, city policies and ordinances, and various city financial records.

Our audit was limited to the specific matters described above and was based on the selective tests and procedures considered appropriate in the circumstances. Had we performed additional procedures, other information might have come to our attention which would have been included in this report.

The accompanying History and Organization is presented for informational purposes. This information was obtained from the city and was not subjected to the auditing procedures applied during our audit of the city.

MANAGEMENT ADVISORY REPORT

CITY OF WILLOW SPRINGS, MISSOURI
SUMMARY OF FINDINGS

1. City Finances (pages 9-11)

   The city relies heavily upon the Electric Fund to subsidize other city services. The city does not generate sufficient unrestricted revenue to pay the expenditures incurred for the General Fund, and the board has not developed a plan to operate the fund without this subsidy. The city has not evaluated the possibility of refinancing its current debt.

2. City Utilities (pages 11-12)

   User fees have not been set at a level consistent with the costs of providing the services and documentation was not available to support the administrative expenses allocated among the various funds.

3. Accounting Controls and Procedures (pages 12-14)

   Duties are not adequately segregated. The board does not receive adequate financial information to monitor financial transactions and cash balances. Adequate bid documentation was not retained for some purchases, bids were not solicited in some instances, and some bids were not awarded in compliance with city policy. The city does not have a written agreement with the City Attorney.

4. Compensation (page 15)

   The board authorized a salary increase for the Police Chief during his term of office. City employees and elected officials receive discounted utility rates.

5. Budgets and Financial Reporting (pages 16-17)

   Budgets did not include some information required by state law. Actual expenditures exceeded budgeted amounts. Financial statements were not published semi-annually, and annual financial reports were not filed with the State Auditor's office, as required by state law.

6. City Business Licenses (pages 17-18)

   The city does not consistently enforce the business license ordinance.

7. Fixed Asset Records (page 18)

   Current fixed asset records are not maintained, and city-owned property is not tagged or otherwise identified as belonging to the city.

8. Cemetery Records (pages 18-19)

Procedures are not adequate to ensure all cemetery transactions are properly recorded and all monies are remitted to the city.

9. Municipal Division (pages 19-20)

Duties are not adequately segregated. The numerical sequence of summonses and complaint forms was not properly accounted for.

1. City Finances

A. The city relies heavily upon Electric Fund revenues to subisdize other city services. In addition to reimbursements of administrative expenses from the Electric Fund, transfers from the Electric Fund to the various city funds were made as follows:

	Year Ended December 31,
Fund	1996	1997	1998
General	$ 300,000	350,000	359,900
Water and Sewer	170,000	0	80,000
Recreation	100,000	60,000	66,000
Library	26,000	35,000	38,000
Cemetery	16,000	26,000	40,000
Landfill and Sanitation	0	0	32,000
	$ 612,000	471,000	615,900

The 1999 Electric Fund budget reflects anticipated transfers to various other funds totaling $564,699. In addition to those anticipated transfers, the city made a significant transfer to the General Fund in April 1999. In April 1999, the city obtained a $970,000 grant from the Department of Economic Development for the purchase of the Sequel Corporation land and improvements. The city transferred $116,260 from the Water Fund and $376,077 from the Electric Fund to the General Fund, of which $422,000 served as the city's required matching funds, to cover the payment. The city has entered into a lease agreement with the Sequel Corporation whereby the city is to receive monthly lease payments of $8,372 for a period of fifteen years. The Sequel Corporation has the option to purchase the property at the end of the lease term for the fair market value less previous payments toward the principal.

Revenues of the Electric Fund represent user charges which are intended to cover the cost of providing the related services. It does not appear appropriate to subsidize other city operations from Electric Fund monies. As a result of this situation, electric rates may be set higher than necessary to recover actual costs and city electric customers are being required to subsidize the cost of economic development and other city services through the payment of their electric bills. The board should ensure lease payments received from Sequel Corporation are credited to the Water and Electric Funds in proportion to each fund's investment in the property.

B. Without the continued subsidy from the Electric Fund, the city's General Fund would be in poor financial condition. Historically, the General Fund has been budgeted and operated at a loss. Electric Fund profits provided approximately 27 percent of the total monies available to operate the city's General Fund during 1998.

In addition, the General Fund has significant outstanding debt. In November 1996 the city entered into a lease purchase agreement for the purchase of approximately 72 acres. The lease required a $51,800 down payment and annual principal and interest payments of $25,907 for a 10 year period ending January 29, 2006. In September 1997 the city entered into a lease purchase agreement for the purchase of approximately 200 acres. The lease required a $45,000 down payment and semi-annual principal and interest payments of $14,472 for a 15 year period ending November 1, 2012. At December 31, 1998, the city owed $331,072 on these leases and $20,000 on a lease for the purchase of a fire truck. The unreserved fund balance of the general fund as of that date was $72,448.

The city continues to incur debt and expenditures from the General Fund although unrestricted revenues are not available for their payment. It appears the Board of Aldermen has made decisions without adequate financial information. As noted elsewhere in this report, budgets adopted by the city did not include comparative data reflecting actual revenues and expenditures for the two previous years. In addition, the board does not review some expenditures and interfund transfers and does not monitor cash balances of the various funds.

The Board of Aldermen needs to closely monitor the ongoing financial condition of the General Fund. In addition, the board should develop a plan which will allow the city to operate without Electric Fund subsidies. If it desires to continue its current level of services, it must increase unrestricted revenues or reduce costs.

C. The city owed $331,072 on lease agreements related to real estate purchases. One lease is financed at a 10.25 percent rate of interest, and the other is financed at an 8.25 percent rate of interest. Although the lease agreements allow for the leases to be paid off prior to maturity, the city has not evaluated the potential cost savings associated with refinancing the leases. The rate of interest on recent issuances of general obligation bonds has ranged between 5 and 6 percent, and issuance costs for a similar sized debt issuance typically range from 2 ½ - 5 percent. Assuming a 6 percent rate of interest and a 5 percent issuance cost, the city could realize a savings of approximately $80,000 over the remaining terms of the leases.

WE RECOMMEND the Board of Aldermen:

A&B. Closely monitor the ongoing financial condition of the various funds. In addition, the board should develop a plan to operate the General Fund without continued subsidies, and limit expenditures and transfers from the Electric Fund to only those which are necessary to operate the city's electric utility operations.

C. Review the lease agreements and investigate the possibility of refinancing the debt.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

A&B. The city is working toward lowering electric rates and the General Fund subsidy. However, we believe it is prudent to continue this process over time and not make these changes all at one time.

C. The city has begun negotiations with the lessor to obtain a more competitive rate of interest.

2. City Utilities

A. User fees for water, sewer, and electric services have not been established at levels consistent with the costs of providing those services. Historically, the Electric Fund has generated significant surpluses while the Water and Sewer Funds have operated at a loss. As discussed in MAR No. 1, transfers have been made from the Electric Fund each year to cover losses sustained by the Water and Sewer Funds.

The city has recognized this problem and began taking corrective action during 1998. The city requested the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) perform a study of its water rates. Water rates were increased in January 1999 in response to the DNR study. However, the city did not adopt the full increase recommended by DNR. The city did not change the minimum water charge of $3.40 for the first 1,500 gallons, but the rates for additional gallons over 1,500 doubled. The Mayor conducted a review of electric rates with the help of various other city employees. Electric rates were lowered by approximately 5 percent in January 1999. The Mayor indicated the decrease was intended to achieve more tolerable electric rates while still generating sufficient revenue to subsidize other city services. As noted in MAR No. 1, the Electric Fund currently subsidizes the general operating expenses of the city.

Although the city has reviewed and adjusted electric and water rates, it appears the rates have not yet been set at a level consistent with the costs of providing the services. In addition, the city has not reviewed or adjusted sewer rates to cover the costs of the Sewer Fund. The city should continue to make efforts to establish user fees at a level consistent with the costs of providing only those services. The Electric Fund revenues should not be used to subsidize other utilities or general operating expenses of the city.

B. The city makes monthly transfers from the various utility funds to the General Fund to cover administrative expenditures incurred in the General Fund which benefit utility operations. Administrative expenditures are allocated to the General (40 percent), Electric (32.4 percent), Water (11.4 percent), Sewer (11.4 percent), and Sanitation (4.8 percent) Funds. Administrative transfers to the General Fund totaled $127,161 during the year ended December 31, 1998. City officials indicated the percentages used to allocate administrative expenditures have been in use since 1990. However, records were not available to determine how those percentages were established.

The city needs to properly allocate expenses to the various funds to establish appropriate user fees for its utilities. The city should ensure expenditures are allocated to the various funds in proportion to the benefits received from the expenditures. Documentation should be retained to support the percentages used for allocating expenditures.

WE RECOMMEND the Board of Aldermen:

A. Establish user fees for the various utilities at a level that will cover the costs. In addition, Electric Fund revenues should not be used to subsidize other utilities or general operating expenses of the city.

B. Ensure the percentages used to allocate administrative expenditures to the various funds are reasonable and are supported by adequate documentation.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

A. The city is working toward lowering electric rates and the General Fund subsidy. However, we believe it is prudent to continue this process over time and not make these changes all at one time.

B. We are in the process of implementing this recommendation.

3. Accounting Controls and Procedures

A. The duties of receiving, recording, and depositing monies are not adequately segregated. The City Treasurer currently performs all of these duties. Neither the board nor other personnel independent of the cash custody and record-keeping functions provide adequate supervision or reviews of the work performed by the treasurer.

To safeguard against possible loss or misuse of funds, internal controls should provide reasonable assurance that all transactions are accounted for properly and assets are adequately safeguarded. Internal controls would be improved by segregating the duties of receiving and depositing monies from that of recording receipts. If proper segregation of duties cannot be achieved, at a minimum, procedures for adequate independent review should be established.

B. The board does not adequately monitor cash balances of the various funds. Monthly reports filed with the board do not reflect up-to-date cash balances. In addition, bank statements are not reconciled to the general ledger cash balances. As a result, errors are not detected in a timely manner. The city's CPA had to prepare numerous correcting entries for the year ended December 31, 1998. In addition to errors noted by the CPA, we noted an interfund transfer that was improperly recorded. The board authorized a transfer of $110,000 from the Electric Fund to the Recreation Fund. However, the monies were actually transferred from the Electric Fund to the Sanitation Fund. The error went undetected by the city.

Bank statements should be reconciled to general ledger balances, and the board should monitor cash balances to ensure transactions have been properly recorded and to detect errors in a timely manner.

C. The City Treasurer provides the board with monthly listings of bills to be paid. However, the listings do not include some disbursements. For example, payroll related disbursements, contractual payments, sales tax remittances, and electronic funds transfers are not included on the listings. In September 1998, the city paid interest and penalty charges totaling $605 for untimely deposit of federal payroll taxes. This disbursement also was not included on the listing provided to the board. Although board minutes make a general reference that listings of bills were approved, the listings are not initialed or signed by the aldermen to document approval.

In addition, the board did not review some interfund transfers and adjusting entries. A $30,000 transfer was made from the Electric Fund to the General Fund to cover a lease payment. Although the board authorized the lease payment to be made from the General Fund, there was no documentation to indicate the board authorized the transfer from the Electric Fund. The city's CPA prepared adjusting entries to reclassify some expenditures and to eliminate negative fund balances in some funds by transferring additional amounts. These entries were recorded in the general ledger, although there was no documentation to indicate the board reviewed or authorized the adjusting entries to be made.

Complete listings of city expenditures and interfund transfers should be reviewed and approved by the Board of Aldermen before payment is made to ensure disbursements represent valid operating costs of the city and that all transfers are appropriate. Listings should be signed or initialed by the aldermen to denote their approval and should be reconciled to actual disbursements. In addition, the board should ensure payroll taxes are deposited in a timely manner to avoid unnecessary penalty and interest charges.

D. The following concerns were noted regarding bidding procedures:

1. Although the city generally solicits bids for significant purchases, adequate bid documentation was not retained for some purchases, including a used bucket truck for $62,000 and tires for $3,033. City officials indicate bids were solicited, however, documentation of the vendors contacted and the bids received were not maintained. In addition, city officials indicate there was only one source for the purchase of hot mix for $28,114 (including labor) and base rock for $2,122. However, board minutes did not document the reason bids were not solicited in these situations.

   Written documentation of bids provides evidence that the board has complied with its procurement policy. Bid documentation should include a list of vendors contacted, a copy of the bid specifications, copies of all bids received, justification for awarding the bid, and documentation of any discussions with vendors. In addition, board minutes should document the circumstances necessitating sole source procurement.

2. The city's procurement policy states that purchases shall be made from the lowest responsible bidder. However, on two occasions during 1997, the city purchased vehicles from a local bidder who was not the lowest bidder; however, the reason for selecting the higher bid was not documented. Complete documentation should be maintained of all bids received and reasons noted why the bid was selected.

E. In May 1998, the city appointed an individual to serve as City Attorney for a fee of $800 per month. The city has not entered into a written agreement with this individual defining the services to be rendered and the compensation to be paid for legal services.

Written contracts are necessary to ensure all parties are aware of their duties and responsibilities and to prevent misunderstandings. In addition, Section 432.070, RSMo 1994, requires contracts of political subdivisions to be in writing. Written contracts, signed by the parties involved, should specify the services to be rendered and the manner and amount of compensation to be paid.

Conditions similar to parts A. and B. were noted in the city's independent audit report.

WE RECOMMEND the Board of Aldermen:

A. Adequately segregate duties or establish procedures for independent review.

B. Ensure bank statements are reconciled to general ledger cash balances. In addition, the board should require monthly financial reports to include cash balances to allow for proper monitoring of each fund.

C. Ensure detailed and complete listings of bills, interfund transfers, and adjusting entries are prepared and that the board's approval is documented on the listings. In addition, the listings should be reconciled to actual disbursements. The board should also ensure payroll taxes are deposited timely.

D. Retain complete bid documentation. In addition, if sole source procurement is necessary, or the low bid is not selected, these circumstances should be documented in the board minutes.

E. Enter into a written agreement with the City Attorney which defines the services to be provided and the compensation to be paid.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

A. We implemented this recommendation in August 1999.

B. We plan to purchase a new software system which will help implement these recommendations.

C. The interest and penalty being incurred was an isolated occurrence which occurred during a change in personnel. We will implement these recommendations.

D&E. We will implement these recommendations.

4. Compensation

A. The Board of Aldermen approved a salary increase for the Police Chief during his term of office. The Police Chief was re-elected in April 1997 to a four-year term ending in April 2001. The Board of Aldermen authorized a $3,000 salary increase effective in January 1999. The Mayor said that the raise was granted because of additional duties that had been assigned to the Police Chief, including that of breathalyser instructor, firearms instructor, and physical fitness trainer. Although the Mayor indicated this was discussed during a board meeting, board minutes contained no documentation of the matter and no ordinance was passed establishing the salary increase and additional duties. The Police Chief said the additional duties were communicated to him verbally.

Section 79.270, RSMo 1994, states that the salary of a municipal officer shall be established by ordinance and shall not be changed during the time for which he was elected or appointed. Section 79.290 requires that the duties and powers of city officials be established by ordinance. In addition to meeting statutory requirements, establishing duties and compensation by ordinance reduces the potential for misunderstandings.

B. City ordinance provides for city employees and officials living within city limits to receive discounted electric and water rates. The value of these discounts for an average four-member family totals approximately $29 per month. Employees living outside city limits are allowed to deposit their trash in the city's trash truck rather than paying for sanitation services. The value of this benefit is approximately $8 per month. Because the value of these benefits vary with the number of members in each household and whether the employee lives inside or outside of city limits, this does not appear to be an equitable method of compensating employees. In addition, the compensation is not reported on employees' forms W-2. Furthermore, discounting utility rates for city employees and officials interferes with the city's efforts to establish proper user fees for its utilities.

WE RECOMMEND the Board of Aldermen:

A. Document the additional duties (and related compensation) which were assigned during his term of office in a city ordinance. In addition, in the future, the duties and compensation of all city officials should be established by ordinance.

B. Discontinue the practice of discounting utility rates for city employees and officials.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

We will or have implemented these recommendations.

5. Budgets and Financial Reporting

A. The budgets for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1999, did not include actual revenue and expenditures from the two preceding years. Only the two prior years' budget amounts were included. In addition, the budget for the year ended December 31, 1999, did not include beginning or estimated ending available resources.

Section 67.010, RSMo 1994, requires each political subdivision of the state to prepare an annual budget with comparisons of actual revenues and expenditures for the two preceding fiscal years. Prior year comparisons of actual revenues and expenditures need to be included to help ensure accurate amounts are budgeted. A budget should include appropriate revenue and expenditure estimations by classification and include the beginning available resources and reasonable estimates of the ending available resources in order to present a complete financial picture. A complete and well-planned budget, in addition to meeting statutory requirements, can serve as a useful management tool by establishing specific cost expectations for each area.

B. During the year ended December 31, 1998, the city approved expenditures in excess of the budgeted amounts for various funds as follows:

	Budgeted	Actual	Actual

Fund	Amount	Expenditures	over Budget
General	$1,201,043	1,275,579	74,536
Capital Improvement	94,110	104,118	10,008
Recreation	69,064	77,099	8,035
Cemetery	30,429	37,646	7,217

In addition, some budget amendments were not adequately documented. In one instance, the board authorized a $30,000 increase in General Fund expenditures to cover a lease payment. However, the increase was not recorded on the budget. In another instance, a $12,000 increase in General Fund expenditures was recorded on the budget, although no documentation was made to indicate the board approved the amendment.

Section 67.040, RSMo 1994, indicates a political subdivision shall not increase the total amount authorized for expenditures from any fund, unless the governing body adopts a resolution documenting the reasons making the increase necessary and approves or adopts a resolution or ordinance to authorize the expenditures. The board should ensure any budget amendments are properly authorized and adequately documented.

C. The city does not publish semi-annual financial statements in accordance with state law. Instead, the city publishes financial statements annually after the independent audit is complete. The financial statement for the year ended December 31, 1998, was published on March 17, 1999.

Section 79.160, RSMo 1994, requires the Board of Aldermen to prepare and publish semi-annual financial statements within one month of the end of each six month period. In addition, Section 79.165, RSMo 1994, states the city cannot legally disburse funds until the financial statement is published.

This condition was noted in the city's independent audit report.

D. The city has not filed annual reports of financial activity with the State Auditor's office as required by state law. A report was submitted for the year ended December 31, 1998. However, reports were not filed for the years ended December 31, 1995, 1996, and 1997. Section 105.145, RSMo 1994, requires the city to file a financial report with the State Auditor's office annually.

WE RECOMMEND the Board of Aldermen:

A. Ensure budgets contain all information required by state law.

B. Ensure actual expenditures do not exceed budgeted amounts. If circumstances require expenditures in excess of amounts budgeted, a formal resolution should be adopted authorizing the additional expenditures and documenting the reasons for such.

C. Publish semi-annual financial statements in a timely manner.

D. File annual financial reports with the State Auditor's office as required by state law.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

We will comply with these recommendations.

6. City Business Licenses

City ordinance requires all persons or firms engaged in business within the city to obtain a city business license. License fees are $25 and are due January 1 each year. The ordinance provides for a 20 percent penalty to be assessed for delinquent licenses paid after March 1. It further provides for the closure of businesses which fail to comply with the ordinance and for prosecution.

The city does not consistently enforce the business license ordinance. We noted five businesses that paid their 1999 business license fee after March 1, 1999, but were not assessed a penalty. At least two other businesses have not purchased a license at all, but the city has not taken enforcement action. In addition, beauty salons and barber shops are only charged $15 for business licenses, although there appears to be no basis for the reduced fee.

To reduce delinquencies and ensure equitable treatment of all businesses, the city should enforce the business license ordinance in a consistent manner.

WE RECOMMEND the Board of Aldermen consistently enforce the business license ordinance.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

We will implement this recommendation.

7. Fixed Asset Records

The city's property records have not been updated since February 1998. In addition, periodic physical inventories of city-owned property are not performed, and the city has not tagged or otherwise identified items as belonging to the city. Property records for general fixed assets are necessary to ensure accountability for all items purchased and owned and for accurate financial reporting.

To develop appropriate records and procedures for the city's assets, the city needs to review all property owned by the city. Assets should be tagged for specific identification and recorded in a detailed property ledger at historical cost, or estimated historical cost if original cost is not available. The property ledger should also include a description, acquisition date, location, and subsequent disposal, if applicable.

Because of the inadequate property records described above, the city's financial statements for the year ended December 31, 1998, did not include the General Fixed Assets Account Group which is necessary to conform with generally accepted accounting principles.

This matter was noted in the city's independent audit report.

WE RECOMMEND the Board of Aldermen maintain up-to-date property records for general fixed assets that include all pertinent information for each asset, such as tag number, description, cost, acquisition date, location, and subsequent disposition. In addition, the city should properly tag or otherwise identify all city property and conduct periodic physical inventories for comparison with property records.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

We are in the process of implementing these recommendations.

8. Cemetery Records

The city maintains two copies of the cemetery map. The City Clerk is responsible for maintaining the copy which is kept at city hall. The cemetery caretaker is responsible for maintaining the copy which is kept at the cemetery. Payments for the purchase of lots and grave openings may be made at either the cemetery or city hall. When a lot is purchased or a grave opening is performed, the caretaker prepares a sales slip which identifies the lot number and the name of the purchaser or the deceased. The caretaker posts the name of the purchaser or the deceased to his copy of the map. The sales slip and any monies collected are then forwarded to the city hall to be recorded on its records.

Because the two maps are not reconciled periodically, the city has less assurance that all lot purchases and grave openings have been properly recorded and monies have been remitted to the city. During our review, we noted several instances where a grave opening was performed but the name of the deceased was not entered on the copy of the map which is kept at city hall. Periodic reconciliations should be performed to ensure all transactions are properly recorded on both copies of the map to help ensure monies have been properly remitted to the city, and to ensure the same lot is not sold twice.

WE RECOMMEND the Board of Aldermen establish procedures to ensure all cemetery transactions are properly recorded. In addition, the two maps should be reconciled periodically, and any discrepancies should be investigated.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

We will implement this recommendation.

9. Municipal Division

A. The Court Clerk performs all duties related to the collection, deposit, recording, and disbursement of fines, court costs, and bonds. Although the Municipal Judge reviews the dispositions recorded on court dockets, independent reviews of the reconciliations between receipts and deposits and of bank statements, including canceled checks and bank reconciliations, are not performed.

To safeguard against possible loss or misuse of funds, internal controls should provide reasonable assurance that all transactions are accounted for properly and assets are adequately safeguarded. Internal controls would be improved by segregating the duties of cash custody from that of recording transactions. If proper segregation of duties cannot be achieved, at a minimum, there should be a supervisory review of the reconciliations between receipts and deposits and of bank statements and bank reconciliations.

B. The numerical sequence of summonses and complaint forms is not properly accounted for. The Court Clerk maintains logs to account for the issuance of summonses and complaint forms, however, the logs are not complete. Information regarding the issuance of several summonses and complaint forms was not documented on the logs. In addition, sometimes the date of issuance was not recorded on the logs.

Without a proper accounting of the numerical sequences and disposition of summonses and complaint forms, the police department and the municipal division cannot be assured that all documents are accounted for properly and submitted to the court for processing. Logs should be maintained of the books assigned to officers. In addition, logs should be maintained to account for the issuance of each summons and complaint form to ensure all summonses and complaint forms issued were submitted to the court for processing, properly voided, or not prosecuted.

WE RECOMMEND the city of Willow Springs Municipal Division:

A. Segregate duties of cash custody from that of recording transactions and reconciling bank statements. If proper segregation of duties cannot be achieved, at a minimum, there should be an independent review of the reconciliations between receipts and deposits and a review of bank statements and bank reconciliations.

B. Work with the Police Department to ensure records are maintained to account for the numerical sequence and ultimate disposition of all summonses and complaint forms issued.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The Municipal Judge provided the following response:

I will work with the city to try and implement these recommendations.

This report is intended for the information of the city's management and other applicable government officials. However, this report is a matter of public record and its distribution is not limited.

IMPORTANT: The Missouri State Auditor is required by Missouri law to conduct audits only once every four years in counties, like Texas, which do not have a county auditor. However, to assist such counties in meeting federal audit requirements, the State Auditor will also perform a financial and compliance audit of various county operating funds every two years. This voluntary service to Missouri counties can only be provided when state auditing resources are available and does not interfere with the State Auditor's constitutional responsibility of auditing state government.

Once every four years, the State Auditor's statutory audit will cover additional areas of county operations, as well as the elected county officials, as required by Missouri's Constitution.

This audit of Texas County was a financial and compliance audit of various county operating funds.

The audit includes some matters upon which the county should consider and take appropriate corrective action.

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT ON
THE FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

To the County Commission
and
Officeholders of Texas County, Missouri

We have audited the accompanying special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Texas County, Missouri, as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, as identified in the table of contents. These special-purpose financial statements are the responsibility of the county's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these special-purpose financial statements based on our audit.

We conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the special-purpose financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the special-purpose financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion.

The accompanying special-purpose financial statements were prepared for the purpose of presenting the receipts, disbursements, and changes in cash of various funds of Texas County, Missouri, and comparisons of such information with the corresponding budgeted information for various funds of the county and are not intended to be a complete presentation of the financial position and results of operations of those funds or of Texas County.

In our opinion, the special-purpose financial statements referred to in the first paragraph present fairly, in all material respects, the receipts, disbursements, and changes in cash of various funds of Texas County, Missouri, and comparisons of such information with the corresponding budgeted information for various funds of the county as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, in conformity with the comprehensive basis of accounting discussed in Note 1, which is a basis of accounting other than generally accepted accounting principles.

Texas County, Missouri, has not presented the disclosures required by Governmental Accounting Standards Board (GASB) Technical Bulletin 98-1, Disclosures about Year 2000 Issues, as amended by GASB Technical Bulletin 99-1, that the GASB has determined are necessary to supplement, although not be a part of, the basic financial statements. In addition, we do not provide assurance that the county is or will be year 2000-compliant, that the county's year 2000 remediation efforts will be successful in whole or in part, or that parties with which the county does business are or will become year 2000-compliant.

In accordance with Government Auditing Standards, we also have issued our report dated June 23, 1999, on our consideration of the county's internal control over financial reporting and on our tests of its compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants.

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT ON COMPLIANCE
AND ON INTERNAL CONTROL OVER FINANCIAL REPORTING
BASED ON AN AUDIT OF FINANCIAL STATEMENTS PERFORMED
IN ACCORDANCE WITH GOVERNMENT AUDITING STANDARDS

To the County Commission
and
Officeholders of Texas County, Missouri

We have audited the special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Texas County, Missouri, as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 97, and have issued our report thereon dated June 23, 1999. We conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States.

Compliance

As part of obtaining reasonable assurance about whether the special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Texas County, Missouri, are free of material misstatement, we performed tests of the county's compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants, noncompliance with which could have a direct and material effect on the determination of financial statement amounts. However, providing an opinion on compliance with those provisions was not an objective of our audit, and accordingly, we do not express such an opinion. The results of our tests disclosed no instances of noncompliance that are required to be reported under Government Auditing Standards. However, we noted an immaterial instance of noncompliance, which we have reported to the management of the county in the accompanying Letter on Other Matters.

Internal Control Over Financial Reporting

In planning and performing our audit of the special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Texas County, Missouri, we considered the county's internal control over financial reporting in order to determine our auditing procedures for the purpose of expressing our opinion on the special-purpose financial statements and not to provide assurance on the internal control over financial reporting. Our consideration of the internal control over financial reporting would not necessarily disclose all matters in the internal control over financial reporting that might be material weaknesses. A material weakness is a condition in which the design or operation of one or more of the internal control components does not reduce to a relatively low level the risk that misstatements in amounts that would be material in relation to the special-purpose financial statements being audited may occur and not be detected within a timely period by employees in the normal course of performing their assigned functions. We noted no matters involving the internal control over financial reporting and its operation that we consider to be material weaknesses. However, we noted another matter involving the internal control over financial reporting, which we have reported to the management of the county in the accompanying Letter on Other Matters..

This report is intended for the information of the management of Texas County, Missouri, and other applicable government officials. However, this report is a matter of public record and its distribution is not limited.

Notes to the Financial Statements

1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

A. Reporting Entity and Basis of Presentation

The accompanying special-purpose financial statements present the receipts, disbursements, and changes in cash of various funds of Texas County, Missouri, and comparisons of such information with the corresponding budgeted information for various funds of the county. The funds presented are established under statutory or administrative authority, and their operations are under the control of the County Commission, an elected county official, the Health Center Board, or the Habilitation Services Board. The General Revenue Fund is the county's general operating fund, accounting for all financial resources except those required to be accounted for in another fund. The other funds presented account for financial resources whose use is restricted for specified purposes.

B. Basis of Accounting

The financial statements are prepared on the cash basis of accounting; accordingly, amounts are recognized when received or disbursed in cash. This basis of accounting differs from generally accepted accounting principles, which require revenues to be recognized when they become available and measurable or when they are earned and expenditures or expenses to be recognized when the related liabilities are incurred.

C. Budgets and Budgetary Practices

The County Commission and other applicable boards are responsible for the preparation and approval of budgets for various county funds in accordance with Sections 50.525 through 50.745, RSMo 1994 and RSMo Cumulative Supp. 1998, the county budget law. These budgets are adopted on the cash basis of accounting.

Although adoption of a formal budget is required by law, the county did not adopt formal budgets for the following funds:

Fund	Years Ended December 31,
Garner Covert Memorial Fund	1997
Block Grant Fund	1998
Circuit Clerk Interest Fund	1998 and 1997
Law Library Fund	1998 and 1997
Associate Circuit Division Interest Fund	1998 and 1997
Probate Division Interest Fund	1998 and 1997

Warrants issued were in excess of budgeted amounts for the following funds:

Fund	Years Ended December 31,
Special Road and Bridge Fund	1997
Prosecuting Attorney Training Fund	1998

Section 50.740, RSMo 1994, prohibits expenditures in excess of the approved budgets.

D. Published Financial Statements

Under Sections 50.800 and 50.810, RSMo 1994, the County Commission is responsible for preparing and publishing in a local newspaper a detailed annual financial statement for the county. The financial statement is required to show receipts or revenues, disbursements or expenditures, and beginning and ending balances for each fund.

However, the county's published financial statements for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, did not include the Circuit Clerk Interest Fund, Law Library Fund, Associate Circuit Division Interest fund, and Probate Division Interest Fund.

2. Cash

Section 110.270, RSMo 1994, based on Article IV, Section 15, Missouri Constitution, authorizes counties to place their funds, either outright or by repurchase agreement, in U.S. Treasury and agency obligations. In addition, Section 30.950, RSMo Cumulative Supp. 1998, effective August 28, 1997, requires political subdivisions with existing authority to invest in instruments other than depositary accounts at financial institutions to adopt a written investment policy. Among other things, the policy is to commit a political subdivision to the principles of safety, liquidity, and yield (in that order) when managing public funds and to prohibit purchase of derivatives (either directly or through repurchase agreements), use of leveraging (through either reverse repurchase agreements or other methods), and use of public funds for speculation. The county has not adopted such a policy.

In accordance with Statement No. 3 of the Governmental Accounting Standards Board, Deposits with Financial Institutions, Investments (Including Repurchase Agreements), and Reverse Repurchase Agreements, disclosures are provided below regarding the risk of potential loss of cash deposits. For the purposes of these disclosures, deposits with financial institutions are demand, time, and savings accounts, including certificates of deposit and negotiable order of withdrawal accounts, in banks, savings institutions, and credit unions.

The county's deposits at December 31, 1998 and 1997, were entirely covered by federal depositary insurance or by collateral securities held by the county's custodial bank in the county's name.

The Health Center Board's and Habilitation Services Board's deposits at December 31, 1998 and 1997, were entirely covered by federal depositary insurance or by collateral securities held by the custodial banks in the applicable board's name.

SECTION ON OTHER MATTERS

TEXAS COUNTY, MISSOURI
LETTER ON OTHER MATTERS

We have audited the special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Texas County, Missouri, as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, and have issued our report thereon dated June 23, 1999.

We did not review the operations of elected officials with funds other than those presented in the special-purpose financial statements. The operations of such officials will be reviewed and reported on during the state auditor's next scheduled audit of the county.

This Letter on Other Matters presents a matter other than the findings, if any, reported in the accompanying Schedule of Findings. This matter resulted from our audit of the special-purpose financial statements of Texas County but does not meet the criteria for inclusion in the written report on compliance and on internal control over financial reporting that is required for an audit performed in accordance with Government Auditing Standards. Nevertheless, the county should consider this matter and take appropriate corrective action.

Budgetary Practices

The County Commission did not prepare and approve budget amendments on a timely basis. Budget amendments for 1997 were not approved and filed until January 12, 1998. The county approved disbursements in excess of budgeted amounts for the Special Road and Bridge Fund and the Prosecuting Attorney Training Fund. In addition, several budgets prepared by the county did not adequately reflect the county's anticipated financial position. Appropriations were budgeted to use all available resources. The practice of budgeting to spend all available resources decreases the effectiveness of the budget as a management planning tool and as a control over disbursements.

This Letter on Other Matters is intended for the information of the management of Texas County, Missouri, and other applicable government officials. However, this letter is a matter of public record and its distribution is not limited.

AUDIT REPORT

REVIEW OF

FORFEITED PROPERTY

From The Office Of State Auditor
Claire McCaskill

Report No. 99-97
October 8, 1999

Office Of The
State Auditor Of Missouri
Claire McCaskill

October 1999

FACT SHEET

The following information was determined and conclusions reached during our office's audit of forfeited property.

- Total seizures in the state were approximately $47 million ($7 million by state law enforcement agencies and $40 million by federal law enforcement agencies) during the three years ended December 31, 1998. During this period, Missouri law enforcement agencies received more than $19 million in Equitable Sharing proceeds. Five law enforcement agencies received 71 percent of the Equitable Sharing proceeds distributed with the State Highway Patrol receiving approximately $3.5 million of these proceeds.

- The majority (85%) of the money and property seized on investigations participated in by Missouri law enforcement officers are handled under federal forfeiture laws.

- The total seizure dollars of $47 million when compared to the state foundation formula would be less than 1 percent of the funding provided to local schools. In addition, the $3.5 million proceeds received by the Highway Patrol represents less than 1 percent of its state operating funding.

- The majority of seizure cases handled by federal agencies with local law enforcement participation relate to criminal investigations controlled or partially controlled by the federal agency or it is unlikely the seizure could have been successfully forfeited under the Criminal Activity Forfeiture Act (CAFA) as it is currently structured or has been interpreted. The local law enforcement participation usually relates to officers assigned to federal task forces. Due to the fact that these local law enforcement officers could be subject to conflicting state and federal forfeiture regulations it is unclear which regulations should take precedence when a seizure occurs.

- Local law enforcement officers sometimes did not report property which may have been subject to seizure under the CAFA to county Prosecuting Attorneys or the Attorney General prior to contacting federal authorities to handle the seizure. The prosecutors have not been given the opportunity to determine how to proceed with these potential forfeiture cases.

- The state's CAFA (Sections 513.600 to 513.653 RSMo 1994) has unclear, incomplete or restrictive requirements which need to be addressed:

    1. Section 513.605 RSMo 1994 contains many definitions to be used when interpreting the CAFA; however, it fails to define when a "seizure" is considered to have taken place.

    2. The CAFA's restrictive time limits for when law enforcement officers must report seizures to prosecutors and for when the prosecutors must make a decision on when to file petitions for forfeiture may be contributing to some seizures being transferred by court order to federal authorities.

3. Section 513.607 RSMo 1994 which requires prosecutors to file annual seizure reports with the Department of Public Safety (DPS) is unclear regarding what the DPS is to do with the reports and several other reporting issues. The statute also does not specify a required report format or address submission noncompliance.

4. Section 513.647 RSMo 1994 allows seizures to be transferred to federal authorities under certain circumstances; however, the requirements allow virtually any seizure to be transferred by court order even when the corresponding criminal case remains in state courts to be prosecuted.

5. The CAFA generally has been interpreted to prohibit seized property from being forfeited unless the individual the property is seized from is convicted of or pleads guilty to a felony charge substantially related to the seizure. However, for many traffic stops by law enforcement officers which result in suspected narcotics proceeds being discovered, the vehicle occupants committed no felony crime for which they can be charged related to these monies. The expanded use of In Rem proceedings could allow some of these seizures to be forfeited under the CAFA.

6. Section 513.653 RSMo 1994 requires law enforcement agencies receiving Equitable Sharing proceeds to have those monies audited annually with the report being submitted to the State Auditor's Office (SAO); however, the statute does not address submission noncompliance or the fact that many law enforcement agencies receive very little Equitable Sharing proceeds annually.

! For the year ended December 31, 1998, only 57 percent (66/116) of prosecutors filed seizure reports with the DPS as required by Section 513.607 RSMo 1994. Most prosecutors in jurisdictions involved in a significant amount of seizure activity appropriately filed reports.

! During the two years ended December 31, 1997, the SAO received audit reports from seventy of ninety-four (75 percent) city and county governments with law enforcement agencies that received Equitable Sharing proceeds; however, it was not always clear if the Equitable Sharing proceeds were audited. Only twenty-seven of the ninety-four (28 percent) reports submitted clearly showed that the Equitable Sharing proceeds were audited; however, the reports represented 78 percent of the proceeds distributed to law enforcement agencies in these jurisdictions. Only three of eleven (27 percent) task forces which received Equitable Sharing proceeds during this period submitted audit reports which clearly showed the proceeds were audited.

CLAIRE C. McCASKILL
Missouri State Auditor

Honorable Mel Carnahan, Governor
and
Members of the General Assembly

We have conducted a statewide review of seized and forfeited property. The objectives of this review were to:

1. Survey Missouri law enforcement agencies regarding seizure activity, compliance with state seizure and forfeiture laws and participation in the Federal Equitable Sharing Program.

2. Determine the amount of state and federal seizure activity in the state and its potential impact on school funding.

3. Analyze state and federal seizure cases participated in by state and local law enforcement agencies.

4. Review state seizure and forfeiture laws and determine any areas of concern needing improvement or clarification.

Our review was made in accordance with applicable generally accepted government auditing standards and included such procedures as we considered necessary under the circumstances. In this regard, we reviewed applicable state and federal laws, analyzed responses to surveys distributed, interviewed applicable personnel of various federal, state and local law enforcement organizations, and reviewed certain records and documents.

Our review was limited to the specific matters described above and was based on selective tests and procedures considered appropriate in the circumstances. Had we performed additional procedures, other information might have come to our attention that would have been included in this report.

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

We determined that total seizures in the state were approximately $47 million ($7 million by state law enforcement agencies and $40 million by federal law enforcement agencies) during the three years ended December 31, 1998. During this period, Missouri law enforcement agencies received more than $19 million in Equitable Sharing proceeds. Five law enforcement agencies received 71 percent of the Equitable Sharing proceeds distributed with the State Highway Patrol receiving approximately $3.5 million of these proceeds.

From our audit procedures we reached the following conclusions:

- The majority (85%) of the money and property seized on investigations participated in by Missouri law enforcement officers are handled under federal forfeiture laws.

- The total seizure dollars of $47 million when compared to the state foundation formula would be less than 1 percent of the funding provided to local schools. In addition, the $3.5 million proceeds received by the Highway Patrol represents less than 1 percent of its state operating funding.

- The majority of seizure cases handled by federal agencies with local law enforcement participation relate to criminal investigations controlled or partially controlled by the federal agency or it is unlikely the seizure could have been successfully forfeited under the Criminal Activity Forfeiture Act (CAFA) as it is currently structured or has been interpreted. The local law enforcement participation usually relates to officers assigned to federal task forces. Due to the fact that these local law enforcement officers could be subject to conflicting state and federal forfeiture regulations it is unclear which regulations should take precedence when a seizure occurs.

- Local law enforcement officers sometimes did not report property which may have been subject to seizure under the CAFA to county Prosecuting Attorneys or the Attorney General prior to contacting federal authorities to handle the seizure. The prosecutors have not been given the opportunity to determine how to proceed with these potential forfeiture cases.

- The state's CAFA (Sections 513.600 to 513.653 RSMo 1994) has unclear, incomplete or restrictive requirements which need to be addressed:

    1. Section 513.605 RSMo 1994 contains many definitions to be used when interpreting the CAFA; however, it fails to define when a "seizure" is considered to have taken place.

    2. The CAFA's restrictive time limits for when law enforcement officers must report seizures to prosecutors and for when the prosecutors must make a decision on when to file petitions for forfeiture may be contributing to some seizures being transferred by court order to federal authorities.

3. 4. Section 513.647 RSMo 1994 allows seizures to be transferred to federal authorities under certain circumstances; however, the requirements allow virtually any seizure to be transferred by court order even when the corresponding criminal case remains in state courts to be prosecuted.

5. The CAFA generally has been interpreted to prohibit seized property from being forfeited unless the individual the property is seized from is convicted of or pleads guilty to a felony charge substantially related to the seizure. However, for many traffic stops by law enforcement officers which result in suspected narcotics proceeds being discovered, the vehicle occupants committed no felony crime for which they can be charged related to these monies. The expanded use of In Rem proceedings could allow some of these seizures to be forfeited under the CAFA.

6. Section 513.653 RSMo 1994 requires law enforcement agencies receiving Equitable Sharing proceeds to have those monies audited annually with the report being submitted to the State Auditor's Office (SAO); however, the statute does not address submission noncompliance or the fact that many law enforcement agencies receive very little Equitable Sharing proceeds annually.

I - AUDIT METHODOLOGY

AUDIT METHODOLOGY

We performed the following procedures as part of our audit work:

- Reviewed state law regarding seized and forfeited property and school funding.
- Reviewed federal law regarding seized and forfeited property and the requirements of the Federal Equitable Sharing Program.
- Obtained and reviewed seizure and forfeiture laws for other states and analyzed information on Equitable Sharing distributions in those states.
- Tested audit report submission compliance for law enforcement agencies receiving Equitable Sharing proceeds.
- Tested Prosecuting Attorney seizure report submission compliance and summarized the data for those reports submitted to the Department of Public Safety.
- Sent surveys to county Sheriffs and Prosecuting Attorneys, city police departments, the State Highway Patrol and multi-jurisdictional task forces regarding property seized under the CAFA, proceeds received from the Equitable Sharing Program, seizures transferred to federal authorities and seizures participated in which were taken or controlled by federal authorities.
- Evaluated and conducted follow up audit work regarding the survey responses.
- Visited several law enforcement agencies to review the facts of some of the cases involving seizures participated in by those agencies.
- Requested and received seizure and Equitable Sharing distribution data from the Department of Justice and the Department of the Treasury regarding Missouri law enforcement agencies. Compared this data with the survey responses and resolved material differences.

II - INTRODUCTORY SECTION

Introductory Section

This section will provide background information on the following areas:

- Federal Forfeiture Law
- Missouri's Criminal Activity Forfeiture Act (CAFA)
- Federal Equitable Sharing Program
- State Funding to Public Schools

This section is designed to provide a summary of some of the laws and programs which impact seized and forfeited property.

State and Federal Forfeiture Laws

Federal Forfeiture Law

Various federal laws allow for criminal and civil forfeiture of property associated with criminal activity. The majority of the federal seizures we reviewed as part of this review were handled under the civil forfeiture process. Federal law, 21 U.S.C. 881 allows for civil forfeiture of any money, property or weapons which can be shown to have a connection to illegal drug trafficking.

The federal agency seizing the property is allowed to administratively forfeit all monetary instruments (cash, checks, stocks, bonds etc.) of unlimited value and other property which is valued at less than $500,000. For administrative forfeiture the owner is given notice of the seizure which informs him or her of the requirements for filing a claim and posting a bond in order to challenge the action being taken. The owner's claim must state that he or she has an interest in the property and an argument to protest the forfeiture. In the event a claim is not filed, a summary judgement is ordered and the property is forfeited. If a verified claim is filed, the administrative forfeiture case becomes a judicial forfeiture case.

Judicial forfeiture is required for seized property with a value over $500,000, property for which a verified claim and bond have been received, and all real estate. Under judicial forfeiture the federal government files a complaint and a hearing is held. The federal complaint generally shows that probable cause exists for forfeiture. The burden of proof is therefore shifted to the owner to show that the property is, by a preponderance of the evidence, not subject to forfeiture. During a federal civil forfeiture proceeding the criminal or drug history of the individual the property was seized from and the circumstances surrounding the seizure will be considered when attempting to show that it was used or derived from criminal activity. A federal civil forfeiture case can be established and successfully adjudicated without the individual from whom the property was seized being charged or convicted of any felony criminal act. In the event the burden of proof is not met by the property owner, a summary judgement is ordered and the property is forfeited to the federal government. Conversely, if the burden of proof is met, the property is returned to the owner.

Missouri's Criminal Activity Forfeiture Act (CAFA)

Missouri's CAFA comprises Sections 513.600 to 513.653 RSMo 1994. All property intended for use in the course of, derived from, or realized through criminal activity is subject to civil forfeiture. Seizures of this property may be made by state and local law enforcement officers if the seizure is incident to a lawful arrest, search, or inspection and the officer has probable cause to believe the property is subject to forfeiture. Within four days of the date of seizure, the law enforcement officer must report the seizure to either the state Attorney General or the Prosecuting Attorney of the county in which the seizure took place. The Prosecuting Attorney or state Attorney General generally must file a petition for forfeiture within ten days of notice of the seizure. After the petition for forfeiture is filed, every person known to have a claim or interest in the property is to be served with a copy of the petition and a notice of seizure in the manner provided by the Missouri rules of court and rules of civil proceeding. If a petition for forfeiture is not filed, the property is returned to the owner.

Completion of a CAFA proceeding must be delayed until disposition of any corresponding criminal charges filed against any individual claiming an interest in the property which is the subject of the proceeding. The property cannot be forfeited unless the person charged is found guilty of a felony or pleads guilty to a felony offense substantially related to the seizure. The property of a person arrested, detained or apprehended and not subsequently charged is not subject to forfeiture for that arrest, detention or apprehension. In general, to forfeit money or property under this act, the property owner or person the property is seized from must be charged with the criminal activity that brought about the seizure and that charge must result in a felony conviction.

Property seized by law enforcement officers may be transferred to federal authorities for forfeiture under federal law following the approval of the Prosecuting Attorney and the Circuit Judge of the county in which the property was seized. The transfer is not to be approved unless it reasonably appears the activity giving rise to the investigation or seizure involves more than one state or the nature of the investigation or seizure would be better pursued under federal forfeiture statutes. In addition, no transfer is to be made to a federal agency unless the violation would be a felony under Missouri law or federal law. The property owner must challenge the federal transfer within ninety-six hours of the transfer order being filed. A successful challenge may result in a hearing to evaluate the merits of the transfer.

An In Rem CAFA proceeding may also be initiated by petition by a county Prosecuting Attorney or the state Attorney General in cases where property is abandoned or unclaimed. Such proceedings may apply to cases for which the owner of the property is unknown or the individual from whom the property is seized disavows any ownership interest in it.

The federal forfeiture and state CAFA processes are illustrated in the flowchart on the following page.

* the felony conviction requirement does not apply to an In Rem CAFA proceeding involving abandoned or unclaimed property

Federal Equitable Sharing Program

The U. S. Department of Justice (DOJ) and Department of the Treasury (DOT) established the Equitable Sharing Program in 1984. The primary purpose of the Equitable Sharing Program, according to the DOJ's A Guide to Equitable Sharing of Federally Forfeited Property for State and Local Law Enforcement Agencies, is "to deter crime by depriving criminals of the profits and proceeds of their illegal activities and to weaken criminal enterprises by removing the instrumentalities of crime." Under the program, federally forfeited assets are shared with state or local law enforcement agencies that assisted on cases, based on their participation with federal agencies on these investigations. Many Missouri law enforcement agencies have participated in the program since the late 1980's. To share in a seizure, a state or local law enforcement agency must have a Federal Equitable Sharing Agreement with the DOJ and/or the DOT and must submit a DAG-71 form, Application for Transfer of Federally Forfeited Property (DOJ law enforcement agency) or a TD F 92-22.46 form, Request for Transfer of Property Seized/Forfeited by a Treasury Agency (DOT law enforcement agency), to the federal agency that handled the seizure. Following a favorable resolution of the federal forfeiture case, the federal agency, U.S. Attorney's Office or the Office of the Deputy Attorney General, depending on the type of forfeiture case and the value of property forfeited, will make a decision on a local law enforcement agency's sharing request and determine the amount of proceeds to be shared. The amount shared will vary from case to case and will be transmitted to the state and local law enforcement agencies.

Upon receipt of Equitable Sharing proceeds, a local law enforcement agency is required to implement standard accounting practices and internal control procedures to track and account for these monies. The DOJ has issued A Guide to Equitable Sharing of Federally Forfeited Property for State and Local Law Enforcement Agencies and the DOT has issued Guide to Equitable Sharing for Foreign Countries and Federal, State, and Local Law Enforcement Agencies to provide guidance to law enforcement agencies regarding compliance requirements for these proceeds which includes limitations on how the monies can be spent. The local law enforcement agency is required to file an annual Certification Report with the DOJ and/or the DOT detailing the Equitable Sharing proceeds received and expended during the agency's fiscal year. The report also details the types of expenditures the funding was used for and the remaining balance of funds on hand at the end of the fiscal year.

State Funding to Public Schools

Under Section 166.300 RSMo 1998, effective August 28, 1998, all civil forfeitures are to be transmitted to the state for deposit into the School Building Revolving Fund. This statute which created the School Building Revolving Fund in 1993 originally limited this fund's source of funding to gifts, bequests and appropriations. The fund was inactive until forfeiture monies began to be deposited into it in the fall of 1998. The fund was established for the purpose of allowing school districts to submit applications for lease purchases from the revolving fund for specific projects consistent with the rules and regulations established by the State Board of Education and the requirements outlined by the statute. At June 30, 1999, the fund balance for the School Building Revolving Fund was $170,231. No expenditures have occurred from the fund since its inception.

Prior to this statutory change, civil forfeitures were remitted to County Treasurers and distributed annually to local schools. State funding provided to local schools is determined on a monthly basis based on the school foundation formula computation outlined in Section 163.031 RSMo 1998. Under the computation, forfeiture funds received by a school district in one fiscal year were deducted from potential subsequent year state funding. In most circumstances, a school district received no direct additional financial benefit for forfeited proceeds received due to this adjustment in future state funding. Indirectly all school districts might have received some minor benefit from forfeiture amounts being deducted from an individual school district's state funding and subsequently being available for distribution to all school districts under the funding formula.

Section 163.032 RSMo 1994 requires that a school district's per pupil state funding cannot be less than the funding received under the state's prior funding formula computation which was last used for the 1992/1993 school year. For the last three fiscal years only approximately 10 percent of the school districts in the state benefited from this provision. Since forfeited funds were considered local funding these school districts benefited directly from any forfeited funds received during fiscal years 1998 and 1997 and would have directly benefited in fiscal year 1999 if this statutory change had not occurred.

During the three years ended June 30, 1999 state appropriations for aid to school districts under the foundation formula totaled $4.5 billion with an additional approximately $1.4 billion provided for student transportation and other specialized programs. The average annual number of students for this period was approximately 840,000. As a result, the estimated average state funding per student per year under the foundation formula appropriations was approximately $2,340. For the three years ended December 31, 1998, we determined that approximately $47 million ($7 million by state law enforcement agencies and $40 million by federal law enforcement agencies) in seizures took place which Missouri law enforcement agencies participated in. Even if all of these seizures would have been successfully forfeited under the CAFA only an additional $19 per year in funding would have been available per student if all of these funds had been distributed to schools.

Under current law, no school district receives a direct benefit from forfeited seizures; however, any school district can apply for project funding through the School Building Revolving Fund.

III - LAW ENFORCEMENT AGENCY SURVEYS

Survey Description

The purpose of our survey was to obtain information regarding seized and forfeited property activity for Missouri's law enforcement agencies for the three years ended December 31, 1998. The survey asked for information regarding CAFA seizure activity, compliance with CAFA statutory requirements and participation in the federal Equitable Sharing program. Surveys were sent to the following jurisdictions:

- All 114 county Prosecuting Attorneys, the St. Louis City Circuit Attorney and the state Attorney General
- All 113 Sheriffs and the St. Louis County Police Department
- Sixty of the largest city police departments statewide
- The State Highway Patrol
- Eighteen task forces (Task forces generally comprise several jurisdictions which may include federal, state and local law enforcement agencies.)

Schedules A-1 through A-4 summarize which law enforcement agencies were sent survey forms and those agencies that participated by returning completed or partially completed forms as well as those which did not. Officials for some of the jurisdictions that failed to return the survey told us their legal counsel advised them not to return it while others chose not to participate even though we contacted them at least twice requesting the information. The response rate by jurisdiction was as follows:

Jurisdiction	Returned	Failed to Return	Total
Prosecuting Attorneys	94	22	116
Sheriffs and St. Louis County Police Department	98	16	114
City Police Departments	56	4	60
State Highway Patrol (1)	1	0	1
Task Forces	13	5	18
Total	262	47	309
Percentage of Total	85%	15%

(1) Part of the survey was not completed

We used this survey information as a starting point for our analysis of seizures and forfeitures occurring within the state and/or participated in by Missouri law enforcement agencies. Subsequent sections of this report will summarize the information obtained as well as the additional work we have performed to evaluate it.

IV - EQUITABLE SHARING DISTRIBUTIONS TO STATE AND LOCAL LAW ENFORCEMENT AGENCIES

Equitable Sharing Distribution Analysis

Equitable Sharing distributions to Missouri law enforcement agencies for the three years ended December 31, 1998 are summarized on Schedule B. Some task forces redistribute Equitable Sharing proceeds received to the law enforcement agencies participating on it. To prevent these monies from being double counted in the schedule, the proceeds were only reported under the task force that originally received the monies.

To prepare the schedule, we compared the amount of Equitable Sharing proceeds received as reported by law enforcement agencies on the survey forms to Equitable Sharing distribution information obtained from the Department of Justice - U.S. Marshals Service and the Department of the Treasury - Executive Office for Asset Forfeiture. For law enforcement agencies that completed the survey, any significant difference between Equitable Sharing proceeds reported to us and the amounts shown as distributed to them by the federal agencies were discussed and materially resolved with the law enforcement agency. For law enforcement agencies that did not return the survey or for any that we did not send a survey, we used the amounts provided to us by the federal agencies for the schedule.

As shown on Schedule B and the pie charts which follow the schedule, the majority of the Equitable Sharing distributions in the state are made to a small number of jurisdictions. The pie charts show the five law enforcement agencies that received the most Equitable Sharing proceeds during each of the three years ended December 31, 1998 and for the three year period ended December 31, 1998. During the three years ended December 31, 1998, approximately 71 percent of Equitable Sharing proceeds distributed within the state went to only five law enforcement agencies.

As part of our audit procedures we did not compare the Equitable Sharing proceeds received to the annual operating budgets of the law enforcement agencies; however, for most jurisdictions the proceeds apparently represented only a small percentage of the operating budget for the law enforcement agency. For example, the approximately $3.5 million in Equitable Sharing proceeds received by the State Highway Patrol during the three years ended December 31, 1998 represented less than 1 percent of the patrol's approximately $404 million in appropriated funding during the three years ended June 30, 1999.

Federal Forfeiture Audit Report Submission Compliance

Section 513.653, RSMo 1994 requires all law enforcement agencies using the federal forfeiture system to obtain an independent audit of the Equitable Sharing proceeds received and provide the audit to the State Auditor's Office (SAO). The SAO is responsible for auditing all third-class counties in the state and satisfies this statutory requirement as part of the audits of those counties. In addition, Equitable Sharing proceeds received by the State Highway Patrol, State Water Patrol and the National Guard Counterdrug Task Force would be audited by the SAO as part of the annual Statewide Single Audit of all federal funding received by the state. First and second-class county Sheriff departments and Prosecuting Attorney offices, city police departments and multi-jurisdictional task forces must comply with this statutory provision through the independent audits of the county, city or organization. The statute does not specify the type of audit to be obtained or the scope of the audit work. For those entities that submitted an audit report to the SAO, we reviewed the report to determine if federal forfeiture proceeds received were clearly identified in the audit report. Schedule C lists the compliance results for law enforcement agencies for fiscal years ended in 1996 and 1997. A summary of the results follows:

First and Second Class Counties

Thirteen first or second class counties received Equitable Sharing proceeds during 1996 and/or 1997. Each county was audited annually. Audit reports for eight counties clearly indicated the Equitable Sharing proceeds were audited. These eight reports represented 85 percent of the Equitable Sharing proceeds distributed to these thirteen counties. Audit reports for four counties (Cole, Jefferson, Pettis and Platte) supported that the Equitable Sharing monies were audited; however, the audit reports or other documentation supporting that these monies were audited was not submitted to the SAO until requested as part of our audit work. The Franklin County audit reports were submitted to the SAO, but did not clearly indicate that the Equitable Sharing proceeds were audited.

Cities

Seventy-eight cities received Equitable Sharing proceeds during 1996 and/or 1997. Fifty-eight of these cities submitted audit reports to the SAO; however, only nineteen of the reports clearly indicated that the Equitable Sharing proceeds were audited. The St. Louis, Kansas City and Springfield police departments had separate forfeiture audits performed and submitted those audits to the SAO. These nineteen reports represented 86 percent of the Equitable Sharing proceeds distributed to these seventy-eight cities. Twenty cities did not submit audit reports to the SAO.

Task Forces

Eleven task forces received Equitable Sharing proceeds during 1996 and/or 1997. The Municipal Enforcement Group Against Drug Abuse and the Jackson County Drug Task Force had separate forfeiture audits performed and submitted the reports to the SAO. The Equitable Sharing proceeds received by the Bootheel Drug Task Force were audited as part of the SAO audit of Pemiscot County. These three reports represented only 13 percent of the Equitable Sharing distributions to these eleven task forces. The City of Richmond which manages the North Central Missouri Drug Task Force submitted an audit to the SAO, but it was not clear if the Equitable Sharing proceeds were audited. Seven task forces did not submit audit reports to the SAO.

Other

Three other law enforcement agencies received Equitable Sharing proceeds during 1996 and/or 1997. The audit reports for the cities of St. Louis and Kansas City were submitted to the SAO, but it was not clear if the Equitable Sharing monies received by the airport police departments and the St. Louis Circuit Attorney were audited.

It appears that the low level of compliance with this statutory requirement is related to the small amount of Equitable Sharing proceeds received by many of the jurisdictions. Fifty-one of the 105 law enforcement agencies included on Schedule C received less than $10,000 in Equitable Sharing proceeds during the two year period.

Another reason for the low compliance with this statutory requirement appears to be due to the current statute having no penalty provision for those law enforcement agencies that do not submit an audit report.

As the result of our review of compliance with Section 513.653, RSMo 1994 we have determined that:

- The SAO received audit reports from most city or county governments with law enforcement agencies that received Equitable Sharing proceeds; however, it was not always clear if the Equitable Sharing proceeds were audited. Most task forces did not submit audit reports. City or county governments with law enforcement agencies that received the majority of the Equitable Sharing proceeds distributed within the state submitted audit reports which clearly showed these monies were audited.

However, it is evident that:

- The statute does not consider that many agencies receive very little Equitable Sharing proceeds annually.

- The statute fails to include some type of penalty provision in the event a county, city or task force fails to submit the required audit report.

V - CAFA SEIZURE ACTIVITY

Summary of CAFA Seizure Activity

As part of our survey process as discussed in Section III and review of seizure reports filed by prosecutors with the Department of Public Safety (these reports are discussed later in this section) we obtained information regarding statewide seizure activity handled under the CAFA. The CAFA seizure activity for the three years ended December 31, 1998 was determined to be $7,004,547. The disposition of these seizures was determined to be:

Disposition of CAFA seizures		1998	1997	1996	Total	Percentage of Total
Distributed to Schools	$	446,467	492,897	520,682	1,460,046	20.8%
Transferred to Federal Authorities		786,343	600,081	453,668	1,840,092	26.3%
Pending or Returned to Defendant		1,963,438	757,763	983,208	3,704,409	52.9%
Total CAFA Seizures	$	3,196,248	1,850,741	1,957,558	7,004,547

As of the end of 1998, more than half of the total value of property seized during this three-year period was either still pending a final judgement or the property had been returned to the defendant. Some of the reason for the large percentage of open or failed CAFA proceedings may include:

1. CAFA proceedings on hold pending the results of criminal trials.

2. Prosecuting Attorneys settling CAFA cases prior to the completion of criminal trials with the defendant agreeing to forfeit a portion of the property (approximately 50 percent) in exchange for not challenging the seizure case.

3. CAFA proceeding being dismissed and the seized property being returned to the owner.

During this period, approximately a quarter of the total value of property seized was transferred to federal authorities. In order to analyze these transfers further we reviewed a portion of these transferred seizures.

Review of Seizures Transferred to Federal Authorities

We reviewed supporting documentation for 55 of 186 (30 percent) seizures that were transferred to federal authorities. We reviewed every seizure transfer identified from the prosecutor survey responses provided to us or noted on the seizure reports prosecutors filed with the Department of Public Safety except for the jurisdictions of Jackson County, St. Louis County and the city of St. Louis for which we selected only a portion of the transferred cases for review. The following table summarizes the results of the review:

Transfer Analysis	Number of Seizures		Amount Transferred
Seizure Probably Could Have Proceeded Under CAFA	30	$	422,549
Seizure Could Not Proceed Under CAFA	25		529,494
Total Reviewed	55	$	952,043

For thirty of the seizures, we noted that the transfer was approved by a prosecutor and Circuit Judge while the corresponding felony criminal case remained in a state court to be prosecuted. For eight of these thirty seizures representing $199,187 of the total dollar amount reviewed, a request from the law enforcement agency was one of the reasons indicated by the prosecutor on the order requesting the seizure to be transferred to federal authorities. For all thirty of these transfers, it appears a CAFA forfeiture proceeding would have been possible or could have continued; however, they appeared to comply with state transfer restrictions. These transfers will be further discussed in the next part of this section. For the other twenty-five seizures, state felony charges could not be filed or charges were dismissed and as a result any CAFA proceeding could not have continued.

Impact of CAFA Statutes on Seizure Activity

From our work analyzing law enforcement seizures occurring in the state, we identified that during the three years ended December 31, 1998 approximately $7 million in seizures were handled under the state CAFA process and approximately $40 million were handled under federal forfeiture laws (see Section VI). As part of our analysis we reviewed the statutes which comprise the CAFA to determine if they may be having any negative impact on the number of CAFA forfeiture cases being handled in the state. Based on our review of documentation obtained as part of the survey process, discussions with law enforcement officials, and other work performed, we identified the following issues which may lead to some seizures being handled by federal agencies:

Lack of a Definition of Seizure

Section 513.605, RSMo 1994 contains various definitions to be used when interpreting the CAFA. The section is silent, however, as to the definition of "seizure." During our seizure case review the point in time in which property is considered "seized" often came into question. Law enforcement officers will sometimes contact federal officers to come to crime scenes to "seize" property for federal forfeiture. The local officers do not consider the property to have been seized even though prior to this time they have detained a suspect and located monies or property which may or may not be forfeitable under the CAFA. Various state and federal court rulings have established definitions of "seizure" which may support differing viewpoints as to what point a seizure has occurred. The lack of a definition of "seizure" in the CAFA allows for differing interpretations on what property is subject to the CAFA and when a seizure takes place.

Restrictive Seizure Reporting and Petition Forfeiture Decision Time Limits

Section 513.607.5(2), RSMo 1994 sets the time limits that both a law enforcement officer seizing property and the county Prosecuting Attorney or state Attorney General must comply with for seizures to proceed under the CAFA. The statute allows the officer seizing the property four days to report a seizure to the Prosecuting Attorney in the county the seizure took place or to the state Attorney General. The statute also allows the prosecutors ten days from the reporting date to file a petition for forfeiture. Although the statute does not specifically state that these time limits are to apply to petitions for transfer, our discussions with attorneys in some Prosecuting Attorney offices indicated some judges require that the transfer documents be filed within ten days as well. Section 513.617.4, RSMo 1994 allows the ten day time limit to file a petition for forfeiture to be extended by order of the circuit court, for up to ten days for each order with the total extension not to exceed thirty days. Even with a possible filing extension, prosecutors may have to decide whether to file a petition for forfeiture or a petition to transfer a seizure to federal authorities prior to the case being fully investigated by law enforcement or all criminal charges decisions being made.

Our review of seizure statutes for five states (Illinois, Kansas, Iowa, Minnesota and Arkansas) indicated law enforcement officers and prosecutors in these states had less restrictive deadlines for reporting seizures and filing petitions for forfeiture.

Felony Criminal Conviction

Section 513.617.1, RSMo 1994 states that in the event criminal charges arising from the same activity giving rise to the CAFA proceeding are filed against any individual claiming an interest in the property such a CAFA proceeding shall be stayed by the court until the disposition of the criminal charges. This statute further states that in such cases, no property shall be forfeited unless the person charged is found guilty or pleads guilty to a felony offense substantially related to the forfeiture.

This statute was added to the CAFA in August 1993. The Missouri Court of Appeals of the Western District interpreted this stipulation in a 1997 appeal decision [State v. Sledd, 949 S.W.2d 643, 646 (Mo App. 1997)] as "the General Assembly's desire to restrain what it perceived to be overzealous use of federal and state forfeiture statutes." From our case review, it appears this change has significantly limited the number of seizures for which CAFA forfeiture can occur, but had little impact on the number of potential federal forfeiture cases.

A factor which may lead to seizures in the state being handled by federal authorities is the extent to which current CAFA laws limit the state's ability to forfeit money and property that can be proven to be linked to drug activity as set forth in Section 195.140.2(2), RSMo 1994. This statute states that in the event money or property is found in proximity to drugs the burden of proof falls on the owner of the property to rebut the presumption that the property is forfeitable. However, Section 195.140.2(2), RSMo 1994 is immediately negated by Section 195.140.2(3), RSMo 1994 which subjects any forfeiture case to the CAFA. The CAFA, in effect, transfers the burden of proof back to the state by requiring a felony conviction prior to forfeiture. The following case exemplifies how requiring a felony conviction prior to forfeiture limits the state's ability to forfeit money and property that can clearly be linked to drug activity.

An individual was stopped on February 11, 1997. He had in his possession 9.7 grams of methamphetamine, 23.2 grams of marijuana, various pieces of drug paraphernalia, a concealed semi-automatic handgun, $10,500 in cash in a duffle bag (separated into $500 increments) and $172 in cash on his person. This individual told officers that he was unemployed. He was arrested and charged with felony possession of a controlled substance and misdemeanor possession of drug paraphernalia. The individual had a history of narcotics involvement. On February 14, 1997, a petition for forfeiture under CAFA was filed against the $10,672 in cash. He was properly served notice of the proceeding on March 4, 1997 and never challenged it. A warrant was issued for his arrest after he failed to appear in court on these criminal charges.

On November 7, 1997, this individual died of injuries sustained in a methamphetamine lab explosion. The pending criminal cases were dismissed as a result of his death. The civil forfeiture case remained active. On January 21, 1998 his estate filed a Motion for Summary Judgement on the civil forfeiture case citing Section 513.645.6, RSMo 1994 which states that in the event the related criminal charges are dismissed that the civil forfeiture action shall also be dismissed. The motion also stated that since a felony conviction could never be obtained, the money should be returned. The Prosecuting Attorney argued for a summary judgement for forfeiture under Section 195.140, RSMo 1994, Missouri's drug enforcement statute, due to the money being found in close proximity to drugs.

On March 23, 1998 the court heard arguments on the estate's Motion for Summary Judgement and entered an order in the estate's favor. The court concluded that since no felony conviction could ever be obtained, the money and property could not be forfeited under the CAFA. The Prosecuting Attorney appealed the decision.

On May 25, 1999, the appellant court upheld the trial court's ruling. The court agreed with the state's argument that the currency was forfeitable under Section 195.140.2(2), RSMo 1994. However, the appellant court pointed out that since Section 195.140.2(3), RSMo 1994 is tied directly to the CAFA, the money could not be forfeited due to Section 513.617.1, RSMo 1994 requiring a felony conviction be obtained prior to forfeiture.

While this case is unique in that the defendant died prior to the conclusion of his criminal case, it exemplifies how the felony requirement limits the state's ability to forfeit property that can be linked to illegal activity. From our review of forfeiture cases we noted other types of cases where the felony requirement limited the state's ability to proceed with forfeiture cases:

1. We noted many instances where an individual, with a history in narcotics trafficking, was stopped carrying only large amounts of cash. The cash tested positive for narcotics residue, but no narcotics were found to charge the individual with felony possession or distribution under state law. Unless the individual disavows ownership interest in the monies which would possibly allow the seizure to proceed as an In Rem CAFA case (This issue is further discussed in Section VI), the seizure case could only proceed in federal court.

2. We also noted instances where the defendant was shown leniency by the prosecution in exchange for information or help in identifying other narcotics traffickers. In such situations the defendant may plead guilty to several misdemeanor charges to avoid a felony conviction. In these instances because a felony conviction will not occur, the prosecutor has the option of attempting to transfer the seizure to federal authorities or returning the property to the defendant.

3. Other types of cases noted involved defendants that have fled prosecution. Even though the defendant may have been properly served notice of the civil case and has never challenged the forfeiture, the civil forfeiture case in some jurisdictions remains open and on the court's docket, sometimes indefinitely pending the defendant's apprehension on an outstanding warrant and the eventual outcome of the criminal trial. This situation results from courts interpreting differently the requirement of a CAFA proceeding being stayed until disposition of a corresponding criminal case. Some courts require the CAFA case be stayed under any circumstance while others will allow a default judgement if a defendant who flees prosecution was given timely notice of the seizure and did not file a claim for return of the property.

Transfers to Federal Authorities

Section 513.647, RSMo 1994 allows property seized by state or local law enforcement agencies to be transferred to any federal agency for forfeiture under federal law following approval of the applicable county Prosecuting Attorney and Circuit Judge. The restrictions on approving a transfer were discussed in Section I.

Our review of seizure cases transferred to federal authorities previously discussed, indicated that for thirty of fifty-five (54.5 percent) cases reviewed, the corresponding criminal case remained in state courts to be prosecuted. Some of these transfers may have been necessitated by the expiration of the reporting or petition for forfeiture filing time limits noted above; however, except for such restrictions there appears to have been no need for these transfers to have occurred even though they were made in compliance with applicable CAFA requirements.

The statute is also silent regarding procedural aspects involving the transfer of a seizure case to federal authorities when the petition for transfer is denied. In several jurisdictions prosecutors indicated that in the event their petition for transfer was denied, the judge hearing the case would order the seized property be returned to the owner, thus, not allowing the case to proceed under the CAFA. The reason provided for these decisions was that the ten day time limit to file a CAFA petition had been exceeded. In at least one jurisdiction, judges allowed a denied petition for transfer to be amended to a CAFA petition, thus allowing the prosecutor to continue under the CAFA.

From our audit work performed, the following statutory issues may be negatively impacting the number of CAFA forfeiture proceedings taking place or being completed:

- Lack of a definition of "seizure".

- Restrictive time limits for reporting seizures to prosecutors and for prosecutors to make petition for forfeiture decisions.

- Lack of clear exceptions to the general rule requiring a felony criminal conviction or guilty plea for a property owner prior to the potential forfeiture of property seized to the criminal case.

- Subjective guidelines allowing seized property to be transferred to federal authorities and a lack of clear statutory guidance for handling a seizure when a federal transfer order is denied.

Prosecuting Attorney Seizure Report Submission Compliance

Section 517.607.7, RSMo 1994 requires each county Prosecuting Attorney and the state Attorney General to whom CAFA seizures are reported to file an annual report with the director of the Department of Public Safety (DPS) by the end of January for the previous calendar year's seizures.

For each of the three years ended December 31, 1998, we obtained information from the returned survey forms and reviewed the annual reports submitted to the DPS to compile the compliance results summarized on Schedule D. For calendar year 1998, the DPS received reports from 66 of 116 (57 percent) prosecutors. For calendar years 1996 and 1997, the compliance percentage was below 50 percent for each year.

Our survey results indicated twenty-five Prosecuting Attorneys who did not file reports with the DPS for 1998 seizure activity had no seizures reported to their offices for that year. Our review of the reports filed with the DPS for 1998 seizure activity indicated eleven Prosecuting Attorneys filed reports despite having no seizure activity reported to their offices. Based on these results, it appears the statute wording is unclear as to whether a report is to be filed in the event no seizures were reported to a Prosecuting Attorney during the previous calendar year. In addition, we noted the statute includes no penalty provision in the event a Prosecuting Attorney fails to submit the required report.

The statute requires the reports to include the date, time and place of the seizure; the property seized; the estimated value of the property; the person or persons from whom the property was seized; the criminal charges filed; and the disposition of the seizure, forfeiture and criminal actions; however, no standard report format is required. Most reports filed with the DPS were prepared using different formats which made reviewing and analyzing them more difficult. A standard report format should eliminate this problem and provide DPS officials with an easier means to compare the information submitted by each prosecutor. In many instances, the disposition of cases was noted as pending due to the cases not being adjudicated as of the report filing date. The statute does not require pending cases to carry forward to the subsequent year's report. Most of the reports did not contain any additional information regarding pending cases on reports filed in subsequent years. Therefore, anyone reviewing these public documents cannot determine the disposition of a previously pending case without contacting the prosecutor's office.

The statute is also unclear as to whether cases that have been transferred to federal authorities should be included on the reports filed. During our case analysis discussed previously, we reviewed seizure cases handled by twenty county Prosecuting Attorneys and the St. Louis Circuit Attorney that were transferred to federal authorities following a judge's approval. The reports filed for six of these twenty-one (29 percent) prosecutors did not always include seizure cases transferred to federal authorities. Discussions with some of these prosecutors indicated their interpretation of the statute was that these cases did not have to be reported.

In addition, the statute does not specify what the DPS is do with the reports. As a result, whatever benefit the legislature envisioned from the implementation of this reporting requirement may not be taking place.

As the result of our review of compliance with Section 513.607.7, RSMo 1994 we have determined that:

- Twenty-five prosecutors stated they did not file the required reports because they did not have seizure cases reported to them.

- Most prosecutors in jurisdictions involved in a significant amount of seizure activity appropriately filed reports.

However it is also evident that:

- The statute is unclear about whether a prosecutor must file a report if no seizures were reported to his or her office for the reporting period or whether cases transferred to federal authorities should be included on the report.

- The statute does not include some type of penalty provision in the event a prosecutor fails to submit the required seizure report to the DPS.

- The statute does not address in the reporting requirements that the disposition of criminal and forfeiture cases related to seizures may take more than a year.

- The statute does not provide the DPS the authority to establish a required standard reporting format or address what the DPS is do with the reports which are submitted.

VI - FEDERAL SEIZURE ACTIVITY

Summary of Federal Agency Seizure Activity

As part of our survey process as discussed in Section III and review of the documentation provided by the Department of Justice and the Department of the Treasury, we obtained information regarding seizures handled by federal agencies that were participated in by Missouri law enforcement agencies. The total federal agency handled seizure activity for the three years ended December 31, 1998 was determined to be:

Federal Seizures		1998	1997	1996	Total
St. Louis and Kansas City Airport Seizures	$	3,264,837	2,515,294	2,416,575	8,196,706
Other Seizures		14,400,554	9,475,513	7,976,889	31,852,956
Grand Total	$	17,665,391	11,990,807	10,393,464	40,049,662

To prevent the same seizures from being counted more than once due to law enforcement agencies participating on the same seizure case, we deleted identified duplicate seizures from the overall seizure totals obtained from the survey responses. Seizures at airports would be inherently federal cases due to the multi-state nature of activities occurring at them, as well as, Federal Aviation Administration oversight. Such seizures represented 21 percent of all federal agency handled seizures during the three years reviewed. In addition, in most cases (85 percent or more) the individual the monies were seized from committed no chargeable felony crime under Missouri law and a CAFA proceeding in most cases would be unlikely.

Many local law enforcement agencies have officers that are detached to federal task forces. The task forces are often established to allow the officers to perform their duties in multiple jurisdictions. Section 513.649 RSMo 1994 requires property seized by state or local law enforcement officers who are detached to or working in conjunction with federal agencies to be subject to the CAFA. Often these officers may be working cases on which seizures take place where the actual "seizure" is made by a federal agent assigned to the task force. Each law enforcement agency with officers detached to the task force will participate in the Equitable Sharing of these proceeds even if the detached officers were not part of the case that resulted in the seizure. As noted in Section V the point at which a seizure occurs is often open to interpretation. Based on our review of local law enforcement case files involving seizures handled by task forces it was often unclear whether a detached local law enforcement officer or a federal agent handled the seizure. Due to the fact that detached local law enforcement officers could be subject to conflicting state and federal regulations when conducting a seizure it is unclear whether federal or state forfeiture statutory requirements should take precedence.

To evaluate the circumstances which led to some of the federal agency controlled seizures we reviewed the case documentation for some of them at several local law enforcement agencies.

Federal Forfeiture Case Analysis

We selected cases at the following law enforcement agencies for review: Kansas City Police Department, St. Louis Police Department, St. Louis County Police Department, St. Charles County Regional Drug Task Force, Piedmont Police Department, Hickory County Sheriff's Department and the State Highway Patrol. We also attempted to review seizure case documentation at the Boone County Sheriff's Department and the Mid-Missouri Unified Strike Team and Narcotics Group (MUSTANG) task force, but were denied access to records by these organizations. We selected primarily for review law enforcement agencies which received a significant amount of Equitable Sharing proceeds identified from our work in Section IV. We also selected some other agencies in order to obtain a better understanding of seizure activity at jurisdictions which received a limited amount of Equitable Sharing proceeds. The results of the case review are summarized in the following table:

Federal Forfeiture Case Analysis

Law Enforcement Agency	Seizures Controlled by Federal Agency: Federal Agency Case	Seizures Controlled by Federal Agency: Local Law Enforcement Case	Transferred to Federal Agency With Court Approval	Total		Value of Seizures Reviewed
Kansas City Police Department	25	13	0	38	$	1,998,404
St. Charles County Regional Drug Task force	1	7	2	10		142,656
St. Louis County Police Department	20	0	4	24		1,092,100
St. Louis Police Department	16	4	0	20		1,898,053
State Highway Patrol	1	7	0	8		5,978,980
Piedmont Police Department	0	1	0	1		15,418
Hickory County Sheriff's Department	0	1	2	3		38,775
Totals	63	33	8	104	$	11,164,386
Percentage of Total	60.6%	31.7%	7.7%

If the case the seizure resulted from was initiated or controlled by a federal agency or federal task force, the seizure was classified as a "Federal Agency Case." The following table breaks down the cases classified in this manner:

Federal Forfeiture Case Analysis - Federal Agency Cases

Law Enforcement Agency	Airport DEA	Post Office	Seizure Made Federal		Total Cases		Value
Kansas City Police Department	13	1	8	3	25	$	1,476,320
St. Charles MEG Unit	0	0	0	1	1		35,000
St. Louis County Police Department	12	3	2	3	20		1,067,200
St. Louis Police Department	4	0	1	11	16		1,619,013
Missouri State Highway Patrol	0	0	0	1	1		3,830
Totals	29	4	11	19	63	$	4,201,363

Based on our review of these case files we identified that a federal agency initiated the case which resulted in the eventual seizure and federal task forces were involved in the investigations. It was sometimes unclear based on the case information whether any detached local law enforcement officers were involved in the seizure activity. If a detached officer made any of these seizures, it appears that they should have been reported to the county Prosecuting Attorney; however, it is likely these seizure cases would be transferred in accordance with Section 513.647 RSMo 1994 to federal authorities involved in the case investigation and prosecution.

If the case the seizure resulted in was controlled or initiated by a local law enforcement agency the seizure was classified as "Local Law Enforcement Case." The following table breaks down the cases classified in this manner:

Federal Forfeiture Case Analysis - Local Law Enforcement Cases

	Seizure Not Reported to County PA
	In Rem	CAFA	CAFA	Seizure
Law Enforcement Agency					Total Cases	Value
Kansas City Police Department	0	6	7	0	13	$ 522,084
St. Charles MEG Unit	0	3	4	0	7	89,646
St. Louis County Police Department	0	0	0	0	0	0
St. Louis Police Department	0	2	2	0	4	279,040
Missouri State Highway Patrol	3	2	1	1	7	5,975,150
Piedmont Police Department	0	0	1	0	1	15,418
Hickory County Sheriff	0	1	0	0	1	4,375
Totals	3	14	15	1	33	$ 6,885,713

For thirty-two of these thirty-three cases, the seizure was not reported by a local law enforcement officer to a county Prosecuting Attorney or the Attorney General prior to federal authorities being called to seize the property. The prosecutors were not given the opportunity to determine how to proceed with these potential forfeiture cases. To ensure county Prosecuting Attorneys are aware of all law enforcement agencies participating in seizure activity, these agencies should be required to notify the county Prosecuting Attorney of any Equitable Sharing requests made by those agencies.

For fourteen of these cases which are classified as "CAFA Forfeiture Proceeding Possible" a felony state charge was possible based on the violations noted in the case file which would have allowed for the initiation of a CAFA proceeding. This conclusion was made whether or not the corresponding criminal case was eventually prosecuted in federal court. These seizures could have resulted in CAFA proceedings, but other circumstances may have prevented those proceedings from being completed. The total value of these fourteen seizures was $282,052. For fifteen of these cases which are classified as "CAFA Forfeiture Proceeding Unlikely" a state felony charge was not possible based on the violations noted in the case file and there was no indication in the file if the individual the property was seized from disclaimed ownership interest in it which may have allowed the seizure to be handled under an In Rem CAFA proceeding (explained further in the next part of this section). The total value of these fifteen seizures was $3,662,376. For three of these seizures which are classified as "In Rem CAFA Forfeiture Proceeding Possible" a state felony charge was not possible based on the violations noted in the case file; however, the individual the property was seized from disclaimed ownership interest in it which would have allowed the seizure to be handled under an In Rem CAFA proceeding (explained further in the next part of this section). The total value of these three seizures was $2,899,285. One seizure took place in the state of Michigan related to a joint operation of the Missouri and Michigan State Highway Patrols and was controlled by the Michigan Highway Patrol.

Use of In Rem CAFA Proceedings

For many potential seizures in the state, the individual in possession of the property cannot be charged with a felony crime. In general, these seizures could not proceed under the CAFA because a felony conviction or plea cannot occur. In some instances the individual in possession of the property disavows any ownership interest in it. Under these circumstances the property may be considered abandoned or unclaimed which could allow it to be subject to a state In Rem CAFA proceeding. The outcome of such a case is largely dependent on whether this individual or someone else claims ownership of the property. Until recently, it does not appear that county Prosecuting Attorneys and the state Attorney General had viewed In Rem CAFA proceedings as a viable option for narcotics related seizures due to the doubt about the outcome of the proceedings. However, in January 1999, the state Attorney General's office prosecuted an In Rem CAFA proceeding based on monies seized by the State Highway Patrol after a vehicle stop and search for which the driver disavowed any ownership interest in the monies. The case was decided in the state's favor in May 1999.

During our review of seizure cases at the various local law enforcement agencies, we noted that the agents of some local offices of federal agencies or federal task forces have developed a generic form which they attempt to get individuals to sign if they disavow any ownership interest in monies subject to federal seizure. The form used often indicates that by signing it the individual waives his or her right to notice of seizure of this currency and does not have the right to file a petition for return of the currency since it does not belong to him or her. It appears such forms are used by federal agencies to improve the favorable decision rate regarding federal seizure cases. If a similar form were used by Missouri law enforcement agencies the success rate for narcotics related In Rem CAFA proceedings may be enhanced and concerns of prosecutors regarding case outcomes lessoned or alleviated.

For our analysis of federal seizure cases, we classified three seizures as "In Rem CAFA Forfeiture Proceeding Possible." It appears these seizures could have been handled as In Rem CAFA proceedings similar to the January 1999 seizure noted above, but were not because prosecutors and law enforcement agencies apparently did not consider this option as a viable forfeiture method at the time the seizures took place.

- It appears that under the current CAFA requirements, the number of potential CAFA forfeiture proceedings could be increased through expanded use of In Rem CAFA proceedings. This might occur if a standard form was developed for law enforcement officers to use that individuals could be asked to sign if they disavowed ownership interest in monies subject to forfeiture.

AUDIT REPORT

Office Of The
State Auditor Of Missouri
Claire McCaskill

October 1999

FACT SHEET

Some problems were discovered as a result of an audit conducted by our office in response to the request of petitioners from the Camden Point Fire Protection District, Platte County, Missouri.

It appears the board has not always provided documents requested by citizens to those individuals in a timely manner. In one instance, documents requested in November 1997 were not provided until January 1998. In another instance, information requested in September 1998 was not provided until January 1999.

The board met periodically for work sessions for various purposes. It appears that the board believed these meetings were not subject to the provisions of Missouri's open meetings law, therefore, these sessions were not posted nor were minutes maintained. However, it appears these sessions generally included an initial review, discussion and coding of expenses incurred by the district prior to being sent to the accountant for payment. Such activities constitute matters which should be handled in public meetings.

In November 1998, the board enacted a formal policy regarding public access to district records. This policy provided that the person requesting such records would be responsible for the costs of producing and copying the records and that the custodian of records would be paid $50 per hour for the time spent responding to such requests. The $50 per hour charge was subsequently reduced to $25 per hour. Considering the work involved in producing and copying records is typically clerical in nature, the $25 per hour charge may still be excessive and have the effect of discouraging information requests.

The board has not ensured that board members are notified when their term expires or that the proper board member has run for reelection. As a result, in April 1997, one board member ran for reelection even though it was another board member's term which was due to expire. In addition, the board has not ensured the public is given timely notice of upcoming board elections or allowed the public the required amount of time in filing for office. For both the April 1997 and April 1995 elections, the board failed to publish timely notices of the open position and upcoming election as defined by state law. Possibly because of the manner in which the election notices were handled, the respective board members running for reelection ran without opposition in both of these elections.

The board entered into lease-purchase agreements to finance the construction or purchase of the fire station building and district vehicles. These lease-purchase agreements include provisions that impose a substantial fee for termination of the agreements, effectively eliminating the board's ability to terminate the agreements. If the board had terminated the leases at the end of 1998, the termination fees on the building and vehicle leases would have totaled $137,147. In comparison, the principal balance on the two leases totaled $175,671, at that time. Considering the extent of the termination fees, it is apparent the termination provisions would never be exercised. It appears the board has effectively entered into long-term debt without a vote of the district's taxpayers, which is required by the Missouri Constitution.

The district's sales tax exemption was used to make purchases totaling about $1,100, by or on behalf of private entities or individuals. While the district was reimbursed for the cost of the items, those entities/individuals avoided paying sales tax on these purchases. Although district officials indicated these purchases were not made to avoid paying sales taxes, the sales tax exemption should not be used to benefit private entities or individuals.

The board approved expenditures in excess of the approved budget for 1997 and 1998, and the budgets did not include all required and necessary information. In addition, the district has not always filed an annual financial report with the State Auditor's office as required.

It appears the board failed to adequately follow up on the refund of a $500 deposit made on a fire truck being considered for purchase and, as a result, did not receive the refund in a timely manner. Travel expenditures made from a cash advance for district representatives sent to inspect the truck were not adequately documented and the remaining funds were not accounted for fully.

The board has contracted with a private accountant to handle its bookkeeping duties, but the district performs no independent review or oversight related to the records or duties of this accountant. The board did not document its approval of all expenditures made by the district, and the check register of the district was not maintained accurately. The board did not retain all voided checks, and no financial report was available to the board at various board meetings.

CLAIRE C. McCASKILL
Missouri State Auditor

To the Board of Directors
Camden Point Fire Protection District
Platte County, Missouri

The State Auditor was petitioned under Section 29.230, RSMo, to audit the Camden Point Fire Protection District, Platte County, Missouri. The fire protection district had engaged Karlin and Unger, Certified Public Accountants, (CPA firm), to perform a financial audit of the district for the year ended December 31, 1998. To minimize any duplication of effort, we reviewed the report and substantiating working papers of the CPA firm. Our audit of the fire protection district included, but was not limited to, the year ended December 31, 1998. The objectives of this audit were to:

1. Perform procedures we deemed necessary to evaluate the petitioners' concerns.

2. Review compliance with certain constitutional provisions, statutes, and attorney general's opinions as we deemed necessary or appropriate in the circumstances.

3. Review certain management practices which we believe could be improved.

Our audit was made in accordance with generally accepted government auditing standards and included such procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances. We also reviewed board minutes, policies, and various fire protection district financial records.

Our audit was limited to the specific matters described above and was based on selective tests and procedures considered appropriate in the circumstances. Had we performed additional procedures, other information might have come to our attention which would have been included in this report.

The accompanying History and Organization is presented for informational purposes. This information was obtained from the fire protection district and was not subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audit of the fire protection district.

MANAGEMENT ADVISORY REPORT SECTION

CAMDEN POINT FIRE PROTECTION DISTRICT
PLATTE COUNTY, MISSOURI
SUMMARY OF FINDINGS

1. Board Meetings and Records (pages 8-11)

Some activity conducted by the board in work sessions appears to be activity which is limited to open meetings. A tentative agenda of matters to be discussed in the regular board meetings is not posted. Minutes were not generally maintained for closed meetings, the purpose for the closed session or the related vote was not always disclosed, and a topic was discussed in a closed meeting which did not appear to be for a purpose allowed by law. The board has not always provided documents requested in a timely manner and the board's established charge for document research may not be reasonable.

2. District Elections (pages 11-12)

In April 1997, one board member ran for reelection although another board member's term had actually expired. In addition, the board has not provided the public with timely notice of pending elections or allowed the proper amount of time for filing.

3. Expenditures (pages 12-15)

Original invoices were not retained to support some expenditures and some invoices/bills were not paid in a timely manner. District monies were expended for items which were not necessary to operate the district. Charges incurred for personal telephone calls made from district telephones were paid by the district and not reimbursed. The district's sales tax exemption was used to purchase items for private entities and individuals, thereby avoiding sales tax.

4. Purchase of Fire Truck (pages 15-16)

The board failed to follow up on the refund of a $500 deposit made on a fire truck being considered for purchase and, as a result, did not receive the refund in a timely manner. Travel expenditures made from a cash advance were not adequately documented and the remaining funds were not accounted for fully.

5. Lease Purchase Agreements (page 17)

The board entered into lease purchase agreements to finance the construction or purchase of the fire station building and district vehicles. These lease purchase agreements include provisions that impose a substantial fee for termination of the agreements, effectively eliminating the agreements' annual renewal option.

6. Budgetary Practices and Financial Reporting (pages 18-19)

The board approved expenditures in excess of the approved budget for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, and the budgets did not include all required and necessary information. In addition, the district has not always filed an annual financial report with the State Auditor's office as required.

7. Accounting Controls and Procedures (pages 19-21)

The board has contracted with a private accountant to handle its bookkeeping duties, but the district performs no independent review or oversight related to the records or duties of this accountant. The board did not document its approval of all expenditures made by the district, and the check register of the district was not maintained accurately. The board did not retain all voided checks, and no financial report was available to the board at various board meetings.

1. Board Meetings and Records

A. During the audit period, it appears the board met periodically for work sessions for various purposes. It appears that the board believed these meetings were not subject to the provisions of Chapter 610, RSMo, the open meetings law. As a result, these sessions were not posted nor were minutes maintained.

According to board members, these sessions generally included an initial review and discussion of expenses incurred by the district and a determination of how expenditures should be coded prior to being sent to their accountant for payment. It appears that such activities constitute matters discussed or actions taken by the board which should be conducted in public meetings.

Section 610.010, RSMo Cum. Supp. 1998, indicates that any meeting of a public governmental body at which any public business is discussed, decided, or public policy formulated is subject to the provisions of the open meetings law. While informal gatherings of a governmental body for ministerial or social purposes do not constitute public meetings, it appears the activity conducted in the work sessions as discussed above should be handled in public meetings.

Assuming these work sessions constitute public meetings, the requirements of Chapter 610, RSMo, apply, including the requirement to post the meetings and the preparation of minutes documenting any actions taken or decisions made at the meetings. In addition, considering the limited activity and operations of the district, the need for any work sessions should be minimal.

B. The board holds regular meetings on the fourth Monday of each month. Notice of the regular board meetings is continuously posted at the fire station; however a tentative agenda indicating what is to be discussed at the monthly board meeting is not posted as required. Section 610.020, RSMo Cum. Supp. 1998, requires a tentative agenda to be included in the notice posted for an upcoming meeting.

C. The board conducted business in closed meetings on various occasions. Section 610.021, RSMo Cum. Supp. 1998, allows the board to discuss certain subjects in closed meetings, including litigation, real estate transactions, and personnel matters. During our review of this area, the following concerns were noted:

1) Minutes were not generally maintained to document matters discussed during the closed meetings. In the absence of closed meeting minutes, there is no evidence the closed discussions or business related to the specific reason(s) announced for closing the meeting. In addition, although minutes for closed meetings are not specifically required by law, minutes constitute the record of the proceedings of the board. Failure to maintain such minutes results in an inadequate record of district transactions, proceedings, and decisions.

2) When the board closed its meetings, the minutes did not always indicate the reason(s) for closing the meeting or the related vote for closing the meeting. Section 610.022, RSMo Cum. Supp. 1998, requires that before any meeting may be closed, the question of holding the closed meeting shall be voted on at an open session. The vote and the specific reason listed in Chapter 610, RSMo, for holding the closed meeting should be entered into the regular meeting minutes.

3) In one instance a topic discussed in a closed meeting did not appear to meet the criteria outlined in Section 610.021, RSMo Cum. Supp. 1998. The board discussed and approved a contract for dispatching services with the Platte County Sheriff in a closed session in September 1998. The board should restrict the discussion in closed sessions to the specific topics listed in Chapter 610, RSMo.

D. It appears the board has not always provided documents requested by citizens to those individuals in a timely manner. We noted one instance where an individual requested documents in writing on November 25, 1997; however, some of this information was not provided until January 1998. In another instance, on September 28, 1998, this same individual requested additional information from the district but it was not provided until January 1999.

Section 610.023.3, RSMo Cum. Supp. 1998, states, "Each request for access to a public record shall be acted upon as soon as possible, but in no event later than the end of the third business day following the date the request is received...The period for document production may exceed three days for reasonable cause."

Board members indicated that there were various reasons why these documents had not been released, including some confusion regarding the items requested, the fact that some of the documents were kept off-site, and (in the case of the latter request) that the board had not developed a formal policy regarding public access to district records. However, the reasons given by the board do not appear to adequately explain or justify the delay in producing these documents.

E. On November 23, 1998, the board enacted a formal policy regarding public access to district records. This policy provided that the person requesting such records would be responsible for the costs of producing and copying the records and that the custodian of records would be paid $50 per hour for the time spent responding to such requests. The $50 per hour charge was subsequently reduced to $25 per hour. Considering the work involved in producing and copying records is typically clerical in nature, the $25 per hour charge may still be excessive and have the effect of discouraging information requests.

Section 610.026, RSMo Cum. Supp. 1998, allows the board to prescribe reasonable fees for providing access to or furnishing copies of public records, not to exceed the actual cost of document search and duplication. The board should reevaluate the current hourly fee and ensure that fee and any others are reasonable, do not exceed actual costs, and are consistent with the spirit and intent of the applicable statute.

WE RECOMMEND the Board of Directors:

A. Ensure activity required to be conducted in open meetings is handled in accordance with the provisions of Chapter 610, RSMo. This would include board's reviews, discussion, and approval of expenses incurred by the district. In addition, the board should review the need for work sessions considering the limited operations of the district.

B. Ensure the notices posted advising the public of upcoming meetings include tentative agendas as required by state law.

C.1) Ensure that minutes are maintained for closed meetings.

2) Ensure that the regular minutes document the vote to go into closed session and state the reason(s) for doing so as required by state law.

3) Ensure any matters discussed in closed meetings are limited only to those subjects specifically allowed by state law.

D. Ensure that documents requested by citizens are provided to those individuals in a timely manner as required.

E. Reevaluate the hourly fee related to document requests and ensure any fees charged are reasonable, do not exceed actual costs, and are consistent with the spirit and intent of the applicable statutes.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

A. The Board of Directors concurs and indicated it has taken action to address this situation.

B,C.1. &C.2. The Board of Directors concurs and indicated these recommendations have already been implemented.

C.3. The Board of Directors indicated it would ensure that only appropriate matters are discussed in closed session; however, those members who were on the board at the time believe that the instance cited in this finding met the legal criteria for it to be discussed in closed session.

D&E. The Board of Directors concurs.

2. District Elections

During a review of district elections and the related procedures, the following concerns were noted:

A. The board has not ensured that board members are notified when their terms expire or that the proper board member has run for reelection. As a result, in April 1997, Board Member Folck ran for reelection even though it was Board Member McDaniel's term which was due to expire. Board Member Folck's term was actually due to expire in April 1999. This error was brought to the attention of the board in August 1998, and subsequently Board Member McDaniel was reappointed to the board until the April 1999 election.

To ensure the integrity of the election process, procedures should be established to ensure that the board members are advised when their terms are due to expire and that the proper board member runs for reelection, if applicable.

B. The board has not ensured the public is given timely notice of upcoming board elections or allowed the public the required amount of time in filing for office. Section 115.127.5, RSMo 1994, provided that the political subdivision or special district calling an election was required to notify the general public by a newspaper publication of the upcoming election before the thirteenth Tuesday prior to any election of the office(s) to be filled. In addition, that statute provided that candidates for office could file for office from the thirteenth Tuesday prior to the election to the ninth Tuesday prior to the election.

For both the April 1997 and April 1995 elections, the board failed to publish timely notices of the open position and upcoming election as defined by Section 115.127.5, RSMo 1994. The notices were published 2 and 16 days later than the statutory deadline for the 1997 and 1995 elections, respectively. In addition, although that statute provided that potential candidates were allowed four weeks to file for office, the notices published earlier closing dates and allowed only 6 days and 13 days to file for the 1997 and 1995 elections, respectively. Possibly because of the manner in which the election notices were handled, the respective board members running for reelection ran without opposition in both of these elections.

It should be noted that Section 115.127.5, RSMo, was revised effective August 1997, and the district is now required to give published notice of an upcoming election before the fifteenth Tuesday prior to the election and that candidates are to be allowed to file for the office from the fifteenth Tuesday to the eleventh Tuesday prior to the election. It appears the district made a more concerted effort to follow the provisions of the law prior to the April 1999 election. Although the notice was published two days later than the statutory deadline, the publication indicated a four week period for filing as required.

WE RECOMMEND the Board of Directors:

A. Ensure board members are notified when their terms are about to expire and that the proper board member runs for reelection, if applicable.

B. Ensure that notice of upcoming board elections is published in a timely manner and candidates are given adequate time to file for office in accordance with the applicable statute.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

A&B. The Board of Directors concurs; however, the board indicated this situation occurred partly because of a change in the county's classification which resulted in the board becoming responsible for election-related matters which had previously been handled by the county.

3. Expenditures

A. Original invoices were not retained to support some disbursements. Examples of instances where invoices were not retained included charge tickets for fuel and purchases made from Sam's Club. In addition, we noted several instances where expenses incurred by board members on behalf of the district were supported only by an expense reimbursement form, with no supporting documentation attached. For example, a computer purchased for $2,464 was supported only by an expense reimbursement form.

To ensure all purchases made from district funds are appropriate expenditures and are adequately documented, original invoices should be maintained to support all disbursements.

B. Several instances were noted where invoices were not paid in a timely manner. For example, we noted that in October 1997, a bill from Sam's Club was not paid by the applicable deadline. As a result, a $10 late payment fee was assessed. Procedures should be adopted by the district to ensure the timely payment of invoices/bills.

C. The district spent $909, $374, and $779 during the years ended December 31, 1998, 1997 and 1996, respectively, on annual firefighter banquets, children's Christmas gifts, and flowers for the funerals of former firefighters and board members' families.

These disbursements do not appear to be necessary or prudent uses of public funds. Expenditures such as these could be funded through a firefighters' contribution fund or association. The district's residents have placed a fiduciary trust in their public officials to spend tax revenues and fees in a necessary and prudent manner.

D. The district spent approximately $732 and $924 during the years ended December 31, 1997 and 1996, respectively, for charges related to the district cellular telephone. According to the board, this cellular telephone was used primarily by Board Member Wright during this period. During our review of the cellular telephone bills, we noted personal calls totaling $89 and $82 during 1997 and 1996, respectively, which were paid for by the district. When we discussed this matter with Board Member Wright, he indicated that he had used the cellular phone to make personal calls while traveling on district business; however, he indicated that he had offered to repay the district for these calls. According to him, the board did not require him to reimburse the district for the cost of these calls. In addition, besides the personal calls made from the cellular phone, we also noted similar personal calls of a lesser amount made from the telephone at the fire station.

The payment of telephone charges related to personal calls made by district officials/personnel does not appear to be a necessary or prudent use of district funds. The board should ensure any charges related to personal calls made on district telephones are repaid by the applicable individuals.

The cellular phone was installed in one of the district's vehicles in 1998, and we did not note any similar problems in that year.

E. We noted instances where the district's sales tax exemption was used to make purchases by or on behalf of private entities or individuals. Although the district was subsequently reimbursed for the cost of those items which were initially paid for by the district, those entities/individuals effectively avoided paying sales tax on these purchases. The instances noted include the following:

1) In December 1996, Board Member McDaniel purchased a computer and related equipment for the district office on a personal credit card. Included with this purchase were also items he purchased for his personal use costing $549. The entire purchase was made using the district's tax exemption.

2) In August 1996, supplies costing $46 were purchased for a political organization using the district's charge account.

3) District officials indicated that they encourage the firefighters to buy personal items from district suppliers to get discounts given to the district. In June 1997, we noted a firefighter ordered tires costing $544 from a district supplier which were initially paid for by the district.

Even though district officials indicated these purchases were not made to avoid paying sales taxes, a sales tax exemption granted to a political subdivision should not be used to benefit private entities or individuals. Doing so is a violation of the sales tax exemption letter.

WE RECOMMEND the Board of Directors:

A. Ensure all disbursements are supported by paid receipts and/or vendor-provided invoices and other supporting documentation.

B. Develop procedures to ensure that all invoices/bills are paid in a timely manner.

C. Limit expenditures to only those necessary to properly operate the district.

D. Ensure the costs of any personal calls made on district telephones are reimbursed by the applicable individuals.

E. Ensure the sales tax exemption of the district is not used for the benefit of private entities or individuals.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

A&B. The Board of Directors concurs and has taken steps to implement these recommendations.

C. The Board of Directors will take this recommendation under consideration.

D. The Board of Directors will review this situation and establish a policy related to this area.

Board Chairman Wright provided the following response:

The audit draws attention to personal calls I made using the district's cellular and office telephones. Over two years, this amounted to $171, or $7.12 per month, on the cellular phone. Calls on the district's office phone involved even less money. There are several points I would like to make about this:

1) As is indicated in the audit report, I offered to compensate the district for those calls. That offer was refused by the Board of Directors. The reason for the board's refusal requires some explanation. During the period of time in question, I was volunteering enormous amounts of time toward efforts to upgrade the district's fire apparatus and resolve some complex insurance issues (one of which involved a chemical spill on I-29 to which the district responded). I was, in essence, working full time for the district as a volunteer.

Much of this work required local and out-of-district travel. While traveling, I would occasionally check-in with my family. I was also receiving some free legal advice on some of the insurance issues from my daughter-in-law who is an attorney. As is known by the board, I was reimbursed for far less than half my out-of-pocket costs for this travel. So when I offered to compensate the board for the personal use of the cellular phone, this offer was refused as a small token of appreciation for the time and travel expenses I was volunteering to the district.

In retrospect, I should have detailed the travel costs, deducted the small amount of the personal use of the cellular phone, and shown the balance as a donation to the district. But the point here is simple: because I was saving the district literally thousands of dollars, the board refused to accept my payment for the cellular phone expenses because of its appreciation for this work.

2) There was an implication in the audit report that all the personal calls on the district's office phone were mine. That is far from true. During the time in question, the district's policy was that all volunteers working for the district could use the office phone for personal calls while they were donating their time and efforts at the fire station. As the audit clearly indicates, there has never been abuse of this privilege by me or any of the other district volunteers. Again, while this may not have been the technically correct approach, it only seems to be the right thing to do given the vast number of hours and out-of-pocket dollars these volunteers have donated to the district.

E. The Board of Directors concurs.

Board Chairman Wright provided the following response:

The audit makes some reference to a $46 purchase made for a political organization using the district's tax exempt status at a local discount store. This was an inadvertent mistake that I made while working for the Platte County Democratic Party. I brought this mistake to the attention of the district's auditing firm and financial officer to make sure all appropriate corrective steps were taken. Obviously this mistake did not cost the district one cent. Just for the record, I wanted to make it clear that actions were taken to correct this mistake beginning literally the day after the mistake was made and long before the state audit or even discussions of a state audit.

4. Purchase of Fire Truck

During 1996, the board decided to purchase a used fire truck to replace an aged truck that no longer met the department's needs. While looking through publications, board officials located a truck in Louisiana which interested them. As a result, the board decided to send one board member and two other district personnel to inspect this truck. The following concerns were noted during our review of this situation:

A. Prior to these three people leaving for Louisiana, the board contacted the company selling the truck to express its interest. This company indicated that it could not guarantee the fire truck would be there when the district's representatives arrived unless a deposit was provided. As a result, the board sent the company a $500 deposit on the truck. Once the district's representatives inspected the truck, the district decided not to buy it because it was flood damaged.

   Board officials indicated they attempted to secure a refund of this deposit; however, they were unsuccessful in doing so. During our review, we contacted the applicable company and were told that a $500 refund check had been issued to the district in January 1997, but the check had never cleared. The company indicated the refund check would be reissued if it received a written request from the district. After we brought this matter to the attention of the district, such a request was submitted and the $500 refund was received in May 1999.

   It appears the board did not do an adequate job of following up on this refund. Had it done so, the refund would have been received in a much more timely manner.

B. A $1,500 cash advance was provided to the district's representatives to pay for the expenses relating to the trip to Louisiana. Upon returning from the trip, receipts totaling $543 were presented; however, $127 in additional costs claimed were supported only by handwritten notes. In addition, $740 was returned and deposited into the district's account, leaving $90 unaccounted for.

   All cash advances should have documentation to support the validity and reasonableness of travel costs incurred and any unspent monies should be promptly returned to the district.

WE RECOMMEND the Board of Directors:

A. Ensure any monies due the district are aggressively pursued in the future.

B. Ensure the expenses related to any travel advances are fully and adequately accounted for and any remaining funds are returned to the district.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

A. The Board of Directors concurs with the recommendation; however, those members who were on the board at the time believe adequate efforts were made to recover the deposit. Such efforts will be documented better in the future.

B. The Board of Directors concurs.

5. Lease Purchase Agreements

In March 1990, the board entered into a lease-purchase agreement for the fire station building. The agreement essentially served to provide $55,000 in financing to construct the building. The agreement provided for annual lease terms, renewable for up to a maximum of twenty years. Similarly, in March 1997, the board entered into a lease-purchase agreement for three vehicles, including a newly acquired fire truck. This agreement provided $158,502 in financing, with annual lease terms renewable for up to a maximum period of ten years.

While these lease purchase agreements contain provisions allowing the board to cancel the respective leases annually, each of the agreements requires the district to pay a significant termination fee if the district terminates the lease prior to the purchase of the property. If the board had terminated the leases at December 31, 1998, the termination fees on the building and vehicle leases would have been $38,350 and $98,797, respectively. In comparison, the principal balance on the two leases totaled $175,671, at that date. Considering the extent of the termination fees, it is apparent the termination provisions would not ever be exercised. It appears the board has effectively entered into long-term debt without a vote of the district's taxpayers.

Article VI, Section 26(a) of the Missouri Constitution provides that no political subdivision of the state shall become indebted in an amount exceeding in any year the income and revenue provided for such a year plus any unencumbered balances from previous years. Article VI, Section 26(b) of the Missouri Constitution allows political subdivisions to incur debt by bond issue, but only after approval of two-thirds of the qualified voters of that political subdivision.

It is not uncommon for political subdivisions in the state to acquire buildings and equipment through lease purchase arrangements. However, the termination fee provisions of these two agreements are not common provisions in agreements of this nature and appear to effectively eliminate the district's ability to terminate the agreements.

WE RECOMMEND the Board of Directors consider the constitutional debt restrictions when entering into any future lease purchase agreements. Any such agreement should be structured to provide a annual termination clause that is not effectively voided by another provision(s) of the agreement.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The Board of Directors concurs.

6. Budgetary Practices And Financial Reporting

A. It appears that the board has not periodically compared actual expenditures to amounts budgeted. As a result, during the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, the board approved expenditures of $8,412 and $3,256, respectively, in excess of budgeted amounts. The board did not amend the district's budgets for these excess expenditures.

Section 67.040, RSMo 1994, requires the board to keep expenditures within the budgetary limits unless the board adopts a resolution setting forth the facts and reasons for the excess expenditures. In addition, for the Board of Directors to have an accurate assessment of the district's financial activity, and to allow for timely adjustment to budgets or anticipated activities, the board should periodically review the actual revenues and expenditures and compare them with budgeted amounts.

A similar condition was reported by the fire protection district's independent auditors.

B. The budgets approved by the board do not include all required and necessary information as follows:

1) The district budgets do not include a budget message, the beginning cash balance or the projected ending cash balance for district funds.

2) The budgets do not include a comparative statement of actual or estimated receipts and disbursements for the two previous years. Amounts for the two previous years provide comparative information to help evaluate the reasonableness of the budget estimates for the upcoming year.

Section 67.010, RSMo 1994, requires each political subdivision of the state to prepare an annual budget with specific information. A complete and well-planned budget, in addition to meeting statutory requirements, can serve as a useful management tool by establishing specific cost expectations for each area. A complete budget should include appropriate revenue and expenditures estimations by classification, and include the beginning available resources and reasonable estimates of the ending available resources of all funds. The budget should also include a budget message and comparisons of actual revenues and expenditures for the two preceding years.

C. Section 105.145, RSMo 1994, requires the district to file a financial report with the State Auditor's office annually. The district did not file an annual financial report with the State Auditor's office for the year ended December 31, 1996. The financial report is to be filed within four months after the end of the district's fiscal year (the requirement is six months after the end of the fiscal year if an audit report prepared by a certified public accountant (CPA) is filed).

The district should ensure annual financial reports are filed with the State Auditor's office in accordance with Section 105.145, RSMo 1994.

WE RECOMMEND the Board of Directors:

A. Periodically compare actual revenues and expenditures with budgeted amounts and ensure actual expenditures are kept within budgetary limits. If it appears expenditures are going to exceed budgeted amounts, a budget revision should be properly adopted by resolution.

B. Ensure the annual budgets contain all required and necessary information, including a budget message, the beginning and projected ending cash balances, and a comparative statement of actual receipts and disbursements for the two previous years.

C. Ensure annual financial reports are filed with the State Auditor's office as required and that such reports are filed within four months after the end of the district's fiscal year (or six months after the end of the fiscal year if a CPA audit report is filed).

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

A-C. The Board of Directors concurs.

7. Accounting Controls and Procedures

During our review of the board's accounting procedures the following concerns were noted:

A. The fire protection district has not hired an employee to handle its accounting records, but instead has contracted with a private accountant for those services. This accountant's duties include recording and depositing receipts, preparing checks, recording disbursements, and reconciling the bank accounts. The district performs no independent review or oversight related to the records or duties of this accountant.
In addition, prior to April 1999, this accountant served as the only signatory on all district checks, with no board co-signature required. This weakness was reported to the board by its independent auditor in March 1999, and subsequently the board began signing all checks and making all deposits.

To safeguard against possible loss or misuse of funds, the Board of Directors should consider performing an independent review of the bank statements, bank reconciliations, and other accounting records maintained by the private accountant on a periodic basis.

In addition, the board should continue to ensure all checks are signed by a designated member(s) of the board.

B. Although there was reference in the board minutes to a few specific invoices being approved for payment, the board did not adequately document its approval of all expenditures made by the district. Invoices for bills were retained in the files, but these invoices are not signed or initialed by the board members, and a supplementary listing of all disbursements approved for payment by the board was not prepared to accompany the minutes. In addition, we noted one instance where an expenditure was approved after the disbursement had been made.

To adequately document the board's review and approval of all disbursements, a complete and detailed listing of bills should be prepared, signed or initialed by the board to denote its approval, and retained with the official minutes. In addition, all district disbursements should be approved before they are incurred.

This condition was similarly noted by the fire protection district's independent auditors.

C. Various problems were noted regarding the issuance of district checks and the check register maintained by the private accountant as follows:

1) We noted that a number of check numbers were skipped. While we were able to account for some of these check numbers, we were unable to do so for others.

2) Some check numbers were recorded in the check register more than once.

3) Checks were not always recorded in the check register in numerical order.

4) The check register did not always accurately identify the purpose of the payment.

5) Information included on the check register did not always agree to the checks issued.

To adequately account for all disbursements, the board should ensure the check register is accurately maintained. Check numbers should be recorded only once, recorded in order, and their numerical sequence should be accounted for properly. In addition, to properly account for the expenditure of district monies, the check register should accurately identify the purpose of each payment, and information included in the check register should be agreed to checks written.

D. The board does not retain all voided checks. To ensure all checks are properly accounted for, all voided checks should be properly defaced and retained.

E. According to the board meeting minutes, a financial report was unavailable at several board meetings. A financial report should be available to the board at all meetings to ensure that board members have current information available when making decisions that impact the district's financial condition.

This condition was similarly reported by the fire protection district's independent auditors.

WE RECOMMEND the Board of Directors:

A. Consider performing a periodic independent review of the bank statements, bank reconciliations, and other records maintained by the private accountant. In addition, the board should continue to ensure that all checks are signed by a designated member(s) of the board.

B. Ensure the approval of all disbursements is adequately documented by including a listing of all approved disbursements in the board minutes and ensure that all expenditures are approved by the board before they are paid.

C. Ensure the check register of the district is adequately maintained. Check numbers should be accurately posted and the numerical sequence of check numbers should be accounted for properly. In addition, the check register should accurately identify the purpose of each expenditure and agree with the checks written.

D. Ensure all voided checks are mutilated and retained.

E. Ensure that a current financial report is available at all board meetings.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

A&D. The Board of Directors concurs.

B&E. The Board of Directors concurs and indicated these recommendations have already been implemented.

C. The Board of Directors indicated it would discuss this recommendation with its accountant.

This report is intended for the information of the fire protection district's management and other applicable government officials. However, this report is a matter of public record and its distribution is not limited.

AUDIT REPORT

DUNKLIN COUNTY, MISSOURI

TWO YEARS ENDED DECEMBER 31, 1998

From The Office Of State Auditor
Claire McCaskill

Report No. 99-95
October 6, 1999

Office Of The
State Auditor Of Missouri
Claire McCaskill

September 1999

FACT SHEET

IMPORTANT: The Missouri State Auditor is required by Missouri law to conduct audits only once every four years in counties, like Dunklin, which do not have a county auditor. However, to assist such counties in meeting federal audit requirements, the State Auditor will also perform a financial and compliance audit of various county operating funds every two years. This voluntary service to Missouri counties can only be provided when state auditing resources are available and does not interfere with the State Auditor's constitutional responsibility of auditing state government.

Once every four years, the State Auditor's statutory audit will cover additional areas of county operations, as well as the elected county officials, as required by Missouri's Constitution.

This audit of Dunklin County included additional areas of county operations, as well as the elected county officials. The following concerns were noted as part of the audit:

< Numerous inaccuracies were noted in the information presented in the county's budget documents for 1998 and 1997. County records were such that some financial activity was not able to be classified. Beginning cash balances were incorrect and actual receipts and disbursements did not agree to the County Treasurer's fund ledger. The County Clerk maintains an account book with the County Treasurer for county funds; however, the account book is not properly reconciled to the County Treasurer's records. In addition, formal budgets were not prepared for various county funds and actual disbursements exceeded budget amounts in several funds.

< During 1998, County Treasurer funds were erroneously deposited into the Ex Officio County Collector's bank account. Because the County Treasurer/Ex Officio County Collector did not reconcile the Treasurer's fund ledgers to bank balances and did not reconcile Ex Officio Collector bank balances to the related liabilities, these errors were not detected in a timely manner and were not fully corrected. At December 31, 1998, County Treasurer funds totaling approximately $147,000 remained in the County Collector's bank account. In addition, the Treasurer's semi-annual settlements and the Ex Officio Collector's annual settlements were not delivered to the County Commission in a timely manner.

< During the year ended December 31, 1997, Dunklin County was designated as the grant recipient for a Community Development Block Grant which was passed through to the Public Water District #1. The county did not properly monitor this grant.

(over)

< The county does not have a procedure in place to track federal awards for the preparation of the Schedule of Expenditures of Federal Awards (SEFA). The county's SEFA contained numerous errors and omissions. An accurate SEFA is necessary to ensure federal financial activity is audited and reported in accordance with federal requirements.

The report also included recommendations for improvements related to general fixed asset records, computer controls, personnel policies and procedures, and board of prisoners.

Also included in the audit are recommendations to improve the accounting controls and procedures for the County Health Center, Circuit Clerk, Prosecuting Attorney, County Clerk, Probate Division, Assessor, Recorder of Deeds, and Sheriff.

Copies of the audit are available upon request.

< The county does not have a procedure in place to track federal awards for the preparation of the Schedule of Expenditures of Federal Awards (SEFA). The county's SEFA contained numerous errors and omissions. An accurate SEFA is necessary to ensure federal financial activity is audited and reported in accordance with federal requirements.

The report also included recommendations for improvements related to general fixed asset records, computer controls, personnel policies and procedures, and board of prisoners.

Also included in the audit are recommendations to improve the accounting controls and procedures for the County Health Center, Circuit Clerk, Prosecuting Attorney, County Clerk, Probate Division, Assessor, Recorder of Deeds, and Sheriff.

Copies of the audit are available upon request.

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT ON THE FINANCIAL STATEMENTS AND SUPPLEMENTARY SCHEDULE OF EXPENDITURES OF FEDERAL AWARDS

To the County Commission
and
Officeholders of Dunklin County, Missouri

We have audited the accompanying special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Dunklin County, Missouri, as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, as identified in the table of contents. These special-purpose financial statements are the responsibility of the county's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these special-purpose financial statements based on our audit.

Except as discussed in the fourth and fifth paragraphs, we conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the special-purpose financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the special-purpose financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion.

The accompanying special-purpose financial statements were prepared for the purpose of presenting the receipts, disbursements, and changes in cash of various funds of Dunklin County, Missouri, and comparisons of such information with the corresponding budgeted information for various funds of the county and are not intended to be a complete presentation of the financial position and results of operations of those funds or of Dunklin County.

The records of receipts and disbursements maintained by the County Treasurer indicated actual receipts and disbursements in excess of the amounts reported by the County Clerk on the budget documents. As a result, we were unable to satisfy ourselves with respect to proper classification of receipts and disbursements reported in various funds. A significant portion of receipts and disbursements are presented as unclassified in the accompanying financial statements.

Governmental Accounting Standards Board (GASB) Technical Bulletin 98-1, Disclosures about Year 2000 Issues, as amended by GASB Technical Bulletin 99-1, requires disclosure of certain matters regarding the year 2000 issue. Dunklin County has included such disclosures in Note 3. Because of the unprecedented nature of the year 2000 issue, its effects and the success of related remediation efforts will not be fully determinable until the year 2000 and thereafter. Accordingly, insufficient audit evidence exists to support the county's disclosures with respect to the year 2000 issue made in Note 3. Further, we do not provide assurance that the county is or will become year 2000-compliant, that the county's year 2000 remediation efforts will be successful in whole or in part, or that parties with which the county does business are or will become year 2000-compliant.

In our opinion, except for the effects, if any, on the financial statements of the matter discussed in the fourth paragraph, and, except for the effects of such adjustments, if any, as might have been determined to be necessary had we been able to examine evidence regarding year 2000 disclosures, the special-purpose financial statements referred to in the first paragraph present fairly, in all material respects, the receipts, disbursements, and changes in cash of various funds of Dunklin County, Missouri, and comparisons of such information with the corresponding budgeted information for various funds of the county as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, in conformity with the comprehensive basis of accounting discussed in Note 1, which is a basis of accounting other than generally accepted accounting principles.

In accordance with Government Auditing Standards, we also have issued our report dated June 3, 1999, on our consideration of the county's internal control over financial reporting and on our tests of its compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants.

The accompanying Schedule of Expenditures of Federal Awards is presented for purposes of additional analysis as required by U.S. Office of Management and Budget (OMB) Circular A-133, Audits of States, Local Governments, and Non-Profit Organizations, and is not a required part of the special-purpose financial statements. Such information has been subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audit of the special-purpose financial statements and, in our opinion, is fairly stated, in all material respects, in relation to the special-purpose financial statements taken as a whole.

The accompanying History, Organization, and Statistical Information is presented for informational purposes. This information was obtained from the management of Dunklin County, Missouri, and was not subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audit of the special-purpose financial statements referred to above.

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT ON COMPLIANCE
AND ON INTERNAL CONTROL OVER FINANCIAL REPORTING
BASED ON AN AUDIT OF FINANCIAL STATEMENTS PERFORMED
IN ACCORDANCE WITH GOVERNMENT AUDITING STANDARDS

To the County Commission
and
Officeholders of Dunklin County, Missouri

We have audited the special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Dunklin County, Missouri, as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, and have issued our report thereon dated June 3, 1999. That report expressed a qualified opinion on the special-purpose financial statements. Except as discussed in that report, we conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States.

Compliance

As part of obtaining reasonable assurance about whether the special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Dunklin County, Missouri, are free of material misstatement, we performed tests of the county's compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants, noncompliance with which could have a direct and material effect on the determination of financial statement amounts. However, providing an opinion on compliance with those provisions was not an objective of our audit, and accordingly, we do not express such an opinion. The results of our tests disclosed instances of noncompliance that are required to be reported under Government Auditing Standards and which are described in the accompanying Schedule of Findings and Questioned Costs as finding numbers 98-1 through 98-3. We also noted certain immaterial instances of noncompliance which are described in the accompanying Management Advisory Report.

Internal Control Over Financial Reporting

In planning and performing our audit of the special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Dunklin County, Missouri, we considered the county's internal control over financial reporting in order to determine our auditing procedures for the purpose of expressing our opinion on the special-purpose financial statements and not to provide assurance on the internal control over financial reporting. However, we noted certain matters involving the internal control over financial reporting and its operation that we consider to be reportable conditions. Reportable conditions involve matters coming to our attention relating to significant deficiencies in the design or operation of the internal control over financial reporting that, in our judgment, could adversely affect the county's ability to record, process, summarize, and report financial data consistent with the assertions of management in the special-purpose financial statements. Reportable conditions are described in the accompanying Schedule of Findings and Questioned Costs as finding numbers 98-1 through 98-3.

A material weakness is a condition in which the design or operation of one or more of the internal control components does not reduce to a relatively low level the risk that misstatements in amounts that would be material in relation to the special-purpose financial statements being audited may occur and not be detected within a timely period by employees in the normal course of performing their assigned functions. Our consideration of the internal control over financial reporting would not necessarily disclose all matters in the internal control that might be reportable conditions and, accordingly, would not necessarily disclose all reportable conditions that are also considered to be material weaknesses. However, of the reportable conditions described above, we consider finding numbers 98-1 through 98-3 to be material weaknesses. We also noted other matters involving the internal control over financial reporting which are described in the accompanying Management Advisory Report.

This report is intended for the information of the management of Dunklin County, Missouri; federal awarding agencies and pass-through entities; and other applicable government officials. However, this report is a matter of public record and its distribution is not limited.

Notes to the Financial Statements

1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

A. Reporting Entity and Basis of Presentation

The accompanying special-purpose financial statements present the receipts, disbursements, and changes in cash of various funds of Dunklin County, Missouri, and comparisons of such information with the corresponding budgeted information for various funds of the county. The funds presented are established under statutory or administrative authority, and their operations are under the control of the County Commission, an elected county official, the Health Center Board, the Senate Bill 40 Board, or the Johnson Grass Fund. The General Revenue Fund is the county's general operating fund, accounting for all financial resources except those required to be accounted for in another fund. The other funds presented account for financial resources whose use is restricted for specified purposes.

B. Basis of Accounting

The financial statements are prepared on the cash basis of accounting; accordingly, amounts are recognized when received or disbursed by warrant or in cash. This basis of accounting differs from generally accepted accounting principles, which require revenues to be recognized when they become available and measurable or when they are earned and expenditures or expenses to be recognized when the related liabilities are incurred.

C. Budgets and Budgetary Practices

The County Commission and other applicable boards are responsible for the preparation and approval of budgets for various county funds in accordance with Sections 50.525 through 50.745, RSMo 1994 and RSMo Cumulative Supp. 1998, the county budget law. These budgets are adopted on the cash basis of accounting.

Although adoption of a formal budget is required by law, the county did not adopt formal budgets for the following funds:

Juvenile Diversion Grant I Fund	1998
Emergency 911 Fund	1998
Special Road and Bridge Fund	1997
Prosecuting Attorney Training Fund	1997
Victims of Domestic Violence Fund	1997

Section 50.740, RSMo 1994, prohibits expenditures in excess of the approved budgets.

D. Published Financial Statements

Under Sections 50.800 and 50.810, RSMo 1994, the County Commission is responsible for preparing and publishing in a local newspaper a detailed annual financial statement for the county. The financial statement is required to show receipts or revenues, disbursements or expenditures, and beginning and ending balances for each fund.

However, the county's published financial statements did not include the following funds:

Fund	Years Ended December 31,
Health Center Fund	1997
Circuit Division Interest Fund	1997
Associate Circuit Division Interest Fund	1997
Probate Division Interest Fund	1997

As of June 3, 1999, the county had not published its financial statement for 1998.

2. Cash

Section 110.270, RSMo 1994, based on Article IV, Section 15, Missouri Constitution, authorizes counties to place their funds, either outright or by repurchase agreement, in U.S. Treasury and agency obligations. In addition, Section 30.950, RSMo Cumulative Supp. 1998, effective August 28, 1997, requires political subdivisions with existing authority to invest in instruments other than depositary accounts at financial institutions to adopt a written investment policy. Among other things, the policy is to commit a political subdivision to the principles of safety, liquidity, and yield (in that order) when managing public funds and to prohibit purchase of derivatives (either directly or through repurchase agreements), use of leveraging (through either reverse repurchase agreements or other methods), and use of public funds for speculation. The county has not adopted such a policy.

In accordance with Statement No. 3 of the Governmental Accounting Standards Board, Deposits with Financial Institutions, Investments (Including Repurchase Agreements), and Reverse Repurchase Agreements, disclosures are provided below regarding the risk of potential loss of cash deposits. For the purposes of these disclosures, deposits with financial institutions are demand, time, and savings accounts, including certificates of deposit and negotiable order of withdrawal accounts, in banks, savings institutions, and credit unions.

The county's and Health Center Board's deposits at December 31, 1998, were entirely covered by federal depositary insurance or by collateral securities held by the county's or the Health Center Board's custodial bank in the county's or the Health Center Board's name.

The financial statements do not include the cash balances of the Ex Officio County Collector, who collects and distributes property taxes as an agent for various local governments. However, for the purpose of these risk disclosures, the Ex Officio County Collector's cash balances are included since collateral securities to cover amounts not covered by federal depositary insurance are pledged to the county rather than to specific county officials.

Of the county's bank balance at December 31, 1997, $3,371,248 was covered by federal depositary insurance or by collateral securities held by the county's custodial bank in the county's name and $220,876 was covered by collateral pledged by one bank and held in the county's name by an affiliate of the same bank holding company.

Of the Health Center Board's bank balance at December 31, 1997, $338,284 was covered by federal depositary insurance or by collateral securities held by the Health Center Board's custodial bank in the Health Center Board's name, $12,829 was covered by collateral pledged by one bank and held in the Health Center Board's name by an affiliate of the same bank holding company, and $45,404 was uninsured and uncollateralized.

To protect the safety of county deposits, Section 110.020, RSMo 1994, requires depositaries to pledge collateral securities to secure county deposits not insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

3. Year 2000 Compliance

Dunklin County has replaced all mainframe and micro computing devices with Pentium II 300mhz or higher components. Year 2000-compliant software, namely Quick Books Pro version 6.0, replaced older software. Network components have been upgraded to Cat 100mips devices. Year 2000-compliant drivers for printers and other devices have been obtained from the appropriate vendors. All efforts to ensure our financial systems are year 2000-compliant were completed before April 1, 1999. Operating systems include Windows 95, Windows 98, Windows NT Workstation, Windows NT server 4.0, MS-Office 97, MS-Visual Basic version 5.0, and SQL-Server version 6.5. Microsoft has certified that each of these products is year 2000-compliant.

Notes to the Supplementary Schedule

DUNKLIN COUNTY, MISSOURI
NOTES TO THE SUPPLEMENTARY SCHEDULE

1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

A. Purpose of Schedule and Reporting Entity

The accompanying Schedule of Expenditures of Federal Awards has been prepared to comply with the requirements of OMB Circular A-133. This circular requires a schedule that provides total federal awards expended for each federal program and the Catalog of Federal Domestic Assistance (CFDA) number or other identifying number when the CFDA information is not available.

The schedule includes all federal awards administered by Dunklin County, Missouri.

B. Basis of Presentation

OMB Circular A-133 includes these definitions, which govern the contents of the schedule:

> Federal financial assistance means assistance that non-Federal entities receive or administer in the form of grants, loans, loan guarantees, property (including donated surplus property), cooperative agreements, interest subsidies, insurance, food commodities, direct appropriations, and other assistance, but does not include amounts received as reimbursement for services rendered to individuals . . . .
> Federal award means Federal financial assistance and Federal cost-reimbursement contracts that non-Federal entities receive directly from Federal awarding agencies or indirectly from pass-through entities. It does not include procurement contracts, under grants or contracts, used to buy goods or services from vendors.

Accordingly, the schedule includes expenditures of both cash and noncash awards.

C. Basis of Accounting

Except as noted below, the schedule is presented on the cash basis of accounting, which recognizes amounts only when disbursed in cash.

Amounts for the Food Distribution Program (CFDA number 10.550) represent the dollar value assigned to commodities based on prices provided by the state Department of Social Services. Amounts for the National Criminal History Improvement Program (CFDA number 16.554) represent the dollar value assigned to the property loaned to the county based on prices provided by the Missouri State Highway Patrol.

2. Subrecipients

Of the federal expenditures presented in the schedule, the county provided $135,251 to a subrecipient under the Community Development Block Grant /State's Program (CFDA number 14.228) during the year ended December 31, 1997.

FEDERAL AWARDS -
SINGLE AUDIT SECTION

State Auditor's Report

CLAIRE C. McCASKILL
Missouri State Auditor

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT ON COMPLIANCE WITH REQUIREMENTS APPLICABLE TO EACH MAJOR PROGRAM AND ON INTERNAL CONTROL OVER COMPLIANCE IN ACCORDANCE WITH OMB CIRCULAR A-133

To the County Commission
and Officeholders of Dunklin County, Missouri

Compliance

We have audited the compliance of Dunklin County, Missouri, with the types of compliance requirements described in the U.S. Office of Management and Budget (OMB) Circular A-133 Compliance Supplement that are applicable to each of its major federal programs for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997. The county's major federal programs are identified in the summary of auditor's results section of the accompanying Schedule of Findings and Questioned Costs. Compliance with the requirements of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants applicable to each of its major federal programs is the responsibility of the county's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on the county's compliance based on our audit.

We conducted our audit of compliance in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards; the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States; and OMB Circular A-133, Audits of States, Local Governments, and Non-Profit Organizations. Those standards and OMB Circular A-133 require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether noncompliance with the types of compliance requirements referred to above that could have a direct and material effect on a major federal program occurred. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence about the county's compliance with those requirements and performing such other procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion. Our audit does not provide a legal determination of the county's compliance with those requirements.

In our opinion, Dunklin County, Missouri, complied, in all material respects, with the requirements referred to above that are applicable to each of its major federal programs for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997. However, the results of our auditing procedures disclosed instances of noncompliance with those requirements, which are required to be reported in accordance with OMB Circular A-133 and which are described in the accompanying Schedule of Findings and Questioned Costs as finding numbers 98-4 and 98-5.

Truman State Office Building, Room 880 • Jefferson City, MO 65101 • (573) 751-4213 • FAX (573) 751-7984

Internal Control Over Compliance

The management of Dunklin County, Missouri, is responsible for establishing and maintaining effective internal control over compliance with the requirements of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants applicable to federal programs. In planning and performing our audit, we considered the county's internal control over compliance with requirements that could have a direct and material effect on a major federal program in order to determine our auditing procedures for the purpose of expressing our opinion on compliance and to test and report on the internal control over compliance in accordance with OMB Circular A-133.

We noted certain matters involving the internal control over compliance and its operation that we consider to be reportable conditions. Reportable conditions involve matters coming to our attention relating to significant deficiencies in the design or operation of the internal control over compliance that, in our judgment, could adversely affect the county's ability to administer a major federal program in accordance with the applicable requirements of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants. Reportable conditions are described in the accompanying Schedule of Findings and Questioned Costs as finding numbers 98-4 and 98-5.

A material weakness is a condition in which the design or operation of one or more of the internal control components does not reduce to a relatively low level the risk that noncompliance with the applicable requirements of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants that would be material in relation to a major federal program being audited may occur and not be detected within a timely period by employees in the normal course of performing their assigned functions. Our consideration of the internal control over compliance would not necessarily disclose all matters in the internal control that might be reportable conditions and, accordingly, would not necessarily disclose all reportable conditions that are also considered to be material weaknesses. However, we believe that none of the reportable conditions described above are material weaknesses.

This report is intended for the information of the management of Dunklin County, Missouri; federal awarding agencies and pass-through entities; and other applicable government officials. However, this report is a matter of public record and its distribution is not limited.

Section II - Financial Statement Findings

This section includes the audit findings that Government Auditing Standards requires to be reported for an audit of financial statements.

98-1. Reconciliation of County Records

The County Clerk maintains an account book with the County Treasurer for county funds; however, the account book is not properly reconciled to the County Treasurer's records. Receipts are recorded by the County Clerk per the Treasurer's receipt slips and disbursements are recorded in a lump sum two times a year per the Treasurer's semi-annual settlement. Because disbursements are not recorded as they occur, the County Clerk's account book is not an up-to-date record of disbursements and cannot be reconciled to the County Treasurer's records in a timely manner. An independent record of county receipts and disbursements should be reconciled to the Treasurer's records so errors and omissions can be detected and corrected in a timely manner.

Section 51.150.1, RSMo 1994, requires the County Clerk to keep regular accounts with the County Treasurer. To provide the type of check-and-balance system required by state law, to ensure errors and omissions are detected on a timely basis, and to provide accurate financial reporting, the County Clerk and the County Treasurer should regularly reconcile their accounting records.

WE RECOMMEND the County Clerk maintain an accurate and up-to-date account book for all county funds. Accounting records of the County Clerk and the County Treasurer should be periodically reconciled and all reconciling items documented.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE AND PLAN FOR CORRECTIVE ACTION

The County Clerk indicated that they are to receive the County Treasurer's semi-annual settlement for the six months ended June 30, 1999 in October 1999. After this settlement has been received, the County Clerk's Office is going to reconcile with the County Treasurer every month and maintain documentation of the reconciliation in the County Commission minute book.

98-2. Budgetary Practices

The County Clerk and County Commission are responsible for preparing and approving a county budget which serves as a complete financial plan for the county. Numerous inaccuracies were noted in the information presented in the county's budget documents for 1998 and 1997. Examples of these errors included the following:

- Beginning cash balances were incorrect for nine of the sixteen (56 percent) budgets presented. Some of the larger differences noted are as follows:

Year	Fund	Presented In Budget	Actual	Difference
1998	General Revenue	$ (1,786)	726,049	727,835
1997	General Revenue	1,311,260	1,208,930	(102,330)
1998	Law Enforcement Training	9,450	19,810	10,360
1998	Johnson Grass	10,109	82,537	72,428
1998	Recorder's User Fees	2,530	31,347	28,817
1998	Criminal Investigation	19,191	33,916	14,725
1998	Emergency 911	1,507	122,915	121,408
1998	Prosecuting Attorney Bad Checl	0	26,313	26,313
1998	Health Center	360,038	393,174	33,136
1997	Health Center	369,659	379,104	9,445

Many of the differences between beginning cash balances presented in county budgets and actual beginning cash balances are attributable to investments. The County Clerk and/or the County Commission did not include the investments of some funds when reporting cash balances in the budgets.

- Amounts for estimated receipts and disbursements were not reasonable for numerous funds. For example, the County Commission approved estimated intergovernmental receipts of $780,161 and $666,607 for 1998 and 1997, while actual intergovernmental receipts were $271,527 and $255,358, respectively. Thus, intergovernmental receipts were overestimated by $508,634 and $411,249, for 1998 and 1997, respectively.

- Some transfers between funds were not properly reported in the actual receipts and disbursements of the budgeted funds. For example, the 1999 General Revenue Fund budget reported a transfer in of $41,547 from the Special Election Fund during 1998; however, this transfer did not occur. In addition, other transfers were made and not reported in the budgets.

- The county's budgets contained numerous misclassifications of actual receipts and disbursements. Some receipts from the state were incorrectly recorded as other revenues, interest income was incorrectly recorded as a transfer in, and charges for services were incorrectly recorded as receipts from the state. Adjustments have been made to the audited financial statements to correct these misclassifications.

  The county's budgets should include accurate classifications of receipts and disbursements to ensure the county's financial information is more consistently presented, to properly identify receipt and disbursement items, and to increase the effectiveness of the budgets as management tools.

- Actual receipts and disbursements presented in thirteen of the fourteen funds budgeted and approved by the County Commission were inaccurate. Actual receipts and disbursements presented in the budgets did not agree to the County Treasurer's fund ledger. For example, the 1999 budget for the Hazardous Training Fund incorrectly included 1998 receipts and disbursements of the Chemical Emergency Fund in the amount of $4,623. The County Clerk used computer generated reports to prepare the budget; however, these reports were not compared or reconciled to the Treasurer's records. In addition, the County Clerk could not provide us with supporting documents used to prepare the county's budgets.

  Actual receipts and disbursements presented in the budget for the General Revenue Fund, the Assessment Fund and the Prosecuting Attorney Bad Check Fund were materially misstated. For example, the material differences noted between the County Treasurer's General Revenue Fund ledger and the General Revenue Fund budget are as follows:

	Budget	Treasurer Fund Ledger	Budget Over (Under) Stated
1998 Receipts:
Family Services Reimbursement	$ 76,738	97,729	(20,991)
Criminal Cost	118,343	0	118,343
Financial Institution Tax	168,451	4,087	164,364
Prosecuting Attorney Paternity	76,064	102,318	(26,254)
Child Support Fees	10,710	18,128	(7,418)
Interest Income	1,466	15,177	(13,711)
Workers Compensation Dividends	0	2,745	(2,745)
Transfer In - Special Election Fund	41,547	0	41,547
Transfer In - General Revenue Interest	56,769	0	56,769
Transfer In - Homeless Challenge Fund	0	7,300	(7,300)
Transfer In - Juvenile Diversion Grant Fund	0	12,854	(12,854)
Unidentified revenue	0	105,495	(105,495)
1998 Disbursements:
Transfer Out - Juvenile Diversion Grant Fund	0	4,000	(4,000)
Transfer Out - Capital Improvement Fund	0	100,000	(100,000)
Unidentified disbursements	0	215,885	(215,885)

Adjustments have been made to the audited financial statements to ensure that information presented reconciles to the County Treasurer's receipt, disbursement, and cash balance totals.

In our prior report, we noted the county's budget documents contained inaccurate beginning cash balances, receipts and disbursements were misclassified and actual receipts and disbursements did not agree with the Treasurer's fund ledger. At that time, the County Clerk indicated the county had some problems with the computer system which caused the budget documents for 1996 and 1995 to be inaccurate. The County Clerk stated that the county was making changes to the computer system to more accurately present county information in the future. However, it appears these problems have not been corrected. The 1999, 1998, and 1997 budgets contained the same inaccuracies as reported in our prior report and additional inaccuracies as indicated above.

These errors could have been detected had a thorough review been performed by the County Clerk or County Commission and corrections made to ensure the budget agreed to the County Clerk's account book and the County Treasurer's fund ledgers. As a result of the errors, it was necessary to make numerous adjustments to the amounts presented in the financial statements. Considering the various errors and omissions noted, the approved budgets did not provide Dunklin County citizens with reliable information about the county's finances.

In addition to being required by state law, complete and accurate budgets are essential for the County Commission and County Clerk to evaluate county operations and to project the anticipated needs of the county for the upcoming year. Complete and accurate budgets are also necessary to properly inform the county's citizens about the county's finances.

WE RECOMMEND the County Commission and the Health Center Board of Trustees ensure the budget documents contain complete, accurate, and reasonable information about the county's finances. In addition, the County Commission and County Clerk should thoroughly review the budget documents before they are finalized and filed with the State Auditor's Office.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE AND PLAN FOR CORRECTIVE ACTION

The County Commission indicated they would impress upon the County Clerk and the County Treasurer to reconcile monthly and furnish documentation of the reconciliation to the County Commission. The County Commission indicated they will do the best they can with what they have to work with.

The Health Center Administrator indicated they have a new computer report that shows all revenues and expenditures and ending balances. They are now reviewing year-to-date balances monthly and will ensure that budget information is correct.

98-3. County Treasurer's Accounting Records and Procedures

Our review of the County Treasurer's records and procedures disclosed the following concerns:

A. During 1998, the County Treasurer did not perform reconciliations between the total fund ledger balances and the reconciled bank balances. The reconciled bank balance at December 31, 1998 exceeded the total fund ledger balances by approximately $2,000. The County Treasurer should work to identify the discrepancies between the reconciled bank balance and the fund ledger balances.

Complete reconciliations between the reconciled bank balances and the fund ledger balances are necessary to ensure all monies have been accounted for properly. Any discrepancies noted should be investigated and resolved on a timely basis.

B. The County Treasurer's semi-annual settlements are not delivered to the County Commission in a timely manner. As of June 3, 1999, the settlement for the six months ended December 31, 1998, had not been delivered to the commission. In addition, the settlement for the six months ended June 30, 1998, noted an unreconciled cash shortage of approximately $106,000. This shortage was not investigated by the County Treasurer until she started working on the December 31, 1998 settlement. During our review of the December 31, 1998 settlement, we determined that County Treasurer monies were held in the Ex Officio County Collector's account in error. This would appear to account for the shortage indicated at June 30, 1998. A timely, complete and accurate semi-annual settlement is necessary to keep the County Commission informed of the financial position of the county.

C. As a result of the conditions discussed in parts A and B, several inaccuracies noted in the County Treasurer's records for 1998 went undetected. Examples of these errors included the following:

- The County Treasurer/Ex Officio County Collector deposited monies in error to the Ex Officio County Collector's account in January and February 1998. At December 31, 1998, the Ex Officio County Collector's account held approximately $147,736 in county monies.

- At December 31, 1998 the County Treasurer's account held approximately $2,542 in Ex Officio County Collector monies. These monies were transferred in error to the County Treasurer's account when the Ex Officio County Collector 's money market account was closed in August 1998. These monies represent interest earned on railroad and utility collections in January 1998.

- Interest in the amount of $4,795, earned on monies held in the Ex Officio County Collector's account and subsequently transferred to a County Treasurer account, has not been recorded in the interest ledger. In addition, interest earned on county investments in the amount of $1,373, has not been posted to applicable funds.

- At December 31, 1998 the County Treasurer had not posted approximately $43,990 in disbursements to the appropriate funds. These disbursements represent outstanding checks at December 31, 1998. Disbursements are not posted in a timely manner because the County Treasurer does not post disbursements to appropriate fund ledgers until canceled checks are received from the bank. Because checks are not recorded as written, the fund ledgers do not maintain perpetual cash balances. We also noted some disbursements that were posted to the wrong fund ledger. To ensure all disbursements are accounted for properly, to avoid overspending and to identify errors in a timely manner, all disbursements should be recorded in the appropriate fund ledger as disbursed.

These errors went undetected because cash balances on the fund ledgers were not reconciled to the bank accounts in 1998, and differences noted on the semi-annual settlements were not investigated.

To ensure the accounting records are complete and accurate, the County Treasurer should maintain perpetual cash balances on fund ledgers, reconcile to the bank balances monthly, and investigate any differences noted on the semi-annual settlement in a timely manner. As a result of the above errors it was necessary to make several adjustments to the amounts presented in the financial statements.

WE RECOMMEND the County Treasurer:

A. Prepare monthly reconciliations between the fund ledger balance and the reconciled bank balances and resolve any discrepancies on a timely basis.

B. File complete and accurate semi-annual settlements with the County Commission in a timely manner and investigate and correct all differences.

C. Transfer $145,194 from the County Collector's account and make adjustments to the fund ledgers to correct the errors identified.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE AND PLAN FOR CORRECTIVE ACTION

The County Treasurer indicated:

A. They are currently preparing the reconciliations for 1998. They are now working on June 1998.

B. The semi-annual settlement for the six months ended June 30, 1999 will be presented to the County Commission on October 7, 1999. We plan to complete the semi-annual settlement for the six months ended December 31, 1999 by the end of January 2000.

C. She calculated additional interest earned on these monies and on July 2, 1999, $153,323 was transferred from the County Collector's bank account to the County Treasurer's bank account. Necessary adjustments were made in the fund ledgers.

Section III - Federal Award Findings and Questioned Costs

This section includes the audit findings that Section .510(a) of OMB Circular A-133 requires to be reported for an audit of federal awards.

98-4. Subrecipient Monitoring

Federal Grantor: U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development
Pass-Through Grantor: Department of Economic Development
Federal CFDA Number: 14.228
Program Title: Community Development Block Grant/State's Program
Pass-Through Entity Identifying Number: 95PF012
Award Year: 1997
Questioned Costs: Not applicable

During the year ended December 31, 1997, Dunklin County was designated as the grant recipient for a Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) which was passed through to the Public Water Supply District #1. The grant funding received by the Public Water Supply District was received directly by the water district from the Department of Economic Development. Grant funding totaled $135,251.

Under provisions of the Single Audit Act and OMB Circular A-133, the county, as the primary grant recipient, is required to monitor any subrecipients receiving $25,000 or more in federal financial assistance for compliance with applicable laws and regulations. Although the Public Water Supply District #1 was audited annually, the county did not obtain and review copies of these audit reports. By not properly monitoring the water district, the county cannot ensure grant monies are being expended in accordance with federal requirements. As the grant recipient, the county is ultimately responsible for ensuring compliance with federal requirements.

WE RECOMMEND the County Commission properly monitor federal grant subrecipient expenditures to ensure compliance with federal regulations.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE AND PLAN FOR CORRECTIVE ACTION

The County Commission indicated they would monitor federal grants and would ask for and review audit reports. This recommendation will be implemented for the two new CDBG grants that were recently awarded.

98-5. Schedule of Expenditures of Federal Awards

Federal Grantor: U.S. Department of Agriculture
Pass-Through Grantor: Department of Health
Federal CFDA Number: 10.557
Program Title: Special Supplemental Nutrition Program for Women, Infants, and Children
Pass-Through Entity Identifying Number: ERO045-9134
Award Year: 1998 and 1997
Questioned Costs: Not applicable

Federal Grantor: U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development
Pass-Through Grantor: Department of Economic Development
Federal CFDA Number: 14.228
Program Title: Community Development Block Grant/State's Program
Pass-Through Entity Identifying Number: 95PF012
Award Year: 1997
Questioned Costs: Not applicable

Section .310(b) of Circular A-133, Audits of States, Local Governments, and Non-Profit Organizations, requires the auditee to prepare a schedule of expenditures of federal awards (SEFA) for the period covered by the auditee's financial statements. The county is required to submit the SEFA to the State Auditor's Office as a part of the annual budget. For the SEFA to adequately reflect the county's federal expenditures, it is necessary that all federal expenditures be properly reported.

The county does not have a procedure in place to track federal awards for the preparation of the SEFA. For the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, the county's SEFA contained numerous errors and omissions. For example, expenditures relating to several federal grants were not included on the schedules. Other programs reported did not include the required pass-through grantor's number. In addition, some programs were reported incorrectly and, in total, expenditures were overstated by $74,880 and $74,403 for 1998 and 1997, respectively.

Without an accurate SEFA, federal financial activity may not be audited and reported in accordance with federal audit requirements which could result in future reductions of federal funds.

WE RECOMMEND the County Clerk prepare a complete and accurate schedule of expenditures of federal awards.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE AND PLAN FOR CORRECTIVE ACTION

The County Clerk indicated he would prepare a complete and accurate schedule. This recommendation will be implemented for the SEFA to be submitted with the budget due in January 2000.

The Health Center Administrator indicated he would report all federal expenditures to the County Clerk.

Follow-Up on Prior Audit Findings for an
Audit of Financial Statements Performed in Accordance
With Government Auditing Standards

DUNKLIN COUNTY, MISSOURI
FOLLOW-UP ON PRIOR AUDIT FINDINGS FOR AN
AUDIT OF FINANCIAL STATEMENTS PERFORMED IN ACCORDANCE WITH GOVERNMENT AUDITING STANDARDS

Our prior report issued for the three years ended December 31, 1996, included no audit findings that Government Auditing Standards requires to be reported for an audit of financial statements.

Summary Schedule of Prior Audit Findings
in Accordance With OMB Circular A-133

DUNKLIN COUNTY, MISSOURI
SUMMARY SCHEDULE OF PRIOR AUDIT FINDINGS
IN ACCORDANCE WITH OMB CIRCULAR A-133

Section .315 of OMB Circular A-133 requires the auditee to prepare a Summary Schedule of Prior Audit Findings to report the status of all findings that are relative to federal awards and included in the prior audit report's Schedule of Findings and Questioned Costs. The summary schedule also must include findings reported in the prior audit's Summary Schedule of Prior Audit Findings, except those listed as corrected, no longer valid, or not warranting further action.

Section .500(e) of OMB Circular A-133 requires the auditor to follow up on these prior audit findings; to perform procedures to assess the reasonableness of the Summary Schedule of Prior Audit Findings; and to report, as a current year finding, when the auditor concludes that the schedule materially misrepresents the status of any prior findings.

This section represents the Summary Schedule of Prior Audit Findings, which was prepared by the county's management.

3. Federal Financial Assistance

Federal Grantor:	U.S. Department of Health and Human Services
Pass-Through Grantor:	Department of Health
Federal CFDA Number:	93.994
Program Title:	Maternal and Child Health Services Block Grant to the States
Pass-Through Entity Identifying Number:	ERO146-7134
Award Year:	1996
Questioned Costs:	$13,650

The contract governing Maternal and Child Health (MCH) grant monies specifies that the monies will be provided monthly on a cost reimbursement basis after monthly cost reports are submitted. The Health Center did not request reimbursement based on actual costs, rather invoices submitted were for a fixed amount equal to the total contractual amount divided by the number of months of the contract.

Recommendation:

The Health Center Board of Trustees work with the federal and state grantor agency to resolve the questioned costs of $13,650.

Status:

The Department of Health (DOH) conducted a review of the MCH Services Contract Monitoring Process for the time period covered by the noncompliant billing procedures. The DOH determined and summarized in its report, that although reimbursement requests were not based on actual costs, the costs incurred and reimbursed for the entire contract period did not exceed the total contractual amount. The report said we were to bill monthly for the costs incurred that month, not a prorated amount. We currently bill for actual costs incurred.

MANAGEMENT ADVISORY REPORT SECTION

Management Advisory Report -
State Auditor's Findings

DUNKLIN COUNTY, MISSOURI
MANAGEMENT ADVISORY REPORT -
STATE AUDITOR'S FINDINGS

We have audited the special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Dunklin County, Missouri, as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, and have issued our report thereon dated June 3, 1999. That report expressed a qualified opinion on the special-purpose financial statements. We also have audited the compliance of Dunklin County, Missouri, with the types of compliance requirements described in the U.S. Office of Management and Budget (OMB) Circular A-133 Compliance Supplement that are applicable to each of its major federal programs for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, and have issued our report thereon dated June 3, 1999.

We also have reviewed the operations of elected officials with funds other than those presented in the special-purpose financial statements. As applicable, the objectives of this review were to:

1. Determine the internal controls established over the transactions of the various county officials.

2. Review and evaluate certain other management practices for efficiency and effectiveness.

3. Review certain management practices and financial information for compliance with applicable constitutional, statutory, or contractual provisions.

Our review was made in accordance with applicable generally accepted government auditing standards and included such procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances. In this regard, we reviewed accounting and bank records and other pertinent documents and interviewed various personnel of the county officials.

As part of our review, we assessed the controls of the various county officials to the extent we determined necessary to evaluate the specific matters described above and not to provide assurance on those controls. With respect to controls, we obtained an understanding of the design of relevant policies and procedures and whether they have been placed in operation and we assessed control risk.

Our review was limited to the specific matters described in the preceding paragraphs and was based on selective tests and procedures considered appropriate in the circumstances. Had we performed additional procedures, other information might have come to our attention that would have been included in this report.

The accompanying Management Advisory Report presents our findings arising from our review of the elected county officials referred to above. In addition, this report includes findings other than those, if any, reported in the accompanying Schedule of Findings and Questioned Costs. These findings resulted from our audit of the special-purpose financial statements of Dunklin County but do not meet the criteria for inclusion in the written report on compliance and on internal control over financial reporting that is required for an audit performed in accordance with Government Auditing Standards.

1. Budgetary Practices and Published Financial Statements

A. Budgets were not obtained or prepared for several county funds during the two years ended December 31, 1998. While some of these particular funds are not under the direct control of the County Commission, budgets for these funds are needed to comply with statutory provisions.

Chapter 50, RSMo 1994 and RSMo Cum. Supp. 1998, requires the preparation of annual budgets for all funds to present a complete financial plan for the ensuing year. By preparing or obtaining budgets for all county funds, the County Commission would be able to more effectively evaluate all county financial resources.

B. Actual disbursements exceeded the approved budgeted amounts in several county funds as follows:

	Years Ended December 31,
Fund	1998	1997
Special Road & Bridge	N/A	$14,151
Prosecuting Attorney Training	N/A	650
Victims of Domestic Violence	N/A	300
Prosecuting Attorney Bad Check	$1,800	N/A
Criminal Investigation	3,882	N/A
Local Records	1,597	N/A
Emergency 911	33,785	N/A
Juvenile Diversion Grant I	153	N/A

The county apparently does not adequately monitor budgeted amounts to actual results.

It was ruled in State ex rel. Strong v. Cribb, 364 Mo. 1122, 273 S.W.2d 246 (1954) that strict compliance with the county budget law is required by county officials. If there are valid reasons which necessitate excess expenditures, budget amendments should be made following the same process by which the annual budget is approved, including holding public hearings and filing the amended budget with the State Auditor's Office. In addition, Section 50.622, RSMo Cum. Supp. 1998, provides that counties may amend the annual budget during any year in which the county receives additional funds which could not be estimated when the budget was adopted and the county shall follow the same procedures required for adoption of the annual budget to amend its budgets.

C. Our review of the annual financial statements published by the county noted the following concerns:

1) As of June 3, 1999, the county had not published an annual financial statement for 1998. In addition, the 1997 annual financial statement was published on May 21,

1998. The publishing of complete and timely financial statements, besides meeting statutory requirements, will provide information to citizens as to the operations of their county government and how tax dollars are spent.

2) The annual published financial statement for 1997 did not include the financial activity of the Health Center Fund, the Circuit Division Interest Fund, the Associate Circuit Division Interest Fund, the Probate Division Interest Fund and the eight townships as required. In addition, the total receipts, total disbursements, and the beginning and ending balance for the General Revenue Fund were not presented in the recapitulation as required.

Sections 50.800 and 50.810, RSMo 1994, require annual financial statements be prepared and published in a local newspaper on or before the first Monday in March and show receipts or revenues, disbursements or expenditures, and beginning and ending balances for all county funds.

Conditions similar to A., B., and C.2. were also noted in our prior report. Although the County Commission and County Clerk stated they would work on these problems, it does not appear that adequate corrective action has been taken.

WE RECOMMEND the County Commission:

A. Ensure budgets are prepared or obtained for all county funds as required by statute.

B. Not authorize warrants in excess of budgeted expenditures. If valid reasons necessitate excess expenditures, the original budget should be formally amended and filed with the State Auditor's office.

C. And the Health Center Board of Trustees:

1) Ensure financial statements are published by the first Monday in March of each year.

2) Ensure financial information for all county funds is properly reported in the annual published financial statements in accordance with statute.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The County Commission indicated:

A. They will try to adhere to the statutes.

B. They now receive monthly reports to monitor expenditures to ensure they do not exceed the budget.

C.1. The 1998 financial statement was published on August 3, 1999. In the future, financial statements will be published more timely. The monthly reconciliations will allow accurate numbers to be available in a timely manner.

The Prosecuting Attorney indicated:

B. In the future, they will amend the budgets as needed.

The Health Center Administrator indicated:

C.2. The Health Center will publish its financial activity separate from the county.

2. County Treasurer's Accounting Controls and Procedures

Our review of the County Treasurer's records and procedures disclosed the following concerns:

A. The method of payment (cash, check, and money order) is not consistently indicated on the receipt slips. In addition, monies are not deposited intact as cash refunds are made for overpayments of fees paid by check. To ensure receipts are accounted for properly and deposited intact, the method of payment should be recorded on the receipt slips and the composition of receipt slips issued should be reconciled to the composition of deposits. Furthermore, to reduce the risk of loss or misuse of funds, all refunds should be made by check.

B. Checks and money orders are not restrictively endorsed immediately upon receipt. The endorsements are applied when deposits are prepared. To adequately safeguard assets, checks and money orders should be restrictively endorsed immediately upon receipt.

C. Accounting and bookkeeping duties are not adequately segregated. One clerk is primarily responsible for receiving, depositing and disbursing monies, and maintaining the accounting records. An independent review of deposits and accounting records is not performed. Proper segregation of duties helps ensure that all transactions are accounted for properly and assets are adequately safeguarded. Internal controls would be improved by segregating the duties of depositing receipts from reconciling receipts. If proper segregation of duties cannot be achieved, at a minimum, a periodic supervisory review of the records should be performed and documented.

D. As of August 1998, all funds in the custody of the County Treasurer, with the exception of the Criminal Cost Fund and monies invested in certificates of deposit are maintained in a NOW checking account. County funds earned approximately $62,623 in interest during the period from August to December 1998. As of June 3, 1999,these monies had not been allocated to the various funds. The County Treasurer indicated the computer programmer was working on a program that would determine the amount to be allocated to the various funds.

Section 110.150.2, RSMo Cum. Supp. 1998, and Missouri Attorney General's Opinion No. 126, 1981 to Antonio; No. 108, 1981 to Busker; No. 148, 1980 to Antonio; and No. 40, 1965 to Owensby, provide the interest on school funds, county hospital and hospital district funds, library funds, health center funds, special road and bridge funds, assessment funds, and bond debt service funds, be placed to the credit of those funds, and the interest on all other funds to the credit of the county's General Revenue Fund.

WE RECOMMEND the County Treasurer:

A. Record the method of payment on each receipt slip issued. Account for the numerical sequence and reconcile the composition of receipts to the composition of bank deposits. In addition, deposit all monies intact and write checks for refunds of overpayments.

B. Restrictively endorse checks and money orders immediately upon receipt.

C. Adequately segregate accounting and bookkeeping duties to the extent possible or ensure periodic supervisory reviews are performed and documented.

D. Allocate interest on a timely basis in accordance with state statutes and Attorney General's opinions.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The County Treasurer indicated:

A&B These recommendations will be implemented.

C. She is currently reconciling receipts to deposits and she is working with her clerk to reconcile the bank balance to the fund ledger balance.

D. The computer programmer is currently working on a program to disburse interest monies.

3. Flood Control Distribution

The federal government returns to the various states a percentage of ``lease-back'' payments it receives for the leasing of lands acquired by the United States government for flood control. The states, in turn, distribute these monies to the various counties. Dunklin County has received approximately $13,588 in flood control monies since 1989 and has not distributed these monies in accordance with the statutes. These monies have been retained by the county in the General Revenue Fund.

Section 12.100, RSMo 1994, which governs the distribution of flood control monies by the County Commission states the funds shall be used to aid in maintaining the schools and roads and for defraying any of the expenses of the county in accordance with the provisions set forth in sections 12.070 and 12.080 RSMo. The County Commission is to distribute the funds for the school districts and roads based upon their respective levies equal to that which would ordinarily be allowed to them if the property were privately owned. Any remaining moneys can be used for defraying other expenses of the county. It appears the flood control monies are not distributed in accordance with these statutes.

Only by obtaining current assessed valuations for the flood control lands and applying the current tax levies of the applicable school districts and the townships to those valuations can the county know how much should be paid to the school districts and townships. As a result of this situation, the county has retained some monies which are properly due the school districts and townships.

WE RECOMMEND the County Commission have all flood control lands assessed, determine how much of the $13,588 discussed above is due the various school districts and townships, and distribute that amount to those entities. In addition, any future flood control monies received should be distributed in accordance with Section 12.100, RSMo 1994.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The County Commission indicated they will attempt to determine how to disburse these monies.

4. General Fixed Asset Records and Procedures

Our review of the County Clerk's general fixed asset records and control procedures indicated that procedures are not adequate to ensure fixed assets purchases are included in the general fixed asset records. Eighteen fixed asset purchases totaling more than $65,000 were not included on the inventory records.

A. The County Clerk does not maintain property records in a manner that balances can be reconciled from period to period. That is, records are not such that the beginning balance, plus additions, less dispositions, equals the ending balance. A list of additions and deletions for each year is not maintained. Likewise, purchases per the expenditure records are not reconciled to additions per the inventory records. In addition, property records do not always include all information applicable to the item. Information such as tag number and the date and means of disposition are not indicated on the property control record.

B. An annual inventory of all general fixed assets is not conducted. The last inventory was conducted in July 1997. If properly performed, an annual inventory could help detect items not recorded on the inventory records. Additionally, inspections of county-owned land and buildings are not conducted. Section 51.155, RSMo Cum. Supp. 1998, requires an annual inventory of all general fixed assets and quarterly inspections of county-owned land and buildings.

C. General fixed assets are not consistently numbered, tagged, or otherwise identified as county property. Property control tags should be affixed to all fixed asset items to help improve accountability and to ensure that assets are properly identified as belonging to the county.

Section 51.155, RSMo, requires the County Clerk to keep a continuous annual inventory of each item with an original value of $250 or more, identified by descriptive name, make and serial number, where appropriate, and a statement of changes in asset balances from the previous year; and to perform quarterly inspections of all county land and buildings. Adequate general fixed asset records and procedures are necessary to meet statutory requirements, secure better internal controls over county property, and provide a basis for determining proper insurance coverage of county property.

Similar conditions were also noted in our prior report.

WE AGAIN RECOMMEND the County Clerk:

A. Ensure reconciliations are performed between prior year general fixed asset records and current year general fixed asset records which document total additions, deletions, and balances. In addition, the County Clerk should ensure property control records include a detailed description of each fixed asset as to property tag numbers and the method of disposition.

B. Perform an annual inventory of all general fixed asset items and quarterly inspections of buildings and land in accordance with Section 51.155, RSMo Cum. Supp. 1998. Records should be maintained to document the inventory and inspections.

C. Properly number, tag, or otherwise identify all county-owned property with an original cost of $250 or more and include the tag numbers on the property control record.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The County Clerk indicated he would consider these recommendations when he reviews the new statutory requirements.

5. Computer Controls

The offices of the County Clerk, County Assessor, County Treasurer and Ex-Officio County Collector have access to a computer system that is networked together to maintain records of the county's financial transactions, property tax information, and other computerized information. Our review of the computer system controls and procedures indicated the following concerns:

A. Passwords which restrict employee access to computer files are not changed periodically, and some passwords are not kept confidential. A unique password should be assigned to each user, and these passwords should be kept confidential and be changed periodically to prevent unauthorized access to computer files. In addition, passwords should adequately restrict the capabilities of the respective user to only those duties the user has been authorized to perform.

B. The county does not have a formal emergency contingency plan for its computer systems. As a result, the county has not made formal arrangements for the use of backup facilities in the event of a disaster. In addition, some of the areas housing computer hardware and software are not equipped with fire detection, smoke detection, or extinguishing systems. Fire detectors and extinguishers should be installed to ensure that personnel can respond appropriately in the case of a fire.

   Contingency plans should include plans for a variety of situations, such as short- and long-term plans for backup hardware, software, facilities, personnel, and power usage. Involvement of users in contingency planning is important since users will likely be responsible for maintaining at least a portion of the backup under various contingencies. The major benefit of thorough emergency contingency planning is the ability of the county to recover rapidly from disaster or extraordinary situations that might cause considerable loss or disruption to the county. Because of the county's degree of reliance on data processing, the need for contingency planning is evident.

C. Control and proof functions are not performed by the County Clerk or the County Treasurer and Ex Officio County Collector to ensure that no data were added or lost during processing. We noted numerous inaccuracies in computer generated reports and source documents. Examples of these errors included the following:

   - The computer generated report for outstanding checks at December 31, 1998 included voided checks and checks that had cleared prior to December 31, 1998. In addition, several outstanding checks were not included on the report.

- Per the County Clerk, 1998 and 1997 actual receipts and disbursements reported in the county's budgets were based on computer generated reports. Per our review of the budgets, numerous errors were noted with actual receipts and disbursements.

These errors could have been detected had a thorough review of computer reports been performed by each applicable office to ensure that no data was added or lost during processing.

Each of the above issues is a factor that would provide improved internal control to the county and would help ensure the system is not used to circumvent the various controls that protect county assets and revenue sources. As the county's systems become more complex and more reliance is placed on them, it is necessary to ensure proper consideration is given to such control issues.

WE RECOMMEND the County Commission:

A. Ensure unique passwords are assigned to each employee and these passwords are periodically changed and remain confidential.

B. Develop a formal contingency plan for the county's computer systems and equip areas that house computer hardware and software with fire detectors, smoke detectors, or extinguishing systems.

C. Require control and proof functions to be performed by someone other than the computer operator to ensure that no data was added or lost during processing.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The County Commission indicated:

A. Passwords will be changed periodically and the County Commission will attempt to keep them confidential.

B. They will discuss this with the computer programmer and will develop a contingency plan. A few smoke detectors were added.

C. They will look into this situation and if extra time is needed, they will do it.

The Assessor indicated:

A. New passwords were received in July 1999 and they were being kept confidential.

The County Treasurer and Ex-Officio County Collector indicated:

A. New passwords were received in July 1999. The office has two computers and two passwords.

C. A new program was obtained and she will work with the programmer to ensure it is accurate.

6. Personnel Policies and Procedures

A. The county has adopted vacation and sick leave policies for county employees. Full-time employees are allowed to earn one week paid vacation after one year of employment and two weeks after two years of employment. Any unused vacation time for the year is forfeited at the employee's anniversary date. The county's sick leave policy allows full-time employees to earn one day for each month until thirty days of sick leave have been accumulated. The county's compensatory time policy allows full-time employees to earn compensatory time at time and one-half if the employee works over forty hours per week. Compensatory time earned should be taken by the employee during the pay period earned. The county has no maximum limit on compensatory time earned.

Centralized records of leave balances and leave used and earned are not maintained. The County Clerk and County Commission indicated leave records are to be maintained by each individual office but our review noted some offices are not maintaining these records. In addition, in some of the offices the employees maintain their own leave records.

Without centralized records, the County Commission cannot ensure that employees' vacation and sick leave and compensatory time balances are accurate and that all employees are treated equitably. Centralized leave records also aid in determining unused vacation leave upon termination of employment.

B. The Public Administrator receives fees from the various cases which are assigned to her. In addition Section 473.739, RSMo Cumulative Supp. 1998, states the Public Administrator shall be paid an annual salary of $4,000 if her fees do not exceed $25,000.

During the year ended December 31, 1997, the Public Administrator received fees totaling $41,972, and the county paid her a salary of $4,000 as compensation. Because the Public Administrator received more than $25,000 in fees during 1997, it is questionable whether any additional salary was allowable for that year.

A condition similar to A was also noted in our prior report.

WE RECOMMEND the County Commission:

A. Maintain centralized records of leave earned, used, and accumulated for all county employees.

B. Review this situation with the Prosecuting Attorney to ensure the proper amount was paid to the Public Administrator and seek reimbursement for any overpayments.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The County Commission indicated:

A. They will stress to each officeholder that leave records should be maintained.

B. They have requested an Attorney General's Opinion and will take action when the opinion is received.

7. Board of Prisoners

The county jail is used to board prisoners for the cities within the county. Dunklin County established a billing rate for the cities at $4 a day, except for the city of Kennett, which is billed a flat rate of $600 a month. In its most recent report of prisoner incarceration costs submitted to the State Office of Administration, the county calculated its daily prisoner cost to be approximately $15. By establishing a billing rate that is not sufficient to recover all costs, the county is subsidizing the cost to house other political subdivisions' prisoners. In addition, no written agreement existed between Dunklin County and the City of Kennett for these services. Section 432.070, RSMo 1994, states all contracts entered into by the county shall be in writing and shall be signed by each of the parties or their agents.

The County Commission and Sheriff should periodically review the costs of operating the jail, including any indirect costs, and establish an appropriate billing rate for all political subdivisions housing prisoners in the county jail. In addition, the County Commission should develop a written contract with the City of Kennett regarding inmate housing and related fees.

A similar condition was also noted in our prior report.

WE AGAIN RECOMMEND the Sheriff and the County Commission periodically review the cost of boarding prisoners and establish a billing rate for other political subdivisions that is sufficient to recover costs of housing prisoners in the Dunklin County jail. In addition, the county should obtain written agreements with the City of Kennett for the boarding of inmates.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The County Commission indicated they do not believe a change should be made at this time. Because the cities are part of the county, the County Commission has discussed not charging the cities for the boarding of prisoners. The County Commission will ask the Prosecuting Attorney to look into the situation with the city of Kennett and advise the County Commission accordingly.

The Sheriff indicated this was previously discussed with the County Commission. The Sheriff believes $10-$12 is more appropriate for jail board cost. In the past, the Sheriff has asked the County Commission to obtain an agreement with the city of Kennett.

8. Ex Officio County Collector's Accounting Controls and Procedures

During the years ended February 28, 1999 and 1998, the Ex Officio County Collector collected property taxes totaling approximately $2.0 and $2.1 million, respectively. Our review indicated many significant problems in the control procedures used by the Ex Officio County Collector to account for this money.

A. Receipt slips are not issued for partial payments received. Partial payments are held until full payment is received and then the tax statement is marked paid. In addition, the receipt books used for some drainage districts and levee collections are not prenumbered. Consequently, the numerical sequence of receipt slips issued is not accounted for. To adequately account for receipts, prenumbered receipt slips should be issued for all receipts and the numerical sequence accounted for properly.

B. The method of payment received (cash, check, and money order) is not consistently indicated on the receipt slip or on the paid tax receipt. Additionally, the tax receipts are not reconciled to the composition of bank deposits. The Ex Officio County Collector does not post the paid tax bills to the computer on a daily basis or generate a daily abstract. To properly reconcile receipts to deposits and ensure all monies are being deposited intact, a daily abstract should be generated and the method of payment should be reconciled to the composition of deposits.

C. Monies received are not deposited intact. Personal checks are cashed for county employees from the daily receipts. To ensure receipts are accounted for properly and deposited intact, personal checks should not be cashed from official tax receipts.

D. During the two years ended February 28, 1999, the Ex Officio County Collector did not distribute interest earned on bank deposits. As of February 28, 1999, cumulative interest totaled approximately $10,125. According to the Ex Officio County Collector, the interest had not been disbursed because she was not sure how to allocate the interest monies to the various political subdivisions.

Section 110.150.2, RSMo Cum. Supp. 1998, and Missouri Attorney General's Opinions No. 126, 1981 to Antonio; No. 108, 1981 to Busker; No. 148, 1980 to Antonio; and No. 40, 1965 to Owensby, provide the interest on school funds, county hospital and hospital district funds, health center funds, library funds, special road and bridge funds, assessment funds, and bond debt service funds, be placed to the credit of those funds, and the interest on all other funds to the credit of the county's General Revenue Fund. To allocate the interest equitably, the percentage of tax collections should be used.

E. For the year ended February 28, 1998, the annual settlement of the Ex Officio County Collector was completed and filed with the County Commission in July 1998. As of May 1999, the annual settlement for the year ended February 28, 1999, had not been completed. Section 139.160, RSMo 1994, requires settlements be filed with the County Commission by the first Monday in March. In addition, timely completion of the settlement is necessary to permit the prompt review and verification of the tax book charges and credits.

F. The Ex Officio County Collector's account includes land tax sale monies totaling approximately $13,000. Section 140.230, RSMo 1994, requires surplus monies from land tax sales be held by the County Treasurer for a period of seven years. At that time the monies shall be distributed to the various school districts within the county.

G. Monthly bank reconciliation procedures during the audit period were inadequate. Although the Ex Officio County Collector performed bank reconciliations for the regular checking account, other accounts were not reconciled. In addition, monthly listings of liabilities were not prepared and reconciled to cash balances. As of February 28, 1999, unidentified monies totaling $4,411 were held in the Ex Officio County Collector's bank account.

Additionally, during the two years ended February 28, 1999, CART monies totaling $512,872, sales tax monies totaling $466,890 and county monies totaling $100,000 were erroneously deposited into the Ex Officio County Collector's money market account. As of May 1999, county receipts and the related interest totaling $147,736 were still being held in the Ex Officio County Collector's bank accounts. The Ex Officio County Collector believed these monies had been transferred to a County Treasurer account, but instead they were erroneously transferred to another Ex Officio County Collector bank account. These monies should be transferred to the County Treasurer's account so that the balance of the County Treasurer's account is sufficient to cover the balances recorded in the County Treasurer's fund ledger (see 98-3).

These errors and the unidentified cash balance were not detected because the Ex Officio County Collector did not perform adequate monthly bank reconciliations and because monthly listings of liabilities were not prepared and reconciled to cash in the bank.

Accurate and complete bank reconciliations and identification of month-end liabilities are necessary to ensure all receipts and collections are properly accounted for, that cash in the bank is adequate to meet liabilities and that there is no unidentified excess or shortage in the account.

Conditions similar to B., C., D., and G. were also noted in our prior report.

WE RECOMMEND the Ex Officio County Collector:

A. Issue prenumbered receipt slips for all monies received and account for the numerical sequence of those receipt slips.

B. Record the method of payment on each receipt slip issued and each paid tax statement. Reconcile the composition of receipts to the paid tax bills and to bank deposits. Furthermore, prepare a daily abstract to reconcile collections per books to bank deposits.

C. Deposit all receipts intact and discontinue the practice of cashing personal checks.

D. Allocate interest in accordance with state statutes and Attorney General's opinion.

E. Ensure annual settlements are completed in a timely manner.

F. Disburse surplus monies from land tax sales to the County Treasurer.

G. Perform monthly bank reconciliations on all bank accounts, prepare monthly listings of liabilities and reconcile the listings to the reconciled bank balances.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The Ex Officio County Collector indicated:

A. She will deposit partial payments as received and record the payments on the tax receipts. In addition, a log is now maintained for duplicate tax statement monies. In the future, all receipts will be prenumbered.

B. The method of payment is usually recorded and they will work to ensure it is always recorded. In addition, tax receipts are now reconciled to the composition of bank deposits. A log of all receipts will be maintained daily.

C, D, &G These recommendations will be implemented.

E. The settlement for the year ended February 28, 1999 is being finalized and she will work to complete future settlements in a timely manner.

F. Monies have been turned over to the County Treasurer and placed in a separate fund.

9. Circuit Clerk's Accounting Controls and Procedures

A. Civil and criminal receipts are not deposited on a timely basis. Deposits are made approximately once a week and average approximately $1,309 and $2,305 for civil and criminal receipts, respectively. To safeguard receipts and reduce the risk of loss, theft or misuse of funds, receipts should be deposited intact daily or when accumulated receipts exceed $100.

B. Formal bank reconciliations are not prepared for the new child support account on a timely basis. As of March 1999, bank reconciliations had not been prepared for the previous five months. Failure to prepare formal bank reconciliations and post reconciling items on a timely basis increases the risk that misstatements will not be detected on a timely basis.

C. Monthly listings of open items (liabilities) are prepared; however, the listings do not reconcile with the cash balance for either the old or the new child support account. At December 31, 1998, the open items listing for the old child support account was $650 greater than the cash balance and the listing for the new child support account was $576 less than the cash balance. Monthly listings of open items are necessary to ensure monies held in trust by the Circuit Clerk are sufficient to meet liabilities. In addition, the Circuit Clerk should work to identify all cases with open items and to reconcile the open items to cash balances. If not identified, the Circuit Clerk should dispose of the monies in accordance with state law. Various statutory provisions including Sections 50.470 through 50.500, RSMo 1994, and Sections 447.500 through 447.995, RSMo 1994, provide for the disposition of unclaimed monies.

WE RECOMMEND the Circuit Clerk:

A. Deposit all monies intact daily or when accumulated receipts exceed $100.

B. Perform bank reconciliations and post reconciling items on a timely basis, so that errors or irregularities will be detected on a timely basis.

C. Reconcile the monthly listing of open items to the cash balance for all accounts. In addition, any unidentified monies should be disposed of in accordance with state law.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The Circuit Clerk indicated:

A. Civil and criminal receipts are deposited on a timely basis. We deposit every Friday unless cash accumulates over $100 then a deposit is made at that time. All checks are stamped when receipted with FOR DEPOSIT ONLY and kept at night in the vault until a deposit is made. Usually we make a deposit every other day, but always on Friday so that it is not carried over a weekend. A review of deposits with cash and the date cash was receipted on the 'board' will prove out this statement.

B. The bank reconciliations have now been caught up. I am working with the month of July 1999 at this time.

C. I have reviewed the open items and the checks outstanding on the old child support account and have resolved any differences and checks have been voided. Some monies were turned over to Division of Finance for those payments where we have no address information and some monies were paid over to Dunklin County with case number information so that if a claim for it is made in the next year or so, it will be readily accessible for refund.

10. Prosecuting Attorney's Accounting Controls and Procedures

The Prosecuting Attorney collects fees and restitution on bad checks and court-ordered restitution monies. The Prosecutor's Office requests that bad check offenders remit two money orders, one payable to the merchant for restitution and one payable to the Prosecuting Attorney's Office for the administrative fee. Court-ordered restitution is also made payable to the Prosecuting Attorney's Office. If the offender submits payments made payable to the Prosecuting Attorney or only one money order for the bad check restitution and fees, the monies are deposited to and disbursed from the Prosecuting Attorney's bank account. The bank account is maintained to account for payments related to bad checks. Our review of the Prosecuting Attorney's procedures revealed the following areas of concern:

A. Backup disks of computerized bad check information are not prepared. The bad check records are at risk of loss due to equipment failure or other electronic disaster. Backup disks should be prepared to provide a means of recreating destroyed master disks. Backup disks should be stored off-site to provide increased assurance that any lost data can be recreated.

B. Our review of the cash receipting and depositing procedures revealed the following weaknesses:

1) Money orders for bad check restitution made payable to merchants are not always transmitted on a timely basis. As of February 23, 1999, money orders payable to merchants totaling over $6,700 had been held for two or more weeks. In addition, bad check fees are not deposited on a timely basis. Fees are deposited approximately once a week and average approximately $1,155.

To adequately safeguard receipts and to reduce the risk of loss, theft, or misuse of funds, all receipts should be deposited intact daily or when accumulated receipts exceed $100. In addition, money orders made payable to merchants should be transmitted on a more frequent basis.

2) Checks and money orders are not restrictively endorsed immediately upon receipt. They are endorsed when deposited, approximately once a week. To adequately safeguard assets, checks and money orders should be endorsed immediately upon receipt.

C. Monthly listings of open items (liabilities) are not prepared for the old and new checking accounts, and consequently, open items are not reconciled with cash balances. At our request, an open items listing was prepared as of December 31, 1998, for the old and new checking accounts. The December 31, 1998 open items listing for the new account exceeded the reconciled bank balance by $16. The open items listing for the old account was $546 less than the reconciled cash balance.

The December 31, 1998 open items listing for the old checking account includes items totaling approximately $6,008 which have been held since before December 1996. Some of these items have been carried on the open items list since before December 1993. These items have not been followed up on or corrected in a timely manner.

To adequately account for cash on deposit in the old checking account, old liabilities on the open items list should be distributed to the proper payees. If proper payees can not be located the monies should be disposed of in accordance with state law. Various statutory provisions including Sections 50.470 through 50.500, RSMo 1994, and Sections 447.500 through 447.995, RSMo 1994, provide for the disposition of unclaimed monies. In addition, monthly listings of open items are necessary to ensure the proper disposition of cash balances. The periodic reconciliation of liabilities with the cash balance provides assurance that the records are in balance and that sufficient cash is available for payment of all liabilities. Timely reconciliations are necessary and helpful in the investigation of differences.

Conditions similar to B.2 and C were also noted in our prior report.

WE RECOMMEND the Prosecuting Attorney:

A. Ensure computerized bad check records are backed up on disk and these disks are stored in a secure, off-site location.

B.1. Transmit bad check restitutions to merchants on a timely basis and deposit all monies intact daily or when accumulated receipts exceed $100.

2. Restrictively endorse checks and money orders immediately upon receipt.

C. Prepare a monthly listing of open items and reconcile these listings to monies held in trust. In addition, review the account's open items and resolve any old open items in a timely manner.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The Prosecuting Attorney indicated:

A. They are in the process of obtaining price quotes for a back-up system. Back-ups will be performed weekly.

B.1. This is a time issue. The employee responsible for doing this has other responsibilities. They will try to transmit to merchants weekly and will try to deposit more often.

2. This recommendation will be implemented.

C. This is a time issue. Current employees have other responsibilities and additional help is needed. They will take care of the open items held for a long period and look into the other areas.

11. County Clerk's Accounting Controls and Procedures

A. Receipt slips issued are not prenumbered and the method of payment is not always indicated on the receipt slips. To adequately account for receipts, prenumbered receipt slips should be issued for all receipts and the numerical sequence accounted for properly. In addition, to ensure receipts are transmitted intact, the method of payment should be recorded on all receipt slips, and the composition of receipt slips issued should be reconciled to the composition of the transmittals.

B. Checks and money orders are not restrictively endorsed immediately upon receipt. The endorsements are applied by the County Treasurer when checks and money orders are received from the County Clerk, monthly. To adequately safeguard assets, checks and money orders should be endorsed immediately upon receipt.

WE RECOMMEND the County Clerk:

A. Issue prenumbered receipt slips for all monies received and account for the numerical sequence. Indicate the method of payment on each receipt slip issued and reconcile the composition of receipts to the composition of monies transmitted.

B. Restrictively endorse checks and money orders immediately upon receipt.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The County Clerk indicated:

A. Prenumbered receipt slips are now issued and the method of payment is indicated.

B. He will look into obtaining a bank endorsement stamp and checks will be endorsed immediately.

12. Probate Division's Accounting Controls and Procedures

During 1997 and 1998, the Probate Division consisted of a Probate Clerk who handled all transactions related to probate cases and maintained the probate bank account and a Juvenile Clerk who handled all transactions related to juvenile cases and maintained the juvenile bank account. Our review of the Probate Division's procedures revealed the following areas of concern:

A. Accounting and bookkeeping duties are not adequately segregated. One clerk is responsible for handling probate cases and performs the duties of receiving, depositing and disbursing monies, preparing bank reconciliations and maintaining the probate accounting records. Another clerk is responsible for handling juvenile cases and performs the duties of receiving, depositing and disbursing monies, preparing bank reconciliations and maintaining the juvenile accounting records. An independent review of deposits and accounting records is not performed.

Proper segregation of duties helps ensure that all transactions are accounted for properly and assets are adequately safeguarded. Internal controls would be improved by segregating the duties of depositing receipts from reconciling receipts. If proper segregation of duties cannot be achieved, at a minimum, a periodic supervisory review of the records should be performed and documented.

B. We noted the following concerns related to receipts:

1) The method of payment received (cash, check, and money order) is not indicated on the receipt slips issued for the juvenile account. In addition, the numerical sequence of receipt slips issued is not accounted for. To adequately account for all receipts, the numerical sequence of receipt slips should be accounted for. In addition, to ensure all receipts are deposited intact, the method of payment should be recorded on the receipt slips and the composition of receipt slips issued should be reconciled to the composition of bank deposits.

2) Receipts are not deposited to the probate account on a timely basis. Receipts are deposited approximately once a week and average approximately $1,024. To safeguard receipts and reduce the risk of loss, theft, or misuse of funds, receipts should be deposited intact daily or when accumulated receipts exceed $100.

WE RECOMMEND the Probate Judge:

A. Adequately segregate accounting and bookkeeping duties to the extent possible or ensure periodic supervisory reviews are performed and documented.

B.1. Record the method of payment on each receipt slip issued and reconcile the composition of receipts to the composition of bank deposits. In addition, the numerical sequence of receipt slips should be accounted for.

2. Deposit all monies intact daily or when accumulated receipts exceed $100.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The Probate Judge indicated:

A. Their plan is to rotate accounting and bookkeeping duties monthly to provide segregation.

B.1. This recommendation has been implemented.

2. They will try to deposit every three working days.

13. Assessor's Accounting Controls and Procedures

The Assessor's Office sells maps, public record information and copies to the public; however, the Assessor does not maintain adequate records to account for monies received. Our review noted the following concerns:

A. Receipt slips are not issued for monies received. To adequately account for receipts, prenumbered receipt slips should be issued for all receipts and the numerical sequence accounted for properly. In addition, to ensure all receipts are remitted intact, the method of payment should be recorded on all receipt slips, and the composition of receipt slips issued should be reconciled to the composition of the transmittal.

B. Receipts are not transmitted to the County Treasurer on a timely basis. We noted the Assessor's Office transmitted receipts to the County Treasurer two times in 1998 and four times in 1997. Receipts totaling $428 were transmitted on May 1, 1998, and receipts totaling $195 were transmitted on June 23, 1998. During 1997, receipts were transmitted in June, July, October, and November and averaged $208.

In addition, receipts are not transmitted to the County Treasurer intact as cash is withheld to make change. The Assessor does not keep a constant amount of monies in the change fund. To safeguard receipts and reduce the risk of loss, theft, or misuse of funds, receipts should be transmitted to the County Treasurer intact monthly as required by Section 50.360, RSMo 1994, and the change fund should be maintained at a constant amount.

C. Checks are not restrictively endorsed immediately upon receipt. The endorsements are applied by the County Treasurer when checks are received from the Assessor, two to four times a year. To adequately safeguard assets, checks should be restrictively endorsed immediately upon receipt.

WE RECOMMEND the Assessor:

A. Issue prenumbered receipt slips for all monies received and account for the numerical sequence. Indicate the method of payment on each receipt slip issued and reconcile the composition of receipts to the composition of monies transmitted.

B. Transmit all monies to the County Treasurer intact monthly as required by Section 50.360, RSMo 1994, and maintain the change fund at a constant amount.

C. Restrictively endorse checks immediately upon receipt.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The Assessor indicated:

A. She will implement this recommendation.

B. Receipts will be transmitted every month.

C. She will talk with the County Treasurer about obtaining a deposit stamp to endorse checks immediately.

14. Recorder of Deeds' Accounting Controls and Procedures

The Recorder of Deeds' Office collects various fees for recording documents such as marriage licenses, etc. Monies are not deposited intact as cash refunds are made for overpayments of fees paid by check. In addition, receipts are not deposited on a timely basis. Deposits are made approximately twice a week and average approximately $2,491. When deposits are prepared, the Recorder of Deeds removes the cash and checks from the drawer, accounts for receipts recorded in the various fee books, makes adjustments for cash refunds given, and plugs the excess cash as copy receipts. Because copy receipts are not recorded as received, there is no assurance that the amount deposited for copy receipts is accurate.

To safeguard receipts and reduce the risk of loss, theft, or misuse of funds, copy receipts should be recorded as received and receipts should be deposited intact daily or when accumulated receipts exceed $100. In addition, to reduce the risk of loss or misuse of funds, all refunds should be made by check.

A similar condition was also noted in our prior report.

WE AGAIN RECOMMEND the Recorder of Deeds record copy monies as received and deposit all monies intact daily or when accumulated receipts exceed $100. In addition, refunds should be made by check.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The Recorder indicated she will look into a way to receipt copy money and will make deposits as time allows. Overpayments are recorded in the overpayment receipt book and the person receiving the cash refund is sent a copy of the receipt that is to be signed and returned. Cash refunds do not exceed $6.

15. Sheriff's Accounting Controls and Procedures

A. Accounting and bookkeeping duties are not adequately segregated. One deputy is primarily responsible for receiving, depositing and disbursing monies, preparing bank reconciliations and maintaining the accounting records. An independent review of deposits and accounting records is not performed.

Proper segregation of duties helps ensure that all transactions are accounted for properly and assets are adequately safeguarded. Internal controls would be improved by segregating the duties of depositing receipts from reconciling receipts. If proper segregation of duties cannot be achieved, at a minimum, a periodic supervisory review of the records should be performed and documented.

B. The method of payment received (cash, check, and money order) is not indicated on the receipt slips issued. To ensure all receipts are deposited intact, the method of payment should be recorded on the receipt slips, and the composition of receipt slips issued should be reconciled to the composition of deposits.

C. Receipts are not deposited on a timely basis. Deposits are made approximately two times a week and average approximately $2,400. To safeguard receipts and reduce the risk of loss, theft, or misuse of funds, receipts should be deposited intact daily or when accumulated receipts exceed $100.

D. Monthly listings of open items (liabilities) are not prepared. At December 31, 1998, the reconciled bank balance was $21,219 and December collections disbursed in January totaled $18,955, resulting in unidentified monies of $2,264. Monthly listings of open items are necessary to ensure monies held in trust by the Sheriff are sufficient to meet liabilities. In addition, the Sheriff should work to identify the excess monies held in the bank account. If not identified, the Sheriff should dispose of the monies in accordance with state law. Various statutory provisions including Sections 50.470 through 50.500, RSMo 1994, and Sections 447.500 through 447.995, RSMo 1994 provide for the disposition of unclaimed monies.

Conditions similar to B and C were also noted in our prior report.

WE RECOMMEND the Sheriff:

A. Adequately segregate accounting and bookkeeping duties to the extent possible or ensure periodic supervisory reviews are performed and documented.

B. Record the method of payment on each receipt slip issued and reconcile the composition of receipts to the composition of bank deposits.

C. Deposit all monies intact daily or when accumulated receipts exceed $100.

D. Prepare a monthly listing of open items and reconcile these listings to monies held in trust. In addition, any unidentified monies should be disposed of in accordance with state law.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The Sheriff indicated:

A. He is currently looking over the bank reconciliation each month and documenting his review.

B. They now write cash on the receipt slips when cash is received.

C. Receipts are now deposited daily.

D. They have identified approximately 50 percent of the unidentified monies and are working to identify the remaining balance. In the future, a monthly listing of open items will be prepared and agreed to the reconciled bank balance.

16. Health Center Procedures

A. Accounting and bookkeeping duties are not adequately segregated. Although all employees receipt monies, one individual is responsible for depositing and disbursing monies, preparing bank reconciliations and maintaining the accounting records. An independent review of deposits and accounting records is not performed.

Proper segregation of duties helps ensure that all transactions are accounted for properly and assets are adequately safeguarded. Internal controls would be improved by segregating the duties of depositing receipts from reconciling receipts. If proper segregation of duties cannot be achieved, at a minimum, a periodic supervisory review of the records should be performed and documented.

B. We noted the following concerns related to the Health Center's budget:

1) The Health Center budget was not sufficiently detailed. Budgeted and actual receipts and/or disbursements were reported in category total only with no descriptive classifications for the categories. To be of maximum benefit to the Health Center Board of Trustees and to adequately inform county residents of the Health Center's operations, a complete and detailed budget document is needed.

2) Receipts, disbursements and year end cash balances reported on the Health Center's annual budgets did not agree to the Health Center's internal accounting records or the total reconciled bank balances at year end. For example, for the year ended December 31, 1998, receipts and/or disbursements were misstated by approximately $12,400. The Health Center does not maintain support for receipts and disbursements reported in the budget and has no procedures to ensure amounts reported in the budget agree to internal accounting records. For the annual budgets to present the Health Center's complete financial activity, all monies received and disbursed in a calendar year should be reflected in the Health Center's budget document and agreed to the cash balance per the year end bank statements.

C. We noted the following concerns related to the Health Center's cash receipts records and procedures:

1) The one-write and vital records receipt slips are not prenumbered. Consequently, the numerical sequence of receipt slips issued cannot be accounted for. In addition, all receipts are not immediately posted to the cash control records. To adequately account for receipts, all receipts should be posted to the cash control when received and prenumbered receipt slips should be issued.

2) Receipts are not deposited on a timely basis. Deposits are made approximately two times a week and average approximately $3,000. In addition, monies received for TB tests are deposited approximately every two months and monies received for vital records are deposited approximately two times a week. To safeguard receipts and reduce the risk of loss, theft, or misuse of funds, receipts should be deposited intact daily or when accumulated receipts exceed $100.

3) The method of payment received (cash, check, and money order) is not indicated on the receipt slips issued. To ensure all receipts are deposited intact, the method of payment should be recorded on the receipt slips, and the composition of receipt slips issued should be reconciled to the composition of deposits.

4) Checks and money orders are not restrictively endorsed immediately upon receipt. The endorsements are applied when the deposits are prepared. To adequately safeguard assets, checks and money orders should be endorsed immediately upon receipt.

D. The amount of collateral security pledged by the Health Center's depository bank as of December 31, 1997, was insufficient by approximately $45,400 to cover monies in the custody of the Health Center Board of Trustees. It appears this situation occurred because bank balances were not monitored by the Heath Center Board of Trustees.

Section 110.020, RSMo 1994, provides that the value of the securities pledged shall at all times be not less than 100 percent of the actual amount on deposit less the amount insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC). Inadequate collateral securities leave Health Center funds unsecured and subject to loss in the event of bank failure.

E. Records of vacation leave, sick leave, and compensatory time earned, taken, and accumulated were maintained by the Health Center using employee leave slips. However, the Health Center does not agree the leave records to employee time sheets. During our review we noted several discrepancies between the leave records and employee time sheets. For example, one employee's time sheet reported 11.5 hours of sick leave was taken in August 1998; however, the leave record did not indicate any sick leave was taken for August 1998.

Without accurate leave records, the Health Center cannot ensure that employees are treated equitably. Accurate leave records are also necessary to determine final pay for employees leaving Health Center employment.

F. We noted the following concerns related to the Health Center's expenditures:

1) The Health Center Director approved some payments to vendors without requiring acknowledgment of receipt of goods or services. As a result, the Health Center does not always have adequate assurance it is paying for actual goods and services received and approved by the applicable party. In addition, invoices were not always canceled or marked paid after payment was made.

To ensure the validity and propriety of expenditures, adequate supporting documentation, including acknowledgment that the specific goods and/or services were in fact received, should be maintained for all payments to vendors. In addition, invoices should be canceled or marked paid to reduce the possibility of duplicating payment.

2) The Health Center did not always obtain written contracts for services received. We noted numerous individuals and organizations were paid as independent contractors; however, the Health Center did not enter into contracts with these individuals or organizations governing the services to be provided and the related compensation. Various individuals and organizations received payments totaling approximately $6,900 and $10,800 for the years ending December 31, 1998 and 1997, respectively, for which a written contract could not be located.

Section 432.070, RSMo 1994, requires all contracts to be in writing. Written contracts are necessary to outline the terms of arrangements, specify services to be provided and the related funding, and help ensure the reasonableness and propriety of such expenditures.

G. Our review of the general fixed asset records and procedures indicated the following concerns:

1) An annual inventory of all general fixed assets is not being conducted.

2) The Health Center does not maintain property records in a manner that balances can be reconciled from period to period. That is, records are not such that the beginning balance, plus additions, less dispositions, equals the ending balance. In addition, property records do not include all information applicable to the item. Information such as acquisition dates and cost are not indicated on the property control record.

3) Some fixed assets are not consistently numbered, tagged, or otherwise identified as Health Center owned property. Property control tags should be affixed to all fixed asset items to help improve accountability and to ensure that assets are properly identified as belonging to the Health Center.

4) The Health Center does not have formal procedures for disposing of Health Center owned property. No written authorization for disposal is obtained from the Board of Trustees. Written authorization for the disposal of property and documentation of the date and method of disposition are necessary to lessen the possibility of misuse and to provide adequate support for changes to the general fixed asset records.

Adequate general fixed asset records and procedures are necessary to secure better internal controls over Health Center property and provide a basis for determining proper insurance coverage of Health Center property. Inventories of Health Center property are necessary to ensure the fixed asset records are accurate, identify any unrecorded additions and deletions, detect theft of assets, and identify obsolete assets.

H. Our review of the Health Center's computer system indicated the following areas where improvements are needed:

1) Passwords which restrict employee access to computer files are not changed periodically, and passwords are not kept confidential. A unique password should be assigned to each user, and these passwords should be kept confidential and be changed periodically to prevent unauthorized access to computer files. In addition, passwords should adequately restrict the capabilities of the respective user to only those duties the user has been authorized to perform.

2) The Health Center does not have a formal emergency contingency plan for its computer systems. As a result, the Health Center has not made formal arrangements for the use of backup facilities in the event of disaster. In addition, some of the areas housing computer hardware and software are not equipped with fire detection, smoke detection or extinguishing systems. Fire detectors and extinguishers should be installed to ensure that personnel can respond appropriately in the case of a fire.

Contingency plans should include plans for a variety of situations, such as short and long-term plans for backup hardware, software, facilities, personnel and power usage. Involvement of users in contingency planning is important since users will likely be responsible for maintaining at least a portion of the backup under various contingencies. The major benefit of thorough emergency contingency planning is the ability of the Health Center to recover rapidly from disaster or extraordinary situations that might cause considerable loss or disruption to operations. Because of the Health Center's degree of reliance on data processing, the need for contingency planning is evident.

3) The Health Center prepares back up disks of all financial information data daily; however, the backup disks are not stored at an off-site location. Backups of computer information provide a means of recreating destroyed data. Failure to store the computer backup disks off-site results in the backups being susceptible to the same damage as the original data on the computer. Backup disks should be maintained and stored off-site to provide increased assurance that any lost data can be recreated.

Conditions similar to A, C.1-C.3, F.1, F.3, G.1, and G.2 were also noted in our prior audit report.

WE RECOMMEND the Health Center Board of Trustees:

A. Adequately segregate accounting and bookkeeping duties to the extent possible or ensure periodic supervisory reviews are performed and documented.

B.1. Include detailed classifications of receipts and disbursements in the budgets.

2. Ensure all receipts, disbursements and ending cash balances are properly reflected in the annual budget document.

C.1. Issue prenumbered receipt slips for all monies received and account for the numerical sequence. In addition, ensure all receipts are posted to the cash control record when received.

2. Deposit all monies intact daily or when accumulated receipts exceed $100.

3. Record the method of payment on each receipt slip issued and reconcile the composition of receipts to the composition of bank deposits.

4. Restrictively endorse checks and money orders immediately upon receipt.

D. Ensure adequate collateral securities are pledged to protect the Health Center's funds. This can be done by monitoring bank activity and providing timely notice to the depository banks of the need for additional collateral securities to be pledged.

E. Maintain accurate leave records for all Health Center employees and ensure the leave records agree to time sheets.

F.1. Require acknowledgment of receipt of goods and/or services prior to payment. In addition, ensure all invoices are canceled when paid to prevent the possibility of duplicate payment.

2. Enter into written contracts that specifically state the services to be provided to the Health Center. Any expenditures made should be monitored for compliance with the terms of the contract.

G.1. Perform an annual inventory of all general fixed asset items. Records should be maintained to document the inventory.

2. Ensure reconciliations are performed between prior year general fixed asset records and current year general fixed asset records which document total additions, deletions, and balances. In addition, ensure property control records include a detailed description of each fixed asset as to acquisition date and cost.

3. Properly number or tag all fixed asset items.

4. Establish a formal method of disposing of general fixed assets. At a minimum, written authorization for all property dispositions should be obtained and date and method of disposition should be recorded on the general fixed asset records.

H.1. Ensure unique passwords are assigned to each employee and these passwords are periodically changed and remain confidential.

2. Develop a formal contingency plan for the Health Center's computer systems and equip all areas that house computer hardware and software with fire detectors, smoke detectors or extinguishing systems.

3. Ensure backup disks are prepared and stored in a secure, off-site location.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The Health Center Administrator indicated:

A. All cash receipts now go to one clerk and she makes the deposit daily. The deposit slip is turned over to another clerk who records the deposit and reconciles the bank account. The bank reconciliation will be reviewed by another individual.

B, G.1, G.2 & H.2. These recommendations will be implemented.

C.1. The one-write is now prenumbered and no other receipt slips are issued.

2. Deposits are now made daily.

3. The method of payment is now recorded on the one-write.

4. Checks are now endorsed immediately.

D &
H.1 These recommendations have been implemented.

E. Time sheets are now compared with leave slips monthly and differences are investigated.

F.1. Invoices now indicate acknowledgment of receipt of goods and services.

2. The health center no longer contracts for physician services. A nurse practitioner was hired.

G.3. This is generally done and they will work to ensure all fixed assets are tagged.

4. He now has board authorization to dispose of assets costing less than $1,000.

H.3. The backup disk is now kept off-site.

This report is intended for the information of the management of Dunklin County, Missouri, and other applicable government officials. However, this report is a matter of public record and its distribution is not limited.

Follow-Up on Prior Audit Findings

DUNKLIN COUNTY, MISSOURI
FOLLOW-UP ON PRIOR AUDIT FINDINGS

In accordance with Government Auditing Standards, this section reports the auditor's follow-up on action taken by Dunklin County, Missouri, on findings in the Management Advisory Report (MAR) of our prior audit report issued for the three years ended December 31, 1996. Finding number 3. is omitted since the related follow-up appears in an earlier section of this report. The prior recommendations which have not been implemented, but are considered significant, have been repeated in the current MAR. Although the remaining unimplemented recommendations have not been repeated, the county should consider implementing these recommendations.

1. Budgets and Financial Statements

   A. Formal budgets were not prepared for various county funds for the years ended December 31, 1996, 1995, and 1994.

   B. Disbursements exceeded the approved budget for various county funds for the years ended December 31, 1996 and 1994.

   C. Several inaccuracies were noted in the information presented in the county's budget documents. In addition, receipts and disbursements did not always agree to the Treasurer's fund ledger.

   D. The annual published financial statements did not include the financial activity of some county funds as required.

   Recommendation:

   The County Commission:

   A. Ensure financial information for all county funds is included in the annual budgets.

   B. Refrain from incurring disbursements in excess of budgeted amounts. If additional funds are received which could not be estimated when the budget was adopted, the budget should be amended by following the procedures required by state law.

   C. Ensure budget documents are accurate and complete. In addition, a reconciliation between the County Clerk's records and the Treasurer's records should be performed.

   D. Ensure financial information for all county funds is properly reported in the annual financial statements.

   Status:

   A,B, & D. Not implemented. See MAR No. 1.

   C. Not implemented. See No. 98-2.

2. County Expenditure Procedures and Practices

A. The county had a written agreement with the Southeast Missouri (SEMO) Regional Crime Laboratory to pay a specified sum for services rendered to the Dunklin County Sheriff's department and the Prosecuting Attorney's Office. The county did not receive or maintain any documentation of actual services rendered by the crime lab on behalf of the county to determine whether the amount paid was reasonable compared to the services rendered.

B. Records were not maintained of annual leave, sick leave, and compensatory time earned, taken, and accumulated for some employees.

C. The Prosecuting Attorney had an office in the courthouse which was used for both county business and his private practice. The county did not have a written agreement with the Prosecuting Attorney outlining what costs would be paid and what office personnel and equipment would be provided by the county and what would be provided by the private practice. The Prosecuting Attorney did not pay the county for the rent of office space.

D. The county filed quarterly reports with the State Tax Commission seeking reimbursement of 50 percent of expenses made by the Assessment Fund. The Assessment Fund had expenditures of $229,546 during the year ended December 31, 1996 but only $196,261 was claimed on the quarterly reports. As a result, the county did not receive reimbursement of $16,643.

E.1. The county had a long-standing oral agreement with the City of Kennett to house city prisoners in the county jail for a set amount of $600 per month. Based on prisoner days, the average cost per prisoner day to the city of Kennett for 1996 was $6.66. In addition, computer and dispatching services were provided by the city to the county.

2. The county charged $4 per day for each prisoner housed in the county jail for cities within the county and $14 per day for cities outside the county. These agreements between the county and the various cities were not in writing.

Recommendation:

The County Commission:

A. Enter into a detailed contract with SEMO Regional Crime Laboratory which specifies the services to be rendered and the manner and amount of the compensation. Further, the county should maintain detailed documentation of the services provided to ensure payments made are reasonable.

B. Require records to be maintained of vacation, sick leave, and overtime earned, used, and accumulated.

C. And Prosecuting Attorney enter into a written agreement outlining what costs will be paid and what office personnel and equipment will be provided by the county and what will be provided by the private practice.

D. File an amended quarterly report for the additional expenses incurred by the Assessment Fund.

E.1. Prepare a written contract between the county and the city of Kennett concerning the boarding of city prisoners and the computer and dispatching services.

2. Prepare written contracts between the county and the various cities regarding the boarding of city prisoners.

Status:

A. Not implemented. The county did not enter into a detailed contract with the SEMO Regional Crime Laboratory or receive detailed documentation of services provided. Although not repeated in the current report, our recommendation remains as stated above.

B. Not implemented. See MAR No. 6.

C&
E.2. Implemented.

D. Not implemented. An amended quarterly report was not filed for additional expenses incurred by the Assessment Fund in 1996. Although not repeated in the current report, our recommendation remains as stated above.

E.1. Not implemented. See MAR No. 7.

4. County Clerk's Controls and Procedures

A. An annual inventory of all general fixed assets was not conducted. In addition, inspections of county-owned land and buildings were not performed.

B. The County Clerk did not maintain property records in a manner that balances could be reconciled from period to period. A list of additions and deletions for each year was not maintained. Likewise, purchases per the expenditures records were not reconciled to additions per the inventory records.

C. General fixed assets were not numbered, tagged or otherwise identified as county property.

Recommendation:

The County Clerk:

A. Perform and document inspections and inventories of county-owned property as required by state law.

B. Ensure reconciliations are performed between prior year general fixed asset records and current year general fixed asset records which document total additions, deletions, and balances. Property purchases per the expenditure records should be reconciled to the general fixed asset additions.

C. Properly number, tag, or otherwise identify all county-owned property with an original cost of $250 or more.

Status:

A-C. Not implemented. See MAR No. 4.

5. County Treasurer's Funds and Procedures

A. Monies were not deposited daily or when accumulated receipts exceeded $100.

B. The County Treasurer maintained a significant amount of money in three noninterest-bearing checking accounts.

Recommendation:

The County Treasurer:

A. Deposit receipts daily or whenever accumulated receipts exceed $100.

B. Maintain all monies in interest-bearing accounts, such as NOW accounts.

Status:

A&B. Implemented.

6. Ex Officio Collector's Accounting Controls and Procedures

A. The principal of a certificate of deposit purchased with duplicate tax receipt fees, $6,277, and $3,500 paid to the former Ex Officio Collector in July 1988, had never been remitted to the General Revenue Fund. As a result, $9,777 was due from the former Ex Officio Collector to the General Revenue Fund at February 28, 1997.

B. Tax collections received by the Ex Officio Collector were not adequately invested during the entire audit period.

C. The County Collector did not distribute interest earned on bank deposits properly.

D. Monthly bank reconciliation procedures during the audit period were inadequate. A running cash balance was not maintained in the Ex Officio Collector's checkbook and a monthly listing of liabilities was not prepared and compared to the reconciled bank balance to ensure there was adequate cash to meet liabilities.

E.1. The tax receipts marked paid by the Ex Officio Collector indicated the method of payment, however the tax receipts were not reconciled to the composition of bank deposits. In addition, the Ex Officio Collector did not post the paid tax bills to the computer on a daily basis or generate a daily abstract.

2. The Ex Officio Collector did not deposit receipts intact. Some monies were retained for a change fund and checks were cashed for the Ex Officio Collector. Additionally, the change fund was not maintained at a set amount. According to the Ex-Officio Collector, personal monies were included in the change fund.

3. Monies were not deposited daily or when accumulated receipts exceeded $100.

4. Checks were not restrictively endorsed until deposits were prepared.

F. The Ex Officio Collector used incorrect unadjusted levies for some school districts to calculate the ratios to compute the commission and assessment amounts withheld from the state assessed schools portion of the railroad and utility taxes. This resulted in excess amounts withheld from the state assessed school tax.

Recommendation:

A. The County Commission require the former Ex Officio Collector personally repay $9,777 to the General Revenue Fund for duplicate tax receipt fees retained.

B. The Ex Officio Collector invest the official bank account in an interest-bearing account.

C. The Ex Officio Collector distribute the interest earned in accordance with statutory provisions and opinions of the Attorney General.

D. The Ex Officio Collector maintain a checkbook balance and prepare complete and accurate bank reconciliations which are compared to monthly listings of liabilities.

E.1. The Ex Officio Collector reconcile total cash, checks, and money orders received to bank deposits and to the paid tax bills. In addition, a daily abstract should be prepared in order to reconcile collections to bank deposits.

2. The Ex Officio Collector identify and document all personal monies in the change fund, maintain the change fund at a constant level, and deposit all monies received intact. In addition, the Ex Officio Collector should discontinue cashing personal checks.

3. The Ex Officio Collector deposit all monies received daily or when accumulated receipts exceed $100.

4. The Ex Officio Collector restrictively endorse all checks immediately when received.

F. The County Commission remit $1,487 from the General Revenue Fund and $496 from the Assessment Fund to the schools and the Ex Officio Collector utilize proper ratios when determining amounts to be withheld from the school districts' tax collections.

Status:

A. Not implemented. Although not repeated in the current report, our recommendation remains as stated above.

B,E.3, & E.4. Implemented.

C& E.1. Not implemented. See MAR No. 8.

D. Partially implemented. A checkbook balance was maintained and reconciled each month; however, no listing of liabilities was maintained. See MAR No. 8.

E.2 Partially implemented. The change fund was maintained at a constant amount of $600 and did not contain any personal monies. However, receipts are not deposited intact. See MAR No. 8.

F. Not implemented. The excess amounts withheld were not remitted to the schools. During the audit period, the Ex Officio Collector continued to use incorrect ratios for two school districts. However, the excess amounts withheld appear to be insignificant. Although not repeated in the current report, our recommendation remains as stated above.

7. Township Collector's Commissions

A. Incorrect unadjusted levies for Kennett-39 School District were used in calculating ratios used to adjust school tax collections subject to Proposition C. As a result, the township collector responsible for collecting this school district's taxes withheld excess commissions and assessment amounts which were due from the township collector and the assessment fund to the Kennett-39 School District.

B. During the review of the township collectors' commissions, instances were noted where the township collectors incorrectly calculated the commissions withholding.

Recommendation:

A. The County Commission ensure future commissions and assessment withholdings are adjusted for amounts over withheld and that the township collectors utilize proper ratios when determining amounts to be withheld from the school districts' tax collections.

B. The County Commission ensure future commissions are adjusted for amounts over withheld and that the township collectors use the proper commission percentage based on collections.

Status:

A&B. Implemented.

8. Associate Circuit Division's Accounting Controls and Procedures

A. The method of payment was not indicated on the one-write ledgers for the civil and criminal accounts and the composition of receipts was not reconciled to the deposit slips.

B. Monthly listings of open items (liabilities) were not prepared for fines and court costs maintained in the traffic account and consequently, liabilities were not reconciled with cash balances.

C. The Associate Circuit Division fines and court costs received from November 1996 through May 1997 were not disbursed until June 18, 1997.

Recommendation:

The Associate Circuit Division:

A. Record the method of payment on the one-write ledgers and reconcile total cash, checks, and money orders to bank deposits.

B. Prepare monthly listings of open items and reconcile to the cash balances for the traffic account.

C. Disburse monies received on a monthly basis in accordance with state law.

Status:

A-C. Implemented.

9. Prosecuting Attorney's Accounting Controls and Procedures

A. The method of payment was not indicated on the one-write ledger, and the composition of receipts was not reconciled to the deposit slips.

B. Only money orders made payable to the Prosecuting Attorney and deposited into the bank account were receipted and recorded on the one-write ledger. Receipts could not be reconciled to deposits because all bad check fees received in one day and recorded on one receipt slip may not have been included in the same deposit.

C. An open-items listing had not been prepared since our prior audit. At our request, an open-items listing was prepared and the reconciled cash balance exceeded the total identified open items by $1,644.

D. At December 31, 1996, the bank account had $329 in outstanding checks that were over a year old.

E. Records were not always retained as required.

Recommendation:

The Prosecuting Attorney:

A. Record the method of payment on the one-write ledger and reconcile total cash, checks, and money orders to bank deposits.

B. Issue prenumbered receipt slips for all monies received and maintain a complete record of receipts, including those transmitted directly to the merchants.

C. Prepare a monthly listing of open items and reconcile it to the cash balance. An attempt should be made to investigate the unidentified monies and any monies remaining unidentified should be disbursed in accordance with state law.

D. Attempt to locate the payees of the old outstanding checks and reissue checks if possible. Any remaining unclaimed amounts should be disbursed in accordance with state law.

E. Maintain all public records as required by state law.

Status:

A, D. & E. Implemented.

B. Partially implemented. Receipt slips are prenumbered. Receipt slips are not issued for money orders made payable to vendors and delinquent tax monies received. However, money orders made payable to vendors are recorded on a log as received. See MAR No. 10.

C. Not implemented. See MAR No. 10.

10. Recorder of Deeds' Accounting Controls and Procedures

A. Monies were not deposited intact as cash refunds were made for overpayments of fees paid by check and cash was withheld to make change. In addition, the Recorder of Deeds did not keep a set amount of monies in the change fund.

B. The fee books and other financial records did not contain sufficient documentation to agree individual recordings to related deposits. The method of payment was not documented in the fee book and sufficient detail was not transferred to accounts receivable records for identification purposes.

Recommendation:

The Recorder of Deeds:

A. Deposit all monies received intact daily or when cash on hand exceeds $100. In addition, refunds should be made by check and the change fund kept at a set amount.

B. Record fees in the fee book in sufficient detail to agree individual recordings to the related deposits. This would include documenting the method of payment in the fee book and transferring sufficient details to the accounts receivable records for identification purposes. In addition, the composition (cash, checks, and money orders) noted in the fee book should be reconciled to the composition of bank deposits.

Status:

A. Partially implemented. The Recorder of Deeds maintains the change fund at a constant amount. However, deposits are not made daily and refunds, up to an amount of six dollars, are made in cash. See MAR No. 14.

B. Implemented.

11. Sheriff's Records and Procedures

A. The method of payment was not indicated on the one-write ledger and the composition of receipts was not reconciled to the deposit slips.

B. Receipts were not deposited intact and deposits were made only once or twice a week. In addition, checks from employees were cashed from receipts.

C.1. The mileage claims filed by the Sheriff's Office for investigations did not contain the information required by Section 57.430.2, RSMo 1994.

2. The mileage claims filed by the Sheriff's Office for criminal mileage did not appear to represent actual mileage.

Recommendation:

The Sheriff:

A. Record the method of payment on the one-write ledger and reconcile total cash, checks, and money orders to bank deposits.

B. Deposit all monies received intact daily or when cash on hand exceeds $100. In addition, discontinue cashing checks for employees.

C. Ensure mileage claims submitted are complete and accurate and in accordance with state law. The County Commission should refrain from reimbursing mileage claims that are not in accordance with state law.

Status:

A. Not implemented. See MAR No. 15.

B. Partially implemented. Receipts are deposited intact. However, deposits are not made daily or when receipts exceed $100. See MAR No. 15.

C. Implemented.

12. Health Center's Accounting Controls and Procedures

A.1. Receipts were not deposited intact and on a timely basis. In addition, we noted where checks from employees were cashed.

2. Receipt slips issued by the health center were not prenumbered and receipts were not recorded in the cash control immediately when received. In addition, family planning receipts were not properly recorded.

3. The method of payment was not indicated on the one-write cash control and the composition of receipts was not reconciled to the deposit slips.

4. The duties of receiving, recording, depositing monies and reconciling the bank account were not adequately segregated.

B.1. The Health Center did not have written contracts with the doctors that performed family planning clinics and no invoice for payment was received. Also, there were other disbursements noted that did not have an invoice or supporting documentation.

2. Invoices did not always indicate that the goods or services were actually received.

3. The Health Center Administrator did not review the invoices or supporting documentation before the checks were signed.

C.1. An annual inventory of all general fixed assets was not conducted.

2. Property records were not maintained in a manner that balances could be reconciled from period to period. Likewise, purchases per the expenditure records were not reconciled to additions per the inventory records.

Recommendation:

The Health Center Board of Trustees:

A.1. Deposit all monies received intact daily or when cash on hand exceeds $100. In addition, discontinue cashing checks for employees.

2. Issue prenumbered receipt slips for all monies received and require all receipts to be recorded in the cash control immediately when received.

3. Record the method of payment on the receipt slips or cash control and reconcile total cash, checks, and money orders to bank deposits.

4. Adequately segregate the duties of receiving, recording, depositing monies, and reconciling the account. At a minimum, the Health Center Administrator should perform documented review of the work performed.

B.1. Require a written contract be obtained for all services and ensure adequate documentation is received and maintained to support all expenditures.

2. Require all applicable invoices to indicate receipt of goods.

3. Require the invoice or supporting documentation be reviewed before authorizing payment.

C.1. Perform and document inventories of Health Center owned property as required by state law.

2. Ensure reconciliations are performed between prior year general fixed asset records and current year general fixed asset records which document total additions, deletions, and balances. Property purchases per the expenditure records should be reconciled to the general fixed asset additions.

Status:

A, B.1,
B.2,
& C. Not implemented. See MAR No. 16.

B.3. Partially implemented. The Director or Deputy Director of the Health Center reviews the invoices or supporting documents as checks are signed, however this review is not documented. Although not repeated in the current report, our recommendation remains as stated above.

13. Senate Bill 40 Board

A. The Senate Bill 40 Board Fund had accumulated a significant cash reserve. In addition, the Senate Bill 40 Board had other available resources such as current year property taxes not received at year end also available.

B. The Senate Bill 40 Board contracted with various not-for-profit (NFP) corporations to provide services in accordance with Section 205.970, RSMo 1994. However, the contracts did not specify the amounts to be paid to the NFPs and the specific services to be performed by the NFPs in return.

Recommendation:

The Senate Bill 40 Board:

A. Review the cash balance and consider reducing the property tax levy. If short-term plans have been made for expending the accumulated fund balance, such plans should be set forth publicly in the board minutes. In addition, all beginning available resources should be included in the budget document.

B. Update its contracts with the NFP corporations to include the specific services being received to ensure the consideration received for payments made is reasonable.

Status:

A. Partially implemented. The Senate Bill 40 Board reduced the levy from .09 to .08. In addition, the board is considering additional funding for the NFP organizations it supports. Although not repeated in the current report, our recommendation remains as stated above.

B. Not implemented. The contracts were updated; however they do not detail specific services being received. The NFP organizations present funding requests in writing which indicate how the money will be used. The funding requests and board approval are documented in the board minutes. Although not repeated in the current report, our recommendation remains as stated above.

DUNKLIN COUNTY, MISSOURI
HISTORY, ORGANIZATION,
AND STATISTICAL INFORMATION

Organized in 1845, the county of Dunklin was named after Daniel Dunklin, a former governor of Missouri. Dunklin County is a township-organized, third-class county and is part of the Thirty-Fifth Judicial Circuit. The county seat is Kennett.

Dunklin County's government is composed of a three-member county commission and separate elected officials performing various tasks. The county commission has mainly administrative duties in setting tax levies, appropriating county funds, appointing board members and trustees of special services, accounting for county property, maintaining county roads and bridges, and performing miscellaneous duties not handled by other county officials.

Principal functions of these other officials relate to judicial courts, law enforcement, property assessment, property tax collections, conduct of elections, and maintenance of financial and other records of importance to the county's citizens.

Counties typically spend a large portion of their receipts to support general county operations and to build and maintain roads and bridges. The following chart shows from where Dunklin County received its money in 1998 and 1997 to support the county General Revenue and Special Road and Bridge Funds:

AUDIT REPORT

RAY COUNTY, MISSOURI

TWO YEARS ENDED DECEMBER 31, 1998

From The Office Of State Auditor
Claire McCaskill

Report No. 99-94
October 5, 1999

Office Of The
State Auditor Of Missouri
Claire McCaskill

September 1999

FACT SHEET

IMPORTANT: The Missouri State Auditor is required by Missouri law to conduct audits only once every four years in counties, like Ray, which do not have a county auditor. However, to assist such counties in meeting federal audit requirements, the State Auditor will also perform a financial and compliance audit of various county operating funds every two years. This voluntary service to Missouri counties can only be provided when state auditing resources are available and does not interfere with the State Auditor's constitutional responsibility of auditing state government.

Once every four years, the State Auditor's statutory audit will cover additional areas of county operations, as well as the elected county officials, as required by Missouri's Constitution.

This audit of Ray County included additional areas of county operations, as well as elected county officials. The following concerns were noted as part of the audit:

< During the two years ended December 31, 1998, the financial condition of the county's General Revenue Fund declined significantly from a cash balance of $253,964 at January 1, 1997, to $29,467 at December 31, 1998. The audit suggested the County Commission should continue to monitor the financial condition of the General Revenue Fund and consider how to increase revenues and/or reduce expenditures.

< Problems were noted with the county's budgets during the audit period. Formal budgets were prepared for only a few funds in 1997, and those that were prepared were incomplete and lacked required information. The budgets prepared in 1998 were in better condition, but problems were still noted. In addition, the County Commission approved expenditures in excess of budgeted amounts.

< The county did not prepare a complete and accurate schedule of expenditures of federal awards for each year of the audit period as required. Also, problems were noted regarding the county's handling of federal bridge funds. The county has not established procedures to ensure these federal monies are disbursed to contractors on a timely basis after being received. Payments totaling $261,789 were not made to the contractor on a timely basis. In addition, there was no documentation to indicate that the County Commission considered three engineering firms when procuring engineering services as required, nor did the county adequately monitor grant funds passed on to a special road district.

- The county entered into several agreements with citizen groups and other governmental entities related to funding to be provided by those parties for road work performed by the county. No written contracts were entered into to formalize these agreements. Also, the county has not established adequate procedures to account for the related project costs and reimbursements nor has a written policy been established regarding the handling of those special road projects. As a result, monies due from a city were not received by the county on a timely basis and a citizens group did not pay its proper share of project costs.

- The county did not solicit bids or maintain bid documentation related to various significant purchases. Contract work totaling $37,570 related to a federal flood project was not handled properly. Among various problems noted, only one bid proposal was obtained, a written contract was not entered into, and the work was not properly authorized or documented in the County Commission minutes.

- Various problems were noted regarding the Circuit Clerk's child support records and procedures including; an inadequate segregation of duties, receipts not always being recorded or deposited intact in a timely manner, and no periodic reconciliation of cash receipts to the cash deposited. As a result of these control weaknesses, a $300 cash shortage was not detected in a timely manner. Because of these matters, we are planning to further review additional receipt and deposit records.

Also included in the audit are recommendations for the County Clerk related to the county fixed asset records. Additional recommendations were made to improve the records and/or procedures of the Prosecuting Attorney, Noxious Weed Board, and Senate Bill 40 Board.

Copies of the audit are available upon request.

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT ON THE FINANCIAL STATEMENTS AND SUPPLEMENTARY SCHEDULE OF EXPENDITURES OF FEDERAL AWARDS

To the County Commission
and
Officeholders of Ray County, Missouri

We have audited the accompanying special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Ray County, Missouri, as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, as identified in the table of contents. These special-purpose financial statements are the responsibility of the county's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these special-purpose financial statements based on our audit.

We conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the special-purpose financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the special-purpose financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion.

The accompanying special-purpose financial statements were prepared for the purpose of presenting the receipts, disbursements, and changes in cash of various funds of Ray County, Missouri, and comparisons of such information with the corresponding budgeted information for various funds of the county and are not intended to be a complete presentation of the financial position and results of operations of those funds or of Ray County.

As more fully described in Note 1 to the financial statements, the county's financial statements do not include statements of receipts, disbursements, and changes in cash - budget and actual for various funds totaling $399,011 in receipts, and $350,626 in disbursements for the year ended December 31, 1997. Statements of receipts, disbursements, and changes in cash - budget and actual are required by the comprehensive basis of accounting discussed in Note 1, which is a basis of accounting other than generally accepted accounting principles.

In our opinion, except for the omission of the 1997 information discussed in the preceding paragraph, the special-purpose financial statements referred to in the first paragraph present fairly, in all material respects, the receipts, disbursements, and changes in cash of various funds of Ray County, Missouri, and comparisons of such information with the corresponding budgeted information for various funds of the county as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, in conformity with the comprehensive basis of accounting discussed in Note 1, which is a basis of accounting other than generally accepted accounting principles.

Ray County, Missouri, has not presented the disclosures required by Governmental Accounting Standards Board (GASB) Technical Bulletin 98-1, Disclosures about Year 2000 Issues, as amended by GASB Technical Bulletin 99-1, that the GASB has determined are necessary to supplement, although not be a part of, the basic financial statements. In addition, we do not provide assurance that the county is or will become year 2000-compliant, that the county's year 2000 remediation efforts will be successful in whole or in part, or that parties with which the county does business are or will become year 2000-compliant.

In accordance with Government Auditing Standards, we also have issued our report dated April 29, 1999, on our consideration of the county's internal control over financial reporting and on our tests of its compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants.

The accompanying Schedule of Expenditures of Federal Awards is presented for purposes of additional analysis as required by U.S. Office of Management and Budget (OMB) Circular A-133, Audits of States, Local Governments, and Non-Profit Organizations, and is not a required part of the special-purpose financial statements. Such information has been subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audit of the special-purpose financial statements and, in our opinion, is fairly stated, in all material respects, in relation to the special-purpose financial statements taken as a whole.

The accompanying History, Organization, and Statistical Information is presented for informational purposes. This information was obtained from the management of Ray County, Missouri, and was not subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audit of the special-purpose financial statements referred to above.

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT ON COMPLIANCE
AND ON INTERNAL CONTROL OVER FINANCIAL REPORTING
BASED ON AN AUDIT OF FINANCIAL STATEMENTS PERFORMED
IN ACCORDANCE WITH GOVERNMENT AUDITING STANDARDS

To the County Commission
and
Officeholders of Ray County, Missouri

We have audited the special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Ray County, Missouri, as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, and have issued our report thereon dated April 29, 1999. That report expressed a qualified opinion on the special-purpose financial statements. We conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States.

Compliance

As part of obtaining reasonable assurance about whether the special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Ray County, Missouri, are free of material misstatement, we performed tests of the county's compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants, noncompliance with which could have a direct and material effect on the determination of financial statement amounts. However, providing an opinion on compliance with those provisions was not an objective of our audit, and accordingly, we do not express such an opinion. The results of our tests disclosed an instance of noncompliance that is required to be reported under Government Auditing Standards and which is described in the accompanying Schedule of Findings and Questioned Costs as finding number 98-1. We also noted certain immaterial instances of noncompliance which are described in the accompanying Management Advisory Report.

Internal Control Over Financial Reporting

In planning and performing our audit of the special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Ray County, Missouri, we considered the county's internal control over financial reporting in order to determine our auditing procedures for the purpose of expressing our opinion on the special-purpose financial statements and not to provide assurance on the internal control over financial reporting. However, we noted a certain matter involving the internal control over financial reporting and its operation that we consider to be a reportable condition. Reportable conditions involve matters coming to our attention relating to significant deficiencies in the design or operation of the internal control over financial reporting that, in our judgment, could adversely affect the county's ability to record, process, summarize, and report financial data consistent with the assertions of management in the special-purpose financial statements. The reportable condition is described in the accompanying Schedule of Findings and Questioned Costs as finding number 98-1.

A material weakness is a condition in which the design or operation of one or more of the internal control components does not reduce to a relatively low level the risk that misstatements in amounts that would be material in relation to the special-purpose financial statements being audited may occur and not be detected within a timely period by employees in the normal course of performing their assigned functions. Our consideration of the internal control over financial reporting would not necessarily disclose all matters in the internal control that might be reportable conditions and, accordingly, would not necessarily disclose all reportable conditions that are also considered to be material weaknesses. However, we consider the reportable condition described above, finding number 98-1, to be a material weakness. We also noted other matters involving the internal control over financial reporting which are described in the accompanying Management Advisory Report.

This report is intended for the information of the management of Ray County, Missouri; federal awarding agencies and pass-through entities; and other applicable government officials. However, this report is a matter of public record and its distribution is not limited.

Notes to the Financial Statements

1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

A. Reporting Entity and Basis of Presentation

The accompanying special-purpose financial statements present the receipts, disbursements, and changes in cash of various funds of Ray County, Missouri, and comparisons of such information with the corresponding budgeted information for various funds of the county. The funds presented are established under statutory or administrative authority, and their operations are under the control of the County Commission, an elected county official, or the Senate Bill 40 Board. The General Revenue Fund is the county's general operating fund, accounting for all financial resources except those required to be accounted for in another fund. The other funds presented account for financial resources whose use is restricted for specified purposes.

B. Basis of Accounting

The financial statements are prepared on the cash basis of accounting; accordingly, amounts are recognized when received or disbursed in cash. This basis of accounting differs from generally accepted accounting principles, which require revenues to be recognized when they become available and measurable or when they are earned and expenditures or expenses to be recognized when the related liabilities are incurred.

C. Budgets and Budgetary Practices

The County Commission and other applicable boards are responsible for the preparation and approval of budgets for various county funds in accordance with Sections 50.525 through 50.745, RSMo 1994 and RSMo Cumulative Supp. 1998, the county budget law. These budgets are adopted on the cash basis of accounting.

Although adoption of a formal budget is required by law, the county did not adopt formal budgets for the following funds:

Fund	Years Ended December 31,
Recorder's User Fees Fund	1997
Domestic Violence Fund	1997
Prosecuting Attorney Bad Check Fund	1997
Sheriff's Extradition Fund	1997
Sheriff's Account Fund	1997
Emergency 911 Fund	1997
Chemical Emergency Fund	1998 and 1997
Emergency Shelter Fund	1997
Sheriff's Post Certification Training Fund	1997
Flood Disaster Fund	1997
Circuit Clerk Interest Fund	1998 and 1997
Associate Circuit Division Interest Fund	1998 and 1997

Warrants issued were in excess of budgeted amounts for the following funds:

Fund	Year Ended December 31,
Class III Road and Bridge Fund	1998
Assessment Fund	1998
Law Enforcement Training Fund	1997
Noxious Weed Fund	1997
Recorder's User Fees Fund	1998
Domestic Violence Fund	1998
Sheriff's Extradition Fund	1998
Senate Bill 40 Fund	1998

Section 50.740, RSMo 1994, prohibits expenditures in excess of the approved budgets.

D. Published Financial Statements

Under Sections 50.800 and 50.810, RSMo 1994, the County Commission is responsible for preparing and publishing in a local newspaper a detailed annual financial statement for the county. The financial statement is required to show receipts or revenues, disbursements or expenditures, and beginning and ending balances for each fund.

However, the county's published financial statements for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, did not include the Circuit Clerk Interest Fund and the Associate Circuit Division Interest Fund.

2. Cash

Section 110.270, RSMo 1994, based on Article IV, Section 15, Missouri Constitution, authorizes counties to place their funds, either outright or by repurchase agreement, in U.S. Treasury and agency obligations. In addition, Section 30.950, RSMo Cumulative Supp. 1998, effective August 28, 1997, requires political subdivisions with existing authority to invest in instruments other than depositary accounts at financial institutions to adopt a written investment policy. Among other things, the policy is to commit a political subdivision to the principles of safety, liquidity, and yield (in that order) when managing public funds and to prohibit purchase of derivatives (either directly or through repurchase agreements), use of leveraging (through either reverse repurchase agreements or other methods), and use of public funds for speculation. The county has not adopted such a policy.

In accordance with Statement No. 3 of the Governmental Accounting Standards Board, Deposits with Financial Institutions, Investments (Including Repurchase Agreements), and Reverse Repurchase Agreements, disclosures are provided below regarding the risk of potential loss of cash deposits. For the purposes of these disclosures, deposits with financial institutions are demand, time, and savings accounts, including certificates of deposit and negotiable order of withdrawal accounts, in banks, savings institutions, and credit unions.

The financial statements do not include the cash balances of the County Collector, who collects and distributes property taxes as an agent for various local governments. However, for the purpose of these risk disclosures, the County Collector's cash balances are included since collateral securities to cover amounts not covered by federal depositary insurance are pledged to the county rather than to specific county officials.

Of the county's bank balance at December 31, 1998, $2,417,235 was covered by federal depositary insurance or by collateral securities held by the county's custodial bank in the county's name and $3,713,125 was covered by collateral held by the pledging (or depositary) bank, or by its trust department or agent but not in the county's name, and $665,708 was uninsured and uncollateralized.

The county's deposits at December 31, 1997, were entirely covered by federal depositary insurance or by collateral securities held by the county's custodial bank in the county's name.

To protect the safety of county deposits, Section 110.020, RSMo 1994, requires depositaries to pledge collateral securities to secure county deposits not insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

The Senate Bill 40 Board's deposits at December 31, 1998 and 1997, were entirely covered by federal depositary insurance or by collateral securities held by the custodial bank in the board's name.

3. Use Tax Liability

The local use tax under Section 144.748, RSMo 1994, was struck down in its entirety by the Missouri Supreme Court in Associated Industries of Missouri v. Director of Revenue, 918 S.W.2d 780 (Mo. banc 1996). In St. Charles County v. Director of Revenue, 961 S.W.2d 44 (Mo. banc 1998), the Missouri Supreme Court ruled that local use taxes paid prior to the repeal of Section 144.748, RSMo 1994, must be refunded to taxpayers and authorized the Department of Revenue (DOR) to withhold amounts otherwise due to political subdivisions to the extent such withholding is necessary to cover the refund expense. On March 24, 1998, the Cole County Circuit Court entered final judgment in accordance with the Supreme Court's opinion and ordered the DOR to process refund claims filed.

The county has received $354,088 in local use tax since its inception. The DOR has estimated the county's share of the total refund liability to be $169,462. As of December 31, 1998, $63,550 remains to be paid.

4. Subsequent Event

In September 1999, various former and current employees of the Ray County Sheriff's department filed a lawsuit in federal court against the Sheriff, the County Commission, and Ray County alleging various improprieties, including assault and battery, emotional distress, wrongful discharge, and uncompensated overtime and other wages, among others. The plaintiffs are asking for damages in excess of $4 million from both the county and the Sheriff. The potential liability to the county cannot be determined at this time.

Notes to the Supplementary Schedule

RAY COUNTY, MISSOURI
NOTES TO THE SUPPLEMENTARY SCHEDULE

1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

A. Purpose of Schedule and Reporting Entity

The accompanying Schedule of Expenditures of Federal Awards has been prepared to comply with the requirements of OMB Circular A-133. This circular requires a schedule that provides total federal awards expended for each federal program and the Catalog of Federal Domestic Assistance (CFDA) number or other identifying number when the CFDA information is not available.

The schedule includes all federal awards administered by Ray County, Missouri.

B. Basis of Presentation

OMB Circular A-133 includes these definitions, which govern the contents of the schedule:

> Federal financial assistance means assistance that non-Federal entities receive or administer in the form of grants, loans, loan guarantees, property (including donated surplus property), cooperative agreements, interest subsidies, insurance, food commodities, direct appropriations, and other assistance, but does not include amounts received as reimbursement for services rendered to individuals . . . .
> Federal award means Federal financial assistance and Federal cost-reimbursement contracts that non-Federal entities receive directly from Federal awarding agencies or indirectly from pass-through entities. It does not include procurement contracts, under grants or contracts, used to buy goods or services from vendors.

Accordingly, the schedule includes expenditures of both cash and noncash awards.

C. Basis of Accounting

Except as noted below, the schedule is presented on the cash basis of accounting, which recognizes amounts only when disbursed in cash.

Amounts for the Food Distribution Program (CFDA number 10.550) represent the dollar value assigned to commodities based on prices provided by the state Department of Social Services. Amounts for the Donation of Federal Surplus Personal Property Program (CFDA number 39.003) represent the estimated fair market value of property at the time of receipt.

2. Subrecipients

FEDERAL AWARDS -
SINGLE AUDIT SECTION

State Auditor's Report

CLAIRE C. McCASKILL
Missouri State Auditor

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT ON COMPLIANCE WITH REQUIREMENTS APPLICABLE TO EACH MAJOR PROGRAM AND ON INTERNAL CONTROL OVER COMPLIANCE IN ACCORDANCE WITH OMB CIRCULAR A-133

To the County Commission
and Officeholders of Ray County, Missouri

Compliance

We have audited the compliance of Ray County, Missouri, with the types of compliance requirements described in the U.S. Office of Management and Budget (OMB) Circular A-133 Compliance Supplement that are applicable to each of its major federal programs for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997. The county's major federal programs are identified in the summary of auditor's results section of the accompanying Schedule of Findings and Questioned Costs. Compliance with the requirements of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants applicable to each of its major federal programs is the responsibility of the county's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on the county's compliance based on our audit.

We conducted our audit of compliance in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards; the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States; and OMB Circular A-133, Audits of States, Local Governments, and Non-Profit Organizations. Those standards and OMB Circular A-133 require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether noncompliance with the types of compliance requirements referred to above that could have a direct and material effect on a major federal program occurred. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence about the county's compliance with those requirements and performing such other procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion. Our audit does not provide a legal determination of the county's compliance with those requirements.

In our opinion, Ray County, Missouri, complied, in all material respects, with the requirements referred to above that are applicable to each of its major federal programs for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997. However, the results of our auditing procedures disclosed instances of noncompliance with those requirements, which are required to be reported in accordance with OMB Circular A-133 and which are described in the accompanying Schedule of Findings and Questioned Costs as finding numbers 98-2 through 98-3.

Truman State Office Building, Room 880 • Jefferson City, MO 65101 • (573) 751-4213 • FAX (573) 751-7984

Internal Control Over Compliance

The management of Ray County, Missouri, is responsible for establishing and maintaining effective internal control over compliance with the requirements of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants applicable to federal programs. In planning and performing our audit, we considered the county's internal control over compliance with requirements that could have a direct and material effect on a major federal program in order to determine our auditing procedures for the purpose of expressing our opinion on compliance and to test and report on the internal control over compliance in accordance with OMB Circular A-133.

We noted a certain matter involving the internal control over compliance and its operation that we consider to be a reportable condition. Reportable conditions involve matters coming to our attention relating to significant deficiencies in the design or operation of the internal control over compliance that, in our judgment, could adversely affect the county's ability to administer a major federal program in accordance with the applicable requirements of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants. The reportable condition is described in the accompanying Schedule of Findings and Questioned Costs as finding number 98-2.

A material weakness is a condition in which the design or operation of one or more of the internal control components does not reduce to a relatively low level the risk that noncompliance with the applicable requirements of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants that would be material in relation to a major federal program being audited may occur and not be detected within a timely period by employees in the normal course of performing their assigned functions. Our consideration of the internal control over compliance would not necessarily disclose all matters in the internal control that might be reportable conditions and, accordingly, would not necessarily disclose all reportable conditions that are also considered to be material weaknesses. However, we do not believe that the reportable condition described above is a material weakness.

This report is intended for the information of the management of Ray County, Missouri; federal awarding agencies and pass-through entities; and other applicable government officials. However, this report is a matter of public record and its distribution is not limited.

Section II - Financial Statement Findings

This section includes the audit finding that Government Auditing Standards requires to be reported for an audit of financial statements.

98-1. Budgetary Practices

Problems were noted regarding the budgets prepared by the county during the audit period. The budget documents prepared by the County Clerk for the year ended December 31, 1997, were inadequate. Formal budgets were prepared only for a few funds and those that were submitted were not complete and lacked required information. For example, the budgets prepared for some county funds did not present a summary and cash reconciliation page and actual expenditures for the two preceding years were not presented. In addition, the expenditures portion of the budgets was not properly classified for several county funds. Because of the problems noted above, budget to actual financial information for a number of county funds could not be presented for the year ended December 31, 1997.

The initial budget documents prepared by the County Clerk and submitted to the State Auditor's office for the year ended December 31, 1998, were also not accurate and complete and the county was requested to prepare and resubmit a corrected 1998 budget. These budget documents were in better condition than those prepared for 1997, but problems were still noted. For example, a miscellaneous fund budget was prepared combining a number of funds together, with the revenues, expenditures, and cash balances not properly detailed by fund. In addition, they contained budget information for several funds for which budgets were not required.

Chapter 50, RSMo, requires the preparation of annual budgets for all county funds to present a complete financial plan for the ensuing year. By preparing or obtaining accurate and complete budgets for all funds, the County Commission can evaluate all county resources more effectively.

The budget documents prepared for the year ending December 31, 1999, showed improvement and appeared to have corrected many of the problems noted in the 1998 budget documents.

A similar condition was also noted in our prior report.

WE AGAIN RECOMMEND the County Commission and the County Clerk continue to ensure budgets are complete and accurate and include all required information as provided by state law.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE AND CORRECTIVE ACTION PLAN

The County Commission and County Clerk concur, and the County Clerk indicated he will make every effort to ensure the budget for the year 2000 is complete and accurate. The County Clerk indicated that for several of these funds in 1997, budget forms were provided to various officials for completion; however, the budget forms were not completed and returned.

Section III - Federal Award Findings and Questioned Costs

This section includes the audit findings that Section .510(a) of OMB Circular A-133 requires to be reported for an audit of federal awards.

98-2. Schedule of Expenditures of Federal Awards

Federal Grantor: U.S. Department of Justice
Pass-Through Grantor: Not applicable
Federal CFDA Number: 16.710
Program Title: Public Safety Partnership and Community Policing ("Cops") Grants
Pass-Through Entity Identifying Number: Not applicable
Award Year: 1995
Questioned Costs: Not applicable

Federal Grantor: U.S. Department of Transportation
Pass-Through Grantor: State Highway and Transportation Commission
Federal CFDA Number: 20.205
Program Title: Off-System Bridge Replacement and Rehabilitation Program Pass-Through Entity Identifying Number: BRO-089(10), BRO-089(11), and BRO-089(15)
Award Years: 1998 and 1997
Questioned Costs: Not applicable

Section .310(b) of Circular A-133, Audits of State and Local Governments, and Non-Profit Organizations, requires the auditee to prepare a schedule of expenditures of federal awards (SEFA) for the period covered by the auditee's financial statements. The county is required to submit the schedule of expenditures of federal awards to the State Auditor's office as a part of the annual budget.

The county does not have a procedure in place to track federal assistance for preparation of the SEFA. The county did not prepare and submit a SEFA to the State Auditor's office for the year ended December 31, 1997. The county did prepare and submit a SEFA to the State Auditor's office for the year ended December 31, 1998; however, it was inaccurate and incomplete. The 1998 SEFA reported only $347,533 in total federal assistance with inaccurate amounts presented for some programs and nothing presented for other programs.

Without an accurate and timely SEFA, federal financial activity may not be audited and reported in accordance with federal audit requirements which could result in future reductions of federal funds.

WE RECOMMEND the County Clerk prepare a complete and accurate schedule of expenditures of federal awards and submit the schedule to the State Auditor's office as part of the annual budget.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE AND CORRECTIVE ACTION PLAN

The County Clerk indicated he will make every effort to ensure the 1999 SEFA submitted with the year 2000 budget is complete and accurate; however, he will need the assistance and cooperation of other county officials.

98-3. Federal Bridge Program

Federal Grantor: U.S. Department of Transportation
Pass-Through Grantor: State Highway and Transportation Commission
Federal CFDA Number: 20.205
Program Title: Off-System Bridge Replacement and Rehabilitation Program
Pass-Through Entity Identifying Number: BRO-089(10), BRO-089(11), and BRO-089(15)
Award Year: 1998 and 1997
Questioned Costs: $22,386

The county receives funding from the Missouri Department of Transportation for bridge replacement and rehabilitation under the Off-System Bridge Replacement and Rehabilitation Program. During the two years ended December 31, 1998, a total of $493,473 was either expended directly by the county or passed-through to a special road district under this program. Our review noted the following concerns:

A. The county has not established cash management procedures to ensure the minimum time elapses between its receipt of federal project monies and the distribution of such monies to contractors. We noted 5 reimbursements totaling $261,789 where payment was not made to the contractor on a timely basis as follows:

	Amount	Date Received	Date Paid	Number of Days Held
$	80,624	7-10-97	7-23-97	12
	71,573	7-16-97	7-23-97	6
	45,441	8-04-97	9-15-97	41
	27,797	8-12-97	9-15-97	33
	36,354	9-08-97	9-15-97	6

Section 6.2.2 of the Cash Management Improvement Act Agreement between the State of Missouri and the Secretary of the Treasury, United States Department of the Treasury, states that funds shall be requested such that they are received not more than two days prior to their disbursement.

B. The county incurred $22,386 in engineering costs related to the applicable county bridge projects during the audit period. These expenditures were all made to the same engineering firm. There was no documentation to indicate that the County Commission considered other engineering firms when procuring these services.

Sections 8.289 and 8.291, RSMo, provide that when obtaining engineering services for any capital improvement project, at least three highly qualified firms should be considered. The firms should be evaluated based upon specified criteria including experience and technical competence, capacity and capability of the firm to perform the work in question, past record of performance, and the firm's proximity to and familiarity with the area in which the project is located. As a result, we have presented the $22,386 as questioned costs.

C. Ray County received federal bridge monies totaling $251,763 during the audit period on behalf of the Richmond Special Road District. These monies were initially received by the county and passed on to the road district by endorsing the checks directly over to the district.

As the grant recipient, Ray County assumed responsibility for these grant monies. OMB Circular A-133 requires grant recipients to provide subrecipients the applicable federal compliance requirements and monitor the subrecipients activities to provide reasonable assurance that the subrecipients administer the federal awards in compliance with requirements. However, it appears the county did not perform adequate monitoring procedures related to these grant funds to ensure the monies were administered properly and in compliance with grant requirements.

The county should ensure any grant funds passed on to subrecipients are properly monitored as required by OMB Circular A-133. In addition, good management practices dictate that grant monies be receipted, deposited, and disbursed by check.

WE RECOMMEND the County Commission:

A. Establish procedures to minimize the time elapsed between the receipt of federal monies and disbursement of such funds.

B. Resolve the questioned costs with the grantor agency. For future projects, a statement of qualifications and performance data should be obtained from at least three engineering firms before contracting for these services.

C. Ensure grant monies distributed to subrecipients are properly monitored as required by OMB Circular A-133. In addition, grant monies received by the county should be receipted and deposited and disbursed by check to the applicable parties.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE AND CORRECTIVE ACTION PLAN

A. The County Commission concurs and indicated that in the future, federal funds will be disbursed within two working days.

B. The County Commission indicated it believes three engineering firms were considered; however, in the future, it will ensure this is documented in the project files. In addition, the County Commission indicated it will make every effort to resolve the questioned costs.

C. The County Commission concurs with the recommendation; however, the County Commission indicated it is unlikely any future BRO funds will be distributed to special road districts.

Our prior audit report issued for the three years ended December 31, 1996, included no audit findings that Government Auditing Standards requires to be reported for an audit of financial statements.

Summary Schedule of Prior Audit Findings
in Accordance With OMB Circular A-133

RAY COUNTY, MISSOURI
SUMMARY SCHEDULE OF PRIOR AUDIT FINDINGS
IN ACCORDANCE WITH OMB CIRCULAR A-133

Section .315 of OMB Circular A-133 requires the auditee to prepare a Summary Schedule of Prior Audit Findings to report the status of all findings that are relative to federal awards and included in the prior audit report's Schedule of Findings and Questioned Costs. The summary schedule also must include findings reported in the prior audit's Summary Schedule of Prior Audit Findings, except those listed as corrected, no longer valid, or not warranting further action.

Section .500(e) of OMB Circular A-133 requires the auditor to follow up on these prior audit findings; to perform procedures to assess the reasonableness of the Summary Schedule of Prior Audit Findings; and to report, as a current year finding, when the auditor concludes that the schedule materially misrepresents the status of any prior findings.

This section represents the Summary Schedule of Prior Audit Findings, which was prepared by the county's management.

4.A.1. Federal Financial Assistance

Federal Grantor:	U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development
Pass-Through Grantor:	Department of Economic Development
Federal CFDA Number:	14.219
Program Title:	Community Development Block Grants/Small Cities Program
Pass-Through Entity Identifying Number:	94-DR-72
Award Year:	1996
Questioned Costs:	Not applicable.

The county applied for and received a Community Development Block Grant on behalf of a drainage and levee district in the county involving grant expenditures of $388,300 in 1996. While an administrative agency was primarily responsible for overseeing the handling of this grant and preparing the requests for funds, the County Commission was responsible for approving and submitting the requests for funds to the granting agency and authorizing the payments to the applicable contractors. The County Commission did not review the expenditure documentation to support the reimbursement requests.

Recommendation:

The County Commission adequately review supporting documentation for all expenditures prior to approving reimbursement requests and monitor subrecipient expenditures.

Status:

No monies were received or disbursed under this federal program during the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997.

4.A.2. Federal Financial Assistance

Federal Grantor:	U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development
Pass-Through Grantor:	Department of Social Services
Federal CFDA Number:	14.231
Program Title:	Emergency Shelter Grants Program
Pass-Through Entity Identifying Number:	Not applicable
Award Year:	1995
Questioned Costs:	Not applicable

The county entered into a grant agreement pursuant to the Emergency Shelter Grants Program. Monies related to this grant totaling $16,804 were passed through to a not-for-profit entity. The county did not monitor how the monies were used or review the audits obtained by this entity. In addition, copies of the expenditure documentation to support the reimbursement requests were not maintained by the county as required by the contract.

Recommendation:

The County Commission adequately review supporting documentation for all expenditures prior to approving reimbursement requests and monitor subrecipient expenditures. In addition, the county should ensure copies of expenditure documentation is properly maintained if required by the grant contract(s).

Status:

Implemented.

4.A.3. Federal Financial Assistance

Federal Grantor:	U.S. Department of Justice
Pass-Through Grantor:	Department of Public Safety
Federal CFDA Number:	16.588
Program Title:	Domestic Violence Project Protect
Pass-Through Entity Identifying Number:	95-VAWA-0018
Award Year:	1996
Questioned Costs:	Not applicable.

The county entered into a grant agreement pursuant to the Project Protect Program. Monies related to this grant totaling $25,190 were passed through to a not-for-profit entity. The county did not monitor how the monies were used or review the audits obtained by this entity. In addition, copies of the expenditure documentation to support the reimbursement requests were not maintained by the county as required by the contract.

Recommendation:

The County Commission adequately review supporting documentation for all expenditures prior to approving reimbursement requests and monitor subrecipient expenditures. In addition, the county should ensure copies of expenditure documentation is properly maintained if required by the grant contract(s).

Status:

Implemented.

4.B. Federal Financial Assistance

Federal Grantor:	Federal Emergency Management Agency
Pass-Through Grantor:	Department of Public Safety
Federal CFDA Number:	83.516
Program Title:	Disaster Assistance
Pass-Through Entity Identifying Number:	FEMA-DR-1054-MO
Award Year:	1996
Questioned Costs:	$58,736

The County received federal funding through the State Emergency Management Agency (SEMA) to clean-up and repair roads damaged by flooding. In 1994, the county paid a contractor for flood clean-up services. There was no documentation to indicate that bids were advertised or solicited for these services. As a result of this situation, $58,736 in grant expenditures was included on the Schedule of Questioned Costs. In addition, in 1995 the county solicited bids on various types of rock, but the amounts charged the county for some types of rock on projects reviewed did not agree to the bid price. The total amount of overcharges for rock on these projects was $1,116.

Recommendation:

Ensure bids are solicited related to grant expenditures and work with the applicable grantor agency to resolve the amount presented on the Schedule of Questioned Costs. In addition, the county should follow-up on the overcharges noted above with the applicable supplier.

Status:

Implemented. The amount of questioned costs was resolved with the grantor agency, with no monies required to be repaid. In addition, the overcharges were subsequently credited by the supplier against other purchases made.

MANAGEMENT ADVISORY REPORT SECTION

Management Advisory Report -
State Auditor's Findings

RAY COUNTY, MISSOURI
MANAGEMENT ADVISORY REPORT -
STATE AUDITOR'S FINDINGS

We have audited the special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Ray County, Missouri, as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, and have issued our report thereon dated April 29, 1999. We also have audited the compliance of Ray County, Missouri, with the types of compliance requirements described in the U.S. Office of Management and Budget (OMB) Circular A-133 Compliance Supplement that are applicable to each of its major federal programs for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, and have issued our report thereon dated April 29, 1999.

We also have reviewed the operations of elected officials with funds other than those presented in the special-purpose financial statements. As applicable, the objectives of this review were to:

1. Determine the internal controls established over the transactions of the various county officials.

2. Review and evaluate certain other management practices for efficiency and effectiveness.

3. Review certain management practices and financial information for compliance with applicable constitutional, statutory, or contractual provisions.

Our review was made in accordance with applicable generally accepted government auditing standards and included such procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances. In this regard, we reviewed accounting and bank records and other pertinent documents and interviewed various personnel of the county officials.

As part of our review, we assessed the controls of the various county officials to the extent we determined necessary to evaluate the specific matters described above and not to provide assurance on those controls. With respect to controls, we obtained an understanding of the design of relevant policies and procedures and whether they have been placed in operation and we assessed control risk.

Because the Ray County Memorial Hospital Board and Ray County Health Center Board are audited and separately reported on by other independent auditors, the related funds are not presented in the special-purpose financial statements. However, we reviewed those audit reports and the substantiating working papers for the years ended October 31, 1998 and 1997, for the Ray County Memorial Hospital Board, and December 31, 1998 and 1997, for the Ray County Health Center Board.

Our review was limited to the specific matters described in the preceding paragraphs and was based on selective tests and procedures considered appropriate in the circumstances. Had we performed additional procedures, other information might have come to our attention that would have been included in this report.

The accompanying Management Advisory Report presents our findings arising from our review of the elected county officials and the county boards referred to above. In addition, this report includes findings other than those, if any, reported in the accompanying Schedule of Findings and Questioned Costs. These findings resulted from our audit of the special-purpose financial statements of Ray County but do not meet the criteria for inclusion in the written report on compliance and on internal control over financial reporting that is required for an audit performed in accordance with Government Auditing Standards.

1. Financial Condition

During the two years ended December 31, 1998, the financial condition of the county's General Revenue Fund declined significantly compared to the condition of the fund at the end of the prior audit period. During the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, disbursements exceeded receipts by $106,160 and $118,337, respectively, resulting in the balance of the General Revenue Fund dropping from $253,964 at January 1, 1997, to $29,467 at December 31, 1998.

The increase in expenditures was mainly due to salary increases to officials and employees, improvements to the courthouse building and grounds, and an increase in expenses in the budget of the Sheriff's Department and jail (which included dispatching costs related to the Emergency 911 operation). The county's financial condition was also impacted by the required refund of over $100,000 in local use tax monies during the current audit period.

The county's budget document for the year ending December 31, 1999, projected an increase in the General Revenue Fund cash balance by over $8,300 compared to the balance at December 31, 1998. The County Commission should continue to monitor the financial condition of this fund and consider how revenues might be increased and/or expenditures reduced.

WE RECOMMEND the County Commission continue to monitor the financial condition of the General Revenue Fund and consider ways of increasing revenues and/or reducing expenditures.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The County Commission concurs and indicated it believes the county's financial condition will improve now that the use tax liability has been repaid and because sales tax revenues have increased.

2. County Expenditures

A. The County Commission approved expenditures in excess of budgeted amounts in various funds during the two years ended December 31, 1998, as follows:

Fund		Year Ended December 31, 1998	1997
Class III Road and Bridge	$	29,917	N/A
Assessment		20,548	N/A
Law Enforcement Training		N/A	3,896
Recorder's User Fees		7,691	N/A
Domestic Violence		72	N/A
Sheriff's Extradition		667	N/A

It appears this situation occurred because the county did not adequately monitor the actual expenditures compared to the budget amounts and failed to properly amend the budgets when it became apparent the budgeted amounts would be exceeded.

It was ruled in State ex. rel. Strong v. Cribb, 364 Mo. 1122, 273 SW2d 246 (1954), that strict compliance with the county budget law is required by county officials. If there are valid reasons which necessitate excess expenditures, amendments should be made following the same process by which the annual budget was approved, including holding public hearings and filing the amended budget with the State Auditor's office.

B. The county did not solicit bids or maintain bid documentation related to various significant purchases. These purchases include the following:

	Amount
911 generator	$ 8,395
Repair of gas furnace at jail	8,305
911 communication equipment service	7,100
Planning and zoning computer	7,078
Restoration of Recorder's records	5,671
County Clerk's computer	4,532

Additionally, it was noted that the Sheriff made food purchases of $32,286 and $27,888 in 1998 and 1997, respectively, from one vendor without soliciting bids. County officials indicated that bids were solicited for some of these purchases, but only one bid was received; however, these situations were not adequately documented.

Section 50.660, RSMo Cum. Supp. 1998, requires bids for all purchases greater than $4,500 from any one person, firm or corporation during any period of ninety days. Bidding procedures for major purchases provide a framework for economical management of county resources and help assure the county that it receives fair value by contracting with the lowest and best bidder. In addition, competitive bidding ensures all parties are given an equal opportunity to participate in county business. Documentation of bids should always be retained as evidence the county's established purchasing procedures as well as statutory requirements are followed.

C. In addition to the expenditures noted above, in November 1998 county officials authorized contract work totaling $37,570 related to a flood project based only upon one bid proposal obtained. According to county officials, the county did not obtain bids from more than one contractor because the project was considered to be an emergency by the former local Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) project coordinator. It appears this work was not properly authorized by the County Commission, was not documented in the commission minutes, nor did the county enter into a written contract with the applicable contractor. In addition, it appears this work was done partially on private property rather than entirely on county right-of-way. It appears the county proceeded with this project based solely on the verbal authorization of the FEMA official and did not obtain written approval from FEMA before the work was started. The county paid $37,570 to the contractor for this work on December 21, 1998.

   In 1999, it was determined by FEMA that the project was not eligible for federal reimbursement and the county's reimbursement claim has initially been denied. However, the county is currently pursuing recovery of reimbursements related to this project.

D. During the two years ended December 31, 1998, the county distributed a portion of its County Aid Road Trust (CART) revenues and road and bridge sales tax revenues to the six special road districts within the county. Payments totaling $364,225 and $368,816 were made from the Class III Road and Bridge Fund and Special Road and Bridge Sales Tax Fund, respectively, to the special road districts during this period. These payments were made without proper written contracts being prepared. Written statements were obtained from three of the road districts in 1998 regarding how the monies were to be used; however, such statements do not constitute proper contracts and were not signed by the County Commission.

   There appears to be no statutory authority for the County Commission to make these distributions to the special road districts without some type of contractual agreement. Written agreements would help ensure that monies distributed to other entities are expended in compliance with constitutional and statutory provisions and as intended by the County Commission.

Conditions similar to A. and D. were also noted in the previous audit report.

WE RECOMMEND the County Commission:

A. Keep expenditures within the amounts budgeted. If additional expenditures are necessary, the extenuating circumstances should be fully documented and the budgets properly amended.

B. Solicit bids for all expenditures in excess of $4,500 as required by state law and retain documentation of these bids and justification for bid awards.

C. Continue to pursue the possible recovery of federal reimbursements related to the applicable project. Also, the county should ensure such a situation does not reoccur. This would include ensuring written authorization to proceed has been received from the applicable grantor agency and that all grant requirements have been met. Further, written contracts should be entered into for any contracted work and bids should be solicited to the extent possible.

D. Enter into proper written contracts, which specifically state what services are to be provided to the county, for any distribution of CART or road and bridge sales tax monies to the special road districts.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

A&D. The County Commission concurs.

B. The County Commission indicated it will solicit bids as recommended unless the expenditure is an emergency expenditure on the roads. In those instances, the circumstances will be documented.

C. The County Commission indicated that it appealed FEMA's denial of the claim and has been successful in getting this project approved for reimbursement. However, the County Commission concurs with the recommendation and indicated that projects involving emergencies will be properly documented in the future and that the contracted costs will not be paid until after the reimbursements are received. In addition, while a portion of the work was done on private property, this was done to stabilize the river banks to prevent future occurrences.

3. Special Road Projects

The county entered into several agreements with citizen groups and other governmental entities related to work performed on various roads in the county. We noted the following concerns during our review of this situation.

A. All of the special road projects entered into by the county were based upon verbal agreements. No written contracts were entered into to formalize these agreements.

Section 432.070, RSMo 1994, requires all contracts be in writing. Written agreements should clearly specify the services to be rendered, the amount of compensation to be paid by the respective parties, and the manner in which the citizens or other entities should pay their required share. Such written contracts lessen the opportunity for misunderstandings between the parties involved.

B. The county has not established adequate procedures to account for the related project costs and reimbursements nor has a written policy been established regarding the handling of special road projects or to clarify when other entities or citizens will be asked to pay a portion of the costs of road projects. According to the County Commission, highly traveled roads will be paved solely at the county's expense. Other entities or citizens wishing to have other roads paved which are not heavily traveled will possibly be asked to pay a portion of the costs.

The county should establish adequate procedures to account for the project costs and reimbursements. In addition, a written policy regarding the handling of road projects would help clarify the commission's intent regarding such projects and help ensure they are handled in a consistent manner.

C. In 1996, the county entered into an agreement with a citizens group and a city to chip and seal a particular road. The citizens group agreed to pay one-half of the total costs and the city and county agreed to pay the remainder. Our review noted that the county paid the contractor and received payment from the citizens' group; however, the county had not received the city's share of the costs ($2,633) at the time of our review. It is apparent the county did not properly monitor this project to ensure all amounts due the county were properly collected.

After we brought this matter to the attention of the county, the city was contacted regarding the amount owed. A $2,633 payment from the city was subsequently received by the county in April 1999. The county should ensure all payments due the county from similar projects are received in a timely manner.

D. In 1997, a citizens group and the county entered into an agreement to equally share the cost of chipping and sealing several roads in a particular subdivision. The project work began in the fall of 1997 and was not completed until the fall of 1998. The county did not require the citizens group to reimburse the county for its portion of the costs until after the project was completed.

The total cost of the project was $62,470 or $31,235 each for the citizens group and the county. However, the citizens group raised only $25,707. In addition, two checks from citizens totaling $1,000 were returned by the bank because of insufficient funds. As a result, the county paid an additional $6,528 on this project which was the responsibility of the citizens group.

The county should ensure its interests are protected on future projects such as this. The county should consider requiring that portion of the costs to be reimbursed by outside parties be received before the road project is started. By not receiving the full amount of costs due on such road projects, the county must contribute more than intended.

WE RECOMMEND the County Commission:

A. Ensure arrangements such as this are formalized in written contracts as required by state law.

B. Ensure adequate procedures are established to account for the project costs and reimbursements and adopt a formal policy regarding the handling of road projects and clarifying when other entities or citizens may be asked to pay a portion of the costs.

C. Ensure that all amounts owed the county are collected in a timely manner.

D. Take steps to ensure outside parties properly pay their share of costs related to such road projects. The Commission should consider requiring these parties to contribute their share of the costs before the road project is started.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

A-C. The County Commission concurs.

D. The County Commission concurs with the recommendation, however, it indicated efforts are still being made to collect the amounts owed.

4. General Fixed Asset Records and Procedures

A. The county's general fixed asset records have not been kept current. Additions and deletions have not been reflected in the records on a perpetual basis. In addition, an annual inspection and inventory of all personal property items owned by the county and quarterly inspections of county-owned land and buildings were not performed by the County Clerk as required by Section 51.155, RSMo Cum. Supp. 1998.

Fixed asset records should be kept and maintained on a perpetual basis to ensure historical information, particularly the cost of the assets, is not lost and to ensure the continuity of the records. In addition, an inspection and inventory of the property items would help verify the accuracy of the records and detect any missing items.

B. The Sheriff maintains some county-owned assets at his personal residence, including two boats with motors, two boat trailers, two trucks, and a passenger van. The items are stored at the Sheriffs's farm because the county lacks adequate storage. The county does not maintain any detailed record of the assets stored by the Sheriff, nor does the county receive reports on the usage of these assets.

The county should prepare a record of the assets stored at the Sheriff's personal residence, and compare that record to a physical inventory on an annual basis. This will provide more assurance that all county assets stored by the Sheriff are adequately accounted for and help reduce the possibility of theft, loss, or misuse. In addition, periodic reports showing the date used and purpose of use are necessary to ensure that the assets are used appropriately.

C. Information presently recorded in the general fixed asset records is incomplete. The records do not generally include an identification number; serial number, where appropriate; date of acquisition; source of acquisition by fund; and the date and method of disposition, if applicable. In addition, actual or estimated costs for some items were not included.

D. While it appears the County Clerk has tagged many road and bridge items belonging to the county, many other county general fixed asset items are still not numbered, tagged, or otherwise identified as county property.

While it appears some improvement has been made in the county's general fixed asset records, further improvements are needed. Adequate general fixed asset records are necessary to meet statutory requirements, secure better internal control over county property, and provide a basis for determining proper insurance coverage.

These conditions were similarly noted in the previous report.

WE AGAIN RECOMMEND the County Clerk:

A. Bring the general fixed asset records up-to-date and maintain them on a perpetual basis by reflecting all fixed asset additions and retirements as they occur. In addition, an annual inspection and inventory of county-owned personal property and quarterly inspections of county owned land and buildings should be performed as required by statute.

B. Prepare and maintain a record of all county assets stored at the Sheriff's residence and periodically compare that record to a physical inventory of the assets. In addition, reports detailing the date and purpose of the use of the assets should also be received on a periodic basis.

C. Include the following information in the general fixed asset records for each item:

1) Identification number;

2) Description of the item to include name, make, model, and serial number, where appropriate;
3) Physical location in sufficient detail to readily locate the item;
4) Date of acquisition;
5) Original cost and current market value;
6) Source of acquisition by fund; and,
7) Date and method of disposition, if applicable.

D. Identify all general fixed asset items with an original cost of $250 or more with a number, tag, or similar device.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The County Clerk indicated he will consider these recommendations; however, House Bill 402, which was recently passed and signed, has changed the county clerk's responsibilities related to county fixed assets and some duties are now the responsibility of other officials. The County Clerk indicated he would comply with the provisions of this new legislation.

5. Meal Expenses Paid From Bad Check Fund

Former Prosecuting Attorney Lehnen and his staff spent approximately $3,291 and $1,753 in 1998 and 1997, respectively, for meals and travel expenses while attending training seminars. In the prior audit, we reported that former Prosecuting Attorney Lehnen had claimed travel expenses which appeared unreasonable, excessive, and/or not supported by adequate documentation. During the current audit, we again noted problems in this area. Meal expenses paid to the former Prosecuting Attorney or to his employees did not always have adequate supporting documentation. For example, in August 1997, two dinner charges totaling $401 were claimed by the former Prosecuting Attorney while attending a two day training session at the Lake of the Ozarks. The documentation to support these charges consisted of credit card receipts, with no documentation of the individuals served or the detailed charges incurred. During 1997 and the first two months of 1998, other instances were noted where meal expenses claimed exceeded the county's policy of $31 per day. In addition, not all meal expenses had supporting documentation as required by the county's policy.

In March 1998, former Prosecuting Attorney Lehnen established a formal travel policy for his office. This policy allowed himself and each of his employees a meal allowance of $65 per day while attending training seminars without any receipts or other supporting documentation being required. This policy was not in accordance with the county's policy as noted above. From March 1998 through December 1998, meal expenses totaling $1,950 were paid at this per diem rate with no supporting documentation submitted to support the claims. It appears the total daily meal allowance was paid to employees even on the days when the individuals were traveling to and from seminars.

To ensure meal expenses are reasonable, the travel expenses claimed should be paid in accordance with the county's policy and be supported by adequate supporting documentation. If circumstances warrant additional meal expenses, the circumstances should be documented.

WE RECOMMEND the current Prosecuting Attorney ensure all travel expenses claimed for reimbursement are adequately documented and are in accordance with the county's travel policy. If additional expenses are deemed necessary, the circumstances should be documented.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The current Prosecuting Attorney concurs and indicated he is following the county travel policy and provides supporting documentation as required.

Former Prosecuting Attorney Lehnen indicated the expenditures made prior to March 1998 were made prior to the release of the prior audit report and prior to the associated conferences with the auditors. In March 1998, a new policy was established which he believed met the State Auditor's requirements.

6. Circuit Clerk Child Support Records and Procedures

The child support division processed approximately $2.5 million annually in child support payments during the two years ended December 31, 1998. The child support division receives payments through the mail and over-the-counter. A prenumbered receipt slip is to be issued for all over-the-counter receipts and the receipts are to be recorded in a one-write ledger. All transactions (both those received over-the-counter and by mail) are to be recorded on the Missouri Automated Child Support System (MACSS). The MACSS reports identify the mode of payment as cash, check, or money order. The receipt amounts on these reports are then agreed to the daily deposits. During our review of the records and procedures surrounding the handling of child support receipts, we noted the following concerns:

A. Accounting duties were not adequately segregated. One child support clerk was responsible for receiving, recording, depositing, and disbursing the child support monies. She was also responsible for reconciling the bank account until September 1998, when the OSCA began performing these reconciliations. In addition, it appears the Circuit Clerk did not perform a periodic review of the cash receipt and disbursement functions in this office nor review the monthly bank reconciliations.

   Proper segregation of duties helps ensure that all transactions are accounted for properly and assets are adequately safeguarded. Internal controls would be improved by segregating the duties of receiving and depositing receipts from the recording and reconciling duties. If proper segregation of duties cannot be achieved, at a minimum, a periodic supervisory review of the records should be performed and documented, which should include a review of the monthly bank reconciliations.

B. Receipts were not always recorded on the MACSS system or deposited intact in a timely manner. During a cash count performed on March 31, 1999, there was $1,900 in cash and checks on hand, representing about twenty transactions, which had not been recorded on the MACSS system. According to the child support clerk, these monies had not been recorded and deposited because a case had not yet been established. While most of these monies were received in 1999, in one case it appears the monies had been held for almost 2 years. In addition, a number of the checks had not been restrictively endorsed. After we brought this matter to the attention of the Circuit Clerk, these monies were promptly recorded and deposited. These monies could have been deposited earlier had the circumstances been discussed with the office of State Courts Administrator (OSCA) on more timely basis.

All receipts should be recorded on the MACSS system and be deposited intact on a timely basis to ensure that all monies received are accounted for properly. In addition, checks should be restrictively endorsed immediately upon receipt.

C. The numbers assigned to the prenumbered receipt slips used to record over-the-counter receipts are not recorded on the one-write ledger. Consequently, the numerical sequence of the receipt slips issued is not accounted for properly.

The proper recording and accounting for prenumbered receipt slips is necessary to ensure that all monies are properly handled.

D. Although total receipts recorded on the MACSS system were agreed to total deposits on a daily basis, cash receipts received over-the-counter and recorded on the one-write ledger were not reconciled to the amount of cash deposited per MACSS reports. The lack of this control allowed a $300 shortage to occur (related to a cash transaction received on October 1, 1998) and not be detected in a timely manner. It was not discovered that these monies were missing until the middle of November 1998, when the individual who made the payment appeared in court. The monies have been reimbursed from the Circuit Clerk's interest account.

The composition (cash and checks) of recorded receipts should be reconciled to the composition of deposits on a periodic basis to ensure all receipts are handled properly.

The Missouri State Highway Patrol (MSHP) was contacted regarding this shortage in November 1998, and its investigation of these missing monies continues. Because of this matter and the internal control weaknesses noted above, we are planning to further review additional receipt and deposit records.

WE RECOMMEND the Circuit Clerk:

A. Adequately segregate the duties of receiving, recording, depositing, and disbursing child support monies. At a minimum, the Circuit Clerk should perform a documented review of these functions on a periodic basis, including a review of the monthly bank reconciliations.

B. Ensure that all monies are recorded on the MACSS system and deposited intact in a timely manner. In addition, checks should be restrictively endorsed immediately upon receipt.

C. Ensure the receipt slip numbers are recorded on the one-write ledger and that their numerical sequence is accounted for properly.

D. Ensure the composition of recorded receipts is reconciled to the composition of deposits on a periodic basis.

In addition, the Circuit Clerk should continue to cooperate with the MSHP in its investigation of the missing monies.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

A-D. The Circuit Clerk concurs and indicated she will take steps to address all of these recommendations.

7. Noxious Weed Board

A. The Noxious Weed Board authorized expenditures of $5,775 in excess of the approved budget for the year ended December 31, 1997. There was no budget amendment filed to authorize these additional expenditures, nor was there documentation maintained noting the circumstances for exceeding the budget. It appears this occurred because the board did not effectively monitor the budget.

It was ruled in State ex rel. Strong v. Cribb, 364 Mo. 1122, 273 SW2d 246 (1954), that strict compliance with the county budget law is required by county officials. If there are valid reasons which necessitate excess expenditures, amendments should be made in accordance with Section 50.622, RSMo Cum. Supp. 1998, following the same process by which the annual budget is approved, including holding public hearings and filing the amended budget with the State Auditor's office.

B. Mileage reimbursements were made to one Noxious Weed Board member during the two years ended December 31, 1998. The mileage claims totaled $1,035 and $763 for 1998 and 1997, respectively. The mileage claims were for a one year period and only detailed the total miles driven by month. The claims submitted did not indicate the miles traveled by date, the location visited, or purpose of trip.

To ensure the validity and propriety of mileage reimbursements, the reimbursement claims should be submitted on a timely basis and be supported by adequate documentation. An itemized report should be required indicating the miles traveled by date, the nature of the business, and the locations traveled.

C. A 1997 chemical purchase of $11,956 was not supported by adequate bid documentation. A board member indicated that phone bids were solicited related to this purchase; however, no documentation of this was retained.

Section 50.660, RSMo Cum. Supp. 1998, requires advertisement of bids for all purchases in excess of $4,500. Bidding procedures for major purchases provide a framework for economical management of available resources and help ensure fair value is received by contracting with the lowest and best bidder. Documentation of the bids received should be retained.

A condition similar to B. was also noted in the prior report.

WE RECOMMEND the Noxious Weed Board:

A. Keep expenditures within the amounts budgeted. If additional expenditures are necessary, the extenuating circumstances should be fully documented and the budgets properly amended.

B. Ensure all mileage reimbursement claims are submitted on a timely basis and are supported by adequate documentation.

C. Advertise bids for purchases in accordance with state law and retain documentation of these bids and justification for bid awards. If bids cannot be obtained or sole source procurement is necessary, the board should retain documentation of these circumstances.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

A-C. The Noxious Weed Board concurs.

8.	Senate Bill 40 Board Budgetary Practices

The Senate Bill 40 Board of Directors approved expenditures of $18,143 in excess of the approved budget for the year ended December 31, 1998. There was no amended budget filed to authorize these additional expenditures, nor was there documentation maintained noting the circumstances for exceeding the budget. It appears this situation occurred because the board did not amend the budget when it became apparent the budget would be overspent.

It was ruled in State ex. rel. Strong v. Cribb, 364 Mo. 1122, 273 SW2d 246 (1954), that strict compliance with the county budget law is required by county officials. If there are valid reasons which necessitate excess expenditures, amendments should be made in accordance with Section 50.622, RSMo Cum. Supp. 1998, following the same process by which the annual budget is approved, including holding public hearings and filing the amended budget with the State Auditor's office.

A similar condition was also noted in the prior report.

WE AGAIN RECOMMEND the Senate Bill 40 Board keep expenditures within the amounts budgeted. If additional expenditures are necessary, the extenuating circumstances should be fully documented and the budgets properly amended.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The Senate Bill 40 Board President concurs and indicated amended budgets will be prepared and submitted in the future.

This report is intended for the information of the management of Ray County, Missouri, and other applicable government officials. However, this report is a matter of public record and its distribution is not limited.

Follow-Up on Prior Audit Findings

RAY COUNTY, MISSOURI
FOLLOW-UP ON PRIOR AUDIT FINDINGS

In accordance with Government Auditing Standards, this section reports the auditor's follow-up on action taken by Ray County, Missouri, on findings in the Management Advisory Report (MAR) of our prior audit report issued for the three years ended December 31, 1996. Finding number 4. is omitted since the related follow-up appears in an earlier section of this report. The prior recommendations which have not been implemented, but are considered significant, have been repeated in the current MAR. Although the remaining unimplemented recommendations have not been repeated, the county should consider implementing these recommendations.

1. Budgetary, Reporting, and Accounting Practices

A.1. Disbursements exceeded budgeted amounts in various funds.

2. Formal budgets were not prepared or obtained for all funds. In addition, some budgets were not always complete and accurate.

3. A consolidated budget for the Class III Road and Bridge Fund and the Special Road and Bridge Sales Tax Fund was prepared. As a result, the County Commission unknowingly approved a projected deficit fund balance for the Special Road and Bridge Sales Tax Fund at December 31, 1996.

4. Formal budgets were prepared for only a few funds for the year ended December 31, 1997, and those that were submitted were not complete and lacked information.

B. Differences noted between the records of the County Clerk and the County Treasurer were not adequately investigated and corrected.

C. The annual published financial statements did not include the financial activity of all county funds.

Recommendation:

The County Commission:

A.1. Keep expenditures and transfers between funds within the amounts budgeted. If additional disbursements are necessary, the extenuating circumstances should be fully documented and the budgets properly amended.

2. Ensure complete and accurate budgets for all county funds are prepared or obtained.

3. Ensure separate budgets are prepared for the Class III Road and Bridge Fund and Special Road and Bridge Sales Tax Fund and ensure deficit budgeting does not occur.

4. Ensure future budgets are complete and include all required information as provided by statute.

B. Ensure the County Clerk and County Treasurer reconcile their records on a periodic basis and investigate any differences noted.

C. Ensure financial information for all county funds is properly reported in the annual published financial statements.

Status:

A.1. Not implemented. Expenditures exceeded budgeted amounts in several county funds during 1997 and 1998. See MAR No. 2.

2&4. Partially implemented. Complete and accurate budgets were not prepared for 1997. The 1998 budgets were in better condition but were not fully complete and accurate. See finding number 98-1.

3. Implemented.

B. Partially implemented. The County Clerk and Treasurer now reconcile their records monthly and improvements have been made in this area. However, some differences were still noted between the County Treasurer's records and amounts presented on the budgets by the County Clerk for a few funds. Although not repeated in the current MAR, our recommendation remains as stated above.

C. Not implemented. Financial information for the Circuit Clerk and Associate Circuit Division interest funds were still not presented in the published financial statements for 1997 and 1998. Although not repeated in the current MAR, our recommendation remains as stated above.

2. Expenditures

A. The county expended $13,600 to various not-for-profit organizations (NFPs) without obtaining contracts with the NFPs. There was no documentation to indicate what benefits were received.

B. The county distributed a portion of its County Aid Road Trust (CART) revenues and road and bridge sales tax revenues to special road districts. The county did not enter into written contracts with the special road districts related to these distributions.

Recommendation:

The County Commission:

A. Refrain from making contributions of public funds unless it is pursuant to written contracts which specifically state what services are to be provided to the county and provide a means of monitoring the expenditures.

B. Obtain written contracts, which specifically state what services the special road districts are to be provided to the county, for any distribution of CART or road and bridge sales tax monies to the special road districts.

Status:

A. Implemented.

B. Not implemented. See MAR No. 2.

3. 911 Emergency Telephone System

In August 1995, Ray County voters passed a ballot proposal to establish an emergency 911 telephone system in the county. This proposal authorized a local telephone tax be charged to finance this system. Based on a review of the county's plans for implementing this system, it was uncertain whether adequate revenues would be generated to establish and operate the system envisioned.

Recommendation:

The County Commission review this situation and determine whether adequate revenues can be generated to run the 911/central dispatch operation currently planned. This would include evaluating the likelihood of receiving the requested funding from the other political subdivisions in the county. If adequate revenues cannot be generated, the commission should reevaluate this entire operation and identify ways to further reduce planned expenditures.

Status:

The county only received a limited amount of planned revenue from the other political subdivisions during the current audit period; however, the county offset this loss of revenue by paying the dispatching costs of this operation from the General Revenue Fund instead of from the Emergency 911 Fund as was initially planned. Because of this funding decision, it appears the Emergency 911 Fund receives adequate revenues to pay the remaining costs of the 911 operation.

In September 1998, a new 911 board was appointed by the County Commission to administer the 911 Program.

5. Planning and Zoning

The Prosecuting Attorney served as administrator for the county Planning and Zoning Board and received compensation of $600 per month for these duties. It appears this may have represented a conflict and an incompatible situation.

Recommendation:

The County Commission review this situation and consider requesting an Attorney General's opinion regarding the compatibility of the Prosecuting Attorney serving in this position.

Status:

Not implemented. An Attorney General's opinion was not requested regarding this issue and former Prosecuting Attorney Lehnen continued to serve in this capacity through December 1998. In January 1999, when the former Prosecuting Attorney left office, the County Commission decided to retain him as administrator of the Planning and Zoning Board.

6. Collateral Securities

The amount of collateral securities pledged by the county's depositary banks was insufficient to cover monies of the County Treasurer and County Collector.

Recommendation

The County Commission ensure collateral securities pledged by the depositary banks are sufficient to protect monies at all times.

Status

Partially implemented. It appears the county is doing a better job in this area; however, we noted that the amount of collateral securities pledged to secure county funds were inadequate by over $600,000 during a few days at the end of 1998 and the beginning of 1999. Although not repeated in the current MAR, our recommendation remains as stated above.

7. Noxious Weed Fund

A. Property tax revenues of the Noxious Weed Fund exceeded expenditures of that fund by $31,391 during the three years ended December 31,1996, and at June 30, 1997, the fund balance had increased to more than $100,000. There were no specific plans for the accumulated surplus.

B. Mileage reimbursements were made to two Noxious Weed Board members. The related mileage claims were not submitted on a timely basis, nor was the supporting documentation sufficiently detailed.

Recommendation:

The County Commission:

A. Reduce or eliminate the property tax levy of the Noxious Weed Fund until such time as additional revenues are needed to fund current operations and provide a reasonable surplus.

B. Ensure all mileage reimbursement claims are submitted on a timely basis and supported by adequate documentation.

Status:

A. Implemented. The property tax levy was reduced to -0- in 1997 and 1998. According to a board official, no property tax will be levied for this fund until such time as the board believes that additional revenues are needed.

B. Not implemented. See MAR No. 7.

8. Assessment Fund Reimbursements

During the third quarter of 1994, the county inadvertently claimed excessive reimbursements from the state. This error was not detected because the reimbursement claims were not reconciled to actual expenditures. This situation resulted in a $5,438 overpayment by the state.

Recommendation:

The County Commission contact the State Tax Commission regarding this situation and take appropriate action to correct this overpayment. In addition, the commission should ensure assessment reimbursement claims are reconciled to the expenditure records.

Status:

Implemented. The overpayment was recovered by the state by reducing the county's reimbursement for the last quarter of 1997.

9. General Fixed Asset Records and Procedures

A. The general fixed asset records had not been kept current.

B. The Sheriff maintained some county-owned assets at his personal residence. The county did not maintain any record of the fixed assets stored by the Sheriff.

C. Information recorded in the general fixed asset records was generally incomplete.

D. General fixed asset items were not numbered, tagged, or otherwise identified as county property.

E. An annual inventory of all personal property items and quarterly inspections of county-owned land and buildings were not performed.

Recommendation:

The County Clerk:

A. Bring the general fixed asset records up-to-date and maintain them on a perpetual basis by reflecting all fixed asset additions and retirements as they occur. To ensure property additions are properly reflected in the property records, additions should be reconciled to property purchases.

B. Maintain a record of all county assets stored at the Sheriff's residence and periodically compare that record to a physical inventory of the assets.

C. Include the following information in the general fixed asset records for each item:

1) Identification number;
2) Description of the item to include name, make, model, and serial number, where appropriate;
3) Physical location in sufficient detail to readily locate the item;
4) Date of acquisition;
5) Original cost and current market value:
6) Source of acquisition by fund; and
7) Date and method of disposition, if applicable.

D. Identify all general fixed asset items with an original cost of $250 or more with a number, tag, or similar device.

E. Ensure an annual inspection and inventory of county-owned personal property and quarterly inspections of county-owned land and buildings are performed.

Status:

A-E. Not implemented. See MAR No. 4.

10. Expenditures From Prosecuting Attorney Bad Check Fund

A. Some travel expenses appeared unreasonable, excessive, and/or were not supported by adequate documentation.

B. Various problems were noted regarding overtime payments made to employees of the Prosecuting Attorney's office.

C. In 1996, the Prosecuting Attorney authorized a $100 payment for the assistant prosecuting attorney to play in a charity golf tournament.

Recommendation:

The Prosecuting Attorney:

A. Ensure any travel expenses claimed for reimbursement are necessary, reasonable, adequately documented, and in accordance with the county's travel policy. In addition, the Prosecuting Attorney should provide additional documentation to the County Commission so it can determine the propriety of all the expenditures and the amount of reimbursement due to the Bad Check Fund.

B. Ensure any payments to employees for overtime owed are paid on a monthly basis. In addition, the Prosecuting Attorney should ensure documentation is maintained to support all overtime payments made to employees, that all overtime payments are properly reported and subjected to all applicable withholding taxes, and that any overtime payments authorized are in accordance with the county's overtime policy.

C. Ensure any expenditures authorized for payment are to pay prudent and necessary costs to operate his office.

Status:

A. Not implemented. While not to the extent noted in the prior audit, we again noted some problems in this area during the current audit period. See MAR No. 5. In addition, no additional documentation was provided to support the travel expenses questioned during the prior audit and no reimbursements to the Bad Check Fund were made.

B. Some of the same problems with overtime payments were noted during 1997. However, in March 1998, a written overtime policy was established by former Prosecuting Attorney Lehnen which appeared to adequately address concerns previously reported. In addition, overtime payments were properly supported by time sheets and proper withholding taxes were withheld in both 1997 and 1998.

C. In 1997, a $100 expenditure was again authorized for the assistant prosecuting attorney to play in a charity golf tournament. However, no similar expenditure was noted in 1998.

11. Circuit Clerk's Accounting Controls and Procedures

A. The method of payment was not indicated on the receipt slips and the deposit slips did not identify the individual receipts making up the deposits.

B. Fee account receipts were not deposited timely.

C. At December 31,1996, checks written on the fee and child support accounts had been outstanding for over a year.

D. Differences existed between the monthly open-items listing and the reconciled cash balance of the fee account, with the difference fluctuating from month to month. At December 31, 1996, the reconciled cash balance exceeded the open items listing by $12,193.

E. The cash receipts ledger for the fee account for 1994 was missing.

Recommendation:

The Circuit Clerk:

A. Ensure the method of payment is recorded on each receipt slip issued and individual receipts comprising deposits are identified. In addition, the composition of receipt slips should be reconciled to the composition of bank deposits.

B. Ensure monies are deposited intact into the fee account daily or when accumulated receipts exceed $100.

C. Attempt to locate the payees of the old outstanding checks and reissue the checks, if possible. Any remaining unclaimed amounts should be disbursed in accordance with state law.

D. Attempt to identify the unidentified cash balance which currently exists in the fee account. Any amounts which cannot be identified should be disposed of in accordance with Chapter 447, RSMo 1994 and Section 50.500, RSMo 1994.

E. Ensure all records are properly retained.

Status:

A-E. Implemented. The conditions noted in the prior audit were corrected; however, various other problems were noted in the Child Support Division during the current audit. See MAR No. 6.

12. Senate Bill 40 Board

A. Expenditures were approved in excess of budgeted amounts.

B. The board had not solicited bids for its banking services, even though the board's treasurer was an employee at the board's depositary bank.

C. During the three years ended December 31, 1996, funds totaling $54,021 were received under two separate programs to provide respite care services. Considering total board expenditures for respite care services totaled only $31,295 during this period, it appears the board received a total of $22,726 more in funding from the two respective sources than it expended on respite care.

Recommendation:

The Senate Bill 40 Board:

A. Keep expenditures within the total amount budgeted. If excess expenditures are necessary, the extenuating circumstances should be fully documented and the budgets should be properly amended.

B. Periodically solicit bids for its banking services. Any board member associated with a competing bank should abstain from the selection process.

C. Contact the Department of Mental Health to resolve the over funding situation which has occurred.

Status:

A. Not implemented. See MAR No. 8.

B. Partially implemented. The board did not solicit bids for banking services as recommended and decided to maintain its account at the same bank. However, it appears the board Treasurer abstained from this decision. Although not repeated in the current MAR, our recommendation remains as stated above.

C. We found no documentation in the Senate Bill 40 Board's files to indicate the Department of Mental Health (DMH) had been contacted regarding this situation; however, based on discussions with DMH officials it appears that department has concluded that no monies are owed from the board. The Senate Bill 40 Board spent more on respite care services during the current audit period than it received in funding from the DMH. This appears to have impacted the DMH's conclusions regarding this matter. The federal funding expired in 1997 and the board is no longer receiving respite care funding from more than one source.

RAY COUNTY, MISSOURI
HISTORY, ORGANIZATION,
AND STATISTICAL INFORMATION

Organized in 1820, the county of Ray was named after John Ray, a member of the state constitutional convention of 1820. Ray County is a county-organized, third-class county and is part of the Eighth Judicial Circuit. The county seat is Richmond.

Ray County's government is composed of a three-member county commission and separate elected officials performing various tasks. The county commission has mainly administrative duties in setting tax levies, appropriating county funds, appointing board members and trustees of special services, accounting for county property, maintaining county roads and bridges, and performing miscellaneous duties not handled by other county officials.

Principal functions of these other officials relate to judicial courts, law enforcement, property assessment, property tax collections, conduct of elections, and maintenance of financial and other records of importance to the county's citizens.

Counties typically spend a large portion of their receipts to support general county operations and to build and maintain roads and bridges. The following chart shows from where Ray County received its money in 1998 and 1997 to support the county General Revenue and Special Road and Bridge (Class III Road and Bridge) Funds:

During 1998 and 1997, the Special Road and Bridge Sales Tax Fund expended $241,306 and $936,456, respectively, for road and bridge capital improvements, and distributed $182,321 and $186,495, respectively, to road districts.

The county maintains approximately 71 county bridges and 465 miles of county roads.

AUDIT REPORT

Office Of The
State Auditor Of Missouri
Claire McCaskill

May 2000

YELLOW SHEET

IMPORTANT: The Missouri State Auditor is required by Missouri law to conduct audits only once every four years in counties, like Mercer, which do not have a county auditor. However, to assist such counties in meeting federal audit requirements, the State Auditor will also perform a financial and compliance audit of various county operating funds every two years. This voluntary service to Missouri counties can only be provided when state auditing resources are available and does not interfere with the State Auditor's constitutional responsibility of auditing state government.

Once every four years, the State Auditor's statutory audit will cover additional areas of county operations, as well as the elected county officials, as required by Missouri's Constitution.

This audit of Mercer County was a financial and compliance audit of various county operating funds.

- The audit noted various problems in the county's administration of a grant from the U.S. Department of Commerce including; the failure to maintain supporting documentation for grant expenditures, not disbursing the monies within federal time requirements and requesting reimbursements from the U.S. Department of Commerce in excess of what was actually spent. The county also did not have procedures to track all federal monies and as a result, an inaccurate schedule of its federal expenditures was prepared.

- The county overspent budgets for some county funds during 1997 and 1998. The audit recommended officials not authorize warrants in excess of budgeted expenditures.

The audit also includes some other matters upon which the county should consider and take appropriate corrective action.

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT ON THE FINANCIAL STATEMENTS AND SUPPLEMENTARY SCHEDULE OF EXPENDITURES OF FEDERAL AWARDS

To the County Commission
and
Officeholders of Mercer County, Missouri

We have audited the accompanying special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Mercer County, Missouri, as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, as identified in the table of contents. These special-purpose financial statements are the responsibility of the county's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these special-purpose financial statements based on our audit.

We conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the special-purpose financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the special-purpose financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion.

The accompanying special-purpose financial statements were prepared for the purpose of presenting the receipts, disbursements, and changes in cash of various funds of Mercer County, Missouri, and comparisons of such information with the corresponding budgeted information for various funds of the county and are not intended to be a complete presentation of the financial position and results of operations of those funds or of Mercer County.

In our opinion, the special-purpose financial statements referred to in the first paragraph present fairly, in all material respects, the receipts, disbursements, and changes in cash of various funds of Mercer County, Missouri, and comparisons of such information with the corresponding budgeted information for various funds of the county as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, in conformity with the comprehensive basis of accounting discussed in Note 1, which is a basis of accounting other than generally accepted accounting principles.

Truman State Office Building, Room 880 • Jefferson City, MO 65101 • (573) 751-4213 • FAX (573) 751-7984

Mercer County, Missouri, has not presented the disclosures required by Governmental Accounting Standards Board (GASB) Technical Bulletin 98-1, Disclosures about Year 2000 Issues, as amended by GASB Technical Bulletin 99-1, that the GASB has determined are necessary to supplement, although not be a part of, the basic financial statements. In addition, we do not provide assurance that the county is or will become year 2000-compliant, that the county's year 2000 remediation efforts will be successful in whole or in part, or that parties with which the county does business are or will become year 2000-compliant.

In accordance with Government Auditing Standards, we also have issued our report dated June 15, 1999, on our consideration of the county's internal control over financial reporting and on our tests of its compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants.

The accompanying Schedule of Expenditures of Federal Awards is presented for purposes of additional analysis as required by U.S. Office of Management and Budget (OMB) Circular A-133, Audits of States, Local Governments, and Non-Profit Organizations, and is not a required part of the special-purpose financial statements. Such information has been subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audit of the special-purpose financial statements and, in our opinion, is fairly stated, in all material respects, in relation to the special-purpose financial statements taken as a whole.

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT ON COMPLIANCE
AND ON INTERNAL CONTROL OVER FINANCIAL REPORTING
BASED ON AN AUDIT OF FINANCIAL STATEMENTS PERFORMED
IN ACCORDANCE WITH GOVERNMENT AUDITING STANDARDS

To the County Commission
and
Officeholders of Mercer County, Missouri

We have audited the special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Mercer County, Missouri, as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, and have issued our report thereon dated June 15, 1999. We conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States.

Compliance

As part of obtaining reasonable assurance about whether the special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Mercer County, Missouri, are free of material misstatement, we performed tests of the county's compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants, noncompliance with which could have a direct and material effect on the determination of financial statement amounts. However, providing an opinion on compliance with those provisions was not an objective of our audit, and accordingly, we do not express such an opinion. The results of our tests disclosed an instance of noncompliance that is required to be reported under Government Auditing Standards and which is described in the accompanying Schedule of Findings and Questioned Costs as finding number 98-1. We also noted certain immaterial instances of noncompliance, which we have reported to the management of the county in the accompanying Letter on Other Matters.

Internal Control Over Financial Reporting

In planning and performing our audit of the special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Mercer County, Missouri, we considered the county's internal control over financial reporting in order to determine our auditing procedures for the purpose of expressing our opinion on the special-purpose financial statements and not to provide assurance on the internal control over financial reporting. Our consideration of the internal control over financial reporting would not necessarily disclose all matters in the internal control over financial reporting that might be material weaknesses. A material weakness is a condition in which the design or operation of one or more of the internal control components does not reduce to a relatively low level the risk that misstatements in amounts that would be material in relation to the special-purpose financial statements being audited may occur and not be detected within a timely period by employees in the normal course of performing their assigned functions. We noted no matters involving the internal control over financial reporting and its operation that we consider to be material weaknesses. However, we noted other matters involving the internal control over financial reporting, which we have reported to the management of the county in the accompanying Letter on Other Matters.

This report is intended for the information of the management of Mercer County, Missouri; federal awarding agencies and pass-through entities; and other applicable government officials. However, this report is a matter of public record and its distribution is not limited.

Notes to the Financial Statements

1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

A. Reporting Entity and Basis of Presentation

The accompanying special-purpose financial statements present the receipts, disbursements, and changes in cash of various funds of Mercer County, Missouri, and comparisons of such information with the corresponding budgeted information for various funds of the county. The funds presented are established under statutory or administrative authority, and their operations are under the control of the County Commission, an elected county official, or the Health Center Board. The General Revenue Fund is the county's general operating fund, accounting for all financial resources except those required to be accounted for in another fund. The other funds presented account for financial resources whose use is restricted for specified purposes.

B. Basis of Accounting

The financial statements are prepared on the cash basis of accounting; accordingly, amounts are recognized when received or disbursed in cash. This basis of accounting differs from generally accepted accounting principles, which require revenues to be recognized when they become available and measurable or when they are earned and expenditures or expenses to be recognized when the related liabilities are incurred.

C. Budgets and Budgetary Practices

The County Commission and other applicable boards are responsible for the preparation and approval of budgets for various county funds in accordance with Sections 50.525 through 50.745, RSMo 1994 and RSMo Cumulative Supp. 1998, the county budget law. These budgets are adopted on the cash basis of accounting.

Although adoption of a formal budget is required by law, the county did not adopt formal budgets for the following funds:

Fund	Years Ended December 31,
Circuit Clerk's Interest Fund	1997
Associate Division Interest Fund	1997
Law Library Fund	1997

Warrants issued were in excess of budgeted amounts for the following funds:

Fund	Years Ended December 31,
Law Enforcement Training Fund	1997
Prosecuting Attorney Training Fund	1998
Recorder's User Fees Fund	1998

Prosecuting Attorney Bad Check Fund	1997
Economic Development Administration Fund	1998
Health Center Fund	1998 and 1997
Circuit Clerk's Interest Fund	1998
Associate Division Interest Fund	1998
Law Library Fund	1998

Section 50.740, RSMo 1994, prohibits expenditures in excess of the approved budgets.

D. Published Financial Statements

Under Sections 50.800 and 50.810, RSMo 1994, the County Commission is responsible for preparing and publishing in a local newspaper a detailed annual financial statement for the county. The financial statement is required to show receipts or revenues, disbursements or expenditures, and beginning and ending balances for each fund.

However, the county's published financial statement for the year ended December 31, 1998, did not include the Health Center Fund.

2. Cash

Section 110.270, RSMo 1994, based on Article IV, Section 15, Missouri Constitution, authorizes counties to place their funds, either outright or by repurchase agreement, in U.S. Treasury and agency obligations. In addition, Section 30.950, RSMo Cumulative Supp. 1998, effective August 28, 1997, requires political subdivisions with existing authority to invest in instruments other than depositary accounts at financial institutions to adopt a written investment policy. Among other things, the policy is to commit a political subdivision to the principles of safety, liquidity, and yield (in that order) when managing public funds and to prohibit purchase of derivatives (either directly or through repurchase agreements), use of leveraging (through either reverse repurchase agreements or other methods), and use of public funds for speculation. The county has not adopted such a policy.

In accordance with Statement No. 3 of the Governmental Accounting Standards Board, Deposits with Financial Institutions, Investments (Including Repurchase Agreements), and Reverse Repurchase Agreements, disclosures are provided below regarding the risk of potential loss of cash deposits. For the purposes of these disclosures, deposits with financial institutions are demand, time, and savings accounts, including certificates of deposit and negotiable order of withdrawal accounts, in banks, savings institutions, and credit unions.

The county's deposits at December 31, 1998 and 1997, were entirely covered by federal depositary insurance, by commercial insurance provided through a surety bond, or by collateral securities held by the county's custodial bank in the county's name.

The Health Center Board's deposits at December 31, 1998 and 1997, were entirely covered by federal depositary insurance.

> Federal award means Federal financial assistance and Federal cost-reimbursement contracts that non-Federal entities receive directly from Federal awarding agencies or indirectly from pass-through entities. It does not include procurement contracts, under grants or contracts, used to buy goods or services from vendors.

Accordingly, the schedule includes expenditures of both cash and noncash awards.

C. Basis of Accounting

Except as noted below, the schedule is presented on the cash basis of accounting, which recognizes amounts only when disbursed in cash.

Amounts for the Donation of Federal Surplus Personal Property Program (CFDA number 39.003) represent the estimated fair market value of property at the time of receipt.

2. Subrecipients

Of the federal expenditures presented in the schedule, the county provided $496,037 to subrecipients under Grants for Public Works and Infrastructure Development (CFDA number 11.300) during the year ended December 31, 1998.

State Auditor's Report

CLAIRE C. McCASKILL
Missouri State Auditor

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT ON COMPLIANCE WITH REQUIREMENTS APPLICABLE TO EACH MAJOR PROGRAM AND ON INTERNAL CONTROL OVER COMPLIANCE IN ACCORDANCE WITH OMB CIRCULAR A-133

To the County Commission
and Officeholders of Mercer County, Missouri

Compliance

We have audited the compliance of Mercer County, Missouri, with the types of compliance requirements described in the U.S. Office of Management and Budget (OMB) Circular A-133 Compliance Supplement that are applicable to each of its major federal programs for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997. The county's major federal programs are identified in the summary of auditor's results section of the accompanying Schedule of Findings and Questioned Costs. Compliance with the requirements of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants applicable to each of its major federal programs is the responsibility of the county's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on the county's compliance based on our audit.

We conducted our audit of compliance in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards; the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States; and OMB Circular A-133, Audits of States, Local Governments, and Non-Profit Organizations. Those standards and OMB Circular A-133 require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether noncompliance with the types of compliance requirements referred to above that could have a direct and material effect on a major federal program occurred. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence about the county's compliance with those requirements and performing such other procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion. Our audit does not provide a legal determination of the county's compliance with those requirements.

In our opinion, Mercer County, Missouri, complied, in all material respects, with the requirements referred to above that are applicable to each of its major federal programs for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997. However, the results of our auditing procedures disclosed an instance of noncompliance with those requirements, which is required to be reported in accordance with OMB Circular A-133 and which is described in the accompanying Schedule of Findings and Questioned Costs as finding number 98-2.

Truman State Office Building, Room 880 • Jefferson City, MO 65101 • (573) 751-4213 • FAX (573) 751-7984

Internal Control Over Compliance

The management of Mercer County, Missouri, is responsible for establishing and maintaining effective internal control over compliance with the requirements of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants applicable to federal programs. In planning and performing our audit, we considered the county's internal control over compliance with requirements that could have a direct and material effect on a major federal program in order to determine our auditing procedures for the purpose of expressing our opinion on compliance and to test and report on the internal control over compliance in accordance with OMB Circular A-133.

We noted a certain matter involving the internal control over compliance and its operation that we consider to be a reportable condition. Reportable conditions involve matters coming to our attention relating to significant deficiencies in the design or operation of the internal control over compliance that, in our judgment, could adversely affect the county's ability to administer a major federal program in accordance with the applicable requirements of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants. The reportable condition is described in the accompanying Schedule of Findings and Questioned Costs as finding number 98-2.

A material weakness is a condition in which the design or operation of one or more of the internal control components does not reduce to a relatively low level the risk that noncompliance with the applicable requirements of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants that would be material in relation to a major federal program being audited may occur and not be detected within a timely period by employees in the normal course of performing their assigned functions. Our consideration of the internal control over compliance would not necessarily disclose all matters in the internal control that might be reportable conditions and, accordingly, would not necessarily disclose all reportable conditions that are also considered to be material weaknesses. However, we consider the reportable condition described above, finding number 98-2, to be a material weakness.

This report is intended for the information of the management of Mercer County, Missouri; federal awarding agencies and pass-through entities; and other applicable government officials. However, this report is a matter of public record and its distribution is not limited.

during the two years ended December 31, 1998:
It was ruled in State Ex. Rel. Strong v. Cribb, 364 Mo. 1122, 273 SW2d 246 (1954), that strict compliance with the county budget law is required by county officials.

If there are valid reasons which necessitate excess expenditures, budget amendments should be made following the same process by which the annual budget is approved, including holding public hearings and filing the amended budget with the State Auditor's Office. In addition, Section 50.622, RSMo Cumulative Supp. 1998, provides that counties may amend the annual budget during any year in which the county receives additional funds which could not be estimated when the budget was adopted and that the county shall follow the same procedures required for adoption of the annual budget to amend the budget.

WE RECOMMEND the County Commission and the Health Center not authorize warrants in excess of budgeted expenditures.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The County Commission responded:

We will monitor expenditures and amend budgets as necessary.

The Health Center responded:

We will monitor the budget more closely and amend as necessary.

Section III - Federal Award Findings and Questioned Costs

This section includes the audit finding that Section .510(a) of OMB Circular A-133 requires to be reported for an audit of federal awards.

98-2.	Federal Awards

Federal Grantor: U.S. Department of Commerce
Pass Through Grantor: N/A
CFDA Number: 11.300
Program Title: Grants for Public Works and Infrastructure Development
Pass Thru Entity Identifying Number: N/A
Award Years: 1997 thru 1998
Questioned Costs: $8,476

A. Section .310(b) of Circular A-133, Audits of State and Local Governments, and Non-Profit Organizations, requires the auditee to prepare a schedule of expenditures of federal awards (SEFA) for the period covered by the auditee's financial statements. The county is required to submit the schedule of expenditures of federal awards to the State Auditor's Office as a part of the annual budget.

The county does not have specific procedures in place to track federal assistance for preparation of the SEFA. During the two years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997 the county over reported expenditures on their SEFA schedule by $75,307 and $18,140, respectively. Without an accurate SEFA, federal financial activity may not be audited and reported in accordance with federal audit requirements which could result in future reductions of federal funds.

B. On June 5, 1995, the county was awarded $511,200 grant by the U.S. Department of Commerce - Economic Development Administration (EDA) to pay for 60 percent of the construction of a water tower in the City of Princeton and a water line to the City of Mercer. The grant named the cities as subrecipients. Grant monies were received by the county and the cities provided the local match. The county paid one of the contractors and then remitted 100% of the other amounts available for construction costs to the cities. The cities paid all other construction costs. This arrangement, devised by the participants, avoided the requirement for an A-133 audit at the city level.

As the grant recipient, the county was responsible for monitoring the water tower project to ensure that all costs were proper and that the terms and conditions of the grant were executed properly. However, the county elected not to monitor the project and transferred this responsibility to the Green Hills Regional Planning Commission (GHRPC). During our review of this grant the following concerns were noted:

1) The county requested and received federal grant monies from the U.S. Department of Commerce EDA prior to the actual disbursement of allowable expenditures. The county did not establish cash management procedures to ensure the minimum time elapsed between its receipt of the federal monies and the disbursement of such monies. Federal grant monies were held for 3 to 21 days before related disbursements were made.

   Section 6.2.2 of the Cash Management Improvement Act Agreement between the State of Missouri and the Secretary of the Treasury, United States Department of the Treasury, states that federal funds shall be requested such that they are received not more than two days prior to disbursement of a payment.

2) The county did not have documentation to support payments made to the cities from EDA grant monies. Instead, county representatives indicated that these payments were made at the direction of the Green Hills Regional Planning Commission (GHRPC).

   OMB Circular A-102, Common Rule, Standards for Financial Management Systems, requires supporting documentation to be maintained for all expenditures claimed for federal reimbursement. Since we were able to obtain supporting documentation for these payments from the GHRPC, no costs were questioned.

3) Engineering inspection costs on the EDA project totaling $37,246 were submitted to the U.S. Department of Commerce for reimbursement although actual inspection costs totaled only $23,119. As a result, costs were over reported by $14,127. This difference represented costs which were claimed twice for reimbursement. A representative of the GHRPC who was responsible for the administration of this grant stated that this excess reimbursement had come to her attention before the project was finished. She also stated that the cities incurred other costs related to this project which exceeded the amount of the excess reimbursement.

OMB Circular A-102, Common Rule, Standards for Financial Management Systems, requires supporting documentation to be maintained for all expenditures claimed for federal reimbursement. Since the county received reimbursements in excess of documented costs, we have questioned costs of $8,476, or 60% of the amount over reported.

WE RECOMMEND the County Commission:

A. And the County Clerk ensure all federal award expenditure amounts are properly recorded on the Schedule of Expenditures of Federal Awards.

B.1. Establish procedures to minimize the time between the receipt of federal monies and disbursement of such funds to comply with federal requirements.

2. Retain supporting documentation for all expenditures of federal monies.

3. Resolve the questioned costs with the grantor agency. In the future, the county should ensure that all requests for federal reimbursements are adequately supported by legitimate charges.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

A. We concur. This will be done.

B.1. & 2. These will be done.

3. The federal grantor will be contacted and the questioned costs will be resolved.

Audit of Financial Statements Performed in Accordance
With Government Auditing Standards

MERCER COUNTY, MISSOURI
FOLLOW-UP ON PRIOR AUDIT FINDINGS FOR AN
AUDIT OF FINANCIAL STATEMENTS PERFORMED IN ACCORDANCE WITH GOVERNMENT AUDITING STANDARDS

Our prior audit report issued for the two years ended December 31, 1996, included no audit findings that Government Auditing Standards requires to be reported for an audit of financial statements.

Summary Schedule of Prior Audit Findings
in Accordance With OMB Circular A-133

MERCER COUNTY, MISSOURI
SUMMARY SCHEDULE OF PRIOR AUDIT FINDINGS
IN ACCORDANCE WITH OMB CIRCULAR A-133

Section .315 of OMB Circular A-133 requires the auditee to prepare a Summary Schedule of Prior Audit Findings to report the status of all findings that are relative to federal awards and included in the prior audit report's Schedule of Findings and Questioned Costs. The summary schedule also must include findings reported in the prior audit's Summary Schedule of Prior Audit Findings, except those listed as corrected, no longer valid, or not warranting further action.

Section .500(e) of OMB Circular A-133 requires the auditor to follow up on these prior audit findings; to perform procedures to assess the reasonableness of the Summary Schedule of Prior Audit Findings; and to report, as a current year finding, when the auditor concludes that the schedule materially misrepresents the status of any prior findings.

Our prior audit report issued for the two years ended December 31, 1996, included no audit findings that Section .510(a) of OMB Circular A-133 requires to be reported for an audit of federal awards.

SECTION ON OTHER MATTERS

MERCER COUNTY, MISSOURI
LETTER ON OTHER MATTERS

We have audited the special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Mercer County, Missouri, as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, and have issued our report thereon dated June 15, 1999. We also have audited the compliance of Mercer County, Missouri, with the types of compliance requirements described in the U.S. Office of Management and Budget (OMB) Circular A-133 Compliance Supplement that are applicable to each of its major federal programs for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, and have issued our report thereon dated June 15, 1999.

We did not review the operations of elected officials with funds other than those presented in the special-purpose financial statements. The operations of such officials will be reviewed and reported on during the state auditor's next scheduled audit of the county.

This Letter on Other Matters presents matters other than the findings, if any, reported in the accompanying Schedule of Findings and Questioned Costs. These matters resulted from our audit of the special-purpose financial statements of Mercer County but do not meet the criteria for inclusion in the written report on compliance and on internal control over financial reporting that is required for an audit performed in accordance with Government Auditing Standards. Nevertheless, the county should consider these matters and take appropriate corrective action.

1. Potential Conflict of Interest

   An Associate Commissioner receives royalties from a local rock quarry the county does business with. This relationship may present a potential conflict of interest since the County Commission approves these purchases. This Commissioner indicated that he abstained from voting on issues regarding use of this quarry; however, that fact was not documented in the County Commission minutes.

2. Bid Documentation

   The County Commission minutes and Health Center Board minutes do not always clearly disclose the reasons for accepting a bid other than the low bid.

This Letter on Other Matters is intended for the information of the management of Mercer County, Missouri, and other applicable government officials. However, this letter is a matter of public record and its distribution is not limited.

AUDIT REPORT

BUTLER COUNTY, MISSOURI

TWO YEARS ENDED DECEMBER 31, 1998

From The Office Of State Auditor
Claire McCaskill

Report No. 99-92
September 30, 1999

Office Of The
State Auditor Of Missouri
Claire McCaskill

September 1999

FACT SHEET

IMPORTANT: The Missouri State Auditor is required by Missouri law to conduct audits only once every four years in counties, like Butler, which do not have a county auditor. However, to assist such counties in meeting federal audit requirements, the State Auditor will also perform a financial and compliance audit of various county operating funds every two years. This voluntary service to Missouri counties can only be provided when state auditing resources are available and does not interfere with the State Auditor's constitutional responsibility of auditing state government.

Once every four years, the State Auditor's statutory audit will cover additional areas of county operations, as well as the elected county officials, as required by Missouri's Constitution.

This audit of Butler County included additional areas of county operations, as well as the elected county officials. The following concerns were noted as part of the audit:

< The county does not have a procedure in place to track federal awards. The county did not submit a Schedule of Expenditures of Federal Awards (SEFA) to the State Auditor's Office in 1997, and the 1998 SEFA prepared was incomplete. An accurate SEFA is necessary to ensure federal financial activity is audited and reported in accordance with federal requirements.

< The County contracts with the State Highway and Transportation Commission for bridge replacement and rehabilitation under the federal Off-System Bridge Replacement and Rehabilitation Program. The county did not have documentation regarding the consideration of at least three engineering firms for two bridge projects as required.

< The Butler County Juvenile Office operates the Hentz School which receives federal and state funding. Expenditures made from the Hentz School Fund to reimburse the Poplar Bluff School District for teachers' salaries were approximately $130,000 and $128,000 respectively, in 1998 and 1997. The county did not enter into a written agreement with the school district documenting the services to be provided and the payments to be made from the Hentz School Fund.

- The county did not have procedures in place to ensure financial activities were accurately presented. Actual receipt and disbursement amounts were not correctly reported on county budgets and published financial statements. Numerous errors were noted and could have been detected had reconciliations between the County Clerks and County Treasurer's office been performed. In addition, formal budgets were not prepared for various county funds and actual disbursements exceeded budget amounts in several funds.

The audit also made recommendations and suggestions to improve the county's personnel policies and procedures, controls over property tax additions and abatements, and monitoring of collateral securities pledged by county banks. Additional recommendations were made to improve the documentation of county expenditures, minutes of County Commission meetings and general fixed asset records.

Also included in the audit are recommendations to improve the accounting controls and procedures for the Associate Circuit Division, the County Clerk, the County Collector, the County Treasurer, the County Juvenile Officer, the Probate Division, the County Prosecuting Attorney, and the County Sheriff. Approximately $130 could not be accounted for in the County Clerk's office. Additionally, due to concerns noted on the Sheriff's inmate and commissary accounts, a special review is being performed of those areas.

Copies of the audit are available upon request.

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT ON THE FINANCIAL STATEMENTS AND SUPPLEMENTARY SCHEDULE OF EXPENDITURES OF FEDERAL AWARDS

To the County Commission
and
Officeholders of Butler County, Missouri

We have audited the accompanying special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Butler County, Missouri, as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, as identified in the table of contents. These special-purpose financial statements are the responsibility of the county's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these special-purpose financial statements based on our audit.

We conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the special-purpose financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the special-purpose financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion.

The accompanying special-purpose financial statements were prepared for the purpose of presenting the receipts, disbursements, and changes in cash of various funds of Butler County, Missouri, and comparisons of such information with the corresponding budgeted information for various funds of the county and are not intended to be a complete presentation of the financial position and results of operations of those funds or of Butler County.

In our opinion, the special-purpose financial statements referred to in the first paragraph present fairly, in all material respects, the receipts, disbursements, and changes in cash of various funds of Butler County, Missouri, and comparisons of such information with the corresponding budgeted information for various funds of the county as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, in conformity with the comprehensive basis of accounting discussed in Note 1, which is a basis of accounting other than generally accepted accounting principles.

Butler County, Missouri, has not presented the disclosures required by Governmental Accounting Standards Board (GASB) Technical Bulletin 98-1, Disclosures about Year 2000 Issues, as amended by GASB Technical Bulletin 99-1, that the GASB has determined are necessary to supplement, although not be a part of, the basic financial statements. In addition, we do not provide assurance that the county is or will become year 2000-compliant, that the county's year 2000 remediation efforts will be successful in whole or in part, or that parties with which the county does business are or will become year 2000-compliant.

In accordance with Government Auditing Standards, we also have issued our report dated May 27, 1999, on our consideration of the county's internal control over financial reporting and on our tests of its compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants.

The accompanying Schedule of Expenditures of Federal Awards is presented for purposes of additional analysis as required by U.S. Office of Management and Budget (OMB) Circular A-133, Audits of States, Local Governments, and Non-Profit Organizations, and is not a required part of the special-purpose financial statements. Such information has been subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audit of the special-purpose financial statements and, in our opinion, is fairly stated, in all material respects, in relation to the special-purpose financial statements taken as a whole.

The accompanying History, Organization, and Statistical Information is presented for informational purposes. This information was obtained from the management of Butler County, Missouri, and was not subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audit of the special-purpose financial statements referred to above.

We conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States.

Compliance

As part of obtaining reasonable assurance about whether the special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Butler County, Missouri, are free of material misstatement, we performed tests of the county's compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants, noncompliance with which could have a direct and material effect on the determination of financial statement amounts. However, providing an opinion on compliance with those provisions was not an objective of our audit, and accordingly, we do not express such an opinion. The results of our tests disclosed no instances of noncompliance that are required to be reported under Government Auditing Standards. However, we noted certain immaterial instances of noncompliance which are described in the accompanying Management Advisory Report.

Internal Control Over Financial Reporting

In planning and performing our audit of the special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Butler County, Missouri, we considered the county's internal control over financial reporting in order to determine our auditing procedures for the purpose of expressing our opinion on the special-purpose financial statements and not to provide assurance on the internal control over financial reporting. Our consideration of the internal control over financial reporting would not necessarily disclose all matters in the internal control over financial reporting that might be material weaknesses. A material weakness is a condition in which the design or operation of one or more of the internal control components does not reduce to a relatively low level the risk that misstatements in amounts that would be material in relation to the special-purpose financial statements being audited may occur and not be detected within a timely period by employees in the normal course of performing their assigned functions. We noted no matters involving the internal control over financial reporting and its operation that we consider to be material weaknesses. However, we noted other matters involving the internal control over financial reporting which are described in the accompanying Management Advisory Report.

This report is intended for the information of the management of Butler County, Missouri; federal awarding agencies and pass-through entities; and other applicable government officials. However, this report is a matter of public record and its distribution is not limited.

Notes to the Financial Statements

1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

A. Reporting Entity and Basis of Presentation

The accompanying special-purpose financial statements present the receipts, disbursements, and changes in cash of various funds of Butler County, Missouri, and comparisons of such information with the corresponding budgeted information for various funds of the county. The funds presented are established under statutory or administrative authority, and their operations are under the control of the County Commission, an elected county official, the Board for the Care of the Handicapped, or the Senior Citizen Service Board. The General Revenue Fund is the county's general operating fund, accounting for all financial resources except those required to be accounted for in another fund. The other funds presented account for financial resources whose use is restricted for specified purposes.

B. Basis of Accounting

The financial statements are prepared on the cash basis of accounting; accordingly, amounts are recognized when received or disbursed by warrant or in cash. This basis of accounting differs from generally accepted accounting principles, which require revenues to be recognized when they become available and measurable or when they are earned and expenditures or expenses to be recognized when the related liabilities are incurred.

C. Budgets and Budgetary Practices

The County Commission and other applicable boards are responsible for the preparation and approval of budgets for various county funds in accordance with Sections 50.525 through 50.745, RSMo 1994 and RSMo Cumulative Supp. 1998, the county budget law. These budgets are adopted on the cash basis of accounting.

Although adoption of a formal budget is required by law, the county did not adopt formal budgets for the following funds:

Fund	Years Ended December 31,
Sheriff's Drug Enforcement Fund	1998 and 1997
Drainage District No. 12 Fund	1998 and 1997
Domestic Violence Shelter Board Fund	1998 and 1997
Law Library Fund	1998 and 1997
Contingency Probation Management Fund	1998 and 1997
Hentz School Fund	1998 and 1997
Tracker Program Fund	1998 and 1997
Jail Commissary Fund	1998 and 1997

Prosecuting Attorney Crime Reduction Fund	1997
Local Use Tax Fund	1997
Law Enforcement Use Tax Fund	1997
Road and Bridge Capital Improvements Use Tax Fund	1997
Inmate Telephone Income Fund	1997

The County Clerk does not prepare separate budgets for the Road and Bridge Capital Improvement-Eastern District Fund and the Road and Bridge Capital Improvement-Western District Fund. During 1998 and 1997, the activity and cash balances of the Road and Bridge Capital Improvement-Eastern District Fund and the Road and Bridge Capital Improvement-Western District Fund were included in the budget for the Road and Bridge Capital Improvement, Eastern and Western District Fund.

During 1998, the County Clerk did not originally budget the Local Use Tax Fund, the Law Enforcement Use Tax Fund and the Road and Bridge Capital Improvement Use Tax Fund, however in December 1998 the County Commission approved an amended budget in which the activity and cash balances of the Local Use Tax Fund, the Law Enforcement Use Tax Fund and the Road and Bridge Capital Improvements Use Tax Fund were budgeted in the Combined Local Use Tax Fund.

Warrants issued were in excess of budgeted amounts for the following funds:

Fund	Years Ended December 31,
Prosecuting Attorney Delinquent Tax Fund	1998 and 1997
Law Enforcement Training Fund	1998

Prosecuting Attorney Crime Reduction Fund	1998
Board for the Care of the Handicapped Fund	1998
Division of Youth Services - Tracker Program Fund	1998
Division of Youth Services - Hentz School Fund	1998
Division of Youth Services - Contingency Probation Management Fund	1998
Division II Interest Fund	1997
Prosecuting Attorney Training Fund	1997
Division I Interest Fund	1997

Section 50.740, RSMo 1994, prohibits expenditures in excess of the approved budgets.

Deficit budget balances are presented for the General Revenue Fund for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997.

However, the budgets of that fund also included other resources available to finance current or future year disbursements. Generally, other available net resources represented current year property taxes not received before December 31. Such resources were sufficient to offset the deficit budget balances presented.

D. Published Financial Statements

Under Sections 50.800 and 50.810, RSMo 1994, the County Commission is responsible for preparing and publishing in a local newspaper a detailed annual financial statement for the county. The financial statement is required to show receipts or revenues, disbursements or expenditures, and beginning and ending balances for each fund.

However, the county's published financial statements did not include the following funds:

Law Library Fund	1998 and 1997

2. Cash

Section 110.270, RSMo 1994, based on Article IV, Section 15, Missouri Constitution, authorizes counties to place their funds, either outright or by repurchase agreement, in U.S. Treasury and agency obligations. In addition, Section 30.950, RSMo Cumulative Supp. 1998, effective August 28, 1997, requires political subdivisions with existing authority to invest in instruments other than depositary accounts at financial institutions to adopt a written investment policy. Among other things, the policy is to commit a political subdivision to the principles of safety, liquidity, and yield (in that order) when managing public funds and to prohibit purchase of derivatives (either directly or through repurchase agreements), use of leveraging (through either reverse repurchase agreements or other methods), and use of public funds for speculation. The county has not adopted such a policy.

Cash includes both deposits and investments. In accordance with Statement No. 3 of the Governmental Accounting Standards Board, Deposits with Financial Institutions, Investments (Including Repurchase Agreements), and Reverse Repurchase Agreements, disclosures are provided below regarding the risk of potential loss of deposits and investments. For the purposes of these disclosures, deposits with financial institutions are demand, time, and savings accounts, including certificates of deposit and negotiable order of withdrawal accounts, in banks, savings institutions, and credit unions. Investments are securities and other assets acquired primarily for the purpose of obtaining income or profit.

Deposits

At December 31, 1998, the reported amount of the county's deposits was $2,060,407 and the bank balance was $2,300,109. Of the bank balance, $2,243,217 was covered by federal depositary insurance or by collateral securities held by the county's custodial bank in the county's name, and $56,892 was covered by collateral pledged by one bank and held in the county's name by the safekeeping department of an affiliate of the same bank holding company.

At December 31, 1997, the reported amount of the county's deposits was $1,503,434 and the bank balance was $1,523,303. Of the bank balance, $1,487,156 was covered by federal depositary insurance or by collateral securities held by the county's custodial bank in the county's name, and $36,147 was covered by collateral pledged by one bank and held in the county's name by the safekeeping department of an affiliate of the same bank holding company.

Investments

The only investments of the various funds at December 31, 1998 and 1997, were investment accounts established with the county's depositary bank. The county instructs its depositary bank to invest these accounts, and at December 31, 1998 and 1997, the underlying securities were U.S. government securities with carrying amounts of $1,194,326 and $1,970,234, respectively, (which approximated market). These amounts represent uninsured and unregistered investments for which the securities were held by the county's depositary bank through a book entry customer account at the Federal Reserve Bank.

3. Use Tax Liability

The local use tax under Section 144.748, RSMo 1994, was struck down in its entirety by the Missouri Supreme Court in Associated Industries of Missouri v. Director of Revenue, 918 S.W.2d 780 (Mo. banc 1996). In St. Charles County v. Director of Revenue, 961 S.W.2d 44 (Mo. banc 1998), the Missouri Supreme Court ruled that local use taxes paid prior to the repeal of Section 144.748, RSMo 1994, must be refunded to taxpayers and authorized the Department of Revenue (DOR) to withhold amounts otherwise due to political subdivisions to the extent such withholding is necessary to cover the refund expense. On March 24, 1998, the Cole County Circuit Court entered final judgment in accordance with the Supreme Court's opinion and ordered the DOR to process refund claims filed.

The county has received $634,333 in local use tax since its inception. The DOR has estimated the county's share of the total refund liability to be $317,159. As of December 31, 1998, $118,934 remains to be paid.

Notes to the Supplementary Schedule

BUTLER COUNTY, MISSOURI
NOTES TO THE SUPPLEMENTARY SCHEDULE

1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

A. Purpose of Schedule and Reporting Entity

The accompanying Schedule of Expenditures of Federal Awards has been prepared to comply with the requirements of OMB Circular A-133. This circular requires a schedule that provides total federal awards expended for each federal program and the Catalog of Federal Domestic Assistance (CFDA) number or other identifying number when the CFDA information is not available.

The schedule includes all federal awards administered by Butler County, Missouri.

B. Basis of Presentation

OMB Circular A-133 includes these definitions, which govern the contents of the schedule:

> Federal financial assistance means assistance that non-Federal entities receive or administer in the form of grants, loans, loan guarantees, property (including donated surplus property), cooperative agreements, interest subsidies, insurance, food commodities, direct appropriations, and other assistance, but does not include amounts received as reimbursement for services rendered to individuals . . . .
> Federal award means Federal financial assistance and Federal cost-reimbursement contracts that non-Federal entities receive directly from Federal awarding agencies or indirectly from pass-through entities. It does not include procurement contracts, under grants or contracts, used to buy goods or services from vendors.

Accordingly, the schedule includes expenditures of both cash and noncash awards.

C. Basis of Accounting

Except as noted below, the schedule is presented on the cash basis of accounting, which recognizes amounts only when disbursed in cash.

Amounts for the Food Distribution Program (CFDA number 10.550) represent the dollar value assigned to commodities based on prices provided by the state Department of Social Services. Amounts for the Donation of Federal Surplus Personal Property Program (CFDA number 39.003) represent the estimated fair market value of property at the time of receipt.

2. Subrecipients

Of the federal expenditures presented in the schedule, the county provided $154,548 and $55,435 to subrecipients under the Community Development Block Grants/State's Program (CFDA number 14.228) during the year ended December 31, 1998 and 1997.

FEDERAL AWARDS -
SINGLE AUDIT SECTION

State Auditor's Report

CLAIRE C. McCASKILL
Missouri State Auditor

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT ON COMPLIANCE WITH REQUIREMENTS APPLICABLE TO EACH MAJOR PROGRAM AND ON INTERNAL CONTROL OVER COMPLIANCE IN ACCORDANCE WITH OMB CIRCULAR A-133

To the County Commission
and Officeholders of Butler County, Missouri

Compliance

We have audited the compliance of Butler County, Missouri, with the types of compliance requirements described in the U.S. Office of Management and Budget (OMB) Circular A-133 Compliance Supplement that are applicable to each of its major federal programs for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997. The county's major federal programs are identified in the summary of auditor's results section of the accompanying Schedule of Findings and Questioned Costs. Compliance with the requirements of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants applicable to each of its major federal programs is the responsibility of the county's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on the county's compliance based on our audit.

We conducted our audit of compliance in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards; the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States; and OMB Circular A-133, Audits of States, Local Governments, and Non-Profit Organizations. Those standards and OMB Circular A-133 require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether noncompliance with the types of compliance requirements referred to above that could have a direct and material effect on a major federal program occurred. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence about the county's compliance with those requirements and performing such other procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion. Our audit does not provide a legal determination of the county's compliance with those requirements.

In our opinion, Butler County, Missouri, complied, in all material respects, with the requirements referred to above that are applicable to each of its major federal programs for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997. However, the results of our auditing procedures disclosed instances of noncompliance with those requirements, which are required to be reported in accordance with OMB Circular A-133 and which are described in the accompanying Schedule of Findings and Questioned Costs as finding numbers 98-1 through 98-3.

Truman State Office Building, Room 880 • Jefferson City, MO 65101 • (573) 751-4213 • FAX (573) 751-7984

Internal Control Over Compliance

The management of Butler County, Missouri, is responsible for establishing and maintaining effective internal control over compliance with the requirements of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants applicable to federal programs. In planning and performing our audit, we considered the county's internal control over compliance with requirements that could have a direct and material effect on a major federal program in order to determine our auditing procedures for the purpose of expressing our opinion on compliance and to test and report on the internal control over compliance in accordance with OMB Circular A-133.

We noted certain matters involving the internal control over compliance and its operation that we consider to be reportable conditions. Reportable conditions involve matters coming to our attention relating to significant deficiencies in the design or operation of the internal control over compliance that, in our judgment, could adversely affect the county's ability to administer a major federal program in accordance with the applicable requirements of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants. Reportable conditions are described in the accompanying Schedule of Findings and Questioned Costs as finding numbers 98-1 through 98-3.

A material weakness is a condition in which the design or operation of one or more of the internal control components does not reduce to a relatively low level the risk that noncompliance with the applicable requirements of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants that would be material in relation to a major federal program being audited may occur and not be detected within a timely period by employees in the normal course of performing their assigned functions. Our consideration of the internal control over compliance would not necessarily disclose all matters in the internal control that might be reportable conditions and, accordingly, would not necessarily disclose all reportable conditions that are also considered to be material weaknesses. However, we believe that none of the reportable conditions described above are material weaknesses.

This report is intended for the information of the management of Butler County, Missouri; federal awarding agencies and pass-through entities; and other applicable government officials. However, this report is a matter of public record and its distribution is not limited.

Section .310(b) of Circular A-133, Audits of States, Local Governments, and Non-Profit Organizations, requires the auditee to prepare a schedule of expenditures of federal awards (SEFA) for the period covered by the auditee's financial statements. The county is required to submit the schedule of expenditures of federal awards to the State Auditor's Office as a part of the annual budget.

The county does not have a procedure in place to track federal awards for preparation of the SEFA. The county did not prepare and submit a SEFA to the State Auditor's Office for the year ended December 31, 1997. The county prepared a SEFA for the year ended December 31, 1998; however, the schedule only included three of the seventeen federal programs the county participated in during the year ended December 31, 1998. In addition, the information presented by the County Clerk for two of the three programs did not agree with the county's expenditure records.

Without an accurate and timely SEFA, federal financial activity may not be audited and reported in accordance with federal audit requirements which could result in future reductions of federal funds.

WE RECOMMEND the County Clerk prepare a complete and accurate schedule of expenditures of federal awards and submit the schedule to the State Auditor's Office as a part of the annual budget.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE AND PLAN FOR CORRECTIVE ACTION

The County Clerk provided the following response:

I will make every effort to identify and report federal expenditures. The recommendation will be implemented for the SEFA submitted in January 2000.

98-2. Hentz School Contract for Services

Federal Grantor:	U.S. Department of Health and Human Services
Pass-Through Grantor:	Department of Social Services, Division of Youth Services
Federal CFDA Number:	93.667
Program Title:	Social Services Block Grant - Juvenile Court Diversion Program
Pass-Through Entity Identifying Number:	ERO172076
Award Years:	1998 and 1997
Questioned Costs:	Not Applicable

The Butler County Juvenile Office operates the Hentz School which is an alternative school for the Thirty-Sixth Judicial Circuit. The Hentz School is designed to provide intervention services and divert at-risk youth from being committed to a juvenile detention facility. Until November 1997, the previous Associate Circuit Judge served as the grant administrator. Since November 1997, the Circuit Judge has served as the grant administrator. Funding for the Hentz School operations is obtained mostly through federal and state grant programs.

Expenditures made from the Hentz School Fund during the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997 included approximately $130,000 and $128,000, respectively, to reimburse the Poplar Bluff School District for teachers' salaries. The county did not enter into a written agreement with the school district documenting the services to be provided and the payments to be made from the Hentz School Fund. The county should ensure that written contracts are entered into for significant expenditures. These contracts should be retained and reviewed to ensure that services are provided and payments made comply with the contract terms. In addition, the county did not obtain the required suspension/debarment certification from the school district.

Circular A-133, Audits of States, Local Governments, and Non-Profit Organizations, in Part I of the Compliance Supplement, requires that states, and government subrecipients of states, use the same policies and procedures used for procurements from non-federal funds. As a result, contracts for services should comply with Section 432.070, RSMo 1994, which requires all contracts to be in writing. In addition, Circular A-133 requires that contractors receiving individual awards for $100,000 or more must certify that the organization is not suspended or debarred from participating in federal awards or contracts.

Similar conditions were noted in our prior report.

WE AGAIN RECOMMEND the County Commission and the grant administrator ensure that written contracts are entered into and retained to support significant expenditures of grant funds. In addition, the appropriate suspension/debarment certification should be obtained from the school district.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE AND PLAN FOR CORRECTIVE ACTION

The County Commission provided the following response:

We concur with this recommendation and will approve an appropriate contract when negotiated by the grant administrator with the school.

At the request of the Circuit Judge, the Associate Circuit Judge and the Juvenile Officer provided the following response:

The Juvenile Officer will work with the school district to obtain a written agreement if possible. We will request a suspension/debarment status certification from the school district.

98-3. Procurement of Professional Service Contracts

Federal Grantor:	U.S. Department of Transportation
Pass-Through Grantor:	State Highway and Transportation Commission
Federal CFDA Number:	20.205
Program Title:	Off-System Bridge Replacement and Rehabilitation Program
Pass-Through Entity Identifying Numbers:	BRO-012-18, and STP-9900013
Award Years:	1998 and 1997
Questioned Costs:	Not Applicable

The county contracts with the State Highway and Transportation Commission for bridge replacement and rehabilitation under the Off-System Bridge Replacement and Rehabilitation Program. These projects are 80 percent federally funded.

During our review, we noted the county did not have documentation regarding the consideration of at least three engineering firms for bridge projects BRO 012(18) and STP9900013. The County Clerk indicated the County Commission does not solicit annual statements of qualifications from engineering firms and negotiates contracts without consideration of other qualified firms. Two engineering firms were paid more than $14,000 during the two years ended December 31, 1998. Because the county did not consider other engineering firms, the county does not have assurance that the engineering fees paid were reasonable.

Circular A-133, Audits of States, Local Governments, and Non-Profit Organizations, in Part I of the Compliance Supplement, requires that states, and government subrecipients of states, use the same policies and procedures used for procurements from non-federal funds. As a result, the procurement of services should comply with Sections 8.289 and 8.291, RSMo 1994, which provide that when engineering services for any capital improvement project are obtained, at least three firms should be considered. Furthermore, any agency of the state or political subdivision thereof that utilizes engineering services shall encourage engineering firms to annually submit a statement of qualifications and performance data. The firms should be evaluated based on specified criteria including experience and technical competence, capacity and capability of the firm to perform the work in question, past record of performance, and the firm's proximity to and familiarity with the area in which the project is located.

WE RECOMMEND the County Commission obtain the required statutory information when procuring professional services.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE AND PLAN FOR CORRECTIVE ACTION

The County Commission provided the following response:

We will implement a policy in calendar year 2000 in accordance with state law regarding the procurement of engineering services and annual statements of qualifications.

The summary schedule also must include findings reported in the prior audit's Summary Schedule of Prior Audit Findings, except those listed as corrected, no longer valid, or not warranting further action.

Section .500(e) of OMB Circular A-133 requires the auditor to follow up on these prior audit findings; to perform procedures to assess the reasonableness of the Summary Schedule of Prior Audit Findings; and to report, as a current year finding, when the auditor concludes that the schedule materially misrepresents the status of any prior findings.

MANAGEMENT ADVISORY REPORT SECTION

Management Advisory Report -
State Auditor's Findings

BUTLER COUNTY, MISSOURI
MANAGEMENT ADVISORY REPORT -
STATE AUDITOR'S FINDINGS

We have audited the special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Butler County, Missouri, as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, and have issued our report thereon dated May 27, 1999. We also have audited the compliance of Butler County, Missouri, with the types of compliance requirements described in the U.S. Office of Management and Budget (OMB) Circular A-133 Compliance Supplement that are applicable to each of its major federal programs for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, and have issued our report thereon dated May 27, 1999.

We also have reviewed the operations of elected officials with funds other than those presented in the special-purpose financial statements. As applicable, the objectives of this review were to:

1. Determine the internal controls established over the transactions of the various county officials.

2. Review and evaluate certain other management practices for efficiency and effectiveness.

3. Review certain management practices and financial information for compliance with applicable constitutional, statutory, or contractual provisions.

Our review was made in accordance with applicable generally accepted government auditing standards and included such procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances. In this regard, we reviewed accounting and bank records and other pertinent documents and interviewed various personnel of the county officials.

As part of our review, we assessed the controls of the various county officials to the extent we determined necessary to evaluate the specific matters described above and not to provide assurance on those controls. With respect to controls, we obtained an understanding of the design of relevant policies and procedures and whether they have been placed in operation and we assessed control risk.

Because the Health Center Board is audited and separately reported on by other independent auditors, the related fund is not presented in the special-purpose financial statements. However, we reviewed those audit reports and the substantiating working papers.

Our review was limited to the specific matters described in the preceding paragraphs and was based on selective tests and procedures considered appropriate in the circumstances. Had we performed additional procedures, other information might have come to our attention that would have been included in this report.

The accompanying Management Advisory Report presents our findings arising from our review of the elected county officials and the county board referred to above. In addition, this report includes findings other than those, if any, reported in the accompanying Schedule of Findings and Questioned

Costs. These findings resulted from our audit of the special-purpose financial statements of Butler County but do not meet the criteria for inclusion in the written report on compliance and on internal control over financial reporting that is required for an audit performed in accordance with Government Auditing Standards.

1. Budgetary Practices and Published Financial Statements

The County Clerk and County Commission are responsible for preparing and approving a county budget and publishing an annual financial statement. Prior audit reports have addressed the inadequacy of the county's budgetary practices and published financial statements. This condition has not improved since our last audit. The County Clerk apparently made little effort to ensure that budget documents were accurate and complete or reconciled to the County Treasurer's financial information. Our review of Butler County's 1998 and 1997 budgets and published financial statements revealed many deficiencies as identified below:

A. Formal budgets were not prepared for various county funds and budgets were not obtained from other county officials for some county funds held outside the county treasury for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997. In addition, a separate budget is not prepared for each county fund. For example, combined budgets are prepared for the two Road and Bridge Capital Improvement funds and the three Use Tax funds. Chapter 50, RSMo 1994, requires the preparation of annual budgets for all funds to present a complete financial plan for the ensuing year. By preparing or obtaining budgets for all county funds and activities, the County Commission is able to more effectively evaluate all county financial resources.

B. The county does not have procedures in place to ensure the county's budget documents are properly prepared and that they accurately present financial activities of the county. Reconciliations between the County Clerk's and County Treasurer's records are not adequate and a thorough review of financial activity presented in the budget is not performed. Although the revenue and expenditure detail is obtained by the County Clerk from his revenue and expenditure ledgers, numerous inaccuracies were noted in the actual information presented in the county's budget documents for 1999 and 1998. These errors included mistakes and typographical errors made when transferring financial information to the budget forms, failure to clear old data from the budget forms, failure to include expenditure transactions made by the County Treasurer and Prosecuting Attorney, and the inclusion of a transfer made and recorded during January 1999 in the 1998 budget. Actual revenues and expenditures were over (under) stated in various budgets prepared by the County Clerk as shown in the following table:

Fund	Year Ending December 31, 1998 Revenues	1998 Expenditures	1997 Revenues	1997 Expenditures

These errors could have been detected if reconciliations between the County Clerk's and County Treasurer's revenue, expenditure, and cash balances had been performed and if a thorough review of the final budget had been performed by the County Clerk or County Commission. Considering the various errors and omissions noted, the approved budgets did not provide Butler County citizens with reliable information about the county's finances.

Adjustments have been made to the audited financial statements so that information presented reconciles to the County Treasurer's revenue, expenditure, and cash balance totals.

In addition to being required by state law, complete and accurate budgets are essential for the County Commission and County Clerk to evaluate county operations and to project the anticipated needs of the county for the upcoming year. Complete and accurate budgets are also necessary to properly inform the county's citizens about the county's finances.

C. The county includes an emergency fund budget within the General Revenue Fund's estimated disbursements. Section 50.540.4, RSMo 1994, requires the county to budget an estimate for the emergency fund in an amount equal to at least three percent of total estimated receipts. Although $62,500 was budgeted for the emergency fund in 1998 and 1997, this amount was insufficient by $42,600 and $35,843 in each year, respectively, to meet the required minimum at the time the budgets were prepared. Had the appropriate emergency fund amount been budgeted, the county would not have had a balanced budget for 1997.

D. Disbursements exceeded the approved budgets for the following funds:

Fund	Year Ended December 31, 1998	1997
Law Enforcement Training Fund	7,989	N/A
Prosecuting Attorney Training Fund	N/A	761
Prosecuting Attorney Crime Reduction Fund	9,163	N/A
Prosecuting Attorney Delinquent Tax Fund	203	4,194
Board for the Care of the Handicapped Fund	247,652	N/A
Division of Youth Services - Tracker Fund	5,387	N/A
Division of Youth Services - Hentz School Fund	32,151	N/A
Division of Youth Services - Contingency Probation Management Fund	4,330	N/A
Division I Interest Fund	N/A	144
Division II Interest Fund	N/A	8,133

Although the Board for the Care of the Handicapped approved and budgeted $350,000 for the construction of a new residential center in 1997, at least $138,000 of construction costs had not been paid as of December 31, 1997. However, the board did not include in the 1998 budget the remaining construction costs scheduled to be paid during 1998. In addition, the board did not formally budget contract amendments for the residential center construction or increases in funding provided to other not-for-profit organizations during 1998.

The County Clerk prepares quarterly analyses of budgeted and actual expenditures for the General Revenue and Special Road and Bridge funds and these reports are provided to the County Commission; however, budget and actual analysis reports are not prepared for other county funds. As a result, the county does not properly monitor expenditures of the various county funds.

It was ruled in State ex rel. Strong v. Cribb 364 Mo. 1122, 273 SW2d 46(1954), that county officials are required to strictly comply with the county budget laws. If there are valid reasons which necessitate excess disbursements, amendments should be made following the same process by which the annual budget is approved, including holding public hearings and filing the amended budget with the State Auditor's Office. In addition, Section 50.622, RSMo Cum. Supp. 1997, provides that counties may amend the annual budget during any year in which the county receives additional funds which could not be estimated when the budget was adopted and that the county shall follow the same procedures required for adoption of the annual budget to amend its budget.

E. Our review of the annual financial statement published by the county noted the following concerns:

1. The county's published financial statements are not accurate or complete. Information contained in the published financial statements did not agree to the county's budget information and did not include appropriate revenue and expenditure detail as required by Section 50.800, RSMo 1994. Revenues are not presented by source, expenditure detail is not shown for many county funds, and cash balances do not agree to the Treasurer's records.

2. The annual published financial statements did not include the financial activity of several county funds as required. Section 50.800, RSMo 1994, provides that the financial statements are required to show receipts or revenues, disbursements or expenditures, and beginning and ending balances for all county funds.

To adequately inform the citizens of the county's financial activities, all monies received and disbursed by the county should be presented in the level of detail required by law and should be reconciled to the county's financial information.

Chapter 50, RSMo 1994, prescribes the procedures to be used by the county to prepare and approve the annual budget and to publish the county's financial statements. It is important for the county to follow these procedures so they can properly monitor the financial status of the county and keep the residents of the county informed about county operations.

Conditions similar to A, B, D, and E were noted in our prior report. Although the County Commission and County Clerk stated they concurred with our prior recommendations, no corrective action has been taken.

WE RECOMMEND the County Commission:

A. Ensure financial information for all county funds is included in the budgets and that separate budgets are prepared for each fund.

B. Ensure the budget document contains complete and accurate information about the county's finances and agrees to the County Treasurer's records. In addition, the County Commission and County Clerk should thoroughly review the budget document before it is finalized and filed with the State Auditor's Office.

C. Budget the emergency fund in the General Revenue Fund in an amount equal to at least three percent of total estimated receipts in accordance with state law.

D. And the Board for the Care of the Handicapped and the Division I and Division II courts keep disbursements within the budgetary limits. If additional funds are received which could not be estimated when the budget was adopted, the County Commission should amend the budget by following the procedures required by state law.

E. Publish financial statements in accordance with state law and ensure all required financial information for all county funds is reconciled to the county's financial records and properly reported in the annual financial statements.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The County Commission and the County Clerk provided the following responses:

A,D, & E. We concur.

B. The County Clerk performs a monthly reconciliation of receipts, disbursements, and cash balances with the County Treasurer's records. These reconciliations will provide for greater accuracy in the county's budgets.

C. We will ensure we set aside the required three percent emergency budget.

The President of the Board for the Care of the Handicapped provided the following response:

D. I will discuss this issue with the board. The 1998 over expenditure was a one time occurrence that is not likely to happen again. The board thought that since construction expenditures were budgeted in 1997, the remaining construction costs did not require budgeting in 1998.

The Division II Judge provided the following response:

D. The Court Clerk advises me that this problem was recognized and corrected in 1997 and it will not happen again.

2. Property Tax Controls and Procedures

A. Controls over property tax additions and abatements are not adequate. The County Collector makes manual changes to the tax records for additions and abatements occurring throughout the year. During our review we noted the following concerns:

- Information regarding abatements is communicated to the Collector by the Assessor verbally or through informal notes which are discarded by the Collector after the tax books have been adjusted.

- The County Assessor does not maintain any supporting documentation regarding the abatements and additions that are sent to the County Collector.

- The County Collector prepares court orders for personal property additions and abatements and real estate changes and submits them to the County Clerk for the County Commission's review and approval. However, no subsequent independent review of additions or abatements is performed against the actual changes in the tax books or to the amounts reflected on the County Collector's annual settlement.

Section 137.260, RSMo 1994, requires that the tax book only be changed by the clerk of the county commission under order of the County Commission. Controls should be established so the County Clerk prepares all court orders for additions and abatements from information received directly from the Assessor's Office. Prenumbered addition and abatement forms received directly from, and approved by, the Assessor would allow the County Commission to verify the accuracy of additions and abatements reported by the Collector on his annual settlements.

B. The County Clerk does not maintain an account book with the County Collector. An account book would summarize all taxes charged to the County Collector, monthly collections, delinquent credits, abatements and additions, and protested amounts. This account book, prepared by the County Clerk from the tax books, abstracts, court orders, and monthly statements of collections, would enable the County Clerk to ensure the amount of taxes charged and credited to the County Collector each year is complete and accurate and can be used by the County Commission to verify the County Collector's annual settlements.

Additionally, Section 51.150.1, RSMo 1994, requires the County Clerk to maintain accounts with all persons chargeable with monies payable into the county treasury.

C. The County Assessor obtains the tax rates from the County Collector, and enters them into the computer system and the Collector generates the tax books. The County Clerk does not recalculate, on a test basis, the tax book extensions, page totals, or grand total of the tax books to verify the tax books charged to the County Collector. Sections 137.290 and 140.050, RSMo 1998 Cum. Supp., require the County Clerk to extend tax books and to charge the County Collector with the total amount of the current tax books and the aggregate amount of taxes and fees in the back tax books. The procedures outlined in the statutes for the preparation of the tax books provide a system of checks and balances. Failure to perform reviews of the tax books and test some individual tax bill computations may result in failure to discover errors and irregularities.

Similar conditions were noted in our prior audit report.

WE AGAIN RECOMMEND the County Clerk:

A. Prepare prenumbered addition and abatement court orders from information received directly from the Assessor's Office and periodically reconcile additions and abatements to changes made to the property tax books. The Assessor should maintain copies of the information that is given to the County Clerk. In addition, the County Commission should review and approve all additions and abatements on a more timely basis.

B. Establish and maintain an account book of the County Collector's transactions, and the County Commission make use of this account book to verify the County Collector's annual settlements.

C. Review the tax books for accuracy, test individual tax bills and tax book page totals for accuracy, and document all procedures performed.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The County Commission and the County Clerk provided the following responses:

A. Court orders prepared by the County Assessor are now submitted to the County Clerk for the County Commission's review and approval. The County Clerk's Office will consider obtaining prenumbered court orders and will begin reconciling additions and abatements recorded by the County Collector on her monthly settlements.

B. We concur.

C. This recommendation has been implemented for tax year 1999 tax books.

The Assessor provided the following response:

A. We now maintain supporting documentation regarding additions and abatements that are sent to the County Collector for personal property. In addition, we now prepare court orders for the County Clerk to correct errors in real estate assessments. We retain copies of these court orders.

3. Collateral Security

The county does not formally monitor its bank balances to ensure that the county's depositary banks pledge sufficient collateral securities. Because the county failed to monitor amounts pledged it did not determine that the depositary bank was not including the collector's account when determining the amount of collateral security to pledge. As a result, the amount of collateral security pledged by the county's depositary bank as of December 31, 1998 and 1997, was insufficient by approximately $1,567,000 and $511,000, respectively, to cover the Collector's funds.

Section 110.020, RSMo 1994, provides that the value of the securities pledged shall at all times be not less than 100 percent of the actual amount on deposit less the amount insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. Inadequate collateral securities leave the county's funds unsecured and subject to loss in the event of a bank failure.

To ensure sufficient collateral securities are pledged, the county should monitor the level of bank activity and notify the depositary banks when additional securities need to be pledged.

WE RECOMMEND the County Commission ensure adequate collateral securities are pledged to protect the county's funds. This can be done by monitoring bank activity and providing timely notice to the depositary banks of the need for additional collateral securities to be pledged.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The County Commission provided the following response:

We will work with the bank and the County Treasurer to ensure the county's cash balances are properly monitored.

The County Treasurer provided the following response:

I will work with the County Collector to ensure that securities pledged by the bank are adequate to fully collateralize the county's deposits. I have begun comparing the fund balances from the Treasurer's fund ledger to pledged securities on a monthly basis.

4. County Commission Minutes

The County Clerk does not prepare adequate records of the meetings of the County Commission. Items such as bid solicitations and selections, transfers between funds, and various other decisions made by the County Commission are not always documented in the minutes. In addition, the typed minutes are not reviewed and signed by the Presiding Commissioner or an Associate Commissioner in his absence. Finally the minutes are not prepared in a timely manner. The December 1998 minutes were prepared in April 1999.

Section 51.120, RSMo 1994, requires the County Clerk to keep an accurate record of the orders, rules, and proceedings of the County Commission. Timely preparation and approval not only ensures authenticity of official minutes, but allows a review of the contents to ensure that the minutes include all important information regarding the meetings held.

Similar conditions were noted in our two prior reports.

WE AGAIN RECOMMEND the County Commission ensure a complete record of meetings is prepared and approved on a timely basis.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The County Commission provided the following response:

We have implemented this recommendation.

5.	Personnel Policies and Procedures

A. Annual leave, sick leave and compensatory time balances are not centrally maintained and are not always compared to monthly employee time sheets to ensure their accuracy. Some leave records are maintained by individual officeholders. However, other officeholders do not maintain leave records adequate to account for employees' accumulated leave balances. We reviewed time sheets for the year ended December 31, 1998 for the employees of the County Clerk's Office. During our review we noted the following discrepancies:

- Overtime worked by the employees of the County Clerk's Office was not always recorded on the employees' time sheets and did not reconcile to the separate leave cards maintained by the office manager.

- One clerk took one more day of vacation than she had earned during the year. However, the same employee allowed over three days of unused compensatory time to lapse at the end of the calendar year.

- Two employees of the County Clerk's Office did not record time worked or leave taken on their time sheets for a total of five regular working days; however, these employees were paid based on their normal salary amount for the month.

- The county pays employees for unused sick leave at the end of each calendar year. There are no formal sick leave records maintained to support the payment of unused sick leave balances.

Reconciling employee time sheets to leave records monthly would ensure that employees' annual leave, sick leave, and compensatory leave time balances are accurate and time sheets properly document hours worked. Centralized leave records would aid in determining the amount the county pays an employee for unused sick leave and final compensation for employees leaving county employment. In addition, such records would better document compliance with the Fair Labor Standards Act.

B. Time sheets are not maintained by the County Clerk's Office for Sheriff Road Deputies, Sheriff Detectives and the Road and Bridge employees. Also, time sheets are not always signed by the employee and the employee's supervisor. Properly completed time sheets prepared and signed by the employee and approved by the employee's supervisor provide supporting documentation for payroll expenditures.

C. Three Road and Bridge employees are allowed to use county vehicles to commute to and from work. The County Commission indicated these employees are on-call 24 hours a day for emergency situations.

Internal Revenue Service (IRS) reporting guidelines indicate personal commuting mileage is a reportable fringe benefit. Furthermore, IRS guidelines require the full value of the provided vehicle to be reported if the employer does not require the submission of detailed logs which distinguish between business and personal usage. Such logs are not maintained for the highway department vehicles and are not required by the county.

Procedures have not been established to ensure that IRS regulations are followed. As a result, the county may be subject to penalties and/or fines for failure to report all taxable benefits.

D. Uniform allowances of $65 a month were paid to the Sheriff and deputies during the two years ended December 31, 1998. The Sheriff and deputies are not required to submit invoices or an itemized expense report to support the allowance, nor are uniform allowances reported on W-2 forms.

IRS Regulations 1.62-2(h) and 31.3401(a)-4(b) specifically require employee business expenses not accounted for to the employer to be considered gross income and payroll taxes to be withheld from the undocumented payments.

Conditions similar to A, C, and D were noted in our two prior reports.

WE RECOMMEND the County Commission:

A. Require the County Clerk to maintain centralized leave records and ensure those records reconcile to the employees' time sheets.

B. Ensure time sheets are signed by all employees and the employee's supervisor to provide supporting documentation for payroll expenditures.

C. Comply with IRS guidelines for reporting fringe benefits related to county-owned vehicles. In addition, the county should establish a written policy for road and bridge employees regarding the appropriate use of county vehicles for commuting purposes.

D. Require employees to submit invoices or itemized expense reports for uniform allowances or report the payments as other income on the employees' W-2 forms.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The County Commission provided the following responses:

A. We will work with the other elected county officials to implement county wide leave records.

B&D. We concur.

C. We will make an effort to obtain documentation of employees' use of county vehicles and establish a written policy.

6. General Fixed Assets

The County Clerk maintains a computerized inventory listing of general fixed assets held by county officials. Our review of the county general fixed asset records and control procedures indicated that procedures are not adequate to ensure fixed asset purchases and dispositions are properly recorded in the general fixed asset records. Four of the fixed asset purchases tested totaling over $40,000 were not recorded on the inventory records.

A. The county does not have formal procedures for disposing of county owned property. Some sold and discarded assets have been marked disposed but are still included in the total asset value on the inventory listing. Written authorization is not consistently obtained from the County Commission for property items disposed of. Currently, when an item is no longer needed or useful, the officeholder or department head will dispose of the property or place the item in storage; however, the County Clerk is not always notified of these actions. As a result, the County Commission and the County Clerk are not always aware of the disposal or possible availability of the items no longer being used.

Written authorization for the disposal of property is necessary to lessen the possibility of misuse and to provide adequate support for changes to the general fixed asset records. Disposed assets must be removed from the inventory listing to ensure county assets are properly valued.

B. Property records are not maintained in a manner that allows beginning balances, additions, and deletions for each year to be reconciled to balances at the end of each year and property purchases are not reconciled to the additions per the inventory records.

C. The duties of fixed asset custody and performing inventory counts are not adequately segregated. The County Clerk provides a listing of fixed assets to each officeholder around each year-end. The officeholder (asset custodian) is responsible for conducting the physical inventory of his/her office. Although the County Clerk indicated he performed spot checks to ensure the inventory counts are accurately and properly performed by the officeholders, there was no documentation of these reviews.

Section 51.155, RSMo 1998 Cum. Supp., requires the County Clerk to keep a continuous annual inventory of each item with an original value of $250 or more, identified by descriptive name, make and serial number, where appropriate, and a statement of changes in asset balances from the previous year. In addition, adequate general fixed asset records are necessary to secure better internal control over county property and to provide a basis for determining proper insurance coverage.

Similar conditions were noted in our two prior reports.

WE AGAIN RECOMMEND the County Clerk:

A. Document the County Commission's approval of all property dispositions and remove all disposed assets from the inventory totals in a timely manner.

B. Maintain fixed asset records in a manner that beginning balances, additions, and deletions can be reconciled to year end balances and reconcile fixed asset purchases per the expenditure records to additions per the inventory records.

C. Provide an adequate segregation of duties between the custody of fixed assets and the performance of inventory counts.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

Due to House Bill No. 402, First Regular Session, 90th General Assembly, which changes the responsibility of accounting for fixed assets as of August 1999, the County Commission provided the following response:

We will work with the new statutes to ensure fixed assets are accounted for in a proper and legal manner.

7.	Documentation of County Expenditures

We noted instances in which the County Commission approved payments to the Poplar Bluff Chamber of Commerce without requiring or retaining adequate supporting documentation. Donations of $25,000 and $5,000 were made to the chamber during the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, respectively. In February 1998, an engagement letter/contract was obtained from the chamber indicating that all industrial and economic development needs of the county for 1998 would be handled by the chamber. In February 1997, the county simply received a billing from the chamber for 1997 membership dues. However, there were no further specifications of services to be provided or progress reporting requirements. Failure to provide for specifications of services to be received in the county's contracts could prevent the county from adequately monitoring the actual services received and from determining whether the amount paid was reasonable compared to the services that were rendered.

To ensure the validity and propriety of expenditures, adequate supporting documentation should be obtained for all payments to vendors and contracts should be sufficiently detailed to allow the commission a basis for adequately monitoring the services received and determining whether the amount paid was reasonable compared to the services that were rendered.

WE RECOMMEND the County Commission obtain adequate supporting documentation for all payments to vendors and ensure contracts are sufficiently detailed.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The County Commission provided the following response:

The 1999 contract between the county and the Chamber of Commerce provides greater detail and an Associate Commissioner serves as an Ex Officio member of the chamber's board of directors. Minutes and reports from the board of directors meetings are now filed with the County Commission.

8. Assessment Fund Reimbursements

Section 137.750, RSMo 1994, allows counties to be reimbursed for a portion of all qualified costs and expenses of the Assessor's Office. The County Clerk does not reconcile assessment reimbursement claims to actual expenditures and does not ensure that the reimbursement claim forms are properly completed and accurately calculated. We noted that corrections were made by the state for various mathematical errors on the claim forms. In addition, during the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, the expenses reported by the County Clerk on the claim forms were overstated by approximately $1,000 and $3,000, respectively. As a result, the county received excess reimbursements from the state totaling approximately $500 and $1,500, respectively. The County Clerk's Office could not determine why the billings were overstated and could not locate expenditure records to support the actual amounts claimed. We noted similar immaterial assessment reimbursement claim discrepancies in the prior audit which were discussed with the County Clerk and the County Commission; however, it appears improvements have not been made.

WE RECOMMEND the County Clerk contact the State Tax Commission regarding this situation and take appropriate action to correct the overpayments. In addition, the County Commission should ensure assessment reimbursement claims are reconciled to the expenditure records, are properly completed, and accurately calculated.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The County Clerk and the County Commission provided the following response:

We concur.

9. Associate Circuit Division's Accounting Controls and Procedures

		Criminal Account	Civil Account
Reconciled bank balance	$	86,943	10,530
December fees paid out in January		(50,388)	(8,737)
Open items		(34,047)	(310)
Interest due to Division II Interest Fund		(96)	(12)
Uncorrected errors		(459)	(5)
Unidentified cash balance	$	1,953	1,466

As of December 31, 1998, the Associate Circuit Division's cash balances were $86,943 and $10,530 for the Criminal and Civil accounts, respectively. Liabilities were not reconciled to cash balances on a timely basis. Monthly listings of open items (liabilities) were not prepared during the year ended December 31, 1998. However, during the first few months of 1999, open items listings were prepared for each month of 1998 for the Criminal and Civil accounts. Upon preparing these reconciliations, errors and other differences were located; however, proper correcting entries have not been made in a timely manner. The December 31, 1998 open items reconciliations documented the following reconciling items and unidentified differences:

Monthly listings of open items should be prepared and reconciled to the cash balances to ensure the records are in balance and that sufficient cash is available for the payment of all liabilities. Timely adjustments should be made to the accounting records for identified differences and reasons should be determined for unidentified differences. If proper disposition of the unidentified monies cannot be determined, these monies should be disposed of in accordance with unclaimed property statutes.

WE RECOMMEND the Associate Circuit Division prepare a monthly open items listing and reconcile it to the monthly cash records. The Division should determine reasons for all unidentified cash balances, make adjustments to the accounting records for identified differences, and investigate fluctuations in the unidentified balance in a timely manner. After final review, all unidentified balances should be disposed of in accordance with the unclaimed property statutes.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The Associate Circuit Judge provided the following response:

Shortly after I took office, the exit team met with me and made these recommendations. I asked the clerks to implement changes immediately and they are doing so.

10. County Clerk's Accounting Controls and Procedures/Missing Funds

During our audit of the County Clerk's Office, discrepancies were noted between recorded receipts and amounts transmitted to the County Treasurer. The County Clerk accepts cash, checks, and money orders for payment of notary commissions, auctioneer license fees, liquor license fees, map sales and other miscellaneous receipts. The County Clerk's Office does not maintain a bank account for these fees, but transmits them to the County Treasurer monthly. Transmittals to the County Treasurer exceeded $2,000 for the two years ended December 31, 1998. The following weaknesses in internal control procedures were noted.

A. The County Clerk's Office does not have adequate controls in place to ensure the proper safeguarding of county revenue from theft, misuse or loss. Receipts are not issued for all monies received and cash receipts are not transmitted intact to the County Treasurer. For the period January 1, 1997 through December 31, 1998, receipt slips were compared to amounts transmitted and at least $136 was apparently not transmitted. In addition, the transmittal reports do not indicate which receipts are being remitted, the composition of receipts is not reconciled to the composition of transmittal reports, and a receipt is not obtained from the County Treasurer at the time of the turnover. The County Clerk also indicated that cash receipts are sometimes used to cash personal checks for county employees.

   All payments made to the County Clerk's Office are accountable fees and should be remitted to the county treasury. To provide assurance all monies received have been properly transmitted to the County Treasurer, prenumbered receipt slips should be issued for all monies received, receipts should be transmitted intact, transmittal reports should indicate which receipts are being remitted, and the composition of monies received should be reconciled to the composition of monies transmitted to the County Treasurer. In addition, the County Clerk should discontinue the procedure of cashing personal checks for county employees and should obtain a receipt slip from the County Treasurer at the time of the transmittal.

B. Checks and money orders are not restrictively endorsed immediately upon receipt. Endorsements are generally applied at the time transmittals are prepared. Restrictively endorsing checks immediately upon receipt will help safeguard assets from loss, misuse or theft.

C. Accounting duties are not adequately segregated. One clerk is primarily responsible for removing cash receipts from the cash drawer, preparing the monthly transmittal, and turning over fees to the County Treasurer. There is no documentation of an independent review of this clerk's work.

To safeguard against possible loss or misuse of funds, internal controls should provide reasonable assurance that all transactions are accounted for properly and assets are adequately safeguarded. Proper segregation of duties helps provide this assurance. If proper segregation of duties cannot be achieved, at a minimum, there should be a documented review made by the County Clerk.

Conditions similar to A. and B. were noted in our prior report and the County Clerk indicated he concurred with the recommendation and stated he would try to do better. However, no improvements were noted.

WE RECOMMEND the County Clerk:

A. Establish adequate controls to properly safeguard county revenue from theft, misuse or loss. Issue receipt slips for all monies, transmit monies received intact and obtain a receipt slip from the Treasurer at the time of transmittal. Ensure that transmittals indicate which receipts are included in the transmittal and reconcile the cash, checks, and money orders received to the composition of receipt slips and transmittals. The County Clerk should discontinue the practice of cashing personal checks. In addition, the County Clerk should attempt to recover the missing receipts.

B. Restrictively endorse all checks and money orders immediately upon receipt.

C. Adequately segregate accounting duties or ensure periodic supervisory reviews are performed and documented.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The County Clerk provided the following responses:

A. I will review my office's records and determine necessary actions. I will ensure all monies are receipted and transmitted to the County Treasurer. It has been my policy that personal checks will not be cashed by employees. I will again emphasize this policy with my staff.

B. I have implemented this recommendation.

C. I will instruct my office manager to review the monthly transmittal and reconcile monies transmitted to receipt slips issued.

11. County Collector's Accounting Controls and Procedures

The County Collector's Office collected over $11 million in property taxes, fees, interest and penalties in each of the two years ended February 28, 1999. Our review of the County Collector's accounting controls and procedures disclosed the following concerns:

A. The County Collector accepts cash, checks, and money orders for payment of property taxes; however, the method of payment is not marked on the receipts. To properly reconcile receipts to deposits and ensure all monies are being deposited intact, the method of payment should be indicated on all receipts and the composition of receipts should be reconciled to the composition of deposits.

B. The County Collector does not deposit receipts intact. During our review we noted the following concerns:

1) Monies received for partial payments of property taxes are held in cash in the vault.

2) Receipts were used to cash personal checks for county employees.

To adequately safeguard receipts and reduce the risk of loss, theft, or misuse of funds, all receipts should be deposited intact daily or when accumulated receipts exceed $100 and the deposit slips should indicate which receipts are included in the deposit or should reconcile to the daily abstract reports.

Similar concerns were noted in our prior audit report.

WE AGAIN RECOMMEND the County Collector:

A. Ensure the method of payment is indicated on all property tax receipts. The cash, checks, and money orders received per the receipts should be reconciled to the composition of bank deposits.

B. Deposit all monies received for partial payments intact daily and ensure deposit slips indicate which receipts are included in the deposit. In addition, the practice of cashing checks should be discontinued.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The County Collector provided the following responses:

A. Due to time pressures experienced by my office during the busy season, it does not seem feasible at this time to record the method of payment on tax receipts.

B. I now issue prenumbered duplicate receipts for all partial payments. Large partial payments are deposited in the miscellaneous account and small partial payments are held in cash in the vault. Cashing checks for county employees in small amounts does not create any record keeping or reconciliation problems for my office.

12. County Treasurer's Accounting and Banking Procedures

The County Treasurer accounts for the receipts and disbursements of the various county funds and several agency funds. Our review of the County Treasurer's accounting controls and procedures disclosed the following concerns:

A. As of December 31, 1998, the County Treasurer maintained sixteen checking accounts, three investment accounts, and two certificates of deposit. A large number of accounts causes additional record keeping and increases the likelihood that errors will occur in recording transactions.

Overall efficiency could be improved by reducing the number of accounts and combining funds in as few accounts and investment vehicles as possible. Consolidating existing accounts would also allow funds to be pooled for increased investment opportunities.

B. Although the County Treasurer compared bank balances to the balances recorded on the check stubs, she did not always formally document bank reconciliations for the county's bank accounts and did not investigate significant differences noted in her reconciliations.

In addition, the County Treasurer did not reconcile the fund ledger balances to the county's bank accounts or to the check stubs. During our review of the County Treasurer's fund ledger, we noted some fund ledger balances did not reconcile to the bank account balances. For example, the December 31, 1998 book balances of the funds maintained in the County Revenue bank account exceeded the reconciled bank account balances by approximately $5,100. Similar discrepancies have existed in the December 31 bank reconciliations since at least 1995.

Formally documenting bank reconciliations and reconciling the Treasurer's fund ledgers to the bank accounts ensures that the records are in balance and that sufficient cash is available for the payment of all county expenditures. The Treasurer should attempt to determine the reasons for differences between the fund ledger and the bank accounts and the County Commission should be consulted to determine the proper correcting entry for any unexplained differences.

C. Fifteen county funds are maintained in the County Revenue bank account. Until March 1998, the Treasurer allocated interest earned on the bank account to the three largest funds: General Revenue Fund, Special Road and Bridge Fund, and the Assessment Fund. Beginning in March 1998, the Deputy Treasurer allocated 100 percent of the interest earned to the General Revenue Fund and a review of her work was not performed by the Treasurer.

Section 110.150.2, RSMo Cum. Supp. 1998, and the Missouri Attorney General's Opinion No. 126, 1981 to Antonio; No. 108, 1981 to Busker; No. 148, 1980 to Antonio; and No. 40, 1965 to Owensby, provide the interest on school funds, county hospital and hospital district funds, county library funds, county health center funds, special road and bridge funds, and assessment funds, be placed to the credit of those funds, and the interest on all other funds to the credit of the county's General Revenue Fund.

A condition similar to A. has been reported in our three prior reports.

WE RECOMMEND: the County Treasurer:

A. Reduce the number of bank accounts maintained.

B. Perform and adequately document bank reconciliations and reconcile the fund ledger to the county's bank accounts. Investigate and correct identified differences. Finally, consult the County Commission to determine the proper correcting entry for all unexplained differences.

C. Allocate the interest earned on the County Fund bank account in accordance with the state statutes and various Attorney General opinions.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The County Treasurer provided the following responses:

A. I have reduced the number of bank accounts to twelve.

B. I now reconcile the bank statements to the fund ledger and document the reconciliations. The unidentified county fund balance is now only $290.

C. I have implemented this recommendation.

13. Juvenile Office Accounting Controls and Procedures

The Juvenile Office is responsible for collecting court ordered restitution from juvenile offenders and remitting monies collected to victims. A bank account is not maintained, instead, receipts from each juvenile, in the form of money order or cash, are held in separate envelopes in the Juvenile Office's safe. Two series of receipts are maintained. The first series documents payments received from juveniles and the second series documents restitution picked up by victims. During our review of the Juvenile Office's accounting records and procedures, we noted the following concerns:

A. The Juvenile Office does not maintain a restitution ledger to account for restitution assessed, collected, and distributed for each case. In addition, documentation maintained in the juvenile restitution case files is not adequate to account for cash balances on hand for each case and does not always include complete documentation of amounts paid to victims. The Juvenile Office generally maintains a card file on each juvenile which documents total restitution due, restitution payments received, restitution balance, and payments to the victim(s). However, these cards were not always prepared in the same format which allowed information to be missing from some cards. In addition, the cards did not indicate receipt slip numbers for restitution disbursed to victims.

   Complete documentation of juvenile restitution cases provides a framework for ensuring restitution owed, paid, and distributed to victims is properly accounted for and accurately recorded and that cash balances on hand are sufficient for the payment of all liabilities (amounts due to victims).

B. Victim receipt slips did not always indicate the case number or the applicable juvenile's name. As a result, some distributions could not be related to applicable cases. In addition, distributions to victims sometimes included monies from more than one juvenile and the case numbers or juvenile names and amount associated with each case were not documented on the receipt slip.

   To provide adequate documentation that distributions to victims are proper, the juvenile name or case number should be recorded on the victim's receipt slip. In addition, if the distribution is for payments received from multiple juveniles, the victim's receipt slip should indicate which juveniles or cases were included in the distribution and how much of the distribution relates to each juvenile.

C. The payee information on many of the money orders on hand was blank and the Juvenile Office did not appear to have consistent procedures to ensure monies were distributed in a timely manner. As of January 21, 1999 we noted that $440 had been held longer than two weeks and some receipts on hand dated back to September, 1998.

Retaining cash or money orders with incomplete payee information and failure to distribute restitution in a timely manner increases the risk of loss or theft.

D. Cash balances on hand were not reconciled to records of amounts owed to victims. Monthly reconciliations provide assurance that the records are in balance and are necessary to ensure that all receipts and disbursements are properly accounted for and that cash balances can be properly identified to appropriate liabilities and other reconciling items.

E. The duties of receiving, recording, and custody of juvenile office restitution receipts are not adequately segregated. One clerk performs these duties.

To safeguard against possible loss, theft, or misuse of funds, internal controls should provide reasonable assurance that all transactions are accounted for properly and assets are adequately safeguarded. Internal controls could be improved by segregating the duties of receiving and maintaining custody of restitution receipts from that of recording receipts, and by designating someone independent of the receipting and disbursement process to perform a reconciliation of monies on hand to case file cards and other case records. If proper segregation of duties cannot be achieved, at a minimum the Juvenile Officer should periodically supervise the reconciliations between receipts on hand and the case file records and document the results of her review.

WE RECOMMEND: the Juvenile Office:

A. Maintain a restitution ledger to ensure complete documentation of juvenile restitution activity including but not limited to: juvenile and victim names, amount of restitution ordered and due to each victim, restitution payments received (including receipt date and number), balance of restitution due from the juvenile, distributions to victims (including receipt date and number), balance due to each victim, and the balance of cash on hand.

B. Record the juvenile name(s) and case number(s) on victim receipt slips.

C. Ensure the payee information is properly completed for all money orders on hand and distribute restitution to victims in a timely manner.

D. Reconcile cash balances on hand to amounts owed to victims.

E. Adequately segregate accounting duties to the extent possible to provide reasonable assurance that all transactions are accounted for properly and assets are adequately safeguarded. If duties cannot be adequately segregated, at a minimum, there should be a documented supervisory review to ensure receipts agree to amounts posted to case files and to ensure the open items lists agree to monies on hand.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

At the request of the Circuit Judge, the Associate Circuit Judge and the Juvenile Officer provided the following responses:

A. After the exit team met with the Circuit Judge, he met with the Juvenile Officer and the exit team's recommendations have been implemented.

B&D. These recommendations have been implemented.

C. We now distribute partial payment restitution to victims on a monthly basis. Restitution paid in full is now distributed to victims as soon as possible after it is received.

E. The Circuit Judge instructed the Juvenile Officer to segregate the duties of accounting for restitution. Since that time, the duties of receiving are performed by the front desk clerks and disbursing and reconciling the cash on hand is the responsibility of the Juvenile Officer and the Head Clerk.

14. Probate Division's Accounting Controls and Procedures

As of December 31, 1998, the Probate Division's cash balances were $1,787 and $16,241 in the Probate and Dissolution accounts, respectively. The Probate Division issues one-write receipt slips, records receipts on a monthly cash control ledger, maintains case fee sheets for open cases and maintains an open case ledger that documents the amounts received and disbursed and the open cash balance for each case. During our review of the open items listings we noted the following concerns:

A. Monthly listings of open items are not prepared for the Dissolution account, instead the open case ledger is maintained and cases are lined out when disbursed. As of December 31, 1998, the Probate and Dissolution cash balances included unidentified monies totaling approximately $622 and $416, respectively. The difference between the reconciled cash balance and the open case ledger fluctuated each month. Fluctuations in the unidentified balance indicate a recording error occurred in the current month; however, the Probate Division did not properly investigate and correct these errors.

B. Case fee sheet totals and the open case ledger are not reconciled to the one-write on a monthly basis to ensure accuracy. Proper reconciliation between the one-write, the open case ledger, and the case fee sheets may assist in reconciling the cash balance to the open items listing.

Monthly listings of open items should be properly prepared and reconciled to cash balances for each account to ensure records are in balance and sufficient funds are available for the payment of all liabilities. Further, the Probate Clerk should attempt to determine the reasons for the differences noted and if proper disposition of the unidentified monies cannot be determined, these monies should be disposed of in accordance with state law.

WE RECOMMEND the Probate Division:

A. Prepare monthly open items listings for the Dissolution account, determine reasons for all unidentified cash balances and investigate fluctuations in the unidentified balance. After final review, all unidentified balances should be disposed of in accordance with the unclaimed property statutes.

B. Reconcile case fee sheets to the open case ledger and the one-write on a monthly basis.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The Probate Judge and Probate Clerk provided the following responses:

A. We plan to prepare a formal open items listing twice a year and will try to prepare them more often if possible.

B. We will implement this recommendation.

15. Prosecuting Attorney's Accounting Controls and Procedures

Prior audit reports have addressed the inadequacy of the Prosecuting Attorney's accounting controls and procedures. These conditions have not improved since 1994. The current Prosecuting Attorney, who took office in January 1999, has purchased a new software system to account for the bad check collection efforts; however, controls and procedures related to the collection of restitution and fees and the ultimate dispositions of monies received in trust have not been improved.

The Prosecuting Attorney's Office collected court-ordered restitution, bad check restitution, and bad check collection fees totaling at least $219,000 during the two years ended December 31, 1998.

Court-ordered restitution payments are deposited to the Prosecuting Attorney's Restitution Fund checking account and checks are issued for the distribution of this restitution. The majority of the bad check restitution is received in the form of money orders made payable directly to the victims and is not deposited, instead, these money orders are forwarded directly to the plaintiffs. Periodic payments are allowed for some bad check cases and these receipts are deposited into the Prosecuting Attorney's Bad Check Restitution Account. Bad check collection fees are received in the form of money orders made payable to the Butler County Prosecuting Attorney and are transmitted directly to the County Treasurer for deposit in the Prosecuting Attorney's Bad Check Fund. Our review of the records and procedures related to the Prosecuting Attorney's bank accounts revealed the following concerns:

A. Accounting and bookkeeping duties are not adequately segregated. One individual, with the assistance of a part time clerk, is responsible for receiving, recording, depositing, and transmitting monies for both restitution accounts. To safeguard against possible loss or misuse of funds, internal controls should provide reasonable assurance that all transactions are properly accounted for and assets are adequately safeguarded. Proper segregation of duties helps to provide this assurance. At a minimum, there should be a documented review made by a supervisor.

B. The Prosecuting Attorney's procedure for issuing receipt slips does not provide adequate documentation of monies received by the office. During our review, the receipt slip book could not be located. In addition, the composition of receipts is not reconciled to the composition of deposits. Receipt slips are usually issued only when cash payments are received or when the person making payment requests a receipt.

   Prenumbered receipt slips should be issued for all money received and their numerical sequence accounted for to help ensure all monies are recorded and properly handled. To ensure all monies are being deposited intact, the method of payment should be recorded on receipt slips and cash, checks, and money orders received should be reconciled to the composition of monies deposited.

C. Checks and money orders received are not restrictively endorsed immediately upon receipt and are not kept in a secure location until the time of deposit or transmittal to the County Treasurer and/or a merchant. Endorsements are applied at the time deposits are prepared. To adequately safeguard receipts, all checks to be deposited in the Prosecuting Attorney's bank accounts or remitted to the County Treasurer should be restrictively endorsed immediately upon receipt and kept in a secure location until deposited or transmitted. In addition, all checks and money orders made payable to merchants should be promptly forwarded to the merchant.

D. Bad check and court-ordered restitution payments and fees are not deposited in the Prosecuting Attorney's bank accounts or transmitted to the County Treasurer on a timely basis. Deposits/transmittals are made approximately once a week regardless of when received or the amounts on hand. In addition, a transmittal listing or other documentation of items turned over to the County Treasurer is not maintained.

   To adequately safeguard receipts and reduce the risk of loss, theft, or misuse of funds, receipts should be deposited or transmitted to the County Treasurer daily or when accumulated receipts exceed $100. In addition, a transmittal listing of items remitted to the County Treasurer should be prepared and a copy should be retained by the Prosecuting Attorney.

E. Court-ordered restitution and bad check collections received and disbursed are not receipted or recorded in a cash control. The Prosecuting Attorney does not maintain an accurate record of deposits and cash balances in the check registers of the restitution bank accounts. We noted that the clerk periodically adjusts the balance in the check register to the bank balance less checks issued in the current month which remain outstanding. As a result, adequate monthly bank reconciliations cannot be performed to ensure that the bank balances reconcile to monies held in trust.

The Prosecuting Attorney's Office should prepare an accurate cash control ledger or other record of all receipts and disbursements and periodic cash balances. A cash control ledger is necessary to provide summary financial information, more readily account for numerical sequence of receipt slips and checks issued, and facilitate reconciliation with bank account balances. Because the Prosecuting Attorney does not maintain a cash control ledger and because some monies are remitted directly to the plaintiff or County Treasurer, the Prosecuting Attorney could not determine the amount of restitution revenues received by the Prosecuting Attorney's Office and is not able to determine if the monies received were properly handled and remitted to the appropriate parties.

F. An adequate system to account for all bad checks received as well as the subsequent disposition of these bad checks has not been established. No record is maintained by the Prosecuting Attorney to account for all bad checks turned over to his office for collection. Currently, Butler County merchants prepare an unnumbered complaint form which is submitted with the bad check.

To ensure all bad checks turned over to the Prosecuting Attorney are handled and accounted for properly, a sequential number should be assigned to each bad check complaint form received and a log should be maintained showing each bad check and its disposition. The log should contain information such as the assigned complaint number, the merchant, the issuer of the check, the amount of the check, the amount of the bad check fee, and the disposition of the bad check, including the date payment was received and transmitted to the merchant and County Treasurer or the criminal case number in which charges were filed or other disposition.

G. Monthly listings of open items (liabilities) are not prepared and, consequently, open items are not reconciled with cash balances. As a result, the Prosecuting Attorney's reconciled bank balances totaling $3,101 in the Prosecuting Attorney Restitution Fund and $13,838 in the Prosecuting Attorney Bad Check Restitution Account at December 31, 1998 were unidentified. The unidentified cash balance has increased significantly since December 31, 1996. The unidentified balances of the two accounts were $2,373 and $7,453, respectively at December 31, 1996.

Monthly listings of open items are necessary to ensure the proper disposition of cash balances. The periodic reconciliation of liabilities with the cash balance provides assurance that the records are in balance and that sufficient cash is available for payment of all liabilities. Timely reconciliations are necessary and helpful in the investigation of differences.

H. The Prosecuting Attorney has not established a formal policy specifying when the court should be notified of unpaid cases. In addition, specific procedures have not been established to ensure follow up collection efforts are adequate. During our review of court-ordered restitution and bad check restitution case files, we noted that collection procedures and efforts are not always made timely and that there is no clear policy of follow-up collection efforts to be taken or timing of the efforts.

   The Prosecuting Attorney should establish written procedures for collecting delinquent unpaid restitution and fees. Such procedures should consist of generating periodic reports of cases with balances due and follow up on those for which payments are not being made. In addition, information regarding cases with delinquent payments and significant balances due should be regularly provided to the Prosecuting Attorney for review and assessment of follow-up collection efforts or other court action which may be necessary.

Conditions similar to A-G. were noted in our two prior reports.

WE AGAIN RECOMMEND the Prosecuting Attorney:

A. Adequately segregate accounting and bookkeeping duties to the extent possible. At a minimum, the Prosecuting Attorney should perform documented reviews of the work performed.

B. Issue prenumbered receipt slips for all monies received, account for the numerical sequence of receipt slips, reconcile cash, checks, and money orders received to the composition of bank deposits and ensure all records are retained in accordance with state law.

C. Restrictively endorse checks and money orders made payable to the Prosecuting Attorney immediately upon receipt and forward checks and money orders made payable to merchants promptly. In addition, receipts should be kept in a secure location until deposited or transmitted.

D. Deposit or transmit restitution and bad check fees daily or when accumulated receipts exceed $100 and retain a listing documenting the monies that were transmitted or deposited.

E. Record all receipts, disbursements, and cash balances on a cash control ledger and reconcile monthly bank balances to monies held in trust.

F. Implement procedures to adequately account for bad checks received as well as the ultimate disposition through the use of sequential numbers assigned to each bad check complaint form and a log to account for the numerical sequence and ultimate disposition of each bad check.

G. Prepare a monthly listing of open items and reconcile it to the cash balance. An attempt should be made to investigate the unidentified monies and any monies remaining unidentified should be disbursed in accordance with state law.

H. Maintain a complete and accurate listing of delinquent unpaid court ordered restitution and bad check restitution and fees. In addition, written procedures should be established and implemented for pursuing the collection of such delinquent amounts.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The Prosecuting Attorney provided the following responses:

A. The Administrative Assistant now receipts, records, and disburses criminal court-ordered restitution monies. However, the bank reconciliation is performed by an independent person. A part time clerk assists in the bad check receiving duties and also prepares the monthly bank reconciliation. Due to limitations in staffing and the volume of work handled by the bad check clerks, it does not appear feasible at this time to perform further segregation of bad check and court-ordered bad check duties. I will consider requiring an independent review of the bad check bank reconciliations.

B. Prenumbered one-write receipt slips are now issued for criminal court-ordered restitution receipts. Due to the volume of transactions handled and time constraints involved, it does not seem feasible at this time to issue receipt slips for bad check restitution receipts. We have obtained a better computer system and have improved record keeping for bad check and court-ordered bad check restitution.

C. Criminal court-ordered restitution payments are now endorsed daily. Court-ordered bad check restitution payments are deposited two or three times a week and are endorsed at the time the deposit is prepared. Payments for bad check fees are endorsed with a county stamp as the mail is opened. Receipts are maintained in the bad-check clerk's office which is locked when not attended.

D. Criminal court-ordered restitution payments are now deposited daily. Bad check restitution and bad check fees are remitted to the vendors and the County Treasurer at least two times per week. A transmittal listing of bad check fees is prepared and a copy is provided to the County Treasurer.

E. A cash control is now maintained for criminal court-ordered restitution. Monthly balances are determined and reconciled with the bank. Beginning August 1999, a ledger of open items is maintained for court-ordered bad check restitution. We plan to use this ledger to reconcile to the bank.

F. Bad checks received from vendors are entered in the new computer system. The system assigns a case number for each bad check and has the capability to provide reports to account for all bad checks received.

G. Monthly open items listings are prepared for the criminal court-ordered restitution and the remaining unidentified balances will be disbursed in accordance with state law. We are working on preparing an accurate open items listing for bad check restitution.

H. A written policy has been established for criminal court-ordered restitution. Bad check cases are reviewed for necessary action once a month.

16. Sheriff's Accounting Controls and Procedures

The Sheriff's department is responsible for collecting incarceration costs billed to other political subdivisions, civil and criminal process fees, garnishment payments and fees, gun permit fees and cash bonds. Incarceration reimbursements, civil, criminal, garnishment, and gun permit fees are deposited to the Sheriff's fee account and remitted to the County Treasurer monthly. Garnishment payments are deposited to the fee account and are issued to the garnishor upon receipt. Cash bonds are deposited to the bond checking account and are remitted to the appropriate court upon receipt.

A. The duties of receipting, recording, disbursing, and reconciling the fee account and bond account financial records are not adequately segregated. One employee receipts some monies that are deposited to the fee account, disburses some monies from the fee account, and performs the monthly bank reconciliation for the fee account. The same employee prepares deposits, disbursements, and bank reconciliations for the bond account. In addition, the numerical sequence of bond receipt slips is not accounted for or reconciled to deposits by an independent person.

   To safeguard against possible loss, theft, or misuse of funds, internal controls should provide reasonable assurance that all transactions are accounted for properly and assets are adequately safeguarded. Internal controls could be improved by segregating the duties of receiving, recording, disbursing, and reconciling cash. If the duties cannot be adequately segregated, at a minimum, there should be a supervisory review of reconciliations between receipts and deposits and an independent review of bank reconciliations.

B. Our review of cash receipting and depositing procedures revealed the following concerns:

1. Receipt slips are not always issued for bond monies received. In November and December 1998 we noted two different bonds totaling $500 which were deposited but not receipted. To adequately account for all receipts, prenumbered receipt slips should be issued for all monies received and the numerical sequence should be accounted for properly.

2. Checks and money orders received and deposited in the fee account for civil and criminal fees are not endorsed immediately upon receipt. To reduce the risk of loss or misuse of funds, checks and money orders should be restrictively endorsed immediately upon receipt.

C. Monthly listings of open items (liabilities) are not prepared for the fee account. Consequently, liabilities are not reconciled with cash balances. Monthly listings of open items should be prepared and reconciled to the cash balances to ensure the records are in balance and that sufficient cash is available for the payment of all liabilities.

D. The Sheriff has not established a formal policy for follow up collection efforts for unpaid incarceration costs billed to other political subdivisions. A corrections officer tracks and bills incarceration costs incurred by other political subdivisions. Payments from the political subdivisions are received and deposited by the Sheriff's civil/criminal clerk. A copy of the billing is not provided to the civil/criminal clerk so that additional billings or follow up can be performed for unpaid billings. However, the civil/criminal clerk makes a copy of the check for the corrections officer. These checks are supposed to be matched with the billing letter by the corrections officer and the billing letter is to be removed from a pending file and placed in a paid file. However, our review of the corrections officer's billing file revealed that five billing letters in the unpaid billing folder totaling over $10,800 had been paid but not removed from the folder.

To adequately account for all incarceration billings due and to maximize county revenues, adequate summary records of amounts due should be maintained. In addition, the Sheriff should establish written procedures for collecting delinquent incarceration billings. Such procedures should consist of generating periodic reports of billings with balances due and follow up on those for which payments have not been received.

E. Gun permit fees are deposited to the fee account daily and remitted to the County Treasurer on a monthly basis; however, the monies received are not included on the Sheriff's monthly report of fees which is filed with the County Commission. Section 50.370, RSMo 1994, requires that an itemized and accurate list of fees collected be filed by county officials with the County Commission monthly.

F. The duties related to seized property are not adequately segregated. One deputy is responsible for both the custody and the record-keeping functions related to seized property. Periodic independent inventories of seized property on hand and the evidence log book are not performed. Properly segregating duties decreases the risk of loss, misuse, or theft of seized property.

G. Due to concerns noted on the inmate and commissary accounts, a special review is being performed of these areas.

Conditions similar to A., C., E., and F., were noted in our prior report.

WE RECOMMEND the Sheriff:

A. Segregate the duties of receipting, recording, disbursing, and reconciling cash. There should be a supervisory review of reconciliations between receipts and deposits and bank reconciliations should be reviewed and signed by the Sheriff or another designated individual independent of cash duties.

B.1. Issue prenumbered receipt slips for bond monies immediately upon receipt and account for their numerical sequence.

2. Restrictively endorse checks and money orders immediately upon receipt.

C. Prepare a monthly listing of open items and reconcile it to the fee account cash balance.

D. Maintain a complete and accurate listing of delinquent incarceration billings. In addition, written procedures should be established and implemented for pursuing the collections of such delinquent amounts.

E. Ensure all fees collected are reported to the County Commission on a monthly basis in accordance with state law.

F. Segregate the duties of custody and record-keeping related to seized property or provide for periodic independent inventories of seized property and the evidence log book.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The Sheriff provided the following responses:

A. I now review the monthly bank reconciliations. Receipt slip numbers are recorded on the deposit slips and are accounted for as deposits are prepared.

B&E. We have implemented these recommendations.

C. We now prepare monthly listings of open items and are working on reconciliations to the cash balance.

D. I will establish procedures to pursue collection of incarceration billings.

F. I will ensure quarterly inventory spot checks are performed.

This report is intended for the information of the management of Butler County, Missouri, and other applicable government officials. However, this report is a matter of public record and its distribution is not limited.

Follow-Up on Prior Audit Findings

BUTLER COUNTY, MISSOURI
FOLLOW-UP ON PRIOR AUDIT FINDINGS

In accordance with Government Auditing Standards, this section reports the auditor's follow-up on action taken by Butler County, Missouri, on findings in the Management Advisory Report (MAR) of our prior audit report issued for the two years ended December 31, 1996. (Finding numbers 10.B. and 10.D. are omitted since the related follow-up appears in an earlier section of this report). The prior recommendations which have not been implemented, but are considered significant, have been repeated in the current MAR. Although the remaining unimplemented recommendations have not been repeated, the county should consider implementing these recommendations.

1. Budgetary Practices

   A. Warrants were issued in excess of approved budgeted expenditures.

   B. The County Commission did not have effective controls over purchasing procedures and did not effectively monitor county budgets and their operations. As a result, the Sheriff's department had expended approximately 87 percent of the 1997 budget as of mid August.

   C. Formal budgets were not prepared and filed with the State Auditor's Office for a number of county funds. Financial information was not obtained for several funds held by various county officials.

   D. Budgets prepared by the County Clerk and approved by the County Commission were not accurate.

   E. The County Clerk did not maintain a listing of outstanding warrants.

   Recommendation:

   The County Commission:

   A. Not authorize warrants in excess of budgeted expenditures. Extenuating circumstances should be fully documented and, if necessary, the budgets properly amended following the same process by which the annual budget is approved, including holding public hearings and filing the amended budget with the State Auditor's Office.

   B. Work with the Sheriff to ensure expenditures do not exceed budget. The County Commission should consider implementing a purchasing system so that each budget and its related expenditures can be closely monitored.

   C. Ensure that budgets are prepared or obtained for all county funds in accordance with state law.

D. Ensure budget documents are accurate and complete. To detect errors and inaccuracies in budget data, the County Clerk should perform reconciliations of revenues, expenditures, and cash balance with the County Treasurer.

E. Require the County Clerk to prepare an outstanding warrant listing at December 31 of each year and reconcile the list to warrants issued and warrants paid.

Status:

A., B., C., D. Not implemented. See MAR No. 1.

E. Partially implemented. The County Clerk prepared listings of outstanding warrants for some funds as of December 31, 1997. As of March 1998, the county no longer uses a warrant system and as a result, listings of outstanding warrants are no longer necessary.

2. Published Financial Statements

The financial statements published by the County Clerk were not accurate and did not contain all necessary information.

Recommendation:

The County Commission ensure the county's published financial statements are accurate and complete.

Status:

Not implemented. See MAR No. 1.

3. County Banking Procedures

The County Treasurer maintained numerous bank accounts.

Recommendation:

The County Treasurer reduce the number of bank accounts maintained.

Status:

Not implemented. See MAR No. 12.

4. Property Tax Controls

A. Court orders were not prepared and approved for all tax additions and abatements. The County Commission did not review or approve court orders and no independent review was performed of changes made by the County Collector to the printed tax books.

B. The County Clerk did not maintain an account book with the County Collector.

C. The County Clerk did not prepare the current or back tax book and did not perform any procedures to verify the accuracy of the printed tax books. As a result, a school levy was incorrectly extended in 1995.

Recommendation:

The County Clerk:

A. Prepare prenumbered addition and abatement court orders from information received directly from the Assessor's Office and periodically reconcile additions and abatements to changes made to the property tax books. In addition, the County Commission should review and approve all additions and abatements on a more timely basis.

B. Establish and maintain an account book of the County Collector's transactions, and the County Commission make use of this account book to verify the County Collector's annual settlements and to verify the accuracy of the aggregate abstract reports.

C. Verify the totals of the current and back tax books for accuracy and document the procedures performed. The County Clerk should also work with the collector to correct the erroneous collection for the school district.

Status:

A.-C. Not implemented. See MAR No. 2.

5. County Officials' Compensation

Adequate documentation was not retained to substantiate the reasons or calculations for increases in some county officials' salaries. Salary commission minutes did not clearly indicate the actual amounts to be paid.

Recommendation:

The County Commission ensure future salary commission minutes clearly document the amounts to be paid to each official, how the amounts were calculated, and when increases in compensation will take effect for each official.

Status:

Partially implemented. The 1997 minutes clearly indicated the salary amounts and effective dates of salaries voted on at that meeting. However, the county did not obtain a written Prosecuting Attorney's opinion on the legality of certain issues discussed and included in the salary calculations. Although not repeated in our current report, our recommendation remains as stated above.

6. County Commission Minutes

The County Clerk did not prepare adequate records of the County Commission meetings.
Recommendation:

The County Commission ensure a complete record of meetings is prepared and approved on a timely basis.

Status:

Not implemented. See MAR No. 4.

7. County Expenditures and Bidding

A. Adequate supporting documentation was not maintained for several expenditures.

B. Bidding was not performed or documentation of bidding was not maintained for various items. In addition, a construction change order exceeding $150,000 was issued for work that was not included in the scope of the original project and the County Commission did not always competitively negotiate service contracts for professional services. Finally, the commission minutes did not always document the basis and justification for awarding bids or purchasing items as sole source.

C. The County Commission approved some expenditures without requiring approval from the elected official and invoices were not always canceled when paid.

D. The County did not issue Forms 1099-Miscellaneous.

Recommendation:

The County Commission:

A. Maintain vendor invoices or other supporting documentation for all expenditures.

B. Solicit bids for all purchases in accordance with state law and competitively negotiate service contracts for professional services. Documentation of bids solicited and justification of bid awards should be retained by the County Clerk. If bids cannot be obtained and sole source procurement is necessary, the official minutes should reflect the necessitating circumstances. In addition, construction change orders should be approved only for work within the original scope of the project.

C. Require documented approval for purchase by the appropriate elected official and acknowledgment of receipt of goods and/or services prior to payment and ensure paid invoices are canceled when paid.

D. Ensure payments totaling greater than $600 to nonemployees and unincorporated businesses are reported to the Internal Revenue Service.

Status:

A. Partially implemented. While vendor invoices were generally maintained, the county paid $30,000 to the Poplar Bluff Chamber of Commerce without obtaining a detailed contract or other documentation sufficient to determine if the amount paid was reasonable compared to the services rendered. See MAR No. 7.

B. Partially implemented. It appears that the County Commission generally bids items over $4,500 in accordance with state law. However, the County Commission did not ensure that sufficient documentation of the justification of bid awards and sole-source purchases was maintained in all applicable circumstances. In addition, the County Commission did not competitively negotiate service contracts for professional services. See finding number 98-3.

C. Partially implemented. Invoices now appear to be canceled when paid; however, we noted a few instances when documented approval by the elected official and an indication of the receipt of goods and services was not obtained. Although not repeated in our current report, our recommendation remains as stated above.

D. Implemented.

8. General Fixed Assets

A. The county did not have formal procedures for disposing of county-owned property.

B. Property records were not adequately maintained and beginning balances were not reconciled with ending balances.

C. Fixed assets listings were not adjusted after year end inventories were performed.

Recommendation:

The County Clerk:

A. Document the County Commission's approval of all property dispositions and remove all disposed assets from the inventory totals in a timely basis.

B. Maintain fixed asset records in a manner that beginning balances, additions, and deletions can be reconciled to year end balances and reconcile fixed asset purchases per the expenditure records to additions per the inventory records.

C. Review and verify physical inventories of county property and use the results to adjust the fixed asset records.

Status:

A.-C. Not implemented. See MAR No. 6.

9. Personnel Procedures

A. The Sheriff's son-in-law was appointed as a reserve deputy.

B. County road and bridge employees were allowed to commute in county-owned vehicles and detailed logs documenting vehicle usage were not maintained.

C. Supporting documentation was not submitted for uniform expenses and the allowances were not reported on the Sheriff's and deputies' W-2 forms.

D. Leave balances were not maintained by the County Clerk.

Recommendation:

The County Commission:

A. Work with the county officials to ensure all future appointments are appropriate.

B. Comply with IRS guidelines for reporting fringe benefits related to county-owned vehicles. In addition, the county should establish a written policy for road and bridge employees regarding the appropriate use of county vehicles for commuting purposes.

C. Require employees to submit invoices or itemized expense reports for uniform allowances or report the payments as other income on the employees' W-2 forms.

D. Require the County Clerk to maintain centralized leave records.

Status:

A. Implemented. A new sheriff took office in 1997.

B.-D. Not implemented. See MAR No. 5.

10. Hentz School

A. Supporting documentation was not maintained for expenditures made during the period January 1, 1995 through September 30, 1996.

C. Supporting documentation was not maintained for reimbursements to the judge for purchases he made on behalf of the school using personal funds. A used video camera was purchased by the school from the judge without following proper statutory procedures regarding public notice and without obtaining documentation of the fair market value of the camera.

E. Formal bank reconciliations were not always performed.

F. The Hentz School bank account and its transactions were maintained outside the county treasury and budgets were not prepared and submitted to the County Commission.

G. The Hentz School did not establish an adequate fixed asset listing.

Recommendation:

The County Commission work with the Associate Circuit Judge to ensure:

A. Adequate supporting documentation is maintained to support all grant expenditures. The County Commission and the Judge should work with the DYS to resolve the federal questioned costs presented on Schedule 2 and the remaining grant funding provided by the state.

C. The appearance of impropriety between related parties is avoided and all transactions are conducted in accordance with state law, adequately documented, and the value of items is determined prior to purchase so the public has assurance that no official or agent profited improperly.

E. Formal monthly bank reconciliations are prepared.

F. Hentz School grant monies and future grant proceeds are transferred to the County Treasurer for credit into a separate fund. Funds should be budgeted in accordance with state law and expenditures made based on the grant administrator's approval through the county's normal expenditures system.

G. Prenumbered inventory tags that label each item as county property are attached to all property and equipment purchased with grant funds. Require general fixed asset records be maintained to include information as to the type of each item, an identifiable number, the serial number or model number when available, the date purchased, and original cost or estimated value if the original cost is not known, physical location, and date and method of disposition.

Status:

A. Implemented. The Juvenile Office maintains records for the Hentz School program and the former Judge and the Hentz School have worked with the Division of Youth Services (DYS) to determine which grant expenditures are allowable. It was determined that over $30,000 paid to the Hentz School by the DYS was unallowable, and the school has reimbursed the state for those costs that were disallowed.

C. Mr. Clark is no longer the Associate Circuit Judge and does not handle the grant monies. The grant funds are now held by the County Treasurer and grant expenditures are approved by the County Commission and are made through the county's normal disbursement procedures.

E. Implemented.

F. Implemented. Although budgets were not prepared for calendar year 1997 or the period covering January 1998 through May 1998, a budget was prepared and submitted to the county for the period covering June 1998 through December 1998. The budget was submitted at the same time the remaining grant funding was remitted to the County Treasurer's custody. Expenditures are now processed by the County Clerk through the county's normal procedures.

G. Partially implemented. Prenumbered inventory tags were purchased and placed on fixed assets that were purchased with grant funds. A listing of all inventory that was tagged was prepared; however the listing did not include the date of purchase, the original cost, and the current location of the items. Although not repeated in our current report, our recommendation remains as stated above.

11. Sheriff's Commissary

A1. Monies received from (or for) inmates were held in cash and were used to cash personal checks from employees and pay office expenses until the Sheriff began depositing inmate funds in the commissary revenue account. In addition, the inmate account ledger was not reconciled to the cash balance on hand.

2. The inmate account was not reconciled to the inmate account ledger.

3. Inmates were allowed to carry negative balances and bank charges incurred by the inmate account were not reimbursed from county funds.

B1. Commissary inventory records were inadequate to account for inventory transactions and balances.

2. Periodic physical inventory counts were not performed.

3. Inventory prices were not marked up to ensure adequate profit was received.

Recommendation:

The Sheriff:

A1. Deposit monies held in trust for prisoners to the inmate trust account intact daily or when accumulated receipts exceed $100. In addition, inmate funds should be used only for the inmates' benefit at the inmates' directions.

2. Reconcile the inmate account ledger to the inmate account at least monthly and investigate and resolve all errors and discrepancies in a timely manner.

3. Discontinue the practice of allowing inmates' accounts to carry negative balances and seek reimbursement from the commissary sales revenue account for all bank charges incurred on the inmate monies bank account.

B1. Maintain perpetual inventory records and adequate supporting documentation to account for commissary merchandise including balances for each item, purchases, sales, credits, and other uses of inventory.

2. Ensure a periodic physical count of inventory is performed at least monthly by an employee independent of daily commissary operations. The results of that inventory should be compared to the inventory records and discrepancies should be investigated in a timely manner.

3. Establish a formal policy to regulate the mark up of commissary inventory. In addition, the Sheriff's department should formally monitor the commissary revenues and cost of goods sold to ensure an adequate profit is received from the operations of the commissary.

Status:

See MAR No. 16.

12. Federal Financial Assistance

A. Reimbursement reports filed with the grantor agencies were inaccurate for the COPS Fast and the DARE grants.

B. Binoculars obtained from the Department of Defense - federal surplus property program could not be located and were not properly listed on the property records.

Recommendation:

The County Commission:

A. Work with the appropriate officials to ensure grant reports/reimbursement requests required to be filed with the grantor agency are made in accordance with grant guidelines and that the reports present accurate information regarding program expenditures, local match provided, and other required data.

B. Work with the Department of Public Safety to resolve the questioned costs presented on Schedule 2. Locate all remaining binoculars and include them on the county's fixed asset records. In addition, ensure any future assets are properly included on the county's asset records and the disposition is properly documented.

Status:

A. Implemented.

B. Partially implemented. The Sheriff's department has prepared a complete listing of inventory that can be located; however, some inventory items (including several of the binoculars) could not be located when the new administration assumed its duties in December 1997. In addition, the Sheriff's department has not contacted the Department of Public Safety to resolve the questioned costs presented in Schedule 2 of our prior report. Although not repeated in our current report, our recommendation remains as stated above.

13. County Collector's Accounting Controls and Procedures

A. The method of payment was not indicated on receipt slips and prenumbered receipt slips were not issued for duplicate tax receipts.

B. The Collector did not deposit receipts intact. Daily cash receipts were used for change funds, for refunds, and to redeem non-sufficient fund checks from the bank.

C. The Collector did not distribute interest properly or on a timely basis.

Recommendation:

The County Collector:

A. Issue prenumbered receipt slips for duplicate tax statements and ensure the method of payment is indicated on all property tax receipts. The cash, checks, and money orders received per the receipts should be reconciled to the composition of bank deposits.

B. Deposit all monies received intact daily and ensure deposit slips indicate which receipts are included in the deposit. If a change fund is needed, it should be maintained at an established amount and should not be obtained from tax revenues. In addition, the practice of cashing checks should be discontinued.

C. Allocate interest on a timely basis in accordance with state statutes and Attorney General's opinions.

Status:

A. Not implemented. See MAR No. 11.

B. Partially implemented. As of March 1, 1999 the new collector took office and began depositing receipts daily and documenting the receipt numbers being deposited for the day. She has also obtained a change fund from the County Commission which is maintained at its established amount. However, the new collector has not discontinued the practice of cashing personal checks for county employees. See MAR No. 11.

C. Implemented.

14. County Clerk's Accounting Controls and Procedures

A. Receipt slips were not issued for all receipts, the method of payment was not indicated on the receipt slips and receipts were not transmitted intact.

B. Checks and money orders were not restrictively endorsed immediately upon receipt.

Recommendation:

The County Clerk:

A. Issue receipt slips for all monies received and ensure the method of payment is indicated on all receipts. Transmit all monies received intact and ensure the transmittals indicate which receipts are included in the transmittal. The cash, checks, and money orders received per the receipts should be reconciled to the composition of transmittals to the Treasurer. In addition, receipts should not be used for County Clerk expenditures, a petty cash fund should be established from county revenues if needed, and the County Clerk should discontinue the practice of cashing personal checks.

B. Restrictively endorse all checks and money orders immediately upon receipt.

Status:

A.&B. Not implemented. See MAR No. 10.

15. Sheriff's Accounting Controls and Procedures

A1. Duties were not properly segregated.

2. A cash control ledger or monthly summary report adequate to account for all monies received and their disposition was not maintained.

3. Open items listings were not prepared.

B1. The method of payment was not indicated on receipt slips for gun permits and bonds.

2. Receipts were not always deposited intact.

D1. Evidence room duties were not adequately segregated or supervised.

2. The evidence log book was not complete.

3. Court orders were not obtained for the sale of some seized property.

4. Monies received from Sheriff sales were not remitted to the schools.

Recommendation:

The Sheriff:

A1. Implement procedures to separate cash custody and recording functions and ensure there is a supervisory review of the work performed.

2. Prepare a monthly report listing all monies received and the ultimate disposition of those monies, and reconcile this report to the cash control records.

3. Prepare a monthly listing of open items and reconcile it to the cash balances. An attempt should be made to investigate the unidentified monies and any monies remaining should be disbursed in accordance with state law.

B1. Ensure the method of payment is indicated on all receipts and the composition of receipts is reconciled to the composition of bank deposits.

2. Deposit all monies received intact daily and ensure deposit slips indicate which receipts are included in the deposit. If a change fund is needed, it should be maintained at an established amount and should be obtained from county revenue.

C. Maintain an adequate listing of all issued, assigned, and unassigned traffic tickets.

D1. Segregate duties in the evidence room and review work completed.

2. Maintain an accurate and complete inventory listing of all evidence, and perform periodical inventory counts and compare them to the listing.

3. Obtain proper court orders for the disposition of all seized property.

4. Work with the County Commission to ensure the $7,737 deposited into the Inmate Telephone Income fund is remitted to the schools.

Status:

On November 7, 1997, the prior Sheriff was removed from office. A special election was held and the new Sheriff assumed office on December 16, 1997.

A1. Partially implemented. The new administration has provided some segregation of duties; however, the duties of receipting, recording, disbursing, and reconciling the fee account and bond account financial records are not adequately segregated. See MAR No. 16.

B. Prenumbered receipt slips were not issued for all receipts.

C. The method of payment was not indicated on the receipt slips and duplicate copies of the deposit slips were not retained.

D. Checks and money orders were not restrictively endorsed immediately upon receipt and were not kept in a secure location until the time of deposit.

E. Restitution payments and fees were not deposited or transmitted on a timely basis.

F. Court-ordered restitution payments and bad check collections were not receipted or recorded in a cash control or on the check registers. As a result, monthly bank reconciliations were not performed.

G. An adequate system to account for bad checks received and their ultimate disposition had not been established.

H. Monthly listings of open items were not prepared.

I. The County Commission did not review supporting documentation or warrants issued by the Prosecuting Attorney from the Prosecuting Attorney's Delinquent Tax and Prosecuting Attorney's Bad Check funds. In addition, the warrants issued for these funds were not prenumbered.

Recommendation:

The Prosecuting Attorney:

A. Adequately segregate accounting and bookkeeping duties to the extent possible. At a minimum, the Prosecuting Attorney should perform documented reviews of the work performed.

B. Issue prenumbered receipt slips for all monies received.

C. Record the method of payment for all monies received, retain duplicate copies of the deposit slips, and reconcile cash, checks, and money orders received to the composition of bank deposits.

D. Restrictively endorse checks and money orders immediately upon receipt and forward checks and money orders made payable to merchants promptly. In addition, receipts should be kept in a secure location until deposited or transmitted.

E. Deposit or transmit restitution and bad check fees daily or when accumulated receipts exceed $100.

F. Record all receipts, disbursements, and cash balances on a cash control ledger and reconcile monthly bank balances to monies held in trust.

G. Implement procedures to adequately account for bad checks received as well as the ultimate disposition through the use of sequential numbers assigned to each bad check complaint form and a log to account for the numerical sequence and ultimate disposition of each bad check.

H. Prepare a monthly listing of open items and reconcile it to the cash balance. An attempt should be made to investigate the unidentified monies and any monies remaining unidentified should be disbursed in accordance with state law.

I. Issue prenumbered warrants on the Prosecuting Attorney's Delinquent Tax Fund and the Prosecuting Attorney's Bad Check Fund, account for the numerical sequence of those warrants and reconcile warrants issued to warrants paid by the County Treasurer. In addition, copies of paid warrants and their supporting documentation should be submitted to the County Commission for its review.

Status:

A. Partially implemented. Although the employment of a part time staff person improves the segregation of duties, we noted certain concerns regarding segregation of duties and the accuracy of bank reconciliations. See MAR No. 15.

B.-H. Not implemented. See MAR No. 15.

I. As of March 1998, Butler County discontinued the warrant system for county disbursements. At that time the County Clerk obtained checks for the Prosecuting Attorney's Delinquent Tax Fund and the Prosecuting Attorney's Bad Check Fund. Disbursements for these funds are now issued by the County Clerk and approved by the County Commission based upon invoices submitted by the Prosecuting Attorney.

AUDIT REPORT

CARROLL COUNTY, MISSOURI

TWO YEARS ENDED DECEMBER 31, 1998

From The Office Of State Auditor
Claire McCaskill

Report No. 99-91
September 30, 1999

Office Of The
State Auditor Of Missouri
Claire McCaskill

September 1999

FACT SHEET

IMPORTANT: The Missouri State Auditor is required by Missouri law to conduct audits only once every four years in counties, like Carroll, which do not have a county auditor. However, to assist such counties in meeting federal audit requirements, the State Auditor will also perform a financial and compliance audit of various county operating funds every two years. This voluntary service to Missouri counties can only be provided when state auditing resources are available and does not interfere with the State Auditor's constitutional responsibility of auditing state government.

Once every four years, the State Auditor's statutory audit will cover additional areas of county operations, as well as the elected county officials, as required by Missouri's Constitution.

This audit of Carroll County included additional areas of county operations, as well as the elected county officials. The following concerns were noted as part of the audit:

< The Ex Officio County Collector did not maintain an account book and did not file annual settlements with the County Commission on a timely basis. In addition, the Ex Officio County Collector should ensure she reconciles all bank accounts to the accounting records on a monthly basis.

< The Senate Bill 40 Board needs to improve overall budgetary procedures, including not approving expenditures in excess of budgeted amounts. Also, the SB40 Board needs to better monitor collateral securities pledged by county banks and needs to ensure SB40 Board appointments do not create possible conflicts of interest.

Also included in the audit are recommendations for the County Commission and County Clerk related to the county tax books and related procedures. Additional recommendations were made to improve the records and procedures of the Circuit Clerk, Prosecuting Attorney, Public Administrator, and the Sheriff.

Copies of the audit are available upon request.

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT ON THE FINANCIAL STATEMENTS AND SUPPLEMENTARY SCHEDULE OF EXPENDITURES OF FEDERAL AWARDS

To the County Commission
and
Officeholders of Carroll County, Missouri

We have audited the accompanying special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Carroll County, Missouri, as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, as identified in the table of contents. These special-purpose financial statements are the responsibility of the county's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these special-purpose financial statements based on our audit.

Except as discussed in the fourth paragraph, we conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the special-purpose financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the special-purpose financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion.

The accompanying special-purpose financial statements were prepared for the purpose of presenting the receipts, disbursements, and changes in cash of various funds of Carroll County, Missouri, and comparisons of such information with the corresponding budgeted information for various funds of the county and are not intended to be a complete presentation of the financial position and results of operations of those funds or of Carroll County.

Governmental Accounting Standards Board (GASB) Technical Bulletin 98-1, Disclosures about Year 2000 Issues, as amended by GASB Technical Bulletin 99-1, requires disclosure of certain matters regarding the year 2000 issue. Carroll County has included such disclosures in Note 4. Because of the unprecedented nature of the year 2000 issue, its effects and the success of related remediation efforts will not be fully determinable until the year 2000 and thereafter. Accordingly, insufficient audit evidence exists to support the county's disclosures with respect to the year 2000 issue made in Note 4. Further, we do not provide assurance that the county is or will become year 2000-compliant, that the county's year 2000 remediation efforts will be successful in whole or in part, or that parties with which the county does business are or will become year 2000-compliant.

In our opinion, except for the effects of such adjustments, if any, as might have been determined to be necessary had we been able to examine evidence regarding year 2000 disclosures, the special-purpose financial statements referred to in the first paragraph present fairly, in all material respects, the receipts, disbursements, and changes in cash of various funds of Carroll County, Missouri, and comparisons of such information with the corresponding budgeted information for various funds of the county as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, in conformity with the comprehensive basis of accounting discussed in Note 1, which is a basis of accounting other than generally accepted accounting principles.

In accordance with Government Auditing Standards, we also have issued our report dated May 13, 1999, on our consideration of the county's internal control over financial reporting and on our tests of its compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants.

The accompanying Schedule of Expenditures of Federal Awards is presented for purposes of additional analysis as required by U.S. Office of Management and Budget (OMB) Circular A-133, Audits of States, Local Governments, and Non-Profit Organizations, and is not a required part of the special-purpose financial statements. Such information has been subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audit of the special-purpose financial statements and, in our opinion, is fairly stated, in all material respects, in relation to the special-purpose financial statements taken as a whole.

The accompanying History, Organization, and Statistical Information is presented for informational purposes. This information was obtained from the management of Carroll County, Missouri, and was not subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audit of the special-purpose financial statements referred to above.

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT ON COMPLIANCE
AND ON INTERNAL CONTROL OVER FINANCIAL REPORTING
BASED ON AN AUDIT OF FINANCIAL STATEMENTS PERFORMED
IN ACCORDANCE WITH GOVERNMENT AUDITING STANDARDS

To the County Commission
and
Officeholders of Carroll County, Missouri

We have audited the special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Carroll County, Missouri, as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, and have issued our report thereon dated May 13, 1999. That report expressed a qualified opinion on the special-purpose financial statements. Except as discussed in that report, we conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States.

Compliance

As part of obtaining reasonable assurance about whether the special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Carroll County, Missouri, are free of material misstatement, we performed tests of the county's compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants, noncompliance with which could have a direct and material effect on the determination of financial statement amounts. However, providing an opinion on compliance with those provisions was not an objective of our audit, and accordingly, we do not express such an opinion. The results of our tests disclosed no instances of noncompliance that are required to be reported under Government Auditing Standards. However, we noted certain immaterial instances of noncompliance which are described in the accompanying Management Advisory Report.

Internal Control Over Financial Reporting

In planning and performing our audit of the special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Carroll County, Missouri, we considered the county's internal control over financial reporting in order to determine our auditing procedures for the purpose of expressing our opinion on the special-purpose financial statements and not to provide assurance on the internal control over financial reporting. Our consideration of the internal control over financial reporting would not necessarily disclose all matters in the internal control over financial reporting that might be material weaknesses. A material weakness is a condition in which the design or operation of one or more of the internal control components does not reduce to a relatively low level the risk that misstatements in amounts that would be material in relation to the special-purpose financial statements being audited may occur and not be detected within a timely period by employees in the normal course of performing their assigned functions. We noted no matters involving the internal control over financial reporting and its operation that we consider to be material weaknesses. However, we noted other matters involving the internal control over financial reporting which are described in the accompanying Management Advisory Report.

This report is intended for the information of the management of Carroll County, Missouri; federal awarding agencies and pass-through entities; and other applicable government officials. However, this report is a matter of public record and its distribution is not limited.

Notes to the Financial Statements

1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

A. Reporting Entity and Basis of Presentation

The accompanying special-purpose financial statements present the receipts, disbursements, and changes in cash of various funds of Carroll County, Missouri, and comparisons of such information with the corresponding budgeted information for various funds of the county. The funds presented are established under statutory or administrative authority, and their operations are under the control of the County Commission, an elected county official, the Health Center Board, or the Senate Bill 40 Board. The General Revenue Fund is the county's general operating fund, accounting for all financial resources except those required to be accounted for in another fund. The other funds presented account for financial resources whose use is restricted for specified purposes.

B. Basis of Accounting

The financial statements are prepared on the cash basis of accounting; accordingly, amounts are recognized when received or disbursed by warrant or in cash. This basis of accounting differs from generally accepted accounting principles, which require revenues to be recognized when they become available and measurable or when they are earned and expenditures or expenses to be recognized when the related liabilities are incurred.

C. Budgets and Budgetary Practices

The County Commission and other applicable boards are responsible for the preparation and approval of budgets for various county funds in accordance with Sections 50.525 through 50.745, RSMo 1994 and RSMo Cumulative Supp. 1998, the county budget law. These budgets are adopted on the cash basis of accounting.

Although adoption of a formal budget is required by law, the county did not adopt formal budgets for the Federal Emergency Management Assistance Fund for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997; the Courthouse Restoration Fund for the year ended December 31, 1998; and the Community Development Block Grant Fund, Associate Division Interest Fund, Probate Division Interest Fund, and the Circuit Clerk Interest Fund for the year ended December 31, 1997.

Warrants issued were in excess of budgeted amounts for the Law Library Fund, Recorder's Preservation Fund, Senate Bill 40 Board Fund, Associate Division Interest Fund, Probate Division Interest Fund, and the Circuit Clerk Interest Fund for the year ended December 31, 1998; and the Special Road and Bridge Fund and the Sheriff's Inmate Fund for the year ended December 31, 1997. Section 50.740, RSMo 1994, prohibits expenditures in excess of the approved budgets.

D. Published Financial Statements

Under Sections 50.800 and 50.810, RSMo 1994, the County Commission is responsible for preparing and publishing in a local newspaper a detailed annual financial statement for the county. The financial statement is required to show receipts or revenues, disbursements or expenditures, and beginning and ending balances for each fund.

However, the county's published financial statements for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, did not include the Federal Emergency Management Assistance Fund, and for the year ended December 31, 1997, did not include the Community Development Block Grant Fund.

2. Cash

Section 110.270, RSMo 1994, based on Article IV, Section 15, Missouri Constitution, authorizes counties to place their funds, either outright or by repurchase agreement, in U.S. Treasury and agency obligations. In addition, Section 30.950, RSMo Cumulative Supp. 1998, effective August 28, 1997, requires political subdivisions with existing authority to invest in instruments other than depositary accounts at financial institutions to adopt a written investment policy. Among other things, the policy is to commit a political subdivision to the principles of safety, liquidity, and yield (in that order) when managing public funds and to prohibit purchase of derivatives (either directly or through repurchase agreements), use of leveraging (through either reverse repurchase agreements or other methods), and use of public funds for speculation. The county has not adopted such a policy.

In accordance with Statement No. 3 of the Governmental Accounting Standards Board, Deposits with Financial Institutions, Investments (Including Repurchase Agreements), and Reverse Repurchase Agreements, disclosures are provided below regarding the risk of potential loss of cash deposits. For the purposes of these disclosures, deposits with financial institutions are demand, time, and savings accounts, including certificates of deposit and negotiable order of withdrawal accounts, in banks, savings institutions, and credit unions.

The county's deposits at December 31, 1998 and 1997, were entirely covered by federal depositary insurance or by collateral securities held by the county's custodial bank in the county's name.

The Health Center Board's and Senate Bill 40 Board's deposits at December 31, 1998 and 1997, were entirely covered by federal depositary insurance.

However, because of significantly higher bank balances at certain times during the year, uninsured and uncollateralized balances for the Senate Bill 40 Board existed at those times although not at year-end.

To protect the safety of Senate Bill 40 Board deposits, Section 110.020, RSMo 1994, requires depositaries to pledge collateral securities to secure county deposits not insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

3. Use Tax Liability

The local use tax under Section 144.748, RSMo 1994, was struck down in its entirety by the Missouri Supreme Court in Associated Industries of Missouri v. Director of Revenue, 918 S.W.2d 780 (Mo. banc 1996). In St. Charles County v. Director of Revenue, 961 S.W.2d 44 (Mo. banc 1998), the Missouri Supreme Court ruled that local use taxes paid prior to the repeal of Section 144.748, RSMo 1994, must be refunded to taxpayers and authorized the Department of Revenue (DOR) to withhold amounts otherwise due to political subdivisions to the extent such withholding is necessary to cover the refund expense. On March 24, 1998, the Cole County Circuit Court entered final judgment in accordance with the Supreme Court's opinion and ordered the DOR to process refund claims filed.

The county has received $56,700 in local use tax since its inception. The DOR has estimated the county's share of the total refund liability to be $30,346. As of December 31, 1998, $11,383 remains to be paid.

4. Year 2000 Issues

On April 29, 1999, a letter was received from the county's accounting software provider, assuring the county that to the best of their knowledge their software products are Year 2000-compliant; or would be after an updating process.

A local vendor reviewed and tested the county's computer systems and hardware on April 16, 1999. The vendor found that two personal computers (PCs) were Year 2000-compliant; however, three failed the test, including the county's server which is located in the Assessor's office. The vendor advised the county that this was not an area of major concern, and that the county's PCs are able to be Year 2000 ready. The vendor stated that the county would have to purchase Year 2000 boards that can be installed in the computers that failed the test. At this time, the county scheduled an appointment with the vendor to install the boards. The cost for this service was $60, and the cost of the replacement boards is estimated to be $75 each plus labor.

The Carroll County Sheriff's Department assured the County Commission in December 1998, that all radio equipment and related emergency service computers are compliant.

Notes to the Supplementary Schedule

CARROLL COUNTY, MISSOURI
NOTES TO THE SUPPLEMENTARY SCHEDULE

1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

A. Purpose of Schedule and Reporting Entity

The accompanying Schedule of Expenditures of Federal Awards has been prepared to comply with the requirements of OMB Circular A-133. This circular requires a schedule that provides total federal awards expended for each federal program and the Catalog of Federal Domestic Assistance (CFDA) number or other identifying number when the CFDA information is not available.

The schedule includes all federal awards administered by Carroll County, Missouri.

B. Basis of Presentation

OMB Circular A-133 includes these definitions, which govern the contents of the schedule:

> Federal financial assistance means assistance that non-Federal entities receive or administer in the form of grants, loans, loan guarantees, property (including donated surplus property), cooperative agreements, interest subsidies, insurance, food commodities, direct appropriations, and other assistance, but does not include amounts received as reimbursement for services rendered to individuals . . . .
> Federal award means Federal financial assistance and Federal cost-reimbursement contracts that non-Federal entities receive directly from Federal awarding agencies or indirectly from pass-through entities. It does not include procurement contracts, under grants or contracts, used to buy goods or services from vendors.

Accordingly, the schedule includes expenditures of both cash and noncash awards.

C. Basis of Accounting

Except as noted below, the schedule is presented on the cash basis of accounting, which recognizes amounts only when disbursed in cash.

Amounts for the Food Distribution Program (CFDA number 10.550) represent the dollar value assigned to commodities based on prices provided by the state Department of Social Services. Amounts for the Donation of Federal Surplus Personal Property Program (CFDA number 39.003) and the U.S. Department of Defense Surplus Property Program represent the estimated fair market value of property at the time of receipt.

2. Subrecipients

Of the federal expenditures presented in the schedule, the county provided $141,722 to subrecipients under Public Assistance Grants (CFDA number 83.544) during the year ended December 31, 1998.

State Auditor's Report

CLAIRE C. McCASKILL
Missouri State Auditor

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT ON COMPLIANCE WITH REQUIREMENTS APPLICABLE TO EACH MAJOR PROGRAM AND ON INTERNAL CONTROL OVER COMPLIANCE IN ACCORDANCE WITH OMB CIRCULAR A-133

To the County Commission
and Officeholders of Carroll County, Missouri

Compliance

We have audited the compliance of Carroll County, Missouri, with the types of compliance requirements described in the U.S. Office of Management and Budget (OMB) Circular A-133 Compliance Supplement that are applicable to its major federal program for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997. The county's major federal program is identified in the summary of auditor's results section of the accompanying Schedule of Findings and Questioned Costs. Compliance with the requirements of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants applicable to its major federal program is the responsibility of the county's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on the county's compliance based on our audit.

We conducted our audit of compliance in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards; the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States; and OMB Circular A-133, Audits of States, Local Governments, and Non-Profit Organizations. Those standards and OMB Circular A-133 require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether noncompliance with the types of compliance requirements referred to above that could have a direct and material effect on a major federal program occurred. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence about the county's compliance with those requirements and performing such other procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion. Our audit does not provide a legal determination of the county's compliance with those requirements.

In our opinion, Carroll County, Missouri, complied, in all material respects, with the requirements referred to above that are applicable to its major federal program for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997.

Internal Control Over Compliance

The management of Carroll County, Missouri, is responsible for establishing and maintaining effective internal control over compliance with the requirements of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants applicable to federal programs. In planning and performing our audit, we considered the county's internal control over compliance with requirements that could have a direct and material effect on a major federal program in order to determine our auditing procedures for the purpose of expressing our opinion on compliance and to test and report on the internal control over compliance in accordance with OMB Circular A-133.

Our consideration of the internal control over compliance would not necessarily disclose all matters in the internal control that might be material weaknesses. A material weakness is a condition in which the design or operation of one or more of the internal control components does not reduce to a relatively low level the risk that noncompliance with the applicable requirements of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants that would be material in relation to a major federal program being audited may occur and not be detected within a timely period by employees in the normal course of performing their assigned functions. We noted no matters involving the internal control over compliance and its operation that we consider to be material weaknesses.

This report is intended for the information of the management of Carroll County, Missouri; federal awarding agencies and pass-through entities; and other applicable government officials. However, this report is a matter of public record and its distribution is not limited.

MANAGEMENT ADVISORY REPORT SECTION

Management Advisory Report -
State Auditor's Findings

CARROLL COUNTY, MISSOURI
MANAGEMENT ADVISORY REPORT -
STATE AUDITOR'S FINDINGS

We have audited the special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Carroll County, Missouri, as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, and have issued our report thereon dated May 13, 1999. That report expressed a qualified opinion on the special-purpose financial statements. We also have audited the compliance of Carroll County, Missouri, with the types of compliance requirements described in the U.S. Office of Management and Budget (OMB) Circular A-133 Compliance Supplement that are applicable to its major federal program for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, and have issued our report thereon dated May 13, 1999.

We also have reviewed the operations of elected officials with funds other than those presented in the special-purpose financial statements. As applicable, the objectives of this review were to:

1. Determine the internal controls established over the transactions of the various county officials.

2. Review and evaluate certain other management practices for efficiency and effectiveness.

3. Review certain management practices and financial information for compliance with applicable constitutional, statutory, or contractual provisions.

Our review was made in accordance with applicable generally accepted government auditing standards and included such procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances. In this regard, we reviewed accounting and bank records and other pertinent documents and interviewed various personnel of the county officials.

As part of our review, we assessed the controls of the various county officials to the extent we determined necessary to evaluate the specific matters described above and not to provide assurance on those controls. With respect to controls, we obtained an understanding of the design of relevant policies and procedures and whether they have been placed in operation and we assessed control risk.

Our review was limited to the specific matters described in the preceding paragraphs and was based on selective tests and procedures considered appropriate in the circumstances. Had we performed additional procedures, other information might have come to our attention that would have been included in this report.

The accompanying Management Advisory Report presents our findings arising from our review of the elected county officials referred to above. In addition, this report includes findings other than those, if any, reported in the accompanying Schedule of Findings and Questioned Costs. These findings also resulted from our audit of the special-purpose financial statements of Carroll County but do not meet the criteria for inclusion in the written report on compliance and on internal control over financial reporting that is required for an audit performed in accordance with Government Auditing Standards.

1. Tax Book Procedures

A. The back tax books prepared by the County Clerk include only the most current delinquent year. For prior years, the Ex Officio County Collector obtains a computerized summary report of back taxes to use for her annual settlement; however, the County Clerk does not verify this information. In addition, a back tax aggregate abstract has not been prepared and submitted to the Department of Revenue for the years ended February 28, 1998 and 1999.

Section 140.050, RSMo 1994, requires the County Clerk to make the back tax books and charge the Ex Officio County Collector with the aggregate amount of taxes, interest, and County Clerk's fees contained in the back tax books. Furthermore, Section 140.050, RSMo 1994, also requires the County Clerk to provide this information to the Department of Revenue.

The County Clerk is responsible for the accuracy of the back tax books and the amounts with which the Ex Officio County Collector is charged. Failure to verify all prior years' back tax book charges could result in the Ex Officio County Collector not being charged with the correct amount and any errors and irregularities not being discovered in a timely manner.

B. The County Clerk does not maintain an account book with the Ex Officio County Collector. An account book would summarize all taxes charged to the Ex Officio County Collector, monthly collections, delinquent credits, abatements and additions, and protested amounts by tax book.

Section 51.150(2), RSMo 1994, requires the County Clerk to maintain accounts with all persons chargeable with monies payable into the county treasury. A properly maintained account book can also be used by the County Commission to verify the accuracy of the Ex Officio County Collector's annual settlements.

This condition was also noted in our prior report.

C. Tax book abatements are initiated by the County Assessor. The Ex Officio County Collector makes these changes to the property tax records and periodically prepares court orders which are approved by the County Commission. However, there is no independent and subsequent comparison of approved court-ordered abatements to the actual changes to the property tax data files or to amounts reflected on the Ex Officio County Collector’s annual settlement.

Since the Ex Officio County Collector is responsible for collecting the taxes, she should not have the capability to make these changes to the actual tax data. This procedure, without independent and subsequent review of the actual changes made, weakens controls over the collection of taxes.

Section 137.260, RSMo 1994, requires that the tax book only be changed by the County Clerk under order of the County Commission. Controls should be established so that the Ex Officio County Collector does not have the capability to make these changes to the tax data without a subsequent independent review or reconciliation of all approved abatements to changes made to the property tax data or to amounts reflected on the Ex Officio County Collector's annual settlement.

WE RECOMMEND:

A. The County Clerk prepare back tax books for all delinquent years or verify the totals reported by the Ex Officio County Collector. In addition, the County Clerk should prepare the back tax aggregate abstract and file it with the Department of Revenue.

B. The County Clerk establish and maintain an account book with the Ex Officio County Collector for the County Commission to use to verify the accuracy of the Ex Officio County Collector's annual settlements.

C. The County Commission revise the abatement process so that the Ex Officio County Collector does not have the capability to make such changes to tax data without other controls in place.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

A&B. The County Clerk concurs and indicated changes have been made to implement these recommendations.

C. The County Commission concurs.

2. Ex Officio County Collector's Procedures

The Ex Officio County Collector's office processed property taxes totaling in excess of $2 million annually during the two years ended February 28, 1999. A review of the records and procedures in this office disclosed the following concerns:

A. The Ex Officio County Collector did not file annual settlements with the County Commission on a timely basis. The annual settlements were not filed for the year ended February 28, 1998, until May 21, 1999, over fourteen months late. In addition, the annual settlement for the year ended February 28, 1999, was not filed until June 16, 1999.

Section 139.160, RSMo 1994, requires the annual settlement to be filed with the County Commission by the first Monday in March. While filing the annual settlement by the statutory due date is difficult, the Ex Officio County Collector needs to make a greater effort to ensure her annual settlements are filed on a more timely basis.

B. Although some of the bank accounts in the office were properly reconciled, the balance of the Ex Officio County Collector's primary bank account has not been reconciled with the accounting records since she became the new officeholder in April 1997. Monthly bank reconciliations are necessary to ensure accounting records are in balance and to ensure errors are identified and corrected on a timely basis.

C. The Ex Officio County Collector did not maintain an account book during the two years ended February 28, 1999. A properly maintained account book provides the information necessary to prepare the annual settlement, including taxes the Ex Officio County Collector has been charged with, monthly collections, delinquent credits, abatements and additions, and protested amounts by tax book.

WE RECOMMEND the Ex Officio County Collector:

A. File annual settlements in a timely manner.

B. Reconcile the balance of the primary bank account to the checkbook balance and turnover on a monthly basis.

C. Maintain an account book to assist her in the preparation of the annual settlements.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The Ex Officio Collector provided the following response:

A. Distributing monies that had been collected to the different entities was the #1 priority to the Ex Officio Collector's office. My staff, along with the help of twenty township collectors, processed property taxes totaling in excess of $5 million annually to the different entities of the county accurately. I am pleased with the basically clean audit of both the Treasurer's and Ex Officio Collector's office. The state statute, Section 139.160, RSMo 1994, requiring the annual settlement report to be filed with the County Commission by the first Monday in March is an unrealistic statute to township counties such as Carroll County. During the first week of March, the office staff is receiving the delinquent tax books from the twenty township collectors, plus collecting over $83,000 from taxpayers during the months of March and April. The office staff cannot collect this volume of money and process an accurate annual settlement report at the same time. Computer generated spreadsheets have been developed by the office staff to ensure that next year's annual settlement report will be filed with the County Commission on a more timely basis. The office staff continues to attend computer classes and to network with other counties in helping the office be more efficient. I am extremely proud of the dedication of the twenty township collectors and my past and present office staff.

B. Upon suggestions from the State Auditors, the past practice of having several different bank accounts on the Ex Officio Collector's side will be discontinued. The delinquent surtax, the current surtax, and the corporation bank accounts will be combined to one Ex Officio Collector account so reconciling the bank statement against the Ex Officio Collector fund ledgers can be accomplished each month in a more timely manner.

C. The Ex Officio Collector account book is being properly maintained on a monthly basis so the annual settlement report can be completed nearer to the stated deadline.

3. Circuit Clerk's Open Items

The Circuit Clerk prepares monthly open items listings for the fee account and compares the total open items with the reconciled cash balance of this account. However, these comparisons consistently identify differences between the two totals which are not adequately investigated and resolved. Differences fluctuated each month throughout the audit period, and ranged from an open items balance which exceeded the reconciled cash balance by $419 at April 30, 1997, to a reconciled cash balance which exceeded the open items balance by $577 at October 31, 1998. At December 31, 1998, the reconciled cash balance exceeded the open items balance by $366.

The Circuit Clerk has a large number of open cases and because the manner in which the case fee sheets are filed has made this reconciliation process more difficult, changes may be needed.

Monthly listings of open items should be reconciled to the cash balance and differences should be investigated and resolved to ensure accounting records are in balance and sufficient funds are available for the payment of liabilities.

This condition was also noted in our prior report.

WE AGAIN RECOMMEND the Circuit Clerk prepare a complete listing of open items and reconcile monthly listings of open items to the reconciled cash balance. Any differences should be investigated and explained.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The Circuit Clerk provided the following response:

I have reviewed this finding and recommendation and I am quite aware of this problem. This has been a problem for some time and it is something that I acknowledge. I have talked to the State Court Administrator's office about this problem and I believe that there is a computer program that the courts have to help with this problem. Also, when the courts become fully automated, the open items will be part of the package.

4. Prosecuting Attorney's Records and Procedures

The Prosecuting Attorney's office collected approximately $59,000 in court-ordered restitution, and bad check restitution and related fees during the year ended December 31, 1998.

A. Bad check fees were not always disbursed to the County Treasurer on a timely basis. For example, bad check fees collected in August, September, October, and November 1998, totaling $2,730, were not transmitted to the County Treasurer until December 1998. In addition, the monthly reports of fees for these months were not filed with the County Commission until December 1998.

   To adequately safeguard receipts and reduce the risk of loss, theft, or misuse of funds, receipts should be transmitted to the County Treasurer on a monthly basis. In addition, Section 50.370, RSMo 1994, requires county officials to prepare and file a monthly report of fees collected with the County Commission.

B. The method of payment (cash, check, or money order) is not consistently indicated on the receipt slips. To help ensure monies are properly accounted for, the method of payment should be recorded on the receipt slips and the composition of the recorded receipts should be reconciled to the composition of bank deposits.

C. An adequate system to account for all bad checks received by the Prosecuting Attorney's office as well as subsequent disposition of these bad checks has not been established. County merchants complete an unnumbered complaint form at the time the bad check is turned over to the Prosecuting Attorney for collection; however, the complaints are not recorded on a log nor is the ultimate disposition accounted for properly.

   To ensure all bad checks turned over to the Prosecuting Attorney are properly handled and accounted for, a sequential number should be assigned to each bad check received and a log should be maintained listing each bad check and its disposition. The log should contain information such as the assigned number, the merchant's name, the issuer of the check, the amount of the bad check fee, and the disposition of the bad check, including date payment was received and disbursed to the merchant, the criminal case in which charges were filed, or other disposition.

Conditions A. and C. were similarly noted in our prior report.

WE RECOMMEND the Prosecuting Attorney:

A. Transmit bad check fees to the County Treasurer in a timely manner and file monthly reports with the County Commission as required.

B. Indicate the method of payment on all receipt slips written and reconcile the composition of recorded receipts to bank deposits.

C. Maintain a log to adequately account for bad check complaints received, as well as the ultimate disposition of the related bad checks.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

A&B. The Prosecuting Attorney concurs.

C. The Prosecuting Attorney indicated this recommendation has already been implemented.

5. Sheriff's Commissary Account

The Sheriff maintains a separate checking account to account for personal monies of inmates and funds used to operate a commissary for inmates. The commissary monies in the account represent receipts from the sale of candy, soda, cigarettes, stamps, and various other products sold to inmates as well as the disbursements of monies to purchase such items for inventory. A record is maintained for each inmate which reflects monies received on the inmate's behalf, purchases made from the commissary, and the available cash balance. Any amount in the commissary account in excess of the total of the inmate balances is assumed to be profits. Any such profits exceeding $300 at the end of the month are paid to the County Treasurer for credit to the Sheriff's Inmate Fund. During our review of this account, the related controls, and procedures surrounding it, we noted the following concerns:

A. The total of the inmates' monies in the commissary checking account is not adequately reconciled to the total of the individual prisoner balances. A monthly listing of individual inmate balances is prepared and compared to the book balance; however, the balances cannot be reconciled to the balance in the bank account because the account also contains the commissary monies for which no separate accounting record is maintained.

To allow for such reconciliations and to adequately account for commissary activity, the Sheriff's department should establish records that account for commissary sales, inventory purchases, and the commissary balance. Reconciliations of the inmate and commissary balances to the bank account is necessary to ensure all monies received are accounted for properly.

B. During the year ended December 31, 1998, over $24,000 in commissary inventory was purchased by the Sheriff; however, no inventory records were maintained to account for the items purchased and sold through the commissary.

To adequately account for commissary merchandise, a detailed inventory ledger should be maintained on a perpetual basis. Perpetual inventory records should document the beginning balance for each item, items purchased, items sold or otherwise disposed of, and the ending balance of each item. In addition, to enhance control and safeguarding of inventories, periodic physical inventory counts should be performed and reconciled to perpetual inventory records. Loss, misuse, or theft of commissary inventory may go undetected without adequate inventory records.

WE RECOMMEND the Sheriff:

A. Maintain records to account for the balance of commissary monies and reconcile this balance and the total of individual inmate balances to the bank account on a monthly basis.

B. Consider maintaining perpetual inventory records for all commissary inventory items and ensure a physical count of inventory is performed periodically by an employee independent of daily commissary operations. The results of the physical count should be compared to the perpetual inventory records and discrepancies should be investigated in a timely manner.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The Sheriff provided the following response:

A. Inmate monies are now accounted for and reconciled with the inmate account.

B. Inventory records are now maintained to account for commissary items. Commissary purchases are generally made weekly and purchases made are reflected in those inventory records and receipts are kept.

6. Public Administrator

The Public Administrator periodically handles the sale of real estate for cases assigned to him by the Associate Circuit Judge. For one such case, the Public Administrator conducted the sale of real estate in June 1998; however, no payments were made at that time. An initial payment of $50,000 was eventually made in December 1998, and a final payment of $309,500 was made in March 1999. Both payments were deposited into a bank account controlled by the attorney for this estate.

After we inquired about this sale in May 1999, the Public Administrator determined the $359,500 in proceeds from the sale remained in the attorney's bank account. A check was subsequently issued by the attorney to the estate and deposited by the Public Administrator in the estate's bank account on May 18, 1999.

It appears the Public Administrator did not adequately follow-up on this transaction with the attorney and ensure the monies were deposited in the estate's bank account in a timely manner. As a result, the estate lost potential interest earnings on the proceeds from the sale of at least $2,700.

WE RECOMMEND the Public Administrator ensure all monies received on behalf of his estates are collected and deposited by him in a timely manner. If monies or assets do not come to him directly, he should ensure they are turned over to him in a timely fashion.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

The Public Administrator concurs.

7. Senate Bill 40 Board

A. The Senate Bill 40 Board approved expenditures in excess of budgeted amounts of $11,041 for the year ended December 31, 1998. There were no formal amendments filed nor any mention in the board minutes as to why the budgeted amounts were exceeded.

It was ruled in State ex. rel. Strong v. Cribb, 364 Mo. 1122, 273 SW2d 246(1954), that strict compliance with the county budget law is required by county officials.

If there are valid reasons which necessitate excess expenditures, amendments should be made following the same process by which the annual budget is approved, including holding public hearings and filing the amended budget with the State Auditor's office. In addition, Section 50.622, RSMo Cum. Supp. 1998, provides that county boards may amend the annual budget during any year in which the board receives additional funds which could not be estimated when the budget was adopted and that the board shall follow the same procedures required for adoption of the annual budget to amend the budget.

B. The Senate Bill 40 Board budgets for the 1999 and 1998 calendar years contained several misclassifications of both budgeted and actual receipts. In addition, it appears the actual amounts presented on the budget documents were not agreed to the accounting records. Property tax revenues and expenditures for 1998 and 1997 were both overstated on the budgets as Assessment Fund withholdings which were not actually received or disbursed by the Senate Bill 40 Board were included in these amounts.

To be of maximum assistance to the Senate Bill 40 Board and to adequately inform the public, the budget document should include accurate classifications and the actual receipt and disbursement information included in the budgets should be agreed to the accounting records.

C. The Senate Bill 40 Board's funds on deposit exceeded the FDIC coverage by approximately $13,300 and $3,800 during March 1998 and 1997, respectively. It appears no collateral securities were pledged by the depositary bank to cover the monies in excess of the FDIC coverage. The Senate Bill 40 Board apparently did not monitor the funds on deposit to ensure collateral securities were pledged when necessary.

Section 110.020, RSMo 1994, provides the value of the securities pledged shall at all times be not less than 100 percent of the actual amount on deposit less the amount insured by the FDIC. Inadequate collateral securities leave funds unsecured and subject to loss in the event of a bank failure.

D. Although the Senate Bill 40 Board secretary/treasurer is properly bonded, the board president who is responsible for co-signing checks is not bonded. The Senate Bill 40 Board should consider bonding all individuals with access to monies to better protect the board from risk of loss.

E. A Senate Bill 40 Board member's husband serves as president of two of the not-for-profit boards and the treasurer of the other not-for-profit board which received funding from the county board. Because the Senate Bill 40 Board and these three entities transact business with each other, this situation may present a conflict of interest.

To provide greater assurance the Senate Bill 40 Board is acting independently and in the best interest of the county, there should be no conflicts or ties such as this between members of the county board and the groups with which it transacts business.

Condition B. was also noted in our prior report.

WE RECOMMEND the Senate Bill 40 Board:

A. Not authorize expenditures in excess of budgeted amounts. If additional expenditures are necessary, the budget should be amended and the circumstances adequately documented.

B. Ensure budget information is properly classified and agreed to the accounting records.

C. Ensure adequate collateral securities are pledged for all funds on deposit in excess of FDIC coverage.

D. Consider obtaining adequate bond coverage for all individuals with access to monies.

E. Discuss this matter with the County Commission and the need to ensure future appointments to the Senate Bill 40 Board will not result in a possible conflict of interest with groups which the county board conducts business.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE

A-C. The Senate Bill 40 Board President concurs.

D. The Senate Bill 40 Board President indicated this recommendation has already been implemented.

E. The Senate Bill 40 Board President concurs with this recommendation and indicated an effort will be made to avoid this situation when future appointments are required.

The County Commission indicated it will consider this recommendation; however, they indicated it is sometimes difficult to find individuals to serve on county boards.

This report is intended for the information of the management of Carroll County, Missouri, and other applicable government officials. However, this report is a matter of public record and its distribution is not limited.

Follow-Up on Prior Audit Findings

CARROLL COUNTY, MISSOURI
FOLLOW-UP ON PRIOR AUDIT FINDINGS

In accordance with Government Auditing Standards, this section reports the auditor's follow-up on action taken by Carroll County, Missouri, on findings in the Management Advisory Report (MAR) of our prior audit report issued for the two years ended December 31, 1996. The prior recommendations which have not been implemented, but are considered significant, have been repeated in the current MAR. Although the remaining unimplemented recommendations have not been repeated, the county should consider implementing these recommendations.

1. Budgetary and Reporting Practices

   A. Actual expenditures were in excess of approved budgeted expenditures for various funds during the two years ended December 31, 1996.

   B. Formal budgets were not prepared for various county funds for the years ended December 31, 1996 and 1995.

   C. The annual published financial statements of the county did not include the financial activity of some county funds as required.

   Recommendation:

   The County Commission:

   A. Not authorize warrants in excess of budgeted expenditures.

   B. Ensure budgets are obtained or prepared for all county funds.

   C. Ensure financial information for all county funds is properly reported in the annual published financial statements.

   Status:

   A. Partially implemented. The Special Road and Bridge Fund's budget was overspent in 1997 by over $60,000; however, it appears in 1998 the county did a better job of monitoring the budget and no significant overspending occurred. Although not repeated in the current MAR, our recommendation remains as stated above.

   B. Partially implemented. Formal budgets were prepared for the Associate Division Interest Fund, Circuit Clerk Interest Fund, and the Probate Division Interest Fund for the year ended December 31, 1998; however, formal budgets were not prepared for the Federal Emergency Management Assistance Fund and the Courthouse Restoration Fund. Although not repeated in the current MAR, our recommendation remains as stated above.

   C. Partially implemented. The Health Center published its financial statements separate from the county's published financial statements for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997. The county's published financial statements for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, included the Senate Bill 40 Board Fund, Associate Division Interest Fund, Circuit Clerk Interest Fund, and the Probate Division Interest Fund; however, the Federal Emergency Management Assistance Fund was still not included. Although not repeated in the current MAR, our recommendation remains as stated above.

2. County Expenditures and Contracts

A. Bids were not always solicited or advertised by the county nor was bid documentation always retained for various purchases.

B. The county did not prepare IRS Form 1099-MISC information returns when applicable.

C. The county did not enter into a written contract with a mental health association which received funding from the county.

D. Carroll County paid an incorrect percent of expenses of the juvenile office based on the populations of the two counties in that judicial circuit. This resulted in the county overpaying juvenile expenses by approximately $2,400 during the two years ended December 31, 1996.

Recommendation:

The County Commission:

A. Solicit bids for purchases in accordance with state law and retain documentation of these bids and justification for bid awards. If bids cannot be obtained or sole source procurement is necessary, the County Clerk should retain documentation of these circumstances.

B. Prepare IRS Forms 1099-MISC when required.

C. Enter into written contracts that specifically state the services to be provided to the county. Any expenditures made should be monitored for compliance with the terms of the contract.

D. Ensure the correct percentage is used to prorate future juvenile office expenditures. In addition, the County Commission should review prior expenses to determine amounts overpaid and pursue reimbursement of these expenses as appropriate.

Status:

A. Partially implemented. While we again noted a few instances where bids were not solicited or documented, it appears the county generally solicited bids as required. Although not repeated in the current MAR, our recommendation remains as stated above.

B. Partially implemented. During the current audit period, we noted two instances in which IRS Forms 1099-MISC were not properly filed; however, the county has made improvement in this area. Although not repeated in the current MAR, our recommendation remains as stated above.

C. Not implemented. In early 1998, the county drafted a contract, signed it, and sent it to the mental health association to be signed; however, the contract was not returned to the county. The county did not provide any funding to this entity in 1999. Although not repeated in the current MAR, our recommendation remains as stated above.

D. Partially implemented. The correct percentage is currently used to prorate juvenile office personnel and mileage expenditures; however, the County Commission has not pursued the reimbursement of the amounts overpaid in the prior audit. Although not repeated in the current MAR, our recommendation remains as stated above.

3. Apportionment of Railroad and Utility Taxes

The County Clerk did not correctly apportion 1996 railroad and utility taxes to the school districts.

Recommendation:

The County Clerk correct the over and underpayments to the various school districts during subsequent apportionment distributions and calculate the apportionments correctly in the future.

Status:

Implemented.

4. Ex Officio County Collector's Withholdings from Tax Collections

During the two years ended February 28 (29), 1997, the Ex Officio County Collector did not adjust railroad and utility tax collections for the effects of Proposition C when calculating assessment withholdings.

Recommendation:

The Ex Officio County Collector recalculate assessment withholdings on railroad and utility tax collections and make any necessary adjustments. In the future, properly retain all allowable assessment withholdings from school district railroad and utility tax collections.

Status:

Implemented.

5. Prosecuting Attorney's Records and Procedures

A. Prosecuting attorney fees received from the associate court and bad check fees were not always transmitted to the County Treasurer on a timely basis. In addition, monthly reports of fees for calendar year 1996 were not turned in to the county until February 1997.

B. Receipt slips were not issued for some monies received and receipts were not always deposited in a timely manner.

C. A report was prepared indicating the dollar amount of receipts, the date of deposit, and which receipts had not been disbursed as of month end; however, this listing of open items was not reconciled with the book and reconciled bank balances.

D. An adequate system to account for all bad checks received by the Prosecuting Attorney's office as well as the subsequent disposition of these bad checks had not been established.

Recommendation:

The Prosecuting Attorney:

A. Transmit all fees and file monthly reports with the County Commission in a timely manner.

B. Require receipts slips be issued for all monies received, receipts to be recorded in the accounting records immediately when received, and deposits to be made daily or when accumulated receipts exceed $100.

C. Ensure open items listings are reconciled to the cash balance on a monthly basis.

D. Maintain a log to adequately account for bad check complaints received, as well as the ultimate disposition of the related bad checks.

Status:

A. Not implemented. The Prosecuting Attorney no longer receives fees from the courts, but bad checks fees are still not always turned over on a timely basis. See MAR No. 4.

B. Implemented.

C. The Prosecuting Attorney's office currently disburses restitution amounts as received; therefore, with the exception of the bad check fees not always being turned over timely, there are no open items or liabilities and this recommendation is no longer applicable.

D. Not implemented. See MAR No. 4.

6. Sheriff's Accounting Policies and Procedures

A.1. Receipt slips for the inmate account did not always indicate the method of payment.

2. Receipts pertaining to both the regular and inmate accounts were not deposited on a timely basis.

3. Checks were not always restrictively endorsed immediately upon receipt.

4. Receipt slips were not always prepared immediately upon the receipt of the monies.

B. Monthly listings of liabilities (open items) for the inmate bank account were not prepared; consequently, liabilities were not reconciled with the cash balance on a periodic basis.

C. The Sheriff's department received commissions from the telephone company based on collect telephone calls made by prisoners at the jail. In January 1997, the telephone company discontinued disbursing commissions to the Sheriff, and instead gave credit for the commissions earned which were used to offset a computer system purchase costing $6,600 through the telephone company. There was no written agreement with the telephone company outlining the terms of this purchase nor was this computer purchase bid or handled through the county's normal disbursement process.

Recommendation:

The Sheriff:

A.1. Record the method of payment for all monies received in the inmate account.

2. Require monies be deposited daily or when accumulated receipts exceed $100.

3. Endorse checks immediately upon receipt.

4. Issue receipt slips for all monies immediately upon receipt.

B. Ensure open items listings are prepared on a monthly basis and reconciled to the cash balance.

C. Turn over all future telephone commissions to the County Treasurer for deposit into the General Revenue Fund and disburse monies only on warrants approved by the County Commission. Expenditures from these monies should be properly bid as required by state law and written contracts obtained for services when necessary.

Status:

A.1. Not implemented. During the current audit period, we again noted instances in which the method of payment was not indicated on the receipt slip. Although not repeated in the current MAR, our recommendation remains as stated above.

2. Partially implemented. We again noted instances in which deposits were not made daily or when accumulated receipts exceed $100; however, the Sheriff has made improvement in this area. Although not repeated in the current MAR, our recommendation remains as stated above.

3. Implemented.

4. Partially implemented. We again noted instances in which a receipt slip was not prepared immediately upon the receipt of monies; however, the Sheriff has made improvement in this area. Although not repeated in the current MAR, our recommendation remains as stated above.

B. Partially implemented. Monthly listings of inmate balances are prepared and compared to the book balance; however, the balances cannot be reconciled to the balance in the inmate bank account because the account also contains the commissary monies for which no records are maintained. See MAR No. 5.

C. Partially implemented. During the latter part of the audit period, the Sheriff turned over a major portion of the commissions earned; however, approximately $2,600 in commissions was deducted by the telephone company to replace the telephones at the jail which are used by the prisoners. The county entered into a contract with the telephone company for the purchase and installation of these telephones. Although not repeated in the current MAR, our recommendation remains as stated above.

7. Circuit Clerk's Accounting Policies and Procedures

A. The Circuit Clerk prepared monthly open items listings for the fee account, however, differences between these listings and the reconciled cash balance of this account were not investigated or resolved on a timely basis. Two cases were mistakenly carried on the open items listing even though the monies pertaining to the cases had been disbursed.

B. Receipts were not deposited on a timely basis.

Recommendation:

The Circuit Clerk:

A. Prepare an accurate listing of open items and reconcile monthly listings of open items to cash balances, investigating any differences.

B. Require monies be deposited daily or when accumulated receipts exceed $100.

Status:

A. Not implemented. See MAR No. 3.

B. Partially implemented. We again noted instances where receipts were not deposited timely; however, the Circuit Clerk has made improvement in this area. Although not repeated in the current MAR, our recommendation remains as stated above.

8. Assessor's Controls and Procedures

A. Receipt slips were not issued for monies received nor was the method of payment indicated on any receipt records.
B. Checks were not restrictively endorsed immediately upon receipt.

C. The Assessor did not transmit receipts to the County Treasurer intact. Cash was sometimes held from receipts to make change and personal checks were cashed for employees.

D. Monthly reports of fees collected were not reviewed or signed indicating approval by the Assessor, before they were turned over to the County Treasurer. In addition, these reports were not filed with the County Commission.

Recommendation:

The Assessor:

A. Issue prenumbered receipt slips for all monies received and account for the numerical sequence of the receipt slips issued. In addition, require the method of payment be indicated on all receipts and reconcile total cash and checks to monies remitted to the County Treasurer.

B. Restrictively endorse all checks and money orders upon receipt.

C. Transmit all monies received to the County Treasurer intact. The composition of checks and cash received should be reconciled to the composition of amounts turned over to the County Treasurer. In addition, discontinue the practice of cashing personal checks.

D. Ensure all fee reports are approved and filed in accordance with state law.

Status:

A-D. Implemented.

9. County Clerk's Accounting Policies and Procedures

A. Receipts were not deposited on a timely basis.

B. The County Clerk did not maintain an account book with the Ex Officio County Collector.

Recommendation:

The County Clerk:

. A. Deposit monies daily or when accumulated receipts exceed $100.

B. Establish and maintain an account book with the Ex Officio County Collector for the County Commission to use to verify the accuracy of the Ex Officio County Collector's annual settlements.

Status:

A. Partially implemented. Although the County Clerk still does not always deposit monies timely, it appears improvement has been made in this area. Although not repeated in the current MAR, our recommendation remains as stated above.

B. Not implemented. See MAR No. 1.

10. Children's Trust Fund

Fees to be used to provide financial assistance to shelters for victims of domestic violence had not been expended from the related fund and the county had no plans to distribute these monies.

Recommendation:

The County Commission seek out potential users for the Children's Trust Fund monies.

Status:

Implemented. The county entered into a contract and distributed $1,500 to a shelter for victims of domestic violence during 1998. The county has decided not to distribute any funds to this shelter in 1999 and is considering other shelters for future funding.

11. Health Center Accounting Controls and Budgetary Procedures

A. The Board of Trustees approved expenditures of $14,019 in excess of budgeted amounts for the year ended December 31, 1995.

B. The health center did not prepare IRS Forms 1099-MISC when applicable.

C. During 1996, the health center entered into an agreement with a business to perform health surveys. The written agreement was not signed by the necessary parties.

Recommendation:

The Health Center Board of Trustees:

A. Not authorize warrants in excess of budgeted expenditures.

B. Prepare IRS Forms 1099-MISC when required.

C. Ensure written agreements are signed for contracts or services received.

Status:

A,B, &C. Implemented.

12. Senate Bill 40 Board

A. The Senate Bill 40 Board budgets for 1997 and 1996 contained several errors and misclassifications of receipts and disbursements. In addition, the cash reconciliation portion of the 1997 budget did not properly foot.

B. The Senate Bill 40 Board contracted with three sheltered workshops to provide services to handicapped individuals. One sheltered workshop received an additional $6,500 a year for administrative services. The contract with the sheltered workshop did not specify what these administrative services covered, nor was there any written documentation of what this funding was to cover and what was considered allowable expenditures.

Recommendation:

The Senate Bill 40 Board:

A. Ensure budget information is properly classified and accurate.

B. Ensure contracts with sheltered workshops contain specific provisions regarding how funds are to be used.

Status:

A. Partially implemented. No instances of mathematical errors were noted in the Senate Bill 40 Board budgets for 1999 and 1998; however, the budgets again contained misclassification and other errors. See MAR No. 7.

B. Partially implemented. It appears the Senate Bill 40 Board attempted to address this recommendation in its 1998 contract with this entity. Although the contract did not provide much detail regarding the allowable expenses related to this funding, the contract did indicate that these monies would be used to pay for office space, supplies, and meeting room costs. Although not repeated in the current MAR, our recommendation remains as stated above.

STATISTICAL SECTION

History, Organization, and Statistical Information

CARROLL COUNTY, MISSOURI
HISTORY, ORGANIZATION,
AND STATISTICAL INFORMATION

Organized in 1833, the county of Carroll was named after Charles Carroll, a local resident and a signer of the Declaration of Independence. Carroll County is a township-organized, third-class county and is part of the Eighth Judicial Circuit. The county seat is Carrollton.

Carroll County's government is composed of a three-member county commission and separate elected officials performing various tasks. The county commission has mainly administrative duties in setting tax levies, appropriating county funds, appointing board members and trustees of special services, accounting for county property, maintaining county roads and bridges, and performing miscellaneous duties not handled by other county officials.

Principal functions of these other officials relate to judicial courts, law enforcement, property assessment, property tax collections, conduct of elections, and maintenance of financial and other records of importance to the county's citizens.

Counties typically spend a large portion of their receipts to support general county operations and to build and maintain roads and bridges. The following chart shows from where Carroll County received its money in 1998 and 1997 to support the county General Revenue and Special Road and Bridge Funds:

AUDIT REPORT

COOPER COUNTY, MISSOURI

TWO YEARS ENDED DECEMBER 31, 1998

From The Office Of State Auditor
Claire McCaskill

Report No. 99-90
September 30, 1999

Office Of The
State Auditor Of Missouri
Claire McCaskill

September 1999

FACT SHEET

IMPORTANT: The Missouri State Auditor is required by Missouri law to conduct audits only once every four years in counties, like Cooper, which do not have a county auditor. However, to assist such counties in meeting federal audit requirements, the State Auditor will also perform a financial and compliance audit of various county operating funds every two years. This voluntary service to Missouri counties can only be provided when state auditing resources are available and does not interfere with the State Auditor's constitutional responsibility of auditing state government.

Once every four years, the State Auditor's statutory audit will cover additional areas of county operations, as well as the elected county officials, as required by Missouri's Constitution.

This audit of Cooper County was a financial and compliance audit of various county operating funds.

< The county does not have a procedure in place to track federal awards for the preparation of the Schedule of Expenditures of Federal Awards (SEFA). The county's SEFA contained numerous errors and omissions. An accurate SEFA is necessary to ensure federal financial activity is audited and reported in accordance with federal requirements.

The audit also includes some other matters upon which the county should consider and take appropriate corrective action.

Copies of the audit are available upon request.

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT ON THE FINANCIAL STATEMENTS AND SUPPLEMENTARY SCHEDULE OF EXPENDITURES OF FEDERAL AWARDS

To the County Commission
and
Officeholders of Cooper County, Missouri

We have audited the accompanying special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Cooper County, Missouri, as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, as identified in the table of contents. These special-purpose financial statements are the responsibility of the county's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these special-purpose financial statements based on our audit.

We conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the special-purpose financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the special-purpose financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion.

The accompanying special-purpose financial statements were prepared for the purpose of presenting the receipts, disbursements, and changes in cash of various funds of Cooper County, Missouri, and comparisons of such information with the corresponding budgeted information for various funds of the county and are not intended to be a complete presentation of the financial position and results of operations of those funds or of Cooper County.

In our opinion, the special-purpose financial statements referred to in the first paragraph present fairly, in all material respects, the receipts, disbursements, and changes in cash of various funds of Cooper County, Missouri, and comparisons of such information with the corresponding budgeted information for various funds of the county as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, in conformity with the comprehensive basis of accounting discussed in Note 1, which is a basis of accounting other than generally accepted accounting principles.

Cooper County, Missouri, has not presented the disclosures required by Governmental Accounting Standards Board (GASB) Technical Bulletin 98-1, Disclosures about Year 2000 Issues, as amended by GASB Technical Bulletin 99-1, that the GASB has determined are necessary to supplement, although not be a part of, the basic financial statements. In addition, we do not provide assurance that the county is or will become year 2000-compliant, that the county's year 2000 remediation efforts will be successful in whole or in part, or that parties with which the county does business are or will become year 2000-compliant.

In accordance with Government Auditing Standards, we also have issued our report dated July 12, 1999, on our consideration of the county's internal control over financial reporting and on our tests of its compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants.

The accompanying Schedule of Expenditures of Federal Awards is presented for purposes of additional analysis as required by U.S. Office of Management and Budget (OMB) Circular A-133, Audits of States, Local Governments, and Non-Profit Organizations, and is not a required part of the special-purpose financial statements. Such information has been subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audit of the special-purpose financial statements and, in our opinion, is fairly stated, in all material respects, in relation to the special-purpose financial statements taken as a whole.

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT ON COMPLIANCE
AND ON INTERNAL CONTROL OVER FINANCIAL REPORTING
BASED ON AN AUDIT OF FINANCIAL STATEMENTS PERFORMED
IN ACCORDANCE WITH GOVERNMENT AUDITING STANDARDS

To the County Commission
and
Officeholders of Cooper County, Missouri

We have audited the special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Cooper County, Missouri, as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, and have issued our report thereon dated July 12, 1999. We conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States.

Compliance

As part of obtaining reasonable assurance about whether the special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Cooper County, Missouri, are free of material misstatement, we performed tests of the county's compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants, noncompliance with which could have a direct and material effect on the determination of financial statement amounts. However, providing an opinion on compliance with those provisions was not an objective of our audit, and accordingly, we do not express such an opinion. The results of our tests disclosed no instances of noncompliance that are required to be reported under Government Auditing Standards. However, we noted certain immaterial instances of noncompliance, which we have reported to the management of the county in the accompanying Letter on Other Matters.

Internal Control Over Financial Reporting

In planning and performing our audit of the special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Cooper County, Missouri, we considered the county's internal control over financial reporting in order to determine our auditing procedures for the purpose of expressing our opinion on the special-purpose financial statements and not to provide assurance on the internal control over financial reporting. Our consideration of the internal control over financial reporting would not necessarily disclose all matters in the internal control over financial reporting that might be material weaknesses. A material weakness is a condition in which the design or operation of one or more of the internal control components does not reduce to a relatively low level the risk that misstatements in amounts that would be material in relation to the special-purpose financial statements being audited may occur and not be detected within a timely period by employees in the normal course of performing their assigned functions. We noted no matters involving the internal control over financial reporting and its operation that we consider to be material weaknesses. However, we noted other matters involving the internal control over financial reporting which are described in the accompanying Letter on Other Matters.

This report is intended for the information of the management of Cooper County, Missouri; federal awarding agencies and pass-through entities; and other applicable government officials. However, this report is a matter of public record and its distribution is not limited.

Notes to the Financial Statements

1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

A. Reporting Entity and Basis of Presentation

The accompanying special-purpose financial statements present the receipts, disbursements, and changes in cash of various funds of Cooper County, Missouri, and comparisons of such information with the corresponding budgeted information for various funds of the county. The funds presented are established under statutory or administrative authority, and their operations are under the control of the County Commission, an elected county official, or the Enhanced 911 Board. The General Revenue Fund is the county's general operating fund, accounting for all financial resources except those required to be accounted for in another fund. The other funds presented account for financial resources whose use is restricted for specified purposes.

B. Basis of Accounting

The financial statements are prepared on the cash basis of accounting; accordingly, amounts are recognized when received or disbursed in cash. This basis of accounting differs from generally accepted accounting principles, which require revenues to be recognized when they become available and measurable or when they are earned and expenditures or expenses to be recognized when the related liabilities are incurred.

C. Budgets and Budgetary Practices

The County Commission and other applicable boards are responsible for the preparation and approval of budgets for various county funds in accordance with Sections 50.525 through 50.745, RSMo 1994 and RSMo Cumulative Supp. 1998, the county budget law. These budgets are adopted on the cash basis of accounting.

Although adoption of a formal budget is required by law, the county did not adopt formal budgets for the following funds:

Fund	Years Ended December 31,
Law Library Fund	1998 and 1997
Neighborhood Improvement District #1 Fund	1998 and 1997
Associate Division Interest Fund	1998 and 1997
Circuit Clerk Interest Fund	1998 and 1997
Probate Division Interest Fund	1998 and 1997
Sheriff Interest Fund	1998 and 1997
Substance Abuse Traffic Offender's Program Fund	1997
Expendable Cemetery Trust Fund	1998 and 1997

Warrants issued were in excess of budgeted amounts for the following funds:

Fund	Years Ended December 31,
Prosecuting Attorney Training Fund	1998
Prosecuting Attorney Bad Check and Administrative Fee Fund	1998
Prosecuting Attorney Federal Forfeiture Fund	1997
Overton-Wooldridge Levee District #1 Fund	1997

Section 50.740, RSMo 1994, prohibits expenditures in excess of the approved budgets.

Although Section 50.740, RSMo 1994, requires a balanced budget, a deficit balance was budgeted in the Law Enforcement Center Fund for the year ended December 31, 1998.

D. Published Financial Statements

Under Sections 50.800 and 50.810, RSMo 1994, the County Commission is responsible for preparing and publishing in a local newspaper a detailed annual financial statement for the county. The financial statement is required to show receipts or revenues, disbursements or expenditures, and beginning and ending balances for each fund.

However, the county's published financial statements did not include the following funds:

Fund	Years Ended December 31,
Law Enforcement Training Fund	1997
Prosecuting Attorney Training Fund	1997
Prosecuting Attorney Bad Check and Administrative Fee Fund	1997
Prosecuting Attorney Tax Incentive Payment Fund	1997
Prosecuting Attorney Federal Forfeiture Fund	1997

Recorder of Deeds User Fee Account Fund	1997
Treasurer Adult Abuse Fund	1997
Overton-Wooldridge Levee District #1 Fund	1997
Law Library Fund	1997
Neighborhood Improvement District #1 Fund	1997
Associate Division Interest Fund	1997
Circuit Clerk Interest Fund	1997
Probate Division Interest Fund	1997
Sheriff Interest Fund	1997
Substance Abuse Traffic Offender's Program Fund	1997
Expendable Cemetery Trust Fund	1997

2. Cash

Section 110.270, RSMo 1994, based on Article IV, Section 15, Missouri Constitution, authorizes counties to place their funds, either outright or by repurchase agreement, in U.S. Treasury and agency obligations. In addition, Section 30.950, RSMo Cumulative Supp. 1998, effective August 28, 1997, requires political subdivisions with existing authority to invest in instruments other than depositary accounts at financial institutions to adopt a written investment policy. Among other things, the policy is to commit a political subdivision to the principles of safety, liquidity, and yield (in that order) when managing public funds and to prohibit purchase of derivatives (either directly or through repurchase agreements), use of leveraging (through either reverse repurchase agreements or other methods), and use of public funds for speculation. The county has not adopted such a policy.

In accordance with Statement No. 3 of the Governmental Accounting Standards Board, Deposits with Financial Institutions, Investments (Including Repurchase Agreements), and Reverse Repurchase Agreements, disclosures are provided below regarding the risk of potential loss of cash deposits. For the purposes of these disclosures, deposits with financial institutions are demand, time, and savings accounts, including certificates of deposit and negotiable order of withdrawal accounts, in banks, savings institutions, and credit unions.

The county's deposits at December 31, 1998 and 1997, were entirely covered by federal depositary insurance or by collateral securities held by the county's custodial bank in the county's name.

3. Use Tax Liability

The local use tax under Section 144.748, RSMo 1994, was struck down in its entirety by the Missouri Supreme Court in Associated Industries of Missouri v. Director of Revenue, 918 S.W.2d 780 (Mo. banc 1996). In St. Charles County v. Director of Revenue, 961 S.W.2d 44 (Mo. banc 1998), the Missouri Supreme Court ruled that local use taxes paid prior to the repeal of Section 144.748, RSMo 1994, must be refunded to taxpayers and authorized the Department of Revenue (DOR) to withhold amounts otherwise due to political subdivisions to the extent such withholding is necessary to cover the refund expense. On March 24, 1998, the Cole County Circuit Court entered final judgment in accordance with the Supreme Court's opinion and ordered the DOR to process refund claims filed.

The county has received $252,915 in local use tax since its inception. The DOR has estimated the county's share of the total refund liability to be $133,375. As of December 31, 1998, $50,017 remains to be paid.

The accompanying Notes to the Schedule of Expenditures of Federal Awards are an integral part of this schedule.

Notes to the Supplementary Schedule

COOPER COUNTY, MISSOURI
NOTES TO THE SUPPLEMENTARY SCHEDULE

1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

A. Purpose of Schedule and Reporting Entity

The accompanying Schedule of Expenditures of Federal Awards has been prepared to comply with the requirements of OMB Circular A-133. This circular requires a schedule that provides total federal awards expended for each federal program and the Catalog of Federal Domestic Assistance (CFDA) number or other identifying number when the CFDA information is not available.

The schedule includes all federal awards administered by Cooper County, Missouri.

B. Basis of Presentation

OMB Circular A-133 includes these definitions, which govern the contents of the schedule:

> Federal financial assistance means assistance that non-Federal entities receive or administer in the form of grants, loans, loan guarantees, property (including donated surplus property), cooperative agreements, interest subsidies, insurance, food commodities, direct appropriations, and other assistance, but does not include amounts received as reimbursement for services rendered to individuals . . . .
> Federal award means Federal financial assistance and Federal cost-reimbursement contracts that non-Federal entities receive directly from Federal awarding agencies or indirectly from pass-through entities. It does not include procurement contracts, under grants or contracts, used to buy goods or services from vendors.

Accordingly, the schedule includes expenditures of both cash and noncash awards.

C. Basis of Accounting

Except as noted below, the schedule is presented on the cash basis of accounting, which recognizes amounts only when disbursed in cash.

Amounts for the Donation of Federal Surplus Personal Property Program (CFDA number 39.003) represent the estimated fair market value of property at the time of receipt.

2. Subrecipients

Of the federal expenditures presented in the schedule, the county provided $23,902 and $14,117 to a subrecipient under the Emergency Shelter Grants Program (CFDA number 14.231) during the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997.

Missouri State Auditor

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT ON COMPLIANCE WITH REQUIREMENTS APPLICABLE TO EACH MAJOR PROGRAM AND ON INTERNAL CONTROL OVER COMPLIANCE IN ACCORDANCE WITH OMB CIRCULAR A-133

To the County Commission
and
Officeholders of Cooper County, Missouri

Compliance

We have audited the compliance of Cooper County, Missouri, with the types of compliance requirements described in the U.S. Office of Management and Budget (OMB) Circular A-133 Compliance Supplement that are applicable to each of its major federal programs for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997. The county's major federal programs are identified in the summary of auditor's results section of the accompanying Schedule of Findings and Questioned Costs. Compliance with the requirements of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants applicable to each of its major federal programs is the responsibility of the county's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on the county's compliance based on our audit.

We conducted our audit of compliance in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards; the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States; and OMB Circular A-133, Audits of States, Local Governments, and Non-Profit Organizations. Those standards and OMB Circular A-133 require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether noncompliance with the types of compliance requirements referred to above that could have a direct and material effect on a major federal program occurred. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence about the county's compliance with those requirements and performing such other procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion. Our audit does not provide a legal determination of the county's compliance with those requirements.

In our opinion, Cooper County, Missouri, complied, in all material respects, with the requirements referred to above that are applicable to each of its major federal programs for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997. However, the results of our auditing procedures disclosed an instance of noncompliance with those requirements, which is required to be reported in accordance with OMB Circular A-133 and which is described in the accompanying Schedule of Findings and Questioned Costs as finding number 98-1.

Internal Control Over Compliance

The management of Cooper County, Missouri, is responsible for establishing and maintaining effective internal control over compliance with the requirements of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants applicable to federal programs. In planning and performing our audit, we considered the county's internal control over compliance with requirements that could have a direct and material effect on a major federal program in order to determine our auditing procedures for the purpose of expressing our opinion on compliance and to test and report on the internal control over compliance in accordance with OMB Circular A-133.

We noted a certain matter involving the internal control over compliance and its operation that we consider to be a reportable condition. Reportable conditions involve matters coming to our attention relating to significant deficiencies in the design or operation of the internal control over compliance that, in our judgment, could adversely affect the county's ability to administer a major federal program in accordance with the applicable requirements of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants. The reportable condition is described in the accompanying Schedule of Findings and Questioned Costs as finding number 98-1.

A material weakness is a condition in which the design or operation of one or more of the internal control components does not reduce to a relatively low level the risk that noncompliance with the applicable requirements of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants that would be material in relation to a major federal program being audited may occur and not be detected within a timely period by employees in the normal course of performing their assigned functions. Our consideration of the internal control over compliance would not necessarily disclose all matters in the internal control that might be reportable conditions and, accordingly, would not necessarily disclose all reportable conditions that are also considered to be material weaknesses. However, we do not believe that the reportable condition described above is a material weakness.

This report is intended for the information of the management of Cooper County, Missouri; federal awarding agencies and pass-through entities; and other applicable government officials. However, this report is a matter of public record and its distribution is not limited.

Section .310(b) of Circular A-133, Audits of States, Local Governments, and Non-Profit Organizations, requires the auditee to prepare a schedule of expenditures of federal awards (SEFA) for the period covered by the auditee's financial statements. The county is required to submit the schedule of expenditures of federal awards to the State Auditor's Office as a part of the annual budget.

The county does not have a procedure in place to track federal financial assistance for the preparation of the SEFA. The county's Schedule of Federal Awards contained numerous errors and omissions. For example, expenditures related to federal grants received through the county nursing service and also the prosecuting attorney for child support enforcement were not included on the schedules. In addition, several federal grant expenditures were overstated as a result of the county including matching funds in the expenditure totals.

Without an accurate SEFA, federal financial activity may not be audited and reported in accordance with federal requirements which could result in future reductions of federal funds.

WE RECOMMEND the County Clerk prepare a complete and accurate schedule of expenditures of federal awards.

AUDITEE'S RESPONSE AND PLAN FOR CORRECTIVE ACTION

The County Clerk will implement this recommendation. Each official and department will be requested to provide information regarding federal programs and the federal dollars expended by the county. This should result in a more complete and accurate Schedule of Expenditures of Federal Awards.

COOPER COUNTY, MISSOURI
FOLLOW-UP ON PRIOR AUDIT FINDINGS FOR AN
AUDIT OF FINANCIAL STATEMENTS PERFORMED IN ACCORDANCE WITH GOVERNMENT AUDITING STANDARDS

Our prior audit report issued for the two years ended December 31, 1996, included no audit findings that Government Auditing Standards requires to be reported for an audit of financial statements.

Summary Schedule of Prior Audit Findings

COOPER COUNTY, MISSOURI
SUMMARY SCHEDULE OF PRIOR AUDIT FINDINGS
IN ACCORDANCE WITH OMB CIRCULAR A-133

Section .315 of OMB Circular A-133 requires the auditee to prepare a Summary Schedule of Prior Audit Findings to report the status of all findings that are relative to federal awards and included in the prior audit report's Schedule of Findings and Questioned Costs. The summary schedule also must include findings reported in the prior audit's Summary Schedule of Prior Audit Findings, except those listed as corrected, no longer valid, or not warranting further action.

Section .500(e) of OMB Circular A-133 requires the auditor to follow up on these prior audit findings; to perform procedures to assess the reasonableness of the Summary Schedule of Prior Audit Findings; and to report, as a current year finding, when the auditor concludes that the schedule materially misrepresents the status of any prior findings.

Our prior audit report issued for the two years ended December 31, 1996, included no audit findings that Section .510(a) of OMB Circular A-133 requires to be reported for an audit of federal awards.

SECTION ON OTHER MATTERS

COOPER COUNTY, MISSOURI
LETTER ON OTHER MATTERS

We have audited the special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Cooper County, Missouri, as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, and have issued our report thereon dated July 12, 1999. We also have audited the compliance of Cooper County, Missouri, with the types of compliance requirements described in the U.S. Office of Management and Budget (OMB) Circular A-133 Compliance Supplement that are applicable to each of its major federal programs for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, and have issued our report thereon dated July 12, 1999.

We did not review the operations of elected officials with funds other than those presented in the special-purpose financial statements. The operations of such officials will be reviewed and reported on during the state auditor's next scheduled audit of the county.

This Letter on Other Matters presents matters other than the findings, if any, reported in the accompanying Schedule of Findings and Questioned Costs. These matters resulted from our audit of the special-purpose financial statements of Cooper County but do not meet the criteria for inclusion in the written report on compliance and on internal control over financial reporting that is required for an audit performed in accordance with Government Auditing Standards. Nevertheless, the county should consider these matters and take appropriate corrective action.

1. County Budgets

   Budgets were not prepared for some county funds. In addition, due to inadequate monitoring efforts, disbursements were made in excess of approved budgeted amounts for some funds.

2. Procurement Procedures

   The county contracted with an architect and bond underwriter for the design, construction administration, and financing of a new law enforcement center. Although the County Commission solicited proposals from and interviewed other firms, documentation of the decision making process was not adequate.

3. Personnel Policies and Procedures

   A written policy regarding overtime and compensatory time has not been adopted for the Sheriff's department. Several deputies were allowed to take compensatory time off in excess of compensatory time earned. Time sheets for deputies do not indicate the Sheriff's approval and are not submitted to the County Clerk's office.

This Letter on Other Matters is intended for the information of the management of Cooper County, Missouri, and other applicable government officials. However, this letter is a matter of public record and its distribution is not limited.

YELLOW SHEET

IMPORTANT: The Missouri State Auditor is required by Missouri law to conduct audits only once every four years in counties, like Warren, which do not have a county auditor. However, to assist such counties in meeting federal audit requirements, the State Auditor will also perform a financial and compliance audit of various county operating funds every two years. This voluntary service to Missouri counties can only be provided when state auditing resources are available and does not interfere with the State Auditor's constitutional responsibility of auditing state government.

Once every four years, the State Auditor's statutory audit will cover additional areas of county operations, as well as the elected county officials, as required by Missouri's Constitution.

This audit of Warren County included additional areas of county operations, as well as the elected county officials.

< The County Clerk does not perform a reconciliation between the county's accounting system and the County Treasurer's records to ensure accuracy. State law requires the County Clerk to maintain accounts with the County Treasurer.

< The county does not have a procedure in place to adequately track federal assistance. The county prepared a Schedule of Expenditure of Federal Awards (SEFA); however, not all federal programs were included. Failure to prepare an accurate SEFA could ultimately result in future reductions of federal funds for the county.

< The county contracts for administrative services for various programs with Booneslick Regional Planning Commission (BRPC). Program monies are deposited to the bank account maintained by BRPC. The planning commission prepares the checks and the Presiding Commissioner and County Clerk sign the checks. State law requires all monies received on behalf of the county to be in the custody of the County Treasurer and disbursed through the county's expenditure system.

The county's personnel manual is not comprehensive and is not provided to employees unless requested. Reimbursement claims for one grant program were not submitted timely and improvements were suggested in controls and procedures regarding the county's financial statements and expenditure and budgetary procedures. It was also noted that collateral securities were not adequate to cover Senate Bill 40 Board monies.

Copies of the audit are available upon request.

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT ON THE FINANCIAL STATEMENTS AND SUPPLEMENTARY SCHEDULE OF EXPENDITURES OF FEDERAL AWARDS

To the County Commission
and
Officeholders of Warren County, Missouri

We have audited the accompanying special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Warren County, Missouri, as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, as identified in the table of contents. These special-purpose financial statements are the responsibility of the county's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these special-purpose financial statements based on our audit.

We conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the special-purpose financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the special-purpose financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion.

The accompanying special-purpose financial statements were prepared for the purpose of presenting the receipts, disbursements, and changes in cash of various funds of Warren County, Missouri, and comparisons of such information with the corresponding budgeted information for various funds of the county and are not intended to be a complete presentation of the financial position and results of operations of those funds or of Warren County.

In our opinion, the special-purpose financial statements referred to in the first paragraph present fairly, in all material respects, the receipts, disbursements, and changes in cash of various funds of Warren County, Missouri, and comparisons of such information with the corresponding budgeted information for various funds of the county as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, in conformity with the comprehensive basis of accounting discussed in Note 1, which is a basis of accounting other than generally accepted accounting principles.

Warren County, Missouri, has not presented the disclosures required by Governmental Accounting Standards Board (GASB) Technical Bulletin 98-1, Disclosures about Year 2000 Issues, as amended by GASB Technical Bulletin 99-1, that the GASB has determined are necessary to supplement, although not be a part of, the basic financial statements. In addition, we do not provide assurance that the county is or will become year 2000-compliant, that the county's year 2000 remediation efforts will be successful in whole or in part, or that parties with which the county does business are or will become year 2000-compliant.

In accordance with Government Auditing Standards, we also have issued our report dated June 10, 1999, on our consideration of the county's internal control over financial reporting and on our tests of its compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants.

The accompanying Schedule of Expenditures of Federal Awards is presented for purposes of additional analysis as required by U.S. Office of Management and Budget (OMB) Circular A-133, Audits of States, Local Governments, and Non-Profit Organizations, and is not a required part of the special-purpose financial statements. Such information has been subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audit of the special-purpose financial statements and, in our opinion, is fairly stated, in all material respects, in relation to the special-purpose financial statements taken as a whole.

The accompanying History, Organization, and Statistical Information is presented for informational purposes. This information was obtained from the management of Warren County, Missouri, and was not subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audit of the special-purpose financial statements referred to above.

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT ON COMPLIANCE
AND ON INTERNAL CONTROL OVER FINANCIAL REPORTING
BASED ON AN AUDIT OF FINANCIAL STATEMENTS PERFORMED
IN ACCORDANCE WITH GOVERNMENT AUDITING STANDARDS

To the County Commission
and
Officeholders of Warren County, Missouri

We have audited the special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Warren County, Missouri, as of and for the years ended December 31, 1998 and 1997, and have issued our report thereon dated June 10, 1999. We conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States.

Compliance

As part of obtaining reasonable assurance about whether the special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Warren County, Missouri, are free of material misstatement, we performed tests of the county's compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants, noncompliance with which could have a direct and material effect on the determination of financial statement amounts. However, providing an opinion on compliance with those provisions was not an objective of our audit, and accordingly, we do not express such an opinion. The results of our tests disclosed no instances of noncompliance that are required to be reported under Government Auditing Standards. However, we noted certain immaterial instances of noncompliance which are described in the accompanying Management Advisory Report.

Internal Control Over Financial Reporting

In planning and performing our audit of the special-purpose financial statements of various funds of Warren County, Missouri, we considered the county's internal control over financial reporting in order to determine our auditing procedures for the purpose of expressing our opinion on the special-purpose financial statements and not to provide assurance on the internal control over financial reporting. However, we noted a certain matter involving the internal control over financial reporting and its operation that we consider to be a reportable condition. Reportable conditions involve matters coming to our attention relating to significant deficiencies in the design or operation of the internal control over financial reporting that, in our judgement, could adversely affect the county's ability to record, process, summarize, and report financial data consistent with the assertions of management in the special-purpose financial statements. The reportable condition is described in the accompanying Schedule of Findings and Questioned Costs as finding number 98-1.

A material weakness is a condition in which the design or operation of one or more of the internal control components does not reduce to a relatively low level the risk that misstatements in amounts that would be material in relation to the special-purpose financial statements being audited may occur and not be detected within a timely period by employees in the normal course of performing their assigned functions. Our consideration of the internal control over financial reporting would not necessarily disclose all matters in the internal control that might be reportable conditions and, accordingly, would not necessarily disclose all reportable conditions that are also considered to be material weaknesses. However, we consider the reportable condition described above, finding number 98-1, to be a material weakness. We also noted other matters involving the internal control over financial reporting which are described in the accompanying Management Advisory Report.

This report is intended for the information of the management of Warren County, Missouri; federal awarding agencies and pass-through entities; and other applicable government officials. However, this report is a matter of public record and its distribution is not limited.
